Carol Penner and Karen Skadsom are two of the seamstresses working at Custom Draperies and Designs. Missy Blaine, who runs the business, says her seamstresses are highly experienced and they turn out some of the best work she's ever seen.

Windows to the heart and soul

them. When Missy took over, they took on contracts to design and manufacture window coverings for Home Depot's Expo Design Center, a national design retailer.

Along with the Thief River Linen contract, she provides window treatments, usually blinds, for such businesses as Arctic Cat, Northwest Medical Center, and area businesses. She also furnishes the manufactured homes made by Homark with window coverings.

On a recent trip to a trade show in North Carolina, Missy worked with some of the country's premier designers. She is considering possible contracts, in conjunction with Thief River Linen, to manufacture large quantity items to be sold at nationwide retailers.

Missy's ambition to drive the business forward has paid off. Their manufacturing jobs have increased by almost 200 percent in the last few years and will continue to grow with the number of large contracts she acquires.

Custom Draperies has six regular employees. The seamstresses are highly experienced in using commercial sewing machines, and Missy says they turn out some of the best work she's ever seen.

They are like a close family who works well together. Missy's employees are very dedicated to the business, and most of them have been there for years. Since there is no middle man, the team at Custom Draperies does 100 percent of the work to put together their orders including cutting the fabric, sewing, packing and shipping the final products. Occasionally, they put in many hours of overtime in order to get orders ready to ship to the customer.

One of the reasons Missy's business has been successful is because there is no middle man. By doing all the work themselves, Custom Draperies' prices and fees are usually around 30 percent less than some of the larger design businesses.

This doesn't mean her work comes cheap, though. Missy buys only the best quality materials, which are bound to be more expensive. "When you have something custom made, you don't really get deals. Quality is what counts," she says. Custom Draperies thrives on quality.

Missy enjoys her job most when she works with people. "It's a very personal job," she says about going into customers' homes and working with them to design exactly what they want.

During an average week, Missy works with about eight to ten residential customers. It takes the team about two to three weeks to put an order together and install it in the home. She enjoys success with residential customers in the area because there is no competition.

One of the harder parts of running a business like Custom Draperies is scouting out new business. Missy says it's somewhat intimidating when she has to present her ideas to a large corporation. She enjoys doing it, though, and does it with confidence.

It's with this confidence that Missy quickly learned how to run the business by herself. Being sort of thrown into it she had a mountain of responsibilities to take over, much more than she originally thought. She also had to effectively learn business practices such as developing financial reports, calculating sales volume and writing business plans for lenders. With the help of her accountant, she has made it all work out.

After running Custom Draperies and Designs on her own for a while now, Missy says she has so much more respect for other local business owners. She sees how they all come together to make the community thrive, something she never thought about before.

With the help of the numerous agencies that provide grants and loans to young entrepreneurs, Missy thinks everyone who has the ambition to start his or her own business can do it. "When you put your heart and soul into it, it shows, but the minute you lose that, it reflects in your work."

"I feel I've been given this opportunity for a reason," she states. One of these opportunities might just be to be an example to other young business leaders. Missy runs her business with intelligence and pride in her work; two things essential to making any business successful.

So the next time you're waiting in the lobby at the hospital or perusing the commons at NCTC, take a look at the windows. You'll not only see the hard work Missy Blaine puts into making fashionable window treatments, but you'll also see a reflection of her heart and soul.

Farm bill meetings planned in RLF and in Oklee

Red Lake Falls - The Red Lake County Farm Service Agency (FSA) and the University of Minnesota Extension Service have scheduled three preliminary meetings to cover issues and policies relating to the new farm bill (Farm Security and Rural Development Act of 2002), including crop base updating and other general farm program information.

Red Lake County farm owners and operators are encouraged to attend one of the three planned workshops. Some basic questions that will be answered during the workshops include: What records are needed to update bases? Can the FSA power of attorney currently on file be used for the new program? What software should I use to compare options? Isn't the best option obvious?

Farm bill workshops will be held August 21 in Red Lake Falls in the city hall basement, starting at 9 a.m.; August 22 in Oklee at the Oklee Community Center, starting at 9 a.m. and Plummer at the community hall, starting at 7 p.m.

For more information, contact the FSA at (218) 253-2181. - Red Lake Falls Gazette, August 14, 2002

Council hears good report on audit of city books for '01

Warren - An unrestricted general fund balance of $271,489 for the City of Warren at the end of 2001 "is really not too bad," an external auditor told the city council Tuesday night.

Jim Coutts, a principal in the certified public accounting firm of Coutts, Keaveny & Rinde, P.C. of Grand Forks, N.D., said the general fund balance at the end of last year amounted to about a third of the city's annual general fund expenditures in recent years. He said some city councils like to maintain an unrestricted balance equal to 100 percent of annual outlays, some strive for 50 percent, and some auditors say 20 percent is plenty. - Warren Sheaf, August 14, 2002

Airport dedication planned for Grygla's Fall Fest Aug. 25

Grygla - When Mel Wilkens was flying his T-Craft around the city of Grygla in the early 1950s, personal airplanes were quite a novelty. In fact, airplanes were rarely seen in these parts, and most people had never ridden in them.

The memory of the late Melvin Wilkens' pioneer flying days will be honored Sunday, August 25, when the airport at Grygla will be dedicated. At noon all of Mel's children and grandchildren plan to be on hand when the community airport is officially named "Mel Wilkins Field." Officials from the Department of Aeronautics, flying farmers, city officials, airport commission members and many others will be on hand for the event. It will be a fly-in event for many aviators. - The Grygla Eagle, August 15, 2002

USDA declares disaster in area counties

Declaration makes farmers and ranchers eligible for USDA emergency farm loans

In a continued effort to expedite emergency disaster aid to areas hard hit by adverse weather conditions, the USDA has announced counties in Minnesota as disaster areas, making farmers and ranchers immediately eligible for USDA emergency (EM) farm loans due to crop losses.

"These counties have suffered significant production losses, and USDA is providing assistance as quickly as possible," said Secretary of Agriculture Ann M. Veneman. "Emergency loans should bring relief to these regions, and ease the financial burdens placed on producers." This designation makes all qualified farm operators in primary and contiguous disaster counties eligible for low-interest EM loans from the Farm Service Agency (FSA), provided eligibility requirements are met.

"The Bush Administration continues to provide assistance to farmers and ranchers in an expedited manner," said Veneman. "This assistance will provide much needed relief to farmers who have suffered from losses due to natural disasters."

State Executive Director John Monson said that the Minnesota counties that were named primary disaster areas on Aug. 7, 2002, are Becker, Beltrami, Kittson, Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau. The contiguous Minnesota counties of Cass, Clay, Clearwater, Hubbard, Itasca, Otter Tail, St. Louis and Wadena are also eligible for assistance.

Farmers in eligible counties have eight months from the date of this declaration to apply for loans to help cover part of their actual losses. FSA will consider each loan application on its own merits, taking into account the extent of losses, security available and repayment ability.

FSA has a variety of programs available, in addition to the EM program, to help eligible farmers recover from adversity. Other USDA programs include the Emergency Conservation Program, Federal Crop Insurance and the Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program, which are available to assist farmers and ranchers in other States that have been declared disaster areas.

Interested farmers may contact their local FSA offices for more information on eligibility requirements and applications procedures. Additional information is available online at: http://www.fsa.usda.gov/pas/disaster/assistance1.htm.

Crops better than expected

Area Canola crops hit hardest by June flooding

by Andy Cummings
Reporter

"Most of the crop recovered better than I thought it would," said Howard Person, Pennington County Extension Director for the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

He's been keeping an eye on crops this year, and he said canola is the only crop that was really hit hard by the flooding. "I haven't seen a good canola field yet," he said.

Nor has Bill Craig, regional extension administrator for Marshall County. In Marshall County, he said, most canola is grown in the Middle River, Goodridge and Grygla areas, and those areas were some of the hardest hit by the June floods.

Other than canola, however, Person is encouraged by what he's heard so far. While he said winter wheat is "nothing to jump up and down about," he does think it could have been much worse, considering the June floods.

Craig is encouraged by Marshall County's barley crop. "Some of the barley that's come off so far has been 50-75 bushels, which is pretty good barley," he said. Additionally, he said that "it will bring malting price, which is somewhere around $2.15-$2.25 a bushel." That's compared to only $1.30-$1.40 per bushel for feed barley.

Person said spring wheat is okay, although he said extreme heat at the end of July may have prevented the crop from filling properly.

Soybeans are also looking encouraging this year, he said. However, due to the late planting, fall weather will have a big impact on final soybean yields. "We've got to have a good fall, he said."

Craig expects the sugar beet crop in the western part of Marshall County has been hurt by the rains of June. "The tonnage will be down this year," he said.

Gemini Java:

Brews a recipe for success

Heather Armstrong stands behind the counter at Gemini Java, a coffee shop in Thief River Falls. Heather is the owner of Gemini Java, which is currently located in a building off Highway 59 south.

This is the third part in a series of eight feature stories that focus on the Northern Watch region's Young Business Leaders.

by Jenny Nicholson
Reporter

If you take one part determination and one part perseverance, mix it with lots of hard work and mass quantities of caffeine, what do you get? A successful coffee shop called Gemini Java.

In 1998, Heather Armstrong had just graduated from Aakers Business College in Grand Forks and came to Thief River Falls to start work on her career ambition – opening a coffee shop.

The surprisingly easy part of it was getting the money to purchase her supplies. She put together a business plan and brought it to First National Bank. Heather explained her plan to the banker, left her cell phone number, and left the bank. About twenty minutes later he called saying she was approved. "Why?" was Heather's initial response, in a slight state of shock. The bank agreed it was a good business plan and placed their good faith in her to make the money to pay them back.

The hard part of it was getting the necessary licenses to open her business in town. Heather had worked out an agreement with Dakota Clinic where she would set up her coffee kiosk in their lobby. She found she would have to wait almost seven months before finally opening for business.

Having seen a few coffee shops in Thief River Falls come and go out of business rather quickly, the city council was a bit reluctant to give Heather a chance. They wondered what made her more likely to succeed where others have failed. Her persistence paid off when she finally convinced them and got her business license.

Not long after she opened, Heather started wondering what she was doing. Business wasn't just a little slow; it was downright "awful," she said. Some days she would ring out her cash register with four or five dollars. Heather had to work a second job just to maintain a steady income. But again, her determination and perseverance kept her going. Slowly, business picked up and became steady.

Still, business wasn't as great as she'd hoped it would be. After long and careful consideration she thought she would pack up her coffee cart for some time while she decided what to do. Heather was disappointed because she didn't really want to close her business, but she felt she had no other choice at the moment.

Floods impact area unemployment rate

Overall unemployment increases

The overall unemployment rate in northwest Minnesota increased by .9 percent, although its results varied by county, according to the Minnesota Employment Review's July issue, which revealed employment data for June.

Between June 2001 and June 2002, the most dramatic jump in unemployment occurred in Roseau County, where it jumped from 4.2 to 7.5 percent. Most of that jump was in the last month, however, indicating it was probably due to flooding.

Elsewhere in the region Kittson County fell from 6.9 to 6.6 percent, Marshall County fell from 6.9 to 6.8 percent, Norman rose from 4.2 to 4.4 percent, Pennington fell from 3.7 to 3.3 percent, Polk rose from 5 to 5.7 percent and Red Lake rose from 8.2 to 9.8 percent.

The magazine, put out by the Minnesota Department of Economic Security, had this to say about the effect of flooding:

"In early to mid June, heavy rains wreaked havoc in northern Minnesota. Flood waters interrupted many business operations. One example is Polaris Industries inc., which is an important source of jobs and is located in Roseau, a town hard-hit by the floods. Nearly 2,000 employees work at Polaris, so a long-term closing would have had a severe economic impact on many small communities in the area. Fortunately, the company was able to restart production on a limited scale and expects to be at full production levels again quickly. Manufacturing and shipment schedules are not expected to be adversely affected during the second quarter of this year."

'02 Chautauqua on August 25

Event features "Coya Come Home"

Chautauqua 2002 is proud to present "Coya Comes Back" Sunday, August 25 at Old Crossing Treaty Park. Portraying Coya Knutson will be Kathy Ray in a one-person monodrama from the biography "Coya Come Home" written by Gretchen Urnes Beito of Thief River Falls. The 3 p.m. presentation will be introduced by Ms. Beito.

Coya Knutson

Kathy Ray

There will be ample time following the program for interaction with the author and friends of the Congresswoman.

Coya Knutson

Coya Knutson grew up on a farm in North Dakota. After graduation from Concordia College and Moorhead State Teachers College, she became an English and music teacher in Red Lake County. It was in 1941, after hearing a speech by Eleanore Roosevelt calling good people - both men and women - to run for political office, that Coya decided to get involved in local government.

In 1950, Coya Knutson, then a high school instructor in Oklee and the wife of Andy Knutson, a local farmer and hotel operator, entered the political arena and was elected to the Minnesota State Legislature, representing the 65th district for the DFL party where she served the people for three terms.

In 1954 Coya further distinguished herself and focused the attention of the entire country by becoming the first woman from the State of Minnesota to be elected to the U.S. House of Representatives.

Two River Duck Race this weekend

Lake Bronson hosts fall event

The ducks are getting ready for the annual Two River Duck Race scheduled for Saturday, August 17th in Lake Bronson.

Activities begin at 10 a.m. with a flea market and craft show on Main Street. Vendors are welcome to set up free of charge anywhere along the main street. There will also be a bake sale at the Village Square. The Lake Bronson Improvement Committee will be selling tickets for the race at the Village Square until noon. There will be no tickets sold after noon. Activities begin at the wayside rest area at 1 p.m. with a special celebrity duck auction. With the help of Linda D. from KKAQ, Thief River Falls radio, rubber ducks have been autographed by country music celebrities, Jodee Messina, Brad Paisley, Chris Cagel, Toby Keith, Loretta Lynn and members of the band "Alabama." These ducks will be auctioned off at 1 p.m.

Following the other duck races, those who purchased the "celebrity" ducks will have a chance in winning a pair of tickets for the upcoming "Fan Jam" at the FargoDome on Sunday, September

Hallock Tiny Tots set meeting

Hallock - A Hallock Tiny Tots parents meeting will be held August 20 at 7 p.m. They will meet in the Spanish room at Kittson Central High School.

Hallock Tiny Tots is a nonprofit organization inspected by the Minnesota Department of Public Welfare. The program is open to all children between the ages of three and kindergarten.

The sessions run September through May, and usually follow Kittson Central's vacation days. Tiny Tots is operated by board members who are elected annually by the parents. - Kittson County Enterprise, August 14, 2002

Re-live the good old days

The 10th Annual Field Day sponsored by the Antique Tractor and Engine Club will be held at the "East Forty" grounds, Park Rapids, on August 24 and 25.

Several events are being planned for the two-day event, including a tractor parade, a tractor square dance and farmhouse tours. There will also be drawings for door prizes every half hour.

Admission is $3.00 for one day and $5.00 for two days. There is no charge for children under 12. The gate opens at 8 a.m. each day. For details, call (218) 732-5203.

Voter instructions to be printed in four languages

Minnesota Secretary of State Mary Kiffmeyer announced on August 14 that voter instruction posters will be available in Hmong, Spanish, Somali and Russian.

Ballots themselves will still be printed only in English.

A Children, Families and Learning survey of Minnesota students revealed that Hmong is the primary language in 44,112 households, Spanish in 41,412, Somali in 10,890 and Russian in 4,106.

Disaster assistance info. fairs held in region

Minnesota Farm Advocates and Farmers' Legal Action Group (FLAG) are sponsoring a traveling "Agriculture Information Fair," for farmers who have suffered damages from the recent flooding in northwestern Minnesota. Farmers will be able to pick up helpful information and have free one-on-one visits with experts from participating government agencies, nonprofit organizations, and others.

The fair will take place from 2 p.m. until 8 p.m. at these locations:

• August 27: Twin Valley Community Center.

• August 28: Hallock City Hall.

• August 29: Roseau Community School Commons.

• August 30: Thief River Falls City Auditorium.

"We are intending to provide farmers with timely information on disaster assistance and available resources that can begin to put them back on a path to recovery," Minnesota Farm Advocate Bruce Lubitz said.

USDA has designated counties in northwestern Minnesota as disaster areas making farmers immediately eligible for USDA emergency (EM) farm loans due to crop losses. Counties that were named primary disaster areas on Aug. 7, 2002, are Becker, Beltrami, Kittson, Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau. The contiguous counties of Cass, Clay, Clearwater, Hubbard, Itasca, Otter Tail, St. Louis and Wadena are also eligible for assistance.

For more information on the Agricultural Information Fairs, contact Bruce Lubitz by phone at (218) 334-3276.

FLAG is a nonprofit law center in St. Paul, Minnesota dedicated to providing legal services to family farmers and their rural communities in order to help keep family farmers on the land.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere
email: lacourse@mncable.net

These lazy summer days will soon be gone, so we'd better take advantage of them now. Try some of the following recipes for your summer suppers.

Here's a tasty dish that's just right for that end-of-summer picnic – it goes with anything:

CALICO BEANS
1/4 pound bacon
1 pound hamburger
1/2 cup chopped onions
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup ketchup
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon mustard
1 teaspoon salt
1 can lima beans
1 can kidney beans
1 can pork and beans in tomato sauce

Cook bacon, onions and burger. Drain.

Add remaining ingredients and mix well.

Bake in large casserole until thoroughly heated, 45 minutes to an hour. May also be cooked in a bean pot or slow cooker.

The peaches are just great this year – you might like to use them in this special pie – great topped with ice cream on a hot summer day:

DEEP DISH PEACH PIE
10-12 small peaches
2/3 cup sugar (or less, depending on sweetness of fruit)
Pinch of salt
3 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup bourbon (or whiskey)
2 unbaked pie crusts

Slice peaches into pie shell in deep dish pie pan. Mix sugar, salt and flour and sprinkle over peaches.

Melt butter and mix with bourbon. Pour over peaches and top with remaining pie shell.

Bake 10 minutes at 400 degrees, then lower heat to 350 degrees and bake 30-45 minutes longer, until bubbly and brown all around.

Just for the fun of it, make this quick and simple soup for lunch one day this week – maybe you even have the main ingredients for it in your garden right now:

QUICK BORSCHT
2 small red beets
1 cup cabbage, shredded fine
4 tablespoons onion, chopped fine
1 (10 1/2 ounce) can bouillon (beef or chicken)
1/8 teaspoon pepper
Sour cream

Dilute bouillon according to directions on can. Add beets, cabbage, onion and pepper and bring to a boil. Simmer 10 minutes. Serve hot topped with 1 tablespoon sour cream.

Here's one of those tasty side dishes we remember from when we were young and have probably forgotten to make for our families in these "fast food" times:

CABBAGE SLAW
4 cups cabbage
1 bunch carrots (ground)
1 green (or other color) pepper (chopped finely)
1 small onion (chopped finely)
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup salad oil
1 cup vinegar
1 cup water
1 cup sugar
Salt and pepper

Mix cabbage, carrots, green pepper and onion in large bowl. Sprinkle the half cup of sugar and salad oil over.

Bring vinegar, water and 1 cup sugar to a boil and immediately pour over mixture in bowl. Add salt and pepper to taste and refrigerate overnight.

Here's another yummy salad that I bet you don't make as often as your mother did – it will still be great for a picnic:

GLORIFIED RICE
1 cup cold cooked rice
1/2 cup sugar
1-1/2 cups crushed pineapple, drained
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup cream, whipped
1-1/2 cups miniature marshmallows

If you wish, use the juice from the pineapple along with water to cook the rice. I sometimes let the rice cook as usual and after it is cooked, add some milk as if to make rice pudding and let it simmer a while on the stove, then add sugar and cool before combining. I often use the leftover plain white rice from a take-out Chinese dinner, cooking it with milk and then cooling.

After rice is cooled, gently mix it with remaining ingredients. Refrigerate thoroughly. (Frozen whipped topping just isn't the thing for this salad – it tastes best with real whipped cream.) Double or triple the recipe for a big bunch because they'll love it. Some people don't even know what it is, poor people!

Tired of the same old stuff on the grill – try these instead:

MEAL IN FOIL
For each person, 2 for hungry ones:
1 medium potato, sliced
1 small onion, sliced
1 carrot, sliced
1 hamburger patty
Salt and pepper

Cut foil to 1 square foot.

Spread 1/2 teaspoon shortening in center of foil, place hamburger patty next, then add vegetables, salt and pepper. Bring corners of foil together and seal tightly. Place sealed dinners on grill and bake at least 1 hour or until all vegetables are fork tender and patties are cooked through.

To bake in oven, place dinners on shallow jelly roll pan and bake on middle rack of oven for 50-60 minutes at 350 degrees.

Warroad and NMF earmark $20,000 for flood recovery

Warroad community leaders and the Northwest Minnesota Foundation (NMF) have just earmarked an additional $20,000 for flood recovery, bringing the grand total to $30,000 in grant funds to assist individuals and non-profit organizations.

"Due to the response of our friends within and outside our community we are pleased to be able to offer additional grants to individuals and non-profit agencies that suffered flood damage," said Steve Anderson, chairman of the 2002 Warroad Area Community Fund advisory committee.

Warroad area residents and non-profit agencies that experienced any level of damage due to the June floods are encouraged to apply. There are no income level requirements. Northwest Community Action in Badger is assisting with grant administration. Persons are asked to call 1-800-568-5329 for an appointment, or stop by their office at 312 North Main in Badger. Northwest Community Action will also accommodate applicants at a determined time and location.

Anderson said, "We know that people experienced different levels of damage to their homes and that non-profit agencies have either experienced physical damage or available services were significantly reduced. We care about the people who live in our community and want to extend a helping hand to defray some of the rebuilding costs."

The 2002 Warroad Area Flood Recovery Fund was established as a component of NMF to provide financial support for immediate and long-term needs of Warroad area residents and the community for recovery from the floods of 2002.

The Northwest Minnesota Foundation is a charitable foundation committed to improving the quality of life for residents in 12 counties of northwest Minnesota by investing resources, creating opportunities and promoting philanthropy.

Grygla Fall Festival kicks off August 23

Running August 23-25, the Grygla Fall Festival promises fun and food this year. Several festival events are scheduled during the weekend.

The festival opens Friday, August 23 with a talent show. The talent show will be held at 7 p.m. Those wishing to participate are urged to call Tina Englund at (218) 294-6571 or Kristy Moe at (218) 294-6783.

Four sporting events will also be held during the festival. Two softball tournaments will be held. Men and women can participate in Saturday's softball tournament. The men's softball tournament will be held on Sunday, August 25. Register by calling Tony Mariotti at (218) 294-6040.

Besides softball, motocross racing will also occur. It starts at 2:30 p.m. on Saturday, August 24. The motocross race track is located near the Grygla Airport. Registration starts at 9:30 a.m.

BMX bike races will also be held. Those races start on Sunday at 10 a.m. near the motocross track.

In addition to sporting events, festivalgoers can also participate in games. Kiddie games and races will start at 10 a.m. on Saturday at the park near the football field.

The festival's last event is the dedication of "Mel Wilkens Field." The dedication will occur at noon at the Grygla Airport.

Margie Iverson honored for 30 years as church secretary

On August 18 the Goodridge Lutheran Parish will celebrate Margie Iverson's 30th anniversary as their secretary.

Robert Dahlen, who's been pastor at the church since 1987, noted how much has changed in the time she's been there. "Margie has gone from using a typewriter to a computer--she's on her third one, I think," he said. "And to Margie's credit, she has not only kept up, but often as not, she's been the one to prod the rest of us into action," he added.

Mind you, though, this is not a retirement party. "I love my job and I love to work with people. Sometimes things are hard, but still, I love the church. Besides, the Parish just remodeled my office, and I look forward to using it for a few more years," she said.

At 10:30 a.m. the three congregations of the Goodridge Parish will hold their annual Parish Joint Worship and summer picnic, and Iverson will be honored there.

De-Inventing the Mouse Trap?

I look forward to guiding fishermen who have been regular visitors to Mille Lacs. They tend to be good fishermen, requiring little tutelage on my behalf as to the subtleties of a walleye nibble. If there are fish below the boat, they generally catch them. They are also usually impressed with the quality of the Lake of the Woods experience, appreciating this expanse for everything, from its numbers and size potential, to the beauty and convenience of the daytime bite. I don't have to sell this place too hard. And most importantly, at least from the perspective of my fragile guiding ego, Mille Lacs fishermen make it very easy to put fish in the cooler. They seem to be very good, you see, at being far too patient with a soft-biting walleye.

I won't throw a fish back if I don't think it'll survive. If the hook has lodged itself in the gill-work, intestines, or eyes, it's a keeper. It just doesn't make sense to create another demand for a fish after you've already removed one from the biomass and fed it, albeit unintentionally, to the gulls. Now that rule is not a hard and fast one. If the injured walleye is on the large side of things, for example, I'm willing to take the chance that it'll make it and continue to add genetic quality to the lake. Small fish don't receive such consideration. They go in the cooler.

Fortunately, those who fished Lake of the Woods years before I ever got here developed a fishing system that doesn't allow a hook to get too far down a walleyes throat. Ask any local or regular to this area for a show of tackle and you'll get a look at some of the heaviest, most cumbersome gear known to the walleye industry anywhere. Hook sizes big enough to land a Mako shark are the norm. Two ounce, in-line sinkers are the calm day trolling approach, 3 and 1/8 ounce for when the wind kicks up. Heck, that's enough lead to load most cannons! Jig sizes start around 3/8 of an ounce if the current is down and move to as much as one ounce when the water is really flowing. Break out tackle that size on Mille Lacs and the locals are likely to run your pants up the flagpole, branding you a fishing imposter.

This heavy-handed approach grew out of the aggressive and abundant patterns of the Lake of the Woods walleye. These tend to be hard biting fish and if you're going to catch a bunch of them, like you do on most days, you're going to have to throw a bunch back. No sense in letting them take a bait too long – usually just the length of an arm will do nicely. In short, light, swallow-able tackle wasn't a necessity up here in order to catch walleye.

Mille Lacs tackle is far more traditional. Tiny hooks, one-fourth ounce and less jigs. Slip sinkers up to a one-half ounce, tops. These ultra light styles grew out of the tough times for the Mille Lacs fishery, back in the late seventies and early eighties. If a guy was lucky, he might get four or five bites in a whole day, so he better not screw them up.

Enter the Lindy Rig, as deadly a device as ever broke the surface tension of fresh water. Feel a little tap, pay out line for 15 to 30 seconds, and then set the hook. The upside was that one hardly ever missed a hook set. The downside was that nine out of 10 times the tiny hook was buried halfway to a walleye's rectum.

Rectum? Heck, it damn near killed him! (I couldn't resist throwing that in). Of course the fish would die, but what difference did it make 20 years ago when everything was being kept for dinner anyway. There wasn't enough action to put anything back. Catch and Release was just a twinkle in some fisheries biologist's eye.

Now it's 2002 and things have changed quite dramatically. Fish stocks are high on Mille Lacs. Bait fish numbers are low. The bite is an aggressive one as fish compete ravenously for what prey is available. The fishing is as good as most can remember it.

Unfortunately, the downside of the bonanza has been a mass die-off of injured and released fish. Enough of a fish kill, as a matter of fact, to warrant including those numbers of dead in the lake's yearly quota. That's a lot of dead fish.

Which brings us back to my original, if somewhat self-righteous claim from paragraph one. The style of take, you see, doesn't seem to match the fishery anymore. For years I've watched expert anglers from down south politely decline to use the heavy, cumbersome tackle affixed to fishing rods on my boat. Instead they tie on the ultra light stuff that was so effective for them back on Mille Lacs. Of course, they caught walleyes there. But on Lake of the Woods, when those hard-biting, abundant walleyes are given 15 or 20 seconds of slack line to gulp down a tiny, leech-dipped hook, chances are good they're going in the cooler, hooked deep in soft, vital areas so far down that a proctologist would have a better chance of extracting them from the other direction.

So when I see the success that Mille Lacs has been enjoying fish-wise this summer, it makes me excited that such a prolific body of water can regenerate itself so well. It makes me want to go back and try it again. And when I do, I think I'll bring a handful of two-ounce sinkers with me. I'd like to see it stay that way.

Minnesota implements its own AMBER plan

What is it with the rash of child abductions by strangers? I thought I heard one expert say there really hasn't been an increase in the number of abductions by strangers, but an increase in awareness. One alert system frequently being discussed in the media is the Amber Plan. I suspect the increased awareness and the media attention is due to the Amber Plan.

Amber is an acronym, and also a plan created in memory of Amber Hagerman, who at age nine, was abducted and murdered in Arlington, Tex., in 1996. The acronym stands for America's Missing: Broadcast Emergency Response. It is a voluntary partnership between law-enforcement agencies, broadcasters and other media to activate an urgent bulletin in the most serious child abduction cases.

According to some information I pulled from the Internet Wednesday, since the origin of the plan, 43 modified versions have been adopted at local, regional and statewide levels. Fourteen states have a statewide plan. As of Thursday, Minnesota became one of those states to successfully implement and test AMBER. It is being operated through the Minnesota Crime Alert Network.

The Minnesota Crime Alert Network is a statewide communications network that enables law enforcement agencies to quickly alert the public about crime or criminals that may affect them. More than 7,200 Minnesota law enforcement agencies, businesses, schools, and community members participate in the Network, making it "the nation's most unique and efficient network of communications between law enforcement agencies and the communities they serve."

According to a statement on the Department of Public Safety's Web site, Minnesota's "AMBER Plan is an innovative way to protect our children. This plan was born out of desire to use maximum public participation to recover children in the most serious non-familial child abduction situations. It recognizes that time is of the essence in getting critical information to the public so they can help bring about the safe and swift return of these children. The goal of the AMBER Plan is for Law Enforcement Agencies to collaborate with local broadcasters through the use of an early warning system to alert the public when a child is in danger. The success of the AMBER Plan is dependent upon a cooperative agreement between the Department of Public Safety, Bureau of Criminal Apprehension, Division of Emergency Management, Minnesota Association of Broadcasters and various law enforcement agencies in the state of Minnesota, and the support of organizations such as the Jacob Wetterling Foundation. It is hoped that this early warning, distributed by the state radio and television Emergency Alert System (EAS) and the MN Crime Alert Network (MCAN), will lead to the safe return of a missing child."

Will this attention and effort guarantee that children won't be taken? No. But when or if it happens, the AMBER plan may very well play an instrumental role in the safe recovery of a child. Lately, we've had plenty of evidence that it works.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

Planned Parenthood's Corinne Bulman of Minneapolis has recently been writing letters to the editor for various newspapers across the state, asserting that her organization is doing "noble work." At the same time, she has also been attacking Minnesota Citizens Concerned for Life (MCCL), which she claims has "done nothing but harm Minnesota women."

This is all backwards. It's Planned Parenthood that is harming women and destroying lives. According to the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH), Planned Parenthood of Minnesota/South Dakota increased the number of abortions it performed by 14 percent from the year 2000 to 2001.

Complications to women from abortions include infections, bleeding, puncturing of the uterus, convulsions and cervical injuries. Abortion can cause permanent infertility, future miscarriages and failed abortions. There is evidence also that abortion can increase a women's risk of developing clinical depression and breast cancer. The worst of these complications is death, either directly or indirectly.

Nationally, Planned Parenthood's own annual report shows that it performed almost 200,000 abortions in 2000 but provided prenatal services to only 17,700 women. For every adoption referral it made in 2000, it performed 80 abortions.

Minnesota taxpayers need to wake up and cut off funding for Planned Parenthood, which employs people to tell citizens it is doing "noble" work with almost $4 million in state and federal grants each year. There are plenty of other organizations providing truly valuable services to women, which do not perform abortions or accept taxpayer money to promote abortion.

For more information about MCCL and life issues, visit http://mccl.org.

Sincerely,
John Pocock
Communications Director

To the Editor:

I read the article about St. Anthony's Catholic Church in Terrebonne, Minn., in the Grand Forks Herald. I think it is sad to do away with the church. The architecture is unique. Why destroy it? There is so much history just in looking at the building. As long as some people want to preserve it and keep it, let it stand. We travel to Europe to look at old buildings. How come people want to tear them down? Why? Burning it would be a tragedy. Let St. Anthony's Church in Terrebonne stand proud and majestic.

Sincerely,
Ron Potulny
Fordville, N.D.

Wellstone, Dayton urge Bush to extend emergency assistance to Minnesota farms hit by floods

Senators Mark Dayton and Paul Wellstone (D-MN) have urged President Bush to immediately approve agriculture emergency disaster assistance to farmers who have been hit by recent disasters, especially those in northwestern Minnesota who have suffered from the recent floods. The Minnesota Farm Service Agency estimates that over two million acres have been affected by the recent floods. Monetary losses are expected to be in the hundreds of millions, even after reimbursements to farmers with federal crop insurance.

Despite these devastating losses, the Bush Administration has opposed providing any emergency disaster assistance to farmers.

"We are pleased that you are visiting our region this week, and we would like to take the opportunity to request again that you support immediate emergency natural disaster assistance for farmers and ranchers. Unfortunately, your Administration's opposition thus far has undercut previous Congressional support for disaster assistance," the Senators wrote.

"Emergency natural disaster assistance to cover unavoidable agricultural losses has been a regular feature of Congressional action. This is consistent with the expectation of communities in times of emergency - flood, fires, or severe weather - that the federal government will fill any financial gap left by insufficient local resources. We call on you to join with a bipartisan group of Senators backing a disaster proposal, S. 2800, which is also supported by 20 national farm organizations.

"We believe that if you were to declare support for this bill during your visit to the Midwest, the legislation would then pass both houses of Congress quickly in September. Such an announcement from you would give great hope to Minnesota farmers, who are suffering economically from the effects of natural disasters, especially from flooding in the northwest part of the state. Please take this important step on behalf of rural America."

Wellstone Criticizes Bush cuts for animal wasting disease

Senator Paul Wellstone (D-MN) recently criticized President Bush's decision to withhold $18 million in federal funding to combat Chronic Wasting Disease among deer and elk. Funding to address the devastating disease which has effected elk and deer throughout several Midwestern states was included in a supplemental spending bill passed by Congress last month. Bush announced yesterday that he will withhold funding in that bill that would require an emergency designation, including all funds to combat this epidemic.

"Chronic Wasting Disease is spreading at a dangerous rate throughout the Midwest," said Wellstone. "This federal funding is critical to containing the disease before it devastates the deer population."

Chronic Wasting Disease (CWD) is a fatal, degenerative disease which affects the brains of elk and deer and has been discovered in several states including Wisconsin, South Dakota and elsewhere. Though testing is preliminary, no cases of CWD have been documented in Minnesota and there have been no known human transmissions anywhere. However, the spread of CWD has raised concern in the commercial elk industry as well as among deer hunters – and the communities which depend on deer hunting – in Minnesota. In order to prevent further spread of the disease and to assess its current scope in the deer population, the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) plans to test up to 1,000 additional deer this year.

Though disappointed by today's actions, Wellstone vowed to work with appropriators, including Senator Herb Kohl, Chairman of the Appropriations Subcommittee on Agriculture, to fully restore the funding this year.

"Deer hunters and their families understand how devastating the consequences could be if we do not begin an aggressive study of this disease. This testing program is urgently needed and a smart investment now could help prevent the need for a major eradication effort later. We must control Chronic Wasting Disease before it gets a foothold in our state," Wellstone said.

Unemployment in Minnesota climbs in July

Minnesota Department of Economic Security Commissioner has announced that Minnesota's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for July was 4.3 percent. The July rate was up by three-tenths percent from June and by six-tenths percent from last year.

Nonfarm employment grew by a seasonally adjusted one-tenth percent in July. Manufacturing and wholesale trade were down for the month. Other sectors either held steady or made small gains.

The state's unadjusted unemployment rate was 4.0 percent in July, down by three-tenths percent from a month ago.

"Minnesota's economy, along with the nation's, is still struggling due, in part, to continued uncertainty on Wall Street," said Governor Jesse Ventura.

Girls high school tennis starts TRF fall sports season...

Prowlers look like a winner

Maintaining the success Thief River Falls enjoyed under the guidance of Sylvia Sjoberg will be a Troy Hanestad goal this fall as he steps in as the Prowlers' new girls head high school tennis coach.

It's not like Hanestad is a newcomer. He has been head coach of the Thief River Falls boys spring tennis program the past four years, and worked with Sjoberg as an assistant coach.

Sjoberg resigned after the 2001 season, but she didn't leave the cupboard bare. The Prowlers were 15-5 a year ago with a roster that included just three seniors. During her seven years as head coach, Thief River Falls never had a losing dual meet record. The Prowlers are 74-25 in dual meet scoring over the past five years and have won 30 of 37 matches the last two seasons.

There are seven seniors with varsity experience heading the Prowlers' 2002 season, including captains Eryn Clow and Kelsey Christensen, Rebecca Delmore, Stacia Kalinoski, Kara Larson, Katie Schommer, and Maggie Stock.

"I am very excited about the upcoming season, and our team's potential for success," said Hanestad. "Our seniors are all capable of playing very good tennis, and they provide outstanding leadership to our underclassmen."

Also returning with varsity experience is freshman Ashley Leister, who played very strong tennis at the end of last season, pointed out Hanestad.

"We have about seven other players who are battling for positions," noted Hanestad. "I am very proud of how hard the team has worked in the off-season, and I believe that if our girls continue to practice with intensity and continue to improve during the season, we will be in the hunt for the section title in October."

Rest of the Prowlers' preseason roster includes seniors Kate Levinson and Erin Steva; juniors Kylie Donlin, Mandy Sparby, Carolyn Paulson, Emily Passey, Elise Peterson; sophomores Kayla Grahn, Megan Barry, Maggie Peterson, Larisse Kajewski, Jillian Larson, Tyla Pream, Brook Mattila, Kayla Gallagher, Sara Kalinoski, Beth Aandal; freshmen Ana Olson, Margaret Miller, Sarah Mattison; and eighth grader Kelly Hanson.

Girls tennis will maintain a tradition as the opening act for fall sports in Thief River Falls by hosting Grand Rapids in a 4 p.m. Wednesday dual that will be followed by Thursday's annual Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Invitational. Scheduled to start at 9 a.m., the tournament will include Thief River Falls, Grand Rapids, East Grand Forks, Crookston, Bemidji, and Roseau.

Seamless Aluminum Guttering
Heating, Air Conditioning
378-4641 · 378-4585
Our Seamless gutters are manufactured from .032 gauge pre-painted aluminum, the heaviest gauge used in the industry. If your home is 20 feet or 200 feet in length our seamless gutter is made in one continuous length, eliminating any joints or seams in the middle. Inquire before you purchase "Seamless Gutter" about the thickness of the material used and be certain that it is made in one continuous length.
Seamless gutter is formed, cut and installed on site by a two-man crew saving on labor cost. Freight charges are eliminated. Waste is almost unheard of due to gutter being measured and cut on site to exact lengths. No need to store left over odds and ends that get damaged before they can be used. Most jobs can be completed the same day. Call us for complete information and free estimates at your job at no obligation to you.

terms as Minnesota's 9th district Congresswoman authoring bills such as the first Government National Student Loan Bill, federal funding for cystic fibrosis medical research, and campaign finance reform. She was the first woman in history to serve on the powerful Agricultural Committee, and was one of the strongest voices on the Hill for farm legislation that served her predominately agricultural district.

Coya was reelected "by a huge margin" in 1956. Unfortunately, her refusal to let the Democratic Party control her, and her refusal to compromise her principles created political enemies. She refused to support the party's endorsed candidate, Adlai Stevenson, despite the fact that his running mate was Minnesota's own Hubert Humphrey, and instead backed Estes Kefauver, whose policies she felt were better for farmers. The repercussions came in 1958 when the notorious "Coya Come Home" letter, signed by her husband, written by political opponents (possibly opponents within her own party), was introduced at the DFL endorsement party in Crookston and became national news. Despite the letter, Coya Knutson ran for reelection losing by only 1,390 votes to Odin Langen.

The Author and Play

Kathy Ray, author and playwright, and her husband Tim Ray, live in Barrett, Minn., where they have a rural-based, issue-oriented theatre company, "Playing on Purpose Productions," and work to create original plays to explore contemporary social concerns.

After reading the biography "Coya Come Home" by Gretchen Urnes Beito, playwright/actress Kathy Ray decided it would be interesting and artistically challenging to research, write and perform a one-woman play about Minnesota's first, and up to 2000, only Congresswoman.

"Coya Comes Back" is the result of interviews of people who knew and remembered Coya in Oklee, going through the Congresswoman's personal papers on file at the Minnesota History Museum, thorough visits with Coya's son, Terry in Bloomington, and various other research techniques. Kathy Ray premiered the play in the spring of 2001 and is currently on tour at college campuses, historical societies and library clubs around the region. Those who have seen the production have remarked, "She truly brings Coya back."

Chautauqua 2002

AFRAN (L'Association des Francais du Nord) presents the 20th anniversary of the French Festival of Arts and History Saturday and Sunday, August 24 and 25, 2002 at Old Crossing and Treaty Park at Huot in Red Lake County. Guests will have opportunities to visit with the presenters, participate in hands on workshops, and enjoy the fine foods that include walleye dinners, French meat pies and much more. The admission button is $5 for adults and $1 children 6-12. The button is good for all programs each day and the Saturday evening dance in Red Lake Falls featuring the Cajun Hot Soles.

Old Crossing and Treaty Park is located about 12 miles northeast of Crookston and about nine miles southwest of Red Lake Falls using County Rd. 11. Turn west on No. 3, cross the bridge and a short distance to the park.

The events are sponsored by AFRAN, the Red Lake County Historical Society, the Minnesota Humanities Commission and the State Arts Board, RDC through funding from the state Legislature.

Gemini Java, which is situated off the frontage road on Highway 59 South in Thief River Falls, is owned and operated by Heather Armstrong. Heather started her coffee business in 1998 with a kiosk cart in Dakota Clinic. She transferred her business to the present location in May of 2001.

Gemini Java:

Not more than a few days later, a friend told her about a small, vacant building right off Highway 59. A suggestion was made to relocate her business there. She thought about it and decided to contact the landlords. They had no problem with her setting up shop in their space.

Heather went back to the bank. She would need more money to get the new place in order. Having proven herself an excellent customer, the bank didn't hesitate to issue her another loan. Heather appreciates how easy the bank was to work with.

With a little bit of work on the building and after getting all her additional fixtures and furnishings, Heather was ready to reopen Gemini Java on May 26, 2001.

The new building featured tables for customers to sit at - although not many since the space is quite small - and a drive-through window. Her furniture is made by companies in Crookston and East Grand Forks, which she sells to anyone interested in the unique pieces.

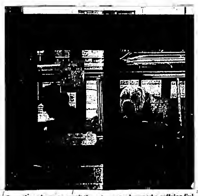
Over the last year-and-a-half, Gemini Java has picked up more business than ever before. Heather says it's busier when the kids are back in college and on Canadian holidays, but always seems to be quite steady. She has a morning rush and the lunch hour is pretty busy.

And then there are the "regulars." Heather enjoys the two retired men who come in every day for coffee and crosswords and the business people who pull up every day at the same time and order the same thing. Heather's made a lot of friends working at the small coffee shop. At any time of the day, one of her regulars can be found sitting and chatting with her while she tends to the drive-through window and grinds espresso beans.

Having worked in the amusement business for nine years prior to going back to school, Heather did a lot of traveling. She adores coffee and would stop at all kinds of coffee shops during her travels. She's known all along that owning a shop of her own was exactly what she wanted to do.

Heather likes the location she is in right now, even though she's had many requests to relocate to a "more convenient" place downtown. And while she doesn't want to change locations, she wouldn't mind getting a bigger building.

Her ultimate goal is to build a bigger building and open a pastry shop along with the coffee. She wants to make homemade bagels and pastries. "They'd be fresh every day and the muffins would smell like muffins." Her enthusiasm is obvious. With the kind of persistence she displays, Heather won't stop until she achieves exactly what she wants.



There have been other coffee shops in town in the last ten years that haven't fared quite as well as Gemini Java. Could it be that they simply gave up too quickly? Or has the town finally come to accept and embrace the advent of the coffee shop? It's probably a combination of the two and Heather saw an opportunity to make her dream work. "Don't give up," she says. "Anytime you start a new business, it takes time for it to catch on, especially in a small town."

Heather Armstrong has a special kind of determination. The ability to never give up and keep a positive attitude throughout is something not everyone has.

"Don't listen to the negative, just stick to what you believe you can do." Heather's recipe for success is a sort of philosophy that has gotten her through the rough times and brought her so much closer to a lifetime of fulfilled dreams.

Gemini Java's small, but cozy, seating area offers customers a place to sit and read or visit with friends. Most of the unique wooden fixtures used at Gemini Java can be purchased through Heather Armstrong, the shop's owner and operator.

Sometimes humans aren't the only ones who need a caffeine fix! The drive-through window at Gemini Java lets customers order their coffee to go, without having to get out of their cars. Gemini Java is owned and operated by Heather Armstrong and is located on Highway 59 South in Thief River Falls.

Cost-share assistance for conservation practices available

Cheryl Sistad, Manager of the Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD) has just heard that Fiscal Year 2003 funding is on its way, and the SWCD will receive an additional $9,500 to cost-share on applicable conservation practices. This adds to the $2,700 in funding from last year that is still available.

"In the past, the majority of our funding has to be used for erosion control structures or for field or farmstead windbreaks," stated Sistad. "Other eligible practices listed include stripcropping, diversions, stormwater control systems, animal waste control systems or critical area seeding. We also have an 'other recognized technical practices' category whereas if an erosion or water quality practice requires the installation of conservation practice not on the above list, we can request approval from the state board."

Applications are taken on a first-come-first-served basis, and the program is open to individuals, groups or government units. The maximum cost-share is 75 percent in high priority areas. In a number of instances, the applicant would also be eligible to apply for an Agricultural Best Management Practices (BMP) loan to assist with their portion of the costs.

To apply for cost-share assistance or to receive more information, contact the Marshall-Beltrami SWCD office at (218) 294-6144.

Local family to host exchange student

A local family has passed the necessary requirements to host an exchange student. The Gerald and Judy Ouray family will be hosting Yoko Iri, a student from Japan, who will be attending Marshall County Central High School during the 2002-2003 school year.

Yoko, her host ... all the academic and character qualifications necessary for acceptance as an exchange student by ASSE International Student Exchange Programs (ASSE).

ASSE is a non-profit, tax-exempt, public benefit organization that is affiliated with the Swedish and Finnish National Ministries of Education. It provides student exchange opportunities for students from Europe, Asia, Australia, South America and North America.

More families are needed in the city of Viking and surrounding area to host students. To obtain more information about hosting or becoming an exchange student, contact ASSE local area representative Mary Schmidt at (218) 281-5423 or 1-800-736-1760.

Electronic Technician

Digi-Key, one of the fastest-growing electronic component distributors in the U.S., is seeking qualified electronic technicians. Digi-Key's rapid expansion into an electronic certification program for our suppliers has presented this unique opportunity for prospective candidates. The electronic technicians assist customers, primarily engineers, in their efforts to interpret and translate customer design requirements into their product designs. This is done through our World-Class Internet text chat site, e-mail or via the telephone. We are seeking candidates with the following qualifications:

- Minimum of a 2 year technical degree in an electronics or a computer program
- Demonstrated ability to communicate effectively with customers, suppliers and employees
- Thorough knowledge of electronic components and supplies
- Professional attitude and presence

With Digi-Key's exciting history of dynamic growth, unbeatable benefits package, and excellent working environment, the position offers a tremendous opportunity for those with strong technical abilities. Interested applicants should forward their Digi-Key application form, resume' and their college transcript to:

15th with another special duck race. Performers scheduled to be at "Fan Jam" are Clint Black, Brad Paisley, Keith Urban, Trick Pony, Cindi Thomson, Carolyn Dawn Johnson and Fargo native, James Otto. These tickets are a $50 value.

Following the celebrity duck auction, about 1:30 p.m., the ducklings will be racing. The first place "lucky duckling" winner will receive a 2003 Indy 120 XCSP snowmobile and helmet. Second and third place winners will receive bicycles, fourth and fifth place will receive electronic games, sixth and seventh place will receive boomboxes and the eighth place winner will get a radio.

At 2:30 p.m., the duck race begins. The "adopter" of the first duck that floats through the wooden chute will receive $5,000. Second place winner will receive $1,000, third place $300, plus many other additional cash prizes. Total cash prizes for the duck race is $6,850! Also to be given away will be a Coleman Five-Day Keep Cool cooler and four can coolers compliments of the East Grand Forks Cabellas.

During the races there will also be games, food and musical entertainment by the Country Jam Session musicians. Bring your lawn chair so you can sit, relax and enjoy an afternoon of fun.

Following the duck races, the activities will move back to the Village Square area. For the kids, there will be a frog jumping contest, dunking booth, games and face painting.

From 5 p.m. to 8 p.m., the American Legion will have a steak fry. They will be serving rib eye steaks, baked potatoes and salad bar.

Beginning at 8 p.m., the local band "Nine Paces West" will be playing at the Village Square. Their music includes modern rock and some original music. They will be playing until midnight.

The American Legion will also be having a dance with "Zero Tolerance" providing the music.

Plan to spend the day in Lake Bronson on Saturday, August 17th for a full day of fun!

Sayers autopsy reveals little

The autopsy results of John Aloysius Sayers, 21, who was found dead on a Red Lake County road June 6, did not determine whether he had been hit by a vehicle before he was hit by the car whose driver discovered his body and reported it to authorities.

The Ramsey County Medical Examiner's office determined the cause of death to be "multiple traumatic injuries due to motor vehicle-pedestrian accident."

Previously, the Red Lake County Sheriff's Department tested a vehicle to see if it had been involved in the accident, and determined it had not.

The sheriff's department will not release Sayers' blood alcohol content as determined by the autopsy, but Red Lake County Sheriff Les Arlt said that, according to witness reports, Sayers had been drinking that night.

Assistance available to NW MN flood victims

The Minnesota Department of Agriculture's (MDA) Farm Advocate Program will hold four open house events across northwestern Minnesota for agricultural producers that have suffered from the recent floods.

Through the Agricultural Information Fairs, farmers can meet with local, state and federal representatives for free one-on-one assistance and advice on how to access federal aid and other resources available to them in a time of crisis. In addition, experts will be on hand to provide legal advice, insurance information and emotional support for those recovering from the trauma of floods and other natural disasters.

The Agricultural Information Fairs will be held at the following locations:

- Twin Valley at the Twin Valley Community Center on August 27 from 2-8 p.m.
- Hallock at the Hallock City Hall on August 28 from 2-8 p.m.
- Roseau at the Community School Commons on August 29 from 2-8 p.m.
- Thief River Falls at the City Auditorium on August 30 from 2-8 p.m.

MDA Farm Advocate Bruce Lubitz said many area farmers affected by the 2002 floods are just starting to look for help.

"These events will be a one-stop location for local producers to get information from a network of professions," Lubitz said. "Attorneys, insurance agents, health professionals, career experts and government officials will all be on hand to help flood victims determine what resources are available to them."

For more information on the Agricultural Information Fairs, contact Lubitz at (218) 334-3276 or blubyfap@eot.com. To help farmers and farm-related businesses find the resources they need as they begin to recover, the MDA has established a page on its website containing information on available resources. The site is www.mda.state.mn.us/commissioner/2002floodinfo.html.

absolutely wiped out," Person said. He estimates damage ranging anywhere from ten to 100 percent around Pennington County. However, he added, "usually the east end is worse. But this year, it's better."

Outside of the county, flooding has had a much bigger effect. Person said the worst damage is in Marshall and Roseau Counties. "The closer you get to those spots, the worse it looks," he said.

Craig has seen that damage. In addition to crops that have been washed away, he says the flooding caused some green grain, which will be difficult to harvest.

News that the USDA has declared all area counties disaster areas should be welcome to farmers, who may need the loans that come with this declaration to recover from yields weakened by flooding.

Insects

"We've been lucky on the insects," Person said. While there have been reports of some soybean aphids and grasshoppers, he is not worried that there are enough to do substantial damage.

Craig has heard the same for Marshall County. "There are more grasshoppers than we normally see . . . they are here, but I haven't seen or heard that they've reached a high enough level to cause a problem," he said.

American Airlines donates 727 to NCTC

Dr. Orley D. Gunderson, president of Northland Community and Technical College, has announced that American Airlines is donating a Boeing 727-200 aircraft to the College's Aviation Maintenance Technology program.

American pilots are expected to fly the 727 into the Thief River Falls Regional Airport at approximately 2 p.m. on Wed. Aug. 28. Faculty, staff, and students of the college, and numerous public officials will be on hand for the aircraft's arrival.

"We are thrilled to be working with American Airlines, and to receive this valuable gift," said Gunderson. "The integration of a working 727 into our Aviation program will be a tremendous asset for our Aviation program students."

"It is gratifying to know that a plane that for so many years flew business travelers to their meetings and families to their vacations will continue to provide a valuable service," said Beverly Goulet, American's vice president, Corporate Development and Treasury. "Future aircraft mechanics will be able to learn a lot from this workhorse airplane."

The Boeing 727-200 was built in 1977. It will be the only aircraft in the College's fleet that is intact and flyable. Despite being 25-years-old, the jet has up-to-date avionics and engines. It was retired from service in May 2002.

American's 727-200 will join Northland's fleet of more than 30 aircraft, including a Boeing 727-100 donated in 1991, three Douglas DC-9s, and a variety of twin- and single-engine planes and helicopters. The Aviation program is

Recall issued in June suddenly makes news

News reports last week announced that Arctic Cat, Inc. of Thief River Falls is voluntarily recalling almost 45,000 all-terrain vehicles (ATVs). The ball joints on the front suspension of these ATVs can fail, which results in a loss of control. This can cause the ATV to overturn, posing a risk of serious injury or death. The recall, however, was issued on June 6, leaving some in the industry wondering what the sudden attention is all about.

The recall was issued after Arctic Cat received 73 reports of broken front suspensions, 10 of which resulted in injuries to riders. According to the initial news release on the recall, the recalled 2002 model ATVs are either red or green. They have the brand name "Arctic Cat" written on both sides of the vehicle. The recall includes the following ATV model names: 250, 300, 375, 400, 400i, 500, TBX 500, 500i and 300 Massey Ferguson.

Randy Adamson, owner of RV Sports, said, "Over 80 percent have already been done." He added that it (The recall) "is in the customer's best interest."

RV Sports is a Thief River Falls Arctic Cat dealer. Adamson

Police contracts are in the works

Red Lake Falls - It's that time of year again. Time to discuss police contracts with the four cities in Red Lake County.

Last year, Brooks and Plummer did not sign police contracts, which meant one of the deputies had to go back to being a dispatcher, and a part-time dispatcher had to be laid off.

This year, Red Lake County Sheriff Les Arlt has already approached three of the four cities with a proposed contract. The contracts would include the services of the county attorney.

In the proposed contract, Red Lake Falls would contract for 90 percent of three men, and Red Lake County would pick up the remaining 10 percent because the deputies will still have to answer county calls, transport prisoners and do court security. - Red Lake Falls Gazette, August 21, 2002, by Cindy Stewart.

Thirty townships and cities to vote by mail in 2002 election

Kittson County - The 2002 election is soon here, with the primary set for Tuesday, September 10.

Kittson County Auditor Marilyn Gustafson said mail ballots go out August 21 to all persons who are registered in mail ballot precincts.

The townships and cities of Cannon, Caribou, Clow, Davis, Deerwood, Granville, Hallock Township, Hampden, Hazelton, Hill, McKinley, North Red River, Pestland, Pelan, Percy, Richardville, Skane, South Red River, St. Joseph, St. Vincent Township, Svea, Tegner, Thompson, Donaldson, Halma, Humboldt, Kennedy, Lake Bronson, Lancaster and the city of St. Vincent have elected to conduct their elections by the mail ballot method. This procedure is allowed by Minnesota statutes.

Mail ballots go out on October 16 for the general election. Ballots must be mailed no earlier than 20 days or later than 14 days prior to the election.

Instructions for mail balloting will be enclosed and must be followed completely or a vote may not be counted. Return envelopes are provided for ballot returns to the county auditor's office. - Kittson County Enterprise, August 21, 2002.

Construction blues

Only a little while longer. First Street construction in Thief River Falls should be completed and the street open to traffic next week. The goal is to have it open sometime Tuesday, August 27. Officials announced Thursday, August 22, that the First Street bridge would be closed beginning 6 a.m. on Friday so that construction crews could put the final layer of bituminous on the intersection of Horace and First Street. Paint striping crews will put down striping Tuesday morning, and city crews will be painting curbs. The only thing left to do on the street will be to saw and seal the street and that can be done under traffic.

Controversy swirls around Parnell project

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

Many landowners in the township of Parnell and surrounding area disagree with what is occurring at Red Lake Watershed District's Parnell Impoundment. In an effort to potentially improve flood control, the Red Lake Watershed District (RLWD) Board sought the opinion of two engineering firms. The engineering firms propose several modifications. Cutting down the emergency spillway is one of the proposals.

RLWD Administrator Harry Farris said, "The perception of the public is that cutting down the spillway will cause more flooding."

One of the people opposing the operating plan is RLWD board manager Roger Love, who represents western Polk County. "I don't think the operating plan is what the 15 townships, Crookston, East Grand Forks and Grand Forks want," Love said. "I believe they're working on a diversion plan instead of a flood control structure. They want to divert the water out of Fisher and Crookston and move it out into the 15 townships."

Love wants the RLWD to use the original impoundment operating plan. Unlike the current plan, the original plan did not call for any structural modifications. Under the original plan, a dam safety permit would not be issued for the impoundment because safeguards need to be put in place for impoundment workers.

Located in western Polk County, the impoundment serves landowners to the west and south, including Crookston, Red Lake County and Grand Forks. Water flows into the impoundment from the east and channels into it. Farris said, "(The impoundment) holds back water, so that land downstream can drain off."

After the area experienced heavy rainfall, the board decided it needed an operating plan to control water flow. Earlier, the gate was open, and water could move freely in and out of the impoundment. After the heavy rainfall, the board discovered it would be beneficial to close the gate, let the water on nearby land recede and then let water out of the

It was a tough year for tourism industry

Area flooding also has impact on tourism in area

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

Although it has been almost a year since the September 11th attacks, the tourism industry is still feeling its effects. Immediately following the attacks, tourism took a nose-dive across the country. The tourism industry has seen a slight increase since September, but tourism rates continue to be lower than in previous years.

The Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development states gross sales from tourism grew 31 percent from $6.9 billion to $9 billion during 1996 to 2000. In 2000, it created 129,700 jobs and generated $3.5 billion in payroll. Tourism also generated $1 billion in state and local tax revenue. This year's state tourism rates are not available.

According to a Minnesota Office of Tourism (MOT) Travel and Tourism Representative, tourism has been relatively stable in Thief River Falls in recent months. David Bergman, one of the MOT's Northcentral/West Region travel and tourism representatives, said, "July was very solid. August looks good." Yet, he acknowledged this summer's tourism rate was lower than in previous years.

This summer's tourism rate was also affected by the Roseau flood. Bergman said relief workers and displaced residents were lodged in area hotels, and many resorts had cancellations because visitors could not reach their Roseau vacation destinations.

Area motel managers seem to agree with Bergman. Nancy Cloud, manager of the Super 8 motel, said, "We had our downslide after September 11. She added, "It's gotten better since this past month."

Tourism rates remain low across the country, but the Thief River Falls Tourist Park still sees a substantial number of visitors.

Repairing our wrecks keeps The Shop busy

This is the fourth part in a series of eight feature stories that focus on the Northern Watch region's Young Business Leaders.

by Jenny Nicholson
Reporter

When you work hours upon hours at a job that requires hard, physical labor, sometimes all you want is a vacation.

That's exactly what Jeff Brause, owner and operator of The Shop in Thief River Falls, says he needs.

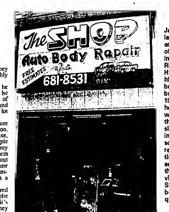
Not that he doesn't love his job, because he does, but in recent times, growth of his business has skyrocketed and he's kept busy enough to exhaust anyone.

Jeff started in the business of auto body repair when he was still in high school. He worked at Gator's Auto Body Shop and learned from the local pro who taught him well.

After high school, Jeff took classes at Northwest Technical College in the auto body program. During a class project there, his instructor took him to a salvage yard in Fargo to pick up a car for the class to work on. Jeff took an immediate interest in the whole process of buying and rebuilding cars.

Six months before he graduated from college, Jeff opened his own shop. He would work on one car at a time, restoring it back to a near-perfect condition. Then he would sell the car and start all over again.

In 1991, he formally started the business he calls The Shop which is located on Atlantic Avenue.



At the beginning of his business venture, Jeff worked alone. As things progressed and he became busier, he hired employees. Today he has six full-time employees working at his shop. Jeff says they are excellent workers and highly skilled in their profession.

As far as running a business, he says he learned a lot when he worked at Gator's. Jeff did some of the customer service work and found he was teaching himself a lot of basic business practices.

Jeff was buying and selling more and more cars as the years went on. He obtained a dealer's license, which allows him to have multiple cars for sale at a time. Dealers buy cars, and in Jeff's case, fixes them first, and then sell them without having to transfer the title into their name. This provides a quicker transaction when the customer buys a car.

Three years ago, Jeff partnered with Brian Bugge and bought the former Baker's Acres and it's approximately 750 vehicles. They

Today we'll have some snacks – just in time to practice up on them before they are needed for after school time.

Keep this around for those times when you just have to have a chocolate snack:

FAVORITE SNACK MIX
6 cups Corn Chex cereal
5 cups Cheerios cereal
8 ounces pretzels
2 cups dry roasted peanuts
16 ounce bag M&Ms candies
24 ounces white chocolate candy
1 tablespoon solid shortening, if needed

Spray a large bowl with non-stick spray.

Combine cereals, pretzels, peanuts and M&Ms in sprayed bowl.

Melt white chocolate according to package directions. Add shortening as needed to reach pourable consistency. Pour over cereal mixture in bowl, stirring gently until well coated.

Spread mixture on 3 waxed paper-lined baking sheets. Allow to air dry or refrigerate. When cool, break into pieces. Store in airtight containers in the refrigerator. Makes about 14 cups.

This one is just a little different from the one above – you might like it better - so better make them both:

WHITE CHOCOLATE PARTY MIX
2 packages white chocolate chips
3 tablespoons oil
5 cups Cheerios
5 cups Corn Chex
2 cups peanuts
10 ounce package mini twist pretzels
16 ounce bag M&Ms

Melt chips and add oil.

Mix dry ingredients in large bowl.

Pour melted chip mixture over dry ingredients and toss until well coated.

Make this caramel corn quick in the microwave – in a PAPER BAG:

CARAMEL CORN
1/2 cup butter, melted
1 cup brown sugar
1/4 cup white syrup
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
5 quarts popped popcorn

Combine butter, sugar, syrup and salt. Microwave for 4 minutes on high. Add soda and vanilla.

Pour mixture over popcorn in large paper bag. Microwave on high for 1 1/2 minutes. Shake.

Microwave again for 1 minute. Shake. Microwave for 1/2 minute. Shake.

Spread on cookie sheet to cool.

A sweet treat, but not too sweet for snacking:

SWEET CEREAL MIX
1 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla
5 cups Crispix cereal
3 cups corn flakes
3 cups pretzels
2 cups mixed nuts

Bring butter, sugar and syrup to a boil. Stir constantly for 3 minutes. Remove from heat and add vanilla.

Mix Crispix, corn flakes, pretzels and nuts. Pour butter mixture over and mix well. Cool.

Don't worry about being completely accurate on the ounces of some of these ingredients – approximate will do – they are great to take along any time:

TRAIL MIX
2 pounds peanuts
8 ounce package pretzel chips
8 ounce package small twist pretzels
5 ounces thin pretzel sticks
5 ounce package corn nuts
1 cup vegetable oil
1 cup melted butter
2 tablespoons chili powder
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
5 drops green hot sauce
1 tablespoon garlic salt
1 tablespoon seasoned salt
1 teaspoon ground cumin

Mix nuts and pretzels in large roasting pan.

Mix oil, melted butter, chili powder, Worcestershire, garlic salt, seasoned salt and cumin. Pour over pretzels mixing well together.

Bake at 250 degrees for 2 hours, stirring often. Makes 5 1/2 quarts.

After cooking, if desired, add chocolate covered raisins.

In case you need it, this one gives you the dietary information, but they're great whether you're keeping an eye on your intake or not:

SPICY SUGARED NUTS
1 tablespoon slightly beaten egg white
2 cups pecan or walnut halves
1/4 cup sugar
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon cloves

Heat oven to 300 degrees.

Mix egg white and pecans until pecans are coated and sticky.

Mix remaining ingredients, sprinkle over pecans, and stir until pecans are completely coated.

Spread in single layer in ungreased jelly roll pan. Bake 30 minutes at 300 degrees, watching to keep from burning. Cool completely.

Makes 2 cups nuts.

Each 1/4 cup serving contains 225 calories, 2 g protein, 12 g carb, 20 g fat, 0 chol.

Bituminous seal coating underway on state highways

The Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT) is notifying the public that a bituminous seal coating operation is underway on various portions of state highways in Northwest Minnesota.

Motorists are advised that traffic will be restricted to one lane at three-mile intervals to accommodate the work.

The following areas of state highways are scheduled in the following order:

Highway 9 from Ada north to the Norman/Polk county line;

Highway 75 from Halstad to Shelly;

Highway 75 from Climax to Crookston;

Highway 75 from Stephen to Donaldson;

Highway 32 from Highway 2 to Red Lake Falls;

Highway 59 from Newfolden to Karlstad;

Highway 59 from Lake Bronson north to the Canadian border;

Mn/DOT expects the work to be completed in approximately two weeks, depending on weather conditions.

Drivers cautioned about Highway 11 repair work

The Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT) is alerting motorists about construction work on Highway 11 between Roseau and Warroad.

Highway 11 will be open during the construction work, but traffic at times will be restricted to one lane through the use of flagging operations. Motorists should be prepared to stop.

Mn/DOT is asking drivers to be patient and use extreme caution in these areas. Construction is expected to be completed by early September.

Operation Round Up applications due Sept. 20

Organizations involved in community projects and charities are encouraged to apply for Operation Round Up funds at this time. Completed grant applications are due in the Red Lake Electric Cooperative office on September 20.

Operation Round Up is a program adopted by the Red Lake Electric Cooperative headquartered in Red Lake Falls. Customers choosing to "round up" their monthly electric bill payments provide funds for this effort. Over 3,400 Red Lake Electric customers are now choosing to contribute pennies each month to enhance their communities.

Funds will be primarily donated to nonprofit organizations to help fund their specific projects or programs. Since the program began in 1993, over $178,600 has been granted to community organizations and charities. Money is donated for the betterment of the community within the service area boundaries of Red Lake Electric Cooperative.

The Red Lake Electric Trust Board of Directors determines grants. Board members are Orlan Stolaas of Oklee; Joyce Johnson of Viking; and Terry Weiss, Veral Mosbeck and Ron Kennedy, all of Red Lake Falls.

An application must be submitted with a finance statement from the organization.

For more information, contact Ron Kennedy at (218) 253-2168 or 1-800-245-6068.

Mutual of Omaha rep. attends seminar

A local Mutual of Omaha representative recently attended a retirement planning seminar at the company's home office in Omaha, Neb.

Joseph Drevlow of Thief River Falls attended the seminar, which instructed agents on investment options, tax issues and technical issues involved with retirement plans. Some of the topics addressed were 401 (k), tax-sheltered annuity and IRA saving plans.

"With this advanced level of training, Joe is better equipped to meet the diverse needs of our policyholders," General Manager Byron Klebe said.

Mutual of Omaha provides protection to individuals, families and small and large employers through a comprehensive line of insurance and financial services.

All Our Love

Miss Me - But Let Me Go
When I come to the end of the road and the sun has set for me
I want no rites in gloom filled room
Why cry for a soul set free.
Miss Me a Little - But Not Too Long
And not with your head bowed low
Remember the love that we once shared.
Miss Me - But Let Me Go
For this journey that we all must take.
And each must go alone
It's all part of the Master's plan
A step on the road home.
When you are lonely and sick of heart
Go to the friends we knew
And bury your sorrows in doing good deeds
Miss Me - But Let Me Go.

It'Snot a Real Cause For Concern

I had a dream the other night. No, I'm not trying to steal anything from Mr King, it wasn't that profound. It didn't involve world peace or racial equality or even a reasonable solution as to Ted Williams' remains. In my dream I was returning to a high school reunion and it was very important that I show up with armfuls of credibility. I had purchased a new suit, done a lot of last minute situps, and practiced all the witty one-line defenses of a guide occupation that I could think of. I wanted to impress all my classmates, in general, and one particular girl, specifically, proving to the lot of them that I had indeed become something other than what they had expected. There existed a glaring problem in this dream sequence, however. Lodged inextricably in one nostril, just barely visible and therefore horribly obvious, was the most distracting booger you could imagine. And try as I might, with Kleenex, handkerchief, and finger, I couldn't remove it. Dream time ran short and, much to my chagrin, I was forced to attend the reunion, booger and all.

Lake of the Woods has not shown its best side these last couple of weeks. The winds have been strong and persistent, muddying the waters and forcing fishermen into obscure nooks and crannies seeking a combination of calm and clarity. The turbid nature of the lake mixes water from top to bottom and creates confusion for the both fisherman and fish as they hunt for desirable levels of temperature. It's standard late-summer early-fall stuff, though this year's version has been a little on the protracted side. And it's that duration that's made life tough.

I always want people to see Lake of the Woods at its finest. In terms of fishing, in terms of weather, in terms of people. Lately we've had a booger lodged in the corner of our nostril. Fishing has been adequate, though only for those with boats large enough to run miles through rough seas to hide from the wind and elude the muddy water. The weather has been less than adequate, with a stubborn jetstream refusing to budge north or south even the tiniest bit to give us respite from its relentless air push. And the local people, myself included, tend to get a little on the crabby side when a couple weeks of wind and tepid walleyes put them on the daily defensive with the crowds of tourists who have heard such grand tales from the past few months. We persist with Kleenex, handkerchief, and finger, but are obliged to live with what is there.

Which brings us back to the dream. Forced to attend that high school reunion armed with confidence, a new suit, a marginally harder set of stomach muscles, and a hardened crust of nasal mucous, I was surprised and pleased with the result. My classmates seemed genuinely interested in my chosen career. They said nice things about my suit. They commented on how well my body had stood up to the rigors of aging. A few of them joked about the distraction in my nose, but none made any hard and fast judgment calls about it and how it related to my true character. Even the girl I was most concerned about impressing merely chuckled charmingly at my discomfort and suggested that if she'd known years ago that was the worst I could offer she would have easily chosen me over the captain of the football team. Of course I eventually woke up and everything was different. All, that is, except for the obstruction in my nose. However a positive note had been struck.

So when I get a little owly this time of year in response to those big winds and muddy waters and average fishing, I find it comforting to day-dream. I remember that even a disheveled and uninviting Lake of the Woods is still an impressive, special body of water. And I reflect back a week or two to the wonder that recently was and I peer forward a week or so to the wonder that will be and I'm comfortable. I can get along just fine with this booger.

New Breakthrough Technology in Cataract Eye Surgery

Cataract surgery has become one of the most successfully performed surgical procedures in modern medicine. Now there is a new technique for cataract surgery that makes the experience easier and more comfortable for the patient.

The Clear Cornea technique makes an incision 1/7th of an inch long. The opening is so small, that in most cases, no eye patches or sutures are required.

When making this tiny incision, your doctor uses a sharp diamond blade that causes very little trauma to the eye and allows clearer vision more rapidly than with older techniques. Patients can return to normal activities with minimum interruption in their daily routine.

If you or someone you love has signs of cataracts; such as blurred vision or glare, call or visit your local eye care provider and learn more about this new procedure.

A college, a community and a partnership

As many of you are well aware by now, the first day of this year's new school year is fast approaching, and in fact, college students are moving back to the community. It's appropriate, then, that we extend a welcome to Thief River Falls and northwestern Minnesota to all students.

I'm sure students are well aware of the benefits that Northland offers: a two-year college with a wide variety of associate degree and occupational programs; outstanding faculty; great facilities; supportive alumni; and, state-of-the-art equipment. Above all else, however, Northland prides itself on its outstanding faculty – a faculty primarily concerned about student learning.

And I'm sure students, visitors and residents have noticed the new facility additions. On Thursday, August 29, Northland will host a dedication and ribbon cutting ceremony commemorating the completion of a $12 million renovation and expansion project. That's quite an accomplishment. Congratulations! It took years of hard work and dedication to bring this dream to completion.

Northland Community and Technical College has a lot to offer. In addition to its educational mission, the college also has about 30 different types of student life activities.

The college, any college for that matter, is also a place where students not only expand their education but their personal horizons – learning more about themselves while living away from home – through work and play. Our communities in northwestern Minnesota play an important role in that process, and it's important for students to remember that this is our home. We have opened our doors to you, please treat it as you would your own home or community.

But this message is just as important for residents to remember too. Since the college was formed in 1949, there has been partnership between the college and community. Through this partnership, the community benefits immensely, and not just economically. By their very nature, students will challenge us to learn more about ourselves. Please be open to the challenge.

The college prides itself on its partnership with the communities in northwestern Minnesota. Northland has always been a "community" college and the partnership between the community, businesses and professionals has always been important. In fact, the college's mission statement clearly states that it is dedicated to "creating a quality learning environment through partnerships with students, communities, businesses and other educational institutions."

But our welcome should be, as always, an open invitation we give freely – no conditions attached – and we do so. Welcome to Thief River Falls and northwestern Minnesota.

The construction blues will go away soon

On my way to work Thursday I forgot about the construction on Fourth Street in Thief River Falls or I would have turned on Fifth Street. As a result, I ended up going a long way around. I put my frustration in perspective by reminding myself that the "long way around" took an extra two minutes.

As I arrived at work, the talk in the office was about construction on First Street and Fourth Street, and why do they have to take place at the same time.

Last week I received a e-mail from an individual who attempted to go around the barricades in St. Hilaire. He received a traffic violation ticket for his efforts. Ouch!

It seems construction delays and detours are topics of conversation in many offices.

There is some truth to the saying that there are two seasons in Minnesota - winter and the construction season. Our weather often limits or shrinks the time we have for our construction season to a few months. As always, there's a flurry of activity during the last part of August and September to complete those projects.

It's true too, that because our construction season is limited by weather, the projects are usually planned out affairs. It may take months or even years to plan and coordinate a project, and once a project begins progress is often dependent upon events taking place in a certain order. Reclaimed bituminous, for example, may be scheduled to be used on another project, and the transportation of hot mix may be dependent upon the availability of the trucks hauling the reclaimed bituminous.

But I think there is another, much more simpler answer to why orange cones and barricades drive us nuts. We live in a society of fast food, high-speed Internet connections, ITV, digital TV, and satisfaction on demand; and, as a general rule of thumb, we don't like to see change in the first place. But when projects begin, we like to see results happen quickly because that's who we've become.

In any event, while we aren't happy about facing the maze of orange cones, we must put it in perspective, and take a deep breath, because we all know it won't be long now. And it's true, that when the orange cones disappear, we'll forget completely about the hassles of our construction season ... then, we'll start complaining about the cold weather, and too much salt on our roads. We've got to have something to complain about!

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

I read the article about St. Anthony's Church in Terrabonne, Minn., and we drove over to see it last Sunday. It is a beautiful church and stands proud and tall. Why should it be destroyed because it is no longer in use? Why wasn't the church fixed up when it was in use and not let go for so long? It needs new siding and other things need to be fixed too. But don't tear it down when there are people who want to save it.

We have three churches within a three mile radius of our farm. Two are closed and one is still active. There is one that is older than St. Anthony's, but well taken care of by people who care. The cemetery and lawn is always mowed, the church has new paint and shingles and windows have been fixed. You can't miss the one on Highway 1 west of Thief River Falls, it always looks neat and everything is fixed up, the lawn and cemetery mowed, and even a Christmas wreath put on the door during the Holiday by a new lady, who lives across the road from the church, and has family buried there. So we are in favor of saving St. Anthony's church and I hope the people will stand up for their rights, too, and should have something to say about their church being torn down, and not just a few people that say different.

Sincerely,
Inar and Oodie Mikkelson

Audubon names best places to see rare and unusual birds in America

Going on a road trip typically means making lots of stops: stops to eat, stops to fuel up, stops to use the bathroom...even stops to see birds. America's best birding spots are visited by millions of travelers each year, and now Audubon is going to make it easier to find them. A complete round-up of birding trails and driving routes to see the birding trails are listed in the next issue of Audubon, available September 1. Two of the country's top 19 trails can be found in Minnesota.

The two Minnesota trails include the Minnesota's Pine to Prairie Birding Trail and Minnesota River Valley Birding Trail. Minnesota's Pine to Prairie Birding Trail is Minnesota's first birding trail and runs through Thief River Falls. It covers 43 sites and more than 200 miles. The greater prairie chicken and three-toed woodpecker are two types of birds that can be seen on that trail. For more information on that trail, call the Fergus Falls Convention and Visitors Bureau at 1-800-726-8959.

The second trail covers the Minnesota River Watershed from its headwaters, to its confluence with the Mississippi River in the Twin Cities. While walking on the trail, birdwatchers can see wintering arctic birds and nesting neotropical migrants. For more information on that trail, call Audubon Minnesota at (651) 739-9332.

The editors of Audubon, the organization's flagship publication, consulted top ornithologists to compile the list.

Audubon is dedicated to protecting birds, other wildlife and the habitat that supports them. Its community-based Audubon Centers, grassroots science programs for bird enthusiasts, continue to grow. Audubon's advocacy on behalf of ecosystems sustaining important bird populations and its Audubon Centers engage millions of people of all ages and backgrounds in positive conservation experiences.

Extension will provide educational information for Farm Bill decisions

The University of Minnesota Extension Service will provide educational information on the Farm Bill to help agricultural producers and landowners make decisions about participation options. Extension educators will also be available to work directly with producers and landowners who ask for decision-making help.

Extension's educational role regarding the Farm Bill was defined in a recent meeting involving Farm Service Agency staff and Extension educators in farm business management.

"FSA is responsible for administration of the Farm Bill," says Rod Hamer, state coordinator of Extension's Farm Bill educational effort. "Extension at the national level has been designated as the USDA agency to provide educational support for the Farm Bill implementation."

Hamer says Extension's role on the Farm Bill in Minnesota will be to:

–Develop fact sheets to help producers and landowners understand the complex Farm Bill issues.
–Develop a series of news releases on Farm Bill issues.
–Conduct training sessions for ag professionals to increase the number of professionals equipped to help answer Farm Bill questions from individuals.
–Be available to help producers and landowners who ask for help making decisions about participation options.

Hamer says FSA will coordinate county-level meetings for producers and landowners regarding the Farm Bill. However, Extension will have a presence at these meetings if requested by FSA.

Extension's website with Farm Bill information is at http://www.extension.umn.edu/farmbill/.

Hybrid poplar can be profitable crop in northern Minnesota

Hybrid poplar can compete with corn and soybeans as a profitable crop on many northern Minnesota farms, according to a new University of Minnesota publication.

Hybrid poplar is a short-rotation, woody crop that's typically planted and harvested in less than 15 years. Production of the crop has been developed and refined since the late 1970s, when it was considered a potential biomass fuel.

"Uses for this fast-growing tree have expanded beyond biomass," says Mike Demchik, an agroforestry management educator with the University of Minnesota Extension Service at Staples and one of the publication's six authors. Each of the authors has considerable experience with research and production of woody crops.

The publication, "Hybrid Poplars as an Alternative Crop," is a short introduction to help you determine if you might be interested in growing hybrid poplar. It covers site selection and preparation, soils and fertility, planting and planting stock, weed and insect control, production costs and potential profits.

SBA to relocate Roseau loan closing office

The Small Business Administration (SBA) has relocated its loan closing office to the Border State Bank in Roseau, according to SBA Disaster Area Director Michael C. Allen.

The SBA closed its loan closing office at the Roseau School Library, conference room 509, at Third Street N.E., at noon on Thursday, August 29.

Beginning on Friday, August 30, the office will be located at the Border State Bank, 1083 Third Street NW, in Roseau. SBA has been using the bank location as its operations center since June 21. Office hours will be from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, until further notice. The office will be closed on Monday, September 2, 2002 for the Labor Day holiday.

Allen added, "I want to thank the staff of the Roseau School library for all the kindnesses extended to our staff. I also want to thank the border State Bank for its willingness to let our team use this space for so long. Both have greatly helped us help the people of Roseau County affected by the flooding disaster."

To date SBA has approved $19.4 million in low-interest disaster loans for Roseau County homeowners, renters, landlords, and business owners affected by the June 9-28, 2002 severe storms, tornadoes and flooding. Of that total, $7.2 million has gone to help Roseau businesses repair physical damage to their real estate and to replace machinery, equipment and inventory. An additional $1.1 million has been approved to provide working capital to small business so they can continue to meet their fixed and necessary operating expenses.

"We kept our staff in Roseau after the August 13 application deadline to help people close on their already approved loans. That's part of our effort to make the disaster assistance process as easy as possible for individuals and businesses affected by the disaster," Allen said.

"ABOUT YOUR EYES"

DR. CHRIS BORGEN
— OPTOMETRIST —

STRABISMUS: "CROSSED EYES"

Strabismus, sometimes called "crossed eyes", describes a condition in which the two eyes are not perfectly parallel when viewing an object. This is a problem of early childhood, and if left uncorrected, one eye may be used to the exclusion of the other, and this so-called "lazy" eye will fail to develop normal vision.

Although a certain amount of random divergence is common in infants, children past the age of one or one and a half should be able to hold both eyes in alignment. Although strabismus is sometimes very obvious, that isn't always the case, and only a complete eye exam will ascertain its existence.

Remember, it will not cure itself and it is more than a cosmetic problem. The sooner detected, the sooner treated – often with eyeglasses and exercises. However, if not corrected by age six, it may be too late for the child to learn to use both eyes together for normal vision.

In the interest of better vision

Girls high school tennis dual...

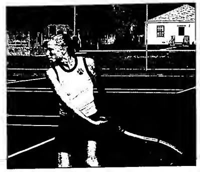
Prowlers start year win win vs. 'Hawks

A string of season-opening Thief River Falls wins over Grand Rapids continued Wednesday when the Prowlers started the 2002 girls high school tennis schedule with a 6-1 victory over Grand Rapids.

It was the eighth straight year the Thunderhawks have opened with a Wednesday dual vs. the Prowlers prior to their Thursday participation in the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Invitational. Grand Rapids has yet to win one of those debuts here.

"That was a good way for us to start our season," noted Thief River Falls coach Troy Hanestad. "Our girls have definitely made some strides this summer because of hard work. But the matches also showed us we still have a lot of areas to improve on."

Thief River Falls seniors Eryn Clow, Stacia Kalinoski and Katie Schommer were winners at 1-through-3 singles, respectively.



The Prowlers' winning doubles combinations included senior Kara Larson and freshman Ashley Leister at No. 1; seniors Kelsey Christensen and Maggie Stock at No. 2; sophomore Kayla Grahn and eighth grader Kelly Hanson at No. 3.

"Grand Rapids singles players were strong, and I was very pleased that we could win three out of four singles matches," said Hanestad. "Our first and second doubles teams really dominated their matches. Our third doubles team also picked up a nice win for us and received some much-needed experience."

TRF 6, Grand Rapids 1

Singles - 1. Eryn Clow (TRF) def. Laura Fornerls 6-1, 6-1; 2. Stacia Kalinoski (TRF) def. Kimbra Kosak 4-6, 6-4, 6-2; 3. Katie Schommer (TRF) def. Katie Wellives 6-3, default; 4. Britt Prokop (GR) def. Rececca Delmore 6-1, 6-2.

Doubles - 1. Kara Larson-Ashley Leister (TRF) def. Mary-Bath Dokich-Meg Ferraro 6-2, 6-3. 2. Kalsey Christensen-Maggie Stock (TRF) def. Anne Hoolihan-Lindsay Keene 6-2, 6-1. 3. Kelly Hanson-Kayla Grahn (TRF) def. Michelle Moebakken-Ellen Levar 7-6, 2-6, 6-2.

Playing first singles, Thief River Falls senior Eryn Clow braced herself for a baseline return during Wednesday's season-opening high school girls tennis dual against Grand Rapids. Clow beat Laura Fornerls 6-1, 6-1 and the Prowlers defeated the Thunderhawks 6-1.

New coach leads TRF cross country squads

Led by first-year head coach Greg Ueland, the Thief River Falls boys and girls high school cross country teams will make their 2002 debut Tuesday at the Moorhead Invitational. The 9 a.m. event at the Moorhead Country Club is the only morning race of the year on the Prowlers' schedule.

Ueland, a Bemidji State University graduate, welcomes the opportunity to enter the coaching profession – a year after his father Ron left his long-time position as Marshall County Central boys basketball coach. "I'm really excited to be a head coach," said Ueland. "I'm really looking forward to working with this kids this year."

Seventeen boys, but only eight girls in grades 6-12 reported for first-week practice.

"We would like to have a few more girls," acknowledged Ueland, who succeeds Chad Persons. "There's a lot of potential for the varsity boys, and we have some strong younger runners."

Boys reporting for the start of preseason workouts were seniors Nathan Browning, Jon Walrath, Stefan Rundell, Colton Bergeron; juniors Tanner Harlow, Jesse Sich; freshmen Evan Jones, Nick Radeke; eighth graders Jeremy Sich, Isaac Kalinoski, Joel Lunsetter, Austin Kalsnes, Adam Sisler; seventh graders Jacob Engelstad, Jim Worker, Tony Hoard; and sixth grader Kolton Kilen.

Girls on the squad include seniors Chelsey Helgeland, Heather Bjerken; freshman Jade Kilen, eighth graders Michelle Noreen, Brooke Rundell; seventh grader Kathryn Wolrath; plus sixth graders Sara Sisler, and Chelsea Sorteberg.

The Prowlers' lone home appearance – the annual Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Invitational – will be held Monday, Sept. 30, at the Thief River Golf Club.

Trap winners are crowned Monday

■ City Individual Championships

Six winners were crowned Monday during the annual Thief River Trap Club City Individual Championships.

A perfect 50-straight made Howard Thorson the top shooter in the Class AA ranks, earning him the title of City Champion.

Class titles went to Darryl Cymbaluk, AA; Bob Bollesen, A; Dave Grovum, B; Bob Giauque, C, and Jerod Kolden, D.

Six shooters finished right behind Thorson with scores of 49 to create a shoot-off for the Class AA title. Cymbaluk won it with a 25-straight, while Rick Sovde shot a 23, Leroy Christianson 21, Dick Lambert 21, Peter Tri 19, and Karl Bjorkman 18.

A regulation round 49 also created four-way tie atop the Class A leader board. Bollesen and Conrad Strand both turned in a 24 in the tie-breaking round, while Ted Bettin dropped out at 21 and Grant Weintz had a 20. Bollesen edged Strand 22-21 in the second extra round.

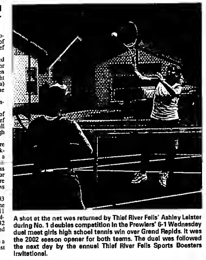
Bannie Joppru named football co-captain for Michigan Wolverines

One of the recently-named co-captains of the University of Michigan football team has Thief River Falls connections.

Coach Lloyd Carr announced Aug. 19 that linebacker Victor Hobson (Mt. Laurel, N.J.) has been named defensive captain and tight end Bennie Joppru (Minnetonka) was elected offensive captain of the 2002 Wolverines.



Both players are fifth year seniors and three-year lettermen.

Bennie Joppru is the son of Sheldon Joppru, a former Thief River Falls football/basketball standout and a 1968 Lincoln High School graduate.

"The Michigan captains are selected by their teammates, making it the single greatest honor a Michigan football player can receive," Carr said in a school press release. "Traditionally it is an honor bestowed on young men who are outstanding players and possess outstanding leadership qualities."

Bennie Joppru has played in 33 of the Wolverines' 36 games the past three seasons, including 11 career starts. He caught a personal-high 17 passes in 2001 and has 32 career receptions for 221 yards and three touchdowns.

Michigan opens its season with a nationally-televised game against Washington Saturday, Aug. 31.

A shot at the net was returned by Thief River Falls' Ashley Leister during No. 1 doubles competition in the Prowlers' 6-1 Wednesday duel meet girls high school tennis win over Grand Rapids. It was the 2002 season opener for both teams. The duel was followed the next day by the annual Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Invitational.

Kris Fontaine Memorial Golf Tournament is set Sept. 21 at Oak Knolls

Third annual Kris Fontaine Memorial Golf Tournament will be held Saturday, Sept. 21, at Oak Knolls Golf Course in Red Lake Falls.

An 18-hole best-ball four-person scramble format will be used. Entry fee is $25 per person. The event will be limited to 32 teams.

A shotgun start is scheduled for 10 a.m.

Proceeds will go to the Kris Fontaine Memorial Scholarship Fund. Non-golfers can contribute by contacting the Northwest Minnesota Foundation at 218-759-2057, or by taking part in a silent auction of sports memorabilia and golf equipment that will be held in conjunction with the tournament.

Proceeds will be used to fund scholarships granted to high school graduates who have shown excellence in the classroom and wish to continue their education.

Fontaine was an active participant in Red Lake Falls sports activities. He was an assistant golf and assistant hockey coach at Lafayette High School when he was killed in a traffic accident.

For additional information contact Oak Knolls at 218-253-4423 or Kraig Fontaine at 218-745-7646.

Tie-breaker decides TRF tourney champ

It took a pair of tie-breakers before a team champion could be named Thursday in the annual Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Invitational girls high school tennis tournament.

Crookston, Bemidji and Thief River Falls finished the day with 27 points each, while Roseau picked up 13, Grand Rapids 7, and East Grand Forks 5.

"I have never been involved in a tournament where two teams have tied, much less three," reported Thief River Falls coach Troy Hanestad.

The first criteria used to break the deadlock is head-to-head competition. But that didn't help since Thief River Falls beat Bemidji, Bemidji defeated Crookston and Crookston knocked off Thief River Falls – all by 5-2 scores.

That led to the second tie-breaker. "We had to count all of the total games lost by each player on the three teams," explained Hanestad.

Under that format the Pirates ended up with the fewest losses (98), followed by the Lumberjacks (106) and the Prowlers (108). Champion: Crookston.

Although the team title escaped the Prowlers, Hanestad was happy with what he saw. "I could not have been more pleased with the results," he said. "Individually, our girls placed very well, and the team result was excellent. Our girls are very focused on improving their games right now, and improvement takes risk. That risk-taking attitude may have cost us a few games here and there, and maybe even a first place team finish. But that attitude will make us the better team at the end of the year. Some of our girls are playing in positions that they have never been in before, and they handled the adversity very well."

Individually, Thief River Falls champions were Katie Schommer, second singles; Rebecca Delmore, fourth singles; and Maggie Stock-Ashley Leister, second doubles.

State Patrol to put brakes on speeders

Speeding is one of the leading contributors to traffic deaths and injuries on Minnesota roads – and two-thirds of all drivers admit to occasionally exceeding the maximum speed limit. To combat this dangerous driving activity, Minnesota State Patrol officers will carry out extra enforcement and education activities from September 7 through September 14.

Last year in Minnesota, driving at illegal or unsafe speeds was the leading contributing factor in 158 deaths and nearly 8,000 injuries. The cost of speeding-related crashes in Minnesota last year is estimated at more than $329 million.

"Speeding has become common and accepted behavior by many drivers," says Captain Dick Wittenberg. "Our goal is to slow down these speeders and re-adjust that attitude by using dedicated, enhanced enforcement."

Despite popular belief, the Minnesota Department of Public Safety (DPS) Office of Traffic Safety says speeding saves motorists very little time. For a 10-mile trip, traveling at 65 miles per hour versus 55 miles per hour will only save a driver one minute and 41 seconds. And those motorists who are stopped and fined by police for speeding definitely lose time.

The speed limits on Minnesota roads vary. Highways range from 55 to 70 miles per hour, county roads are mostly 55 and residential streets range from 25 to 45 miles per hour speed zones. Records indicate that roughly 80 percent of speeding-related fatalities occur on non-interstate highways.

In Pennington and Roseau counties, a first-time speeding offense can result in an $85 fine for driving 10 miles per hour over the posted speed limit.

The enforcement effort is a component of the Minnesota Department of Public Safety's (DPS) Safe & Sober campaign, which is funded by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA). The Safe & Sober program is designed to reduce the number of traffic crashes and injuries.

2001 Minnesota Speeding Facts:

- Illegal or unsafe speed was cited as a contributing factor in 144 fatal crashes resulting in 158 fatalities and nearly 7,700 personal injuries.
- Speed-related crashes cost Minnesota an estimated $329 million last year.
- Illegal or unsafe speed was cited in nearly 9,000 property damage crashes.
- Two-thirds of all drivers report they at least occasionally exceed what they consider to be the maximum safe speed on roads they regularly travel.
- Nearly 60 percent of all drivers report seeing speeding vehicles all or most of the time when they drive (residential streets and highways).
- In single vehicle crashes, illegal or unsafe speed is the contributing factor cited most often for younger drivers (under age 40).
- For drivers ages 15 to 34, illegal or unsafe speed is cited approximately in one fourth of all single-vehicle crashes.
- Speeding saves very little time – a driver on a 10-mile trip traveling at 65 miles per hour versus 55 miles per hour will only save one minute and 41 seconds.
- Alcohol is prevalent among drivers in fatal speed-related crashes; nationally about 42 percent of impaired drivers were speeding. Enforcement of speed laws gets more impaired drivers of the road.
- NHTSA research shows motorists wrongly believe speeding is not a great risk to safety or as serious as other traffic violations. In reality, the consequences of excessive speeding include: greater potential for loss of vehicle control; increased stopping distance; and increased degree of crash severity leading to more severe injuries.

Arctic Cat teams with Olah Racing

Fergus Falls, Minn.-based Olah Racing has signed a two-year agreement with Arctic Cat. The two companies will field professional and semi-professional race teams for the 2002-03 World Snowmobile Association (WSA) Snocross Circuit. The agreement represents the largest commitment to an independent race team in Arctic Cat's history.

"We're really excited that Arctic Cat is partnering with Olah Racing," said Arctic Cat race director Brian Sturgeon. "With Olah Racing's expertise, top racers and committed sponsors, their team is an immediate force in snocross competition."

Olah Racing has built an impressive record in snowmobile racing. In 2001, Olah fielded two teams with 16 combined World Championship Titles and 28 World Records. The teams' major wins include the WSA Triple Crown Championship and back-to-back World Championship Titles in Drag Racing.

Team owner Brad Olah said, "I'm extremely pleased to be associated with Arctic Cat. They lead the industry in technology."

The 2002 Olah Racing Professional Team includes crew chief Steve Thorsen and chief mechanic Dean Schwarzwalter. Both are former world champions. Pro drivers are Kent Ipsen and T.J. Gulla.

"These guys are not only talented, but also dedicated and passionate about the sport, which is what it takes to win," Olah said.

Ipsen said, "After taking a year off, I'm back to 110 percent and anxious to start racing again. I'm excited to be part of the Olah Racing Team."

Gulla echoed his teammate's sentiments, "I'm very excited to be [illegible] with Arctic Cat."

Olah Racing's Semi-Professional Team will include drivers Robbie Malinoski and Ryan Simons. Garth Gordon will serve as crew chief, and Wayne Hoffman will serve as chief mechanic. Gordon and Hoffman have been part of 14 World Championship teams. As crew chief in 2001, Gordon took first and second in the Eagle River World Championship.

In addition to Arctic Cat, other team sponsors for the 2002-03 season include Chevrolet, Scott USA, Snap-On, Mikuni America Corporation, Camoplast, V-Force, Woody's and Fox Racing Gear.

MDA certifies local farm risk management consultant

Recently, 14 people became Minnesota Certified Farm Risk Management Consultants (MCFRMC), increasing the total number of Minnesota certified consultants to 73. The Minnesota Department of Agriculture (MDA) certifies the consultants. A local farm risk management consultant was one of those who were certified.

Greg Dvergsten of Northland Community and Technical College of Thief River Falls recently received the certification.

The MDA offers the farm risk management program to help farmers deal with the risks that may come up when they make business decisions for their farm.

One key element of the MDA's risk management program is its effort to create a network of certified risk management consultants around the state. These experts can provide Minnesota farmers with counseling tailored to their specific needs.

The professionals have been trained through a risk management program designed by the MDA and the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities Farm Business Management program. The program was modeled after the highly successful Certified Financial Planner program used in the personal financial planning business. MDA Risk Management Specialist David Bullock said the MCFRMC program is the first of its kind in the country.

"The MCFRMC designation is a brand label that Minnesota's farm families can trust," Bullock said. "We are extremely proud of the accomplishments of these 14 people. To take 40 hours out of their busy schedules and complete the rigorous requirements of this program is a testament to their dedication to helping Minnesota's farm families."

The consultants met several requirements to become certified. They attended a 40-hour course covering the basics of farm risk management planning, including risk and statistical concepts; determining farm risk carrying capacity; managing production risk; managing market risk; managing personal, legal and regulatory risks and managing financial risks. They also assembled a complete risk management plan for a case-study farm and signed a 12-point Code of Ethics that holds them to a high standard in the industry. Moreover, they achieved a score of 70 percent or higher on a comprehensive final exam.

The individuals certified under the program must meet a continuing education requirement of 30 hours every two years in order to maintain their certification.

Companies or groups that are interested in scheduling a session of the 40-hour Basic Certification Course for their personnel can contact David Bullock, MDA Risk Management Specialist, at (651) 284-3705 or by email at David.Bullock@state.mn.us.

Forum being planned for building Minnesota trails

Hey, take a hike! Many people are doing just that these days, as well as biking and rollerblading. As the interest in these forms of outdoor recreation continues to build, so does the desire for new trails, according to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

Although there is a heavy demand for trails, the process of designing and constructing a trail can be fraught with pitfalls, according to Dave Wolff, who is responsible for overseeing DNR trail development and maintenance in southern Minnesota.

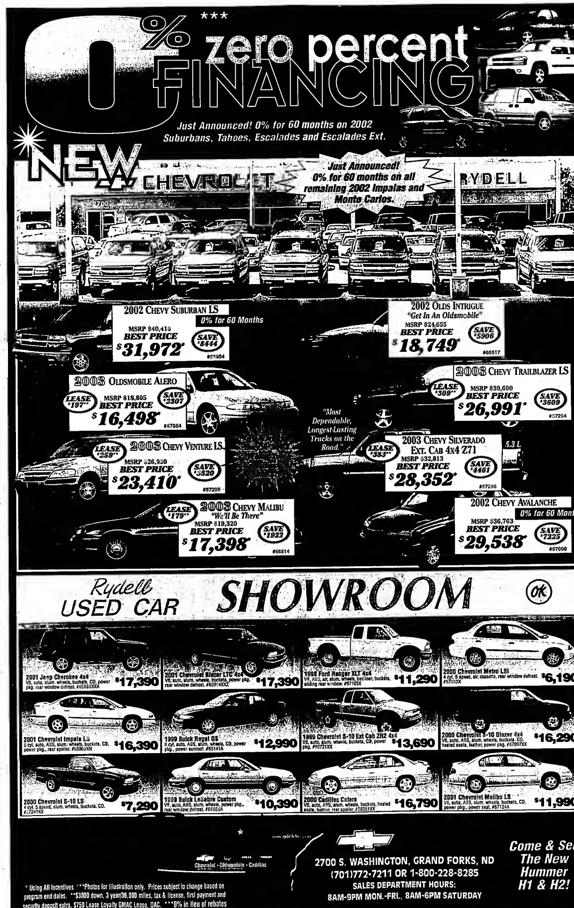
To educate would-be trail enthusiasts on the nuts and bolts of trail building, a workshop has been scheduled for Sept. 16 at Jackpot Junction near Morton. The event is sponsored by the DNR, Minnesota Office of Tourism and Minnesota Department of Transportation, along with the Region Nine, Upper Minnesota Valley and Southwest regional development commissions.

"There is much more to seeing a trail idea become a reality than meets the eye," Wolff said. "If the idea is not well thought out, a lot of things can go wrong to derail it."

Too often, Wolff said, a group decides a trail would be a good thing for their area and immediately begins to focus all their time and effort on securing the necessary funding.

"The fact is, funding is often the easiest part of the whole process," Wolff said. "The hard part is determining where the trail should go and getting the public to support it."

Mark Lindquist, a DNR Southern Region planner, said an important first step is to develop an appropriate vision for the trail by asking a series of questions. What is the purpose for this trail? Who will use it? Who will support it and who will oppose it?



"A trail can be a good thing for local communities," Lindquist said, "but they also require lots of planning and plain, hard work."

Wolf said one of the biggest obstacles to trail development is the lack of early and open dialog with private landowners. People who live along a proposed trail might have legitimate concerns about the project that, if not dealt with promptly, can become major roadblocks.

"It is really important that these people be involved in the process from the very beginning," Wolff said. "We want to provide conference participants with some understanding of how to work with people to address their concerns.

"Environmental issues, governmental policies and regulations must also be addressed," Wolff said. "This workshop is designed to provide participants with a road map that will help them get from A to Z in planning and building a recreational trail."

For more information or to register, contact Lindquist at mark.lindquist@dnr.state.mn.us, or telephone 507-359-6034.

Repairing our wrecks keeps The Shop busy

Tony Brousa primes a bumper in tha front lot of Tha Shop in Thief River Falls. Tony is the cousin of Jeff Brouse, who has ownad and operoted Tha Shop since 1991.

turned the St. Hilaire salvage yard into what they now call B&B Auto Recycling.

Jeff says it has been a great investment for him and The Shop. When a car comes in to him, he often finds the parts he needs at B&B, and ultimately buys them from himself. It works the same if he buys a car at an auction to fix up, then decides he can't work with it, he'll sell it to B&B, again buying from himself.

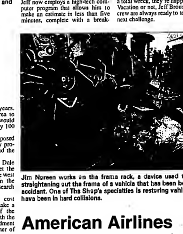
Besides his investment in the salvage yard, Jeff's business has grown so much in the past few years that he's had to make some additions.

Jeff has rented the lot across from The Shop from the railroad company. He puts cars that are for sale and cars that are waiting to be worked on in the lot. It gives him a lot of extra space, which is a good thing because his shop sits on a lot no bigger than an average home's yard.

He also uses the lot to store his roll-back and tow trucks, another new addition to the services The Shop provides. They offer 24-hour towing and wrecker service. Jeff says he'll take a job at any time of day, including the middle of the night. He doesn't mind the occasional 3 a.m. awakenings, though, because he's gaining a wider customer base.

Jeff recently built a new storage facility at his home for the towing and wrecker service. He will store towed vehicles there and in the winter, the tow trucks will also be stored inside.

In the past, writing estimates for customers would take a while, but Jeff now employs a high-tech computer program that allows him to make an estimate in less than five minutes, complete with a breakdown of all costs. He had to become certified by ADP to use the program and says he'd never go back to the old method of writing up estimates. It saves him tremendous amounts of time and provides a means of keeping track of all customers and the work they've done.



In addition to the optimal computer system, The Shop employs all the industry's top-notch tools. Since they specialize in repairing collisions, Jeff insists on using only the best tools, such as the new frame rack which is used to straighten the vehicles' frames.

The crew works as a team to restore the vehicles, and it usually takes them about one week per vehicle. Jeff says he'll pull an employee off the job if a customer stops in for some minor repairs. Excellent customer service is a priority at The Shop and Jeff believes it is what brings him repeat business. "Be good to your customers and they will always come back," he says.

Jeff also credits his ability to prioritize his finances as a vital part of his success. He says he always pays the bills before he pays himself. "Sometimes it isn't much, and in the beginning it wasn't anything," but he had the right mind to keep on top of his expenses nevertheless.

Treating customers fairly and without reserve is the sort of practice that has brought Jeff so much success in a business that garners a lot of tough competition. "Do quality work and treat your customer fairly, and it'll all work out."

Whether a vehicle needs something as simple as fixing a door handle or as complex as completely restoring what was once considered a total wreck, they're happy to do it. Vacation or not, Jeff Brouse and his crew are always ready to take on the next challenge.

Jim Noreen works on tha frame rack, a davice used to aid in straightaning out tha frame of a vahicle that has been bent in an accidant. Ona of Tha Shop's specialties is restoring vahicles that hava been in hard collisions.

impoundment.

Engineers from JOR Engineering, Inc. and HDR Engineering, Inc. developed an operating plan for the impoundment. They propose several changes, which include raising the structure near the southern outlet, installing a gate at the southern outlet and constructing a secondary ungated spillway. The secondary ungated spillway would be constructed by cutting a notch out of the middle of the existing emergency spillway.

Nate Dalager, a project engineer for HDR Engineering, said, "Under normal conditions, the gates will shut down at seven inches. Under extreme conditions, water will be released sooner and more often to the west."

Dalager remarked, "We're making a good thing better. Ultimately, it should benefit all concerned."

If the impoundment was to be operated in its current state, Dalager estimated the area south of the impoundment would only be protected for five to ten years. According to Dalager, the area to the west of the impoundment would be protected for approximately 100 years.

However, he noted the proposed modifications would probably protect the west for 90 years and the south for 100 years.

RLWD Board President Dale Nelson said, "We want to get the protection for the people in the west as well as for the people in the south. We've done a lot of research to make it fair both ways."

The project would cost $178,500. The board will make a decision this September. If the board decides to go ahead with the operating plan, the impoundment would be online in the summer of 2003.

Nelson said, "We need to meet the criteria the engineers set. Legally, we can't operate the gates right now because we're in violation of state law."

He continued, "The Red Lake Watershed District has to make a sound water management decision."

ranked as one of the top in the United States because of the variety of aircraft it has and because of the hands-on training it offers.

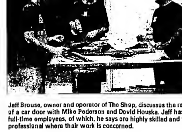
Plans to procure the aircraft began more than a year ago, after American Airlines announced it would retire the 727s. At that time President Gundersan contacted the airline and soon thereafter the College and American began working on details and arrangements for the gift.

Once the aircraft arrives it will be positioned near the Swenson Hangar of the Airport Campus. The aircraft will be used for a variety of classes, including: hydraulics and landing gear, environmental systems, assembly and rigging, turbine engine maintenance, fire protection and troubleshooting.

Ron Braaten, director of Northland's Aviation program, is excited about the educational opportunities this gift presents. "Our students will be able to train for a career with the exact technology that is being used in the aviation maintenance field today. They will be able to develop skills to graduate from Northland and be ready for the job market," Braaten said.

The Aviation program at Northland currently has 100 students enrolled. Many students complete their diploma in Aviation Maintenance Technology at Northland and continue their studies in Aviation Management, or other areas, at accredited four-year institutions. A majority of graduates complete their studies and enter the workforce, most recently with corporate airlines, which have seen steady growth in hiring.

More information on Northland's Aviation program can be found at www.northland.cc.mn.us, or by calling 1-800-959-6282.



Northland Community and Technical College is a comprehensive college offering a quality technical and liberal arts education since 1949. One- and two-year degrees, transfer programs and diploma certification are available in 75 majors; as well as workforce training and continuing education programs. Visit the college at www.northland.cc.mn.us. NCTC is an equal opportunity educator and employer.

Recall issued in June suddenly makes news

said between 50 and 60 Arctic Cat ATVs have been serviced by the dealer since the recall.

Registered owners were notified about this recall by mail in June. If, however, would like to check if their ATV is among the models recalled, they should have their ATV's model name and 13-digit model number available when they call or visit the firm's Web site (www.arctic-cat.com) to determine if an ATV is included in the recall. The model name is located on the front of the ATVs, just below the speedometer. The model number is included in the registration materials received at the time of the purchase. Consumers can also call Arctic Cat at 1-800-210-5941 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. CT Monday through Friday.

Cloud said tourists usually ask about the parks and Pioneer Village.

Abdul Channna, manager of the Best Western, attributes the lower tourism rates to the attacks and lack of snow this past winter.

Similarly, C'Mon Inn Manager Wendy DeFring said the lack of snow translated into fewer guests at that motel. She said, "We were down quite a bit the first four months of the year."

Chamber of Commerce President Julie Olson said, "Lodging tax figures in Thief River Falls have been down slightly in the first two quarters of 2002. This downward slope could be due to many factors, including the fact that there are now more motel rooms in the Thief River Falls area that are taking a cut out of the pie."

Despite these figures, at least one area motel saw an increase in hotel guests. David Jansen, who is one of the managers at the T-59 Motel, said business has been better this year at the motel. He said more people are traveling, and most are staying at the motel one or two nights.

More guests have also stayed at the Thief River Falls Tourist Park than in previous years. "Comparing to other years, we've exceeded our availability," said Parks and Recreation Director Madelyn Vigen, who manages the park. "We have a lot of new people coming to Thief River Falls."

Vigen also noted more people are inquiring about the city, and more guests are young families. In the past, the park's guests were usually retired tourists. She thinks an increased number of young families are staying at the park because they are attracted to the new playground and renovations at Hartz Park. Vigen also believes more guests are staying at the park because tourists are not traveling as far as they may have in the past.

In addition to motels, tourism impacts other types of businesses. Bergman said, "Even the local shoe store benefits from tourism."

Olson agreed. "Studies indicate that each tourism dollar spent in a community turns over at least three to four times. When those dollars turn, the dollars go from one business to another in a community so that those businesses can purchase more goods, provide more services and maintain or increase their payrolls."

Bergman added, "Communities are accepting that tourism is needed to keep a healthy economy. Communities are using their resources more effectively to draw visitors."

An upcoming survey is one way in which communities are more effectively using their resources. In an effort to draw more visitors, a survey will be administered by the University of Minnesota Tourism Center later this year. The year-long survey will cover 29 northwestern counties to determine visitors' length of stay in that region, their lodging locations and their spending habits. The University of Minnesota, Minnesota Office of Tourism, Northwest Regional Partnership, Northwest Regional Development Committee and the Northwest Minnesota Foundation are sponsoring the survey along with several cities, including Thief River Falls, Roseau and Warroad, among others. The survey will be completed in December 2003.

Tourists have varying reasons for visiting the area. "We're extremely lucky to have Arctic Cat," said Bergman. "Customers have brand loyalty and want to see where the machine is made." Bergman added, "With things like hunting, you get a lot of visitation." He also noted the casino, especially with its new water park, draws a considerable amount of tourists. Bergman believes the completion of the Engelstad Arena will draw tourists to Thief River Falls as well.

Even though summer is almost over, several upcoming events will bring tourists to the area. Dxcart Days is held in Crookston from August 15-17, and Heritage Days will be held in East Grand Forks from August 17-18. September 14 marks the Great American Block Party in Thief River Falls.

According to the MOT website, most tourists who visit Minnesota are from Minnesota or other Midwest states. The MOT website can be accessed at www.exploreminnesota.com.

MN Child support collections reach record $553 million

The state and Minnesota counties collected $553 million in child support payments in state fiscal year 2002, which ended June 30, the Department of Human Services (DHS) announced. This is a six percent, or $34 million, increase from 2001.

"Thanks to the combined efforts of county support workers, employers and parents, we continue to be a national leader in child support collections," said Jeanette Taylor Jones, DHS' assistant commissioner for Economic and Community Supports. "This record amount of support helps thousands of families provide financially for their children and assists many families in moving or staying off welfare."

Minnesota historically ranks first among the states in collections per case, collecting $2,162 per case compared with the national average of $1,095. About 268,400 children, receive child support services through Minnesota county offices.

The state and county child support offices use a number of tools to locate parents, and enforce and collect child support, according to Wayland Campbell, director of the DHS Child Support Enforcement Division. These include requiring employers to report new hires, suspending the driver's and occupational licenses of parents who fail to pay support, intercepting state and federal income tax refunds, and using income withholding. About 71 percent – $395 million – of Minnesota's 2002 collections were received through withholding, in which employers withhold child support from a parent's paycheck and send it to the state payment center.

Child support services are available to all parents and families needing assistance through county human service offices.

County Commissioners guarantee loan to keep River Ridge Dairy open

Kittson County - In an effort to keep River Ridge Dairy afloat, Kittson County Commissioners agreed to guarantee up to $250,000 on a bank loan to the facility.

The actual bank loan is still pending, according to Kittson County Economic Developer Mike Troy.

Troy said management of the dairy met with a group of banks and local entities last week to try and develop a loan pool for the dairy.

He said they are trying to establish a loan of between $450,000 and $700,000 to give emergency working capital to the dairy.

The county's participation was essential in gaining attention from the loan pool. - Kittson County Enterprise, August 28, 2002, by Cindy Stewart

RLF school board looking at referendum in November

Red Lake Falls - The pairing and sharing between the Plummer and Oklee school districts means extra sparsity funding for the Red Lake Falls School District. (Sparsity aid is based on the distance between high schools. When Oklee and Plummer paired and moved the high school to Oklee, Thief River Falls became the closest high school, increasing the distance between schools.)

This increase in funding will help the Red Lake Falls School District's budget immediately, reported superintendent Al Foley at last week's school board meeting.

However, with declining enrollment, the school will need to generate more revenue in the future. - Red Lake Falls Gazette, August 28, 2002, by Jody Kenfield

City Council hikes support to Godel Library in '03 budget

Warren - In a 40-minute meeting Tuesday night, Warren City Council approved a 60.2 percent catchup increase in cash support for Dodel Memorial Library and worried about electrical outages and getting enough lifeguards to maintain swimming pool operations in future years.

Councilmember John Carlson, reporting for the Finance Committee, said a meeting was held with representatives of Northwest Regional Library and its Warren branch, Godel Memorial Library. He said library representatives presented all the financial support information from other cities in the Northwest system the committee had requested. Northwest Regional Library is headquartered in Thief River Falls and has branches in Hallock, Roseau, Warroad, Greenbush, Red Lake Falls and Warren.

Library representatives appeared at the August 13 city council meeting to ask for an increase in support from the City of Warren, which has provided $5,150 per year at least as far back as 1994, said Carlson. He said the committee's recommendation was to increase the contribution for 2003 to $8,250 and peg future contributions to cost of living. After brief discussion, the council approved a motion to that effect. - Warren Sheaf, August 28, 2002

by David Hill
Editor

Outstretched arms pointing to the southwest directed everyone's attention to a light on the horizon. The American Airlines Boeing 727-200 eventually came into focus, made a low turn over the airport, swung out over the City of Thief River Falls and came in for a landing at the airport.

It may have been the last flight for this American Airlines Boeing 727-200, but it's career is far from over.

American Airlines donated the 727-200 to Northland Community and Technical College where it will be used by students enrolled in the college's aviation maintenance program.

"This is a big day for us. It's a beautiful day," said Dr. Drley Gunderson, president of Northland Community and Technical College. Gunderson added that a blizzard could be raging outside and it would still be a beautiful day.

Gunderson thanked American Airlines and all of the many individuals who helped bring the airplane to the college. He thanked all the people who came before him and worked on this project and said it serves as an example of their commitment to the college.

During the formal acceptance after the plane landed, American Airlines Capt. Kimball Stone said it was an honor and a privilege to donate this aircraft to such a fine institution.

The Boeing 727-200 was built in 1977. It will be the only aircraft in the College's fleet that is flyable. Despite being 25-years-old, the jet has up-to-date avionics and engines. It was retired in May of 2002. It will join the college's fleet of more than 30 aircraft, including a Boeing 727-100 donated in 1991, three Douglas DC-9s, and a variety of twin- and single-engine planes and helicopters.

Ryan DeGroot, student senate representative and student from Winnipeg, Manitoba, said this donation will really give students the experience they need.

But it was Ron Braaten, aviation program director, who commented on the true nature of the donation when he said, "It may be this aircraft's last flight, but it's starting a new career here."

The Moving Wall visits G.F.

The Moving Wall stirs emotions

Even after 18 years the half-size replica of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Wall still draws a somber and reflective crowd.

Diane Blair, president of the East Grand Forks Chamber of Commerce, said they expecting large crowds at The Moving Wall, which will be on display from August 30 until September 5 at the Ralph Engelstad Plaza on North Columbia Road in Grand Forks.

Blair said the fact that it's Labor Day weekend poses some drawbacks, but pros as well, especially because it's near the anniversary of September 11.

A small army of volunteers completed putting up the replica of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Wall Thursday morning. The opening ceremony will take place at 8 p.m. on Friday, August 30. Blair said the memorial will be open 24-hours a day thereafter with ceremonies held every night at 7:30 p.m.

In addition to the daily ceremonies at 7:30 p.m., reveille will be played at 6:30 a.m., retreat at 4 p.m., and Taps will follow every ceremony in the evening.

Steven Jacobson of the Red Cross and John Hanson, State Junior Vice Commander, for the North Dakota VFW, were among tha many volunteers helping set up The Wall. Volunteers included representatives of several veterans organizations in North Dakota and Minnesota, soldiers from the Air Force Base in Grand Forks, and from the North Dakota National Guard.

Hanson said he's looking forward to the opening ceremony. He added that a lot of school children will be attending the ceremonies, which will include speakers. Hanson also pointed to the flags

Thursday morning, the finishing touches were being put to The Moving Wall, a half-size replica of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Wall. The Wall is in Grand Forks at the Ralph Engelstad Plaza on North Columbia Road from August 30 until September 5. The Wall will be open 24 hours a day.

NCTC Student Senate President Evan Barnett cuts the ribbon at NCTC's dedication ceremony for the second phase of its college consolidation project on Thursday.

NCTC dedicates new additions

Following the $6 million second phase of its renovation project, Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) held a dedication ceremony on Thursday. Phase II added 12,000 square feet of new space and 25,000 square feet of remodeled space. The second phase included three science laboratories, 10 classrooms, a Learning Resource Center, a library, an art gallery, faculty offices, a fitness center and entrances and atriums for the library and science wing. The total cost of both phases was approximately $17 million.

College president Dr. Drley Gunderson said, "It represents the consolidation of two colleges. They're really one college now."

He continued, "This is a culmination of a lot of people's efforts."

The college presented plaques to several individuals and entities in honor of the support they have shown to the college. Plaques were presented to the city of Thief River Falls, School District 564, State Senator LeRoy Stumpf, State Senator Roger Moe, State Representative Tim Finseth and former State Representative Wally Sparby.

Gunderson also recognized the efforts of the Dedication Ceremony Committee, architectural design team and State Representative Maxine Penas.

Stumpf said, "It is a great honor and pleasure to dedicate this facility because many people had these dreams." He also read a letter from Moe, who was unable to attend the ceremony.

Business goes to the dogs at Tara's Pet Grooming

This is the fifth part in a series of eight feature stories that focus on the Northern Watch region's Young Business Leaders.

by Jenny Nicholson
Reporter

They say in order to love what you do, do what you love. Sometimes that's easier said than done, but for Tara Nicholson, doing what you love means learning a new skill.

In 1994, Tara, a native of Thief River Falls, decided she'd had enough of corporate America, packed up her desk and went back to school.

Ever since she can remember, she's had a passion for animals of all kinds and always wanted to work with them. After falling into the pattern of going to work in an office day after day, she needed a change. She wanted to become a pet groomer.

She enrolled in classes at Julie's Master Grooming in Minneapolis. There she learned hands-on techniques from some of the area's best pet groomers. During the last month of her education, she interned at a shop called 4 Paws In Fridley.

The 4 Paws staff was impressed with her skills and after her graduation in May of 1995, they hired her as a professional pet groomer. Later, she was also hired at All About Pets in Golden Valley. She worked part-time at both shops and eventually went full-time at All About Pets.

About a year later, she was offered the opportunity to work at Shaggy Dog in Maple Grove. Tara refined her skills there and quickly became one of the shop's most requested groomers.

After four years at Shaggy Dog, Tara decided she wanted to expand out on her own. She'd been hearing from people that Thief River Falls, her hometown, was in dire need of a pet groomer. There were very limited choices here and most people had to travel all the way to Grand Forks to get their dogs groomed.

Tara thought this may be the

Here's a really old recipe that uses fresh peaches – I think there are still some in the stores (I bet it is good with apples too and there'll soon be plenty of those):

PEACH LUSCIOUS

8 cups peeled, sliced peaches (about 6 large peaches)
1 cup flour
1 cup brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter

Place peaches in a buttered 2 quart casserole about 3 inches deep.

Mix flour, sugar and salt together. Add butter and cut with pastry blender or 2 knives as for pie crust. Sprinkle over the peaches.

Bake at 350 degrees until topping is browned and peaches are cooked through and bubbling all over, 45 minutes to an hour. Serve with whipped cream or ice cream, if desired.

Time to get ready to make good breakfasts for the kids before they go to school. Here's one you might like to try:

BUTTERMILK PANCAKES

2 cups buttermilk
2 eggs
1-1/2 cups flour
3/4 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
2 tablespoons melted butter

Beat buttermilk and eggs. Mix flour, soda, baking powder and salt. Add butter and then add to buttermilk/egg mixture, mixing with a spoon. Beat all with mixer.

Fry on electric griddle at 375 degrees.

Just in case the kids want to fix breakfast, here is a recipe that is plenty easy for them (or for you if you just can't function first thing in the morning):

BEST QUICK PANCAKES

1 cup flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1 large egg, lightly beaten
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons unsalted butter, melted
1/2 teaspoon of butter for griddle

Heat griddle to 375 degrees (or use a frying pan over medium-high heat).

Whisk flour, baking powder, salt and sugar in bowl. Add egg, milk and 2 tablespoons butter and whisk to combine. Batter should have small to medium lumps.

Brush butter onto griddle or pan. Pour pancake batter in pools two inches apart. Flip after about 2-1/2 minutes, when they have bubbles on top and are slightly dry around the edges and cook until golden, another minute or so.

Use some of your (or your neighbors') fresh zucchini to make these muffins for breakfast – they're delicious – and nourishing too:

ZUCCHINI GEM MUFFINS

3/4 cup flour
1/4 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1 egg
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup oil
1 cup grated zucchini
1/4 cup raisins
1/4 cup walnuts

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Sift flour, soda, baking powder, salt and cinnamon.

In separate bowl, beat egg, sugar and oil until blended. Add zucchini, raisins and nuts, stirring well. Stir in dry ingredients, mixing just until dry ingredients are moistened.

Fill lined muffin cups 2/3 full with batter and bake about 20-25 minutes until toothpick comes out clean.

If you have this bread on hand, you can make a special breakfast with lovely homemade toast or even French toast. It is a soft, slightly sweet bread that is just perfect for those who want white bread, white bread and only white bread:

AMISH WHITE BREAD

1 cup warm water
1/3 cup white sugar
2-1/4 teaspoons (1 package) active dry yeast
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 cup oil
3 cups bread flour

In large bowl, dissolve sugar in warm water and stir in yeast. Allow to proof until yeast is a creamy foam.

Mix salt and oil into the yeast. Mix in flour, one cup at a time. Knead on lightly floured surface until smooth. Place in oiled bowl and turn to coat. Cover with a damp cloth and allow to rise in warm place until doubled, about 1 hour.

Punch dough down. Knead for a few minutes and then form into a ball. Let rest 5-10 minutes, then shape into loaf and place in well-greased or oiled loaf pan. Allow to rise about 30 minutes, until it is at least 1 inch above pan.

Bake at 350 degrees for about 30 minutes, until brown and it sounds hollow when tapped with knuckle.

(This recipe works well made in the bread machine. I put the ingredients in my bread machine according to its directions and set it for the dough cycle, then form into a ball, etc. The bread will rise more as it bakes, but mine rises very high during the 30 minutes of rising in the pan too. It's a "towering" loaf.)

Northland Community and Technical College President Dr. Orlay Gundarson speaks to the crowd at the college's dedication ceremony on Thursday.

Minnesota State Colleges and Universities, was also present at the ceremony. He said, "We're thankful for the strong support Minnesota State Colleges and Universities and Northland Community and Technical College receive from the state legislature, in particular Senator Stumpf."

Additionally, Faculty President Kim Philipp spoke at the ceremony. Philipp, who is a former Thief River Falls Technical College and Northland student, said, "When I think back and look at it now, all I can say is 'Whoa.' It's about tearing some walls down and adding some walls." She continued, "It rivals, if not exceeds, any other two-year technical college in the state. I'm proud to teach here."

The ceremony also included the dedication of the college's Percent for Art Project, which teamed artist Kinji Akagawa with several faculty and staff as well as over 20 students. The artwork is entitled "Northern Lights and Blue Wave," and it is located inside and outside the Student Commons. The names of those who worked on the project are inscribed on a plaque, which will be permanently displayed near the project. About the experience, Akagawa said, "(Artists) are usually behind the scenes, like the architects and like the poets. This occasion is very, very special for me. I'm so glad as a public artist that I could've participated in this community."

Wishful Thinking
When you run your display advertising in the Yellow Pages, you'll do a lot of wishful thinking.
You'll hope people will see your ad on a regular basis. But the Yellow Pages are closed 90 percent of the time. And 67 percent of adults use the Yellow Pages less than twice a week.
You'll hope your customers will see your ad first. But they'll probably see your competitor's ads.
You'll wish you could advertise your prices. Or change your ad more than once a year. But you can't.
And when you figure the annual cost of your Yellow Pages advertising, you'll wish you had your ad run in the newspaper instead.
When people turn to their paper, they turn there with interest. Which means that's where your advertising message needs to be.
With all the choices available, it's difficult deciding how best to advertise your business. But everything becomes a little simpler when you remember one rule.
You Gotta Be In The Paper.

Linda Williams, an escort who travels with The Moving Wall, explains the procedure for obtaining "rubbings" from The Wall to Pete Peters of the Grand Forks VFW, who will be among the many volunteers providing assistance at The Wall while it is in Grand Forks. Christian Brothers Hockey, a family tradition of innovation

For Roger and Bill Christian, growing up in Warroad and having a father who was a carpenter gave way to the great successes they would one day achieve.

In 1960, the brothers were selected to play on the United States hockey team at the Winter Olympics. They ended up leading the team to its first ever gold medal victory.

The Christian brothers found themselves traveling quite a bit as the family construction business took them as far as North Dakota and Montana. They were getting tired of being away from their families for such long periods of time.

In 1964, Roger's brother-in-law, Hal Bakke, came up with an idea for a business. He suggested that with the brothers' woodworking skills and his business sense, the three of them should make hockey sticks.

They went to the bank and signed for $1,000 to become a corporation. Hal then went out and sold stock for the company to generate enough money to start their operation.

Christian Brothers Incorporated started out in the vacant Lake of the Woods Dairy building in downtown Warroad. The men worked many long hours, keeping their day jobs, to manufacture the hockey sticks.

In 1965, the brothers took on one last challenge with the U.S. team as they traveled to Finland to play in the World Tournament. They brought their own sticks, which they say were experimental at the time, but caused quite a buzz, nevertheless.

For the next five years, Roger, Bill and Hal worked hours upon hours, sometimes late into the night, when finally their hard work paid off - they made a profit. Each of them received a check for $1,700. In April, 1969, Roger and Bill went on the payroll and Hal came on full-time later that year in July. The company started selling their stock "over-the-counter," and saw tremendous growth.

With the money their stock sales generated, they were able to construct a new building which would be used to house new equipment.

As time progressed and the business starting booming, the plant eventually grew to three times its original size. Additional warehouses and facilities were also built along the way.

Christian Brothers' ability to innovate and use technology played a key role on their way to becoming one of the country's leading manufacturers of hockey sticks.

In 1966, they became the first company in North America to introduce the 21-ply aircraft veneer birch laminated handle. They called the stick the "Tiger" and they couldn't make enough of them.

In 1983, Christian Brothers introduced the first aluminum handle. A company called Easton, which specialized in aluminum arrows, had approached the Christians with the idea and the stick became known as the "Easton 7001" with the Christian name on it.

Another innovation, the "Slapsock," which puts fiberglass around the blade, was Bill's idea. Christian Brothers also introduced such items as the "Super Stick," the "Puck Master," the "Diamond Design" and the "Extra Blade." All have helped push Christian Brothers to the top of the industry.

In 1984, Bill Christian was inducted into the U.S. Hockey Hall of Fame. Shortly after, in 1989, Roger Christian was also inducted.

The Christian brothers, along with Hal Bakke, had all remained in their prospective roles that led Christian Brothers Inc. to its success. This past August, a company called Platinum Group acquired the company. As Platinum Group takes over management of the business, Roger and Hal have decided to retire. Bill will remain as the vice president of product development and promotion. His son, Dave, will become the vice president of hockey operations and Roger's son, Rick, is taking over as plant manager.

While Christian Brothers remains one of the top selling brands in the world of hockey sticks, they undergo some major changes. Changes for the good. Bill says it's been a long haul for the three original owners of the company, but a good one at that.

Christian Brothers Hockey acquired by Platinum Group

Christian Brothers Hockey, the hockey stick manufacturer founded in 1964 by two Olympic gold medalists (1960), has been acquired by Platinum Group, an investment and management firm based in Eden Prairie. Minnesota Investment Network, an equity fund specializing in financing rural Minnesota companies, also played a key role in the acquisition. The acquisition enables two former owners, Hal Bakke and Roger Christian, to retire and ushers in a new generation of Christian family on the management team. Terms were not disclosed.

One of the company's original owners, Bill Christian, remains as vice president of product development and promotion. He leads an aggressive R&D effort for new products under the Christian Brothers and Northland brand names.

Thomas G. Slaird, a partner of Platinum Group and seasoned hockey enthusiast, is the company's new chief executive officer. He is a 25-year veteran of managing companies and leading them through transition, and attended Harvard Business school.

"The plant will remain here in Hockeytown USA and all current employees are being retained," said Slaird. "We expect to add employees as revenues grow and new products are developed, including a state-of-the-art stick to be announced within the year."

Bill Christian's son, Dave Christian, joins the new management team to lead an effort to increase the company's presence in amateur and professional markets. Like his father and Uncle Roger, Dave Christian was a member of a gold medal-winning U.S. Olympic team (1980). He played in the National Hockey League for 15 years.

Rick Christian has succeeded his father, Roger, as plant manager. Janet Olson, a long-time Christian Brothers' office manager, continues directing day-to-day operations.

"I'm happy to be staying with the company and like the commitment and resources Platinum is bringing to the business," said Bill Christian. "Christian Brothers has an exciting future, especially with the increased support, promotion and new products in process."

Founded in 1980, Platinum Group leads companies through transitions by providing hands-on strategic, operational and financial management to restore, create and manage value within companies. For more information, visit www.itsaboutvalue.com.

Nostradamus Revisited
It's going to be an early fall.

I say that every year about this time, regardless of whether the statement holds any real merit or not. I'm blessed with a relatively poor memory (what did I have for dinner last night?), which allows me to make the same sweeping generalizations based on the exact same misinformation that led me to make them last year. You remember the early fall of last year, of course, when we were still boat fishing in the Rainy River on the 20th of December watching migratory ducks and geese V their way south overhead. Perhaps I allow too much of my own personal agenda to enter into this pattern of natural prognostication. In other words, maybe what I want to happen influences the way I see things happening. Consider the signs and the motivations.

The observation: It's going to be an early fall- the backyard birds are ravenous at the thistle and sunflower feeders. The motivation: Well of course they're ravenous there. They've been that way all summer. Why shouldn't they be? It's clean, easily available forage. Left to their own devices, those Goldfinches would have to be digging and scratching all day for some dirty bugs and moldy buds. Factor in that all this food is being provided at my expense. With some of those seeds going for $3 a pound it would almost make better sense to fill the feeders with a lean burger and attract raptors instead. Of course I'm going to look at those fat finches and empty feeders and predict an early fall. I can't afford them freeloading any longer.

The observation: It's going to be an early fall- the Pelicans are leaving already. The motivation: They always leave early anyway. Pelicans are the biggest sissies of the bird world, heading south even before the seasonal retirement crowd exodus of Labor Day. The only ones you see left now are not going anywhere, too injured or aged to fly and therefore consigned to a grisly demise in the corner of some late freezing backwater. The fact that the Pelicans are gone allows Cormorants to fatten up more quickly for the migration, unencumbered by the thieving demands for fish placed upon them by their larger, white-feathered brethren. And, trying hard not to sound too much like a red-neck, the sooner all those Walleye foraging birds move on, the less impact they'll have on local fish populations.

The observation: The nights are getting cooler more quickly than in years past. The motivation: I'm sick of mosquitoes and the potential for West Nile and I want the nights to get cooler more quickly.

The observation: Trees are changing color early this year. The motivation: Most of the trees in my yard are suffering from excess water problems created by a horribly rainy summer and the leaves changing color is simply a sign as to their imminent demise. I'm in denial.

The observation: The deer are out feeding more actively than usual for this time of year. The motivation: They're always out this time of year and I'm simply getting antsy to shoot one.

The observation: The walleyes are setting up in their fall staging patterns prematurely. The motivation: They're not. I'm sick of traveling across great distances of choppy water and eagerly await the time when I can catch fish in the river.

The observation: The Terns are feeding on chopped up minnows in the launch wakes as we cross the bay each morning and afternoon. The motivation: They've been doing that all summer. Common Terns live in the 4-Mile Bay all year. I'm simply trying to make it sound like I'm a real outdoors type guy to all my guests by exaggerating my knowledge of the humdrum.

The observation: My knees ache when I get out of bed in the morning. The motivation: My knees ache every morning, regardless of impending seasonal changes. I can't face the fact that I'm getting older.

The observation: Moss is growing on the north side of a tree. The motivation: I don't know. I just felt compelled to throw that in to see if anyone had any thoughts on the veracity of such an overused outdoorsy statement.

So you see, I'm a little bit suspect about this early fall thing. I'm beginning to believe that it's somewhat of a "manifest destiny" situation- I want it to be true so I'll find reasons to believe in it. Santa Claus probably holds a similar place in the hearts of that 6-9 year old group. And speaking of Santa, have I passed on my thoughts to you yet concerning my predictions for an early winter? Oh, excuse my timing. I forgot that I don't do that until October when I'm looking for reasons to invest in a new snowmobile.

College gift has great value to students

Thank you American Airlines

A year doesn't seem to go by that we're called to Northland Community and Technical College to cover a story about a tremendous gift to the college. While it may seem that these gifts drop out of the clear, blue sky, that's not how or why it happens.

Wednesday, American Airlines donated a fully functional 727-200 to the college's aviation maintenance program. It is the first time American Airlines has donated fully functional aircraft to anyone. And, it is expected to remain a fully functional aircraft. American Airlines has retired all of its 727's and those that are still operational will be sold to businesses and countries that will continue to use them. This could have very easily happened to the 727-200 donated to Northland Community and Technical College.

While the donation is a very valuable donation to the college, its greatest value is to the students. I think Ron Braaten explained it best when he said that while this may be this aircraft's last flight, it's starting a new career here.

That career will be helping college students gain the experience they need when they leave school. Ryan DeGroot, the student senate representative and a student from Winnipeg, Manitoba, told Capt. Kimball Stone of American Airlines that he wished he had more than one more semester left at school. He added that when he was looking for an aviation school he searched all over only to discover that one of the best schools was located about 120 miles south of his home. Publically, DeGroot stated that the gift from American Airlines really gives the students at Northland the experience they will need, and makes them feel a lot better about their education.

Days before the official ceremony Wednesday, Ryan DeGroot and several others were trying to find a way to say thank you to American Airlines. They came up with some caps, t-shirts, and a mug. Ryan complained wondering whether this was really a fair trade.

As humorous as this sounds, I think they understand, Ryan.

The tremendous gifts the college receives are often the result of a lot of hard work and of making the right connections with the right people. Such was the case with the gift of a Boeing 727-200 from American Airlines. It took years of work and dedication by many people to a sole purpose to obtain a fully functional Boeing 727-200 for education, and in particular, students at NCTC. How hard was it? Just imagine the work it took to convince lawyers, insurance agents, and government officials of the value of a fully functional aircraft to a small college in northwestern Minnesota in the wake of September 11.

Following a tour of the aviation campus, Capt. Stone said "this is a first class operation."

Yes, it is, but only because of the hard work of college officials and staff, friends of the college, the community, and the assistance of businesses like American Airlines.

First Day of School not the first day of driving

School starts on Tuesday. The start of the school year is always a bit hectic, even chaotic. To many parents it may be a pleasant disruption in their day-to-day lives, but to others it's traumatic.

Typically, on the first day of school, many parents decide to drive their student(s) to school. They do so for many reasons. For some it's a matter of tradition. For others it may be a matter of getting off to a good start. And yet to others, it may be their way of making sure their children actually go to school. In any event the traffic on the first day of school is generally very heavy.

It's also important to remember that on the first day of the school year, children are generally very energetic – often careless – despite warnings not to run between cars and to look both ways before crossing the street.

For all these reasons, it's important for motorists to drive with care on the first day of school.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. Newfest Celebration – Red, White and Blue in 2002!

The Central Marshall County Project Future Committee announces plans for Newfest Celebration – 2002! Newfest will be celebrated September 6, 7 and 8. Everyone is encouraged to visit Newfolden and enjoy the many activities for children and adults.

Saturday, the heart of Newfest Celebration – 2002 will start with a charity breakfast hosted at the Westaker Lutheran Church. This event will be followed by a Country Market at the Newfolden Community Center. Enjoy tables of crafts and baked goods. The Newfest Parade begins at 12:30 p.m. and will be followed by live music from the Hewitt Sisters, the G-Men, Country Fiddlers group, Miss Marshall County until 6:30 p.m. in the bandshell. The music accompanies afternoon activities scheduled for the entire day. Children can enjoy hot wheel races, nickel finds, Watermelon seed spitting contest, ring tosses, Tug-o-war and Newfest Obstacle course. Don't forget the presentation of the "Little Ladies of Newfest" at 3 p.m.

You can enjoy Oof-da Tacos, Kettle-Corn and treats from the Spud wagon. All this will be topped off by a country style pig-roast and corn feed fundraiser hosted by the Newfolden Fire Department beginning at 4:30 p.m. Relax on a straw bale while you eat, enjoy the music and spend time with friends and family. To end the evening you can enjoy the Thomas Jordan Project at the Marshall County Central (MCC) High School at 7 p.m. Without a Newfest button, cost for this event is $2.

Entries for the parade are encouraged from near and far. Please contact Sheila Johnson at 436-3143 if you would like to enter into the Newfest parade. No registration fee is required and cash prizes will be given out in three categories.

Friday evening events include the MCC Nordic tailgate party preceding the Nordic vs. Tri-County/Lancaster football game. Bingo starts at 7 p.m. at the Newfolden Community Center.

On Sunday, September 8, you can end the weekend by enjoying the Newfolden Lions Club Sunday brunch fram 9 – 1:30 p.m. Enjoy a community worship at the MCC High School gym at 10 a.m. and a Country Jam and Music Fest at 1 p.m. at the Newfolden Community Center.

Newfest buttons are currently on sale at local Newfolden businesses for $3 each. With this button you will be eligible to win many prizes donated by regional businesses and organizations. You will also be able to attend the Thomas Jordan Project and MCC Nordic Tailgate party free of charge!

State collections remove 22,221 pounds of waste pesticides from northwest Minnesota

Farmers, businesses and home-owners recently pitched in to help remove more than 11 tons of waste pesticides from the northwest region of Minnesota.

Through the Minnesota Department of Agriculture's (MDA) waste pesticide collection program, 155 participants turned in a total of 22,221 pounds of waste pesticide at drop-off sites in the following six northwest Minnesota cities in July:

- Karlstad – 3,093 pounds
- Crookston – 3,613 pounds
- Bemidji – 300 pounds
- Twin Valley – 2,482 pounds
- Hawley – 5,607 pounds
- Fergus Falls – 7,126 pounds

These MDA-sponsored collections were part of a statewide effort to remove waste pesticides from the environment. All pesticides collected receive special handling and are disposed of properly at a hazardous waste incinerator. Since the Waste Pesticide Collection Program began in 1989, more than 2.5 million pounds of waste pesticides have been collected in Minnesota.

MDA Commissioner Gene Hugoson said these collections show that farmers and others who use pesticides care about protecting the environment.

"Pesticide collections help keep waste pesticides out of landfills and our groundwater," Commissioner Hugoson said. "The amount of waste pesticides turned in at this year's collections shows that those who use pesticides are concerned about keeping the environment safe for their families and neighbors."

The collection program is free to nearly everyone who drops off waste pesticides. The program is funded through registration fees paid by manufacturers who sell pesticides in Minnesota.

For more information, contact MDA Agricultural Chemical Consultant Stan Kaminski at 90 West Plato Blvd., St. Paul, MN 55107-2094 or at 1-800-657-3986 or 651-297-1062 (metro).

Arctic Cat rummage sale to benefit Roseau flood victims

Proceeds from a gigantic Arctic Cat employee rummage sale on Saturday, September 14, will benefit Roseau flood victims.

Many Arctic Cat employees participated in the early stages of the flood disaster by providing assistance, but this is the first time they have held a fundraiser for the victims of the flood.

Human Resources Administrator Corinna Carver, explained that some employees were in the Roseau area a couple of weeks ago, and frankly, it wasn't until then that they realized the extent of the damage. "There's such a need," said Carver.

While there remains a need for financial assistance to businesses in the affected area, the funds from the Arctic Cat rummage sale will go to the people. Carver explained that with winter just around the corner, many homes are still without working furnaces and water heaters. "It's awful," said Carver. "Many families don't even have enough money to purchase school clothes and supplies for their children; and, many homes are in desperate need of building materials, such as sheetrock, appliances and furniture, before they can be considered suitable for living."

Many of the 1,400 employees of Arctic Cat in Thief River Falls also live in areas affected by the flooding in June. Carver said many see the disaster in terms of its impact on the people, and they want to help.

Carver said there is a great deal of enthusiasm for the rummage sale. She said they have been accepting volunteers, but they haven't begun accepting items for the rummage sale. They just don't have the room to store all the items. She estimated that 75 percent of the employees have expressed interest in participating in the event.

The rummage sale in Thief River Falls will be held from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Thief River Falls National Guard Armory.

In demonstrating its support of the project, Arctic Cat will match up to $5,000 of the proceeds of the sale.

In addition to good quality items, such as clothes for all ages, household goods, home decorations, books, and toys, there will be food concessions. Pepsi Cola of Thief River Falls will also join the effort to aid victims of flooding in Roseau by donating pop to be sold at the concession stand.

This project has been coordinated with North Borders Interfaith Coalition of Roseau to aid the flood victims. Carver explained that after researching the matter, they discovered that North Borders Interfaith Coalition was one of the few organizations giving funds only to people affected by flooding. In addition, North Borders invited representation from Arctic Cat to sit on its board to help determine where the funds will go.

Blast to Brooks to be held September 7

September 7 marks the 31st annual Blast to Brooks. Several festivities are scheduled for the day-long event.

Blast to Brooks kicks off with a prayer service at 9 a.m. Following the prayer service, a bake sale will be held in the basement of St. Joseph Church. The church is also the site of a plate lunch at 11 a.m.

Two parades will also be held. A kiddie parade will be held at 1:45 p.m., and a grand parade will be held at 2 p.m. Games and a cake walk follow at 2:45 p.m. A classic car show is scheduled for 3 p.m., and a drawing for a quilt will be held two hours later. At 5:30 p.m., a pig roast is scheduled, and attendees can dance to the Undertakers at 8 p.m.

Besides those activities, a flea market and several softball tournaments will be held. Applications are still being accepted for the flea market. Contact Connie Parenteau at (218) 698-4450 for more information on the flea market. Those attending can also eat Oof-Da Tacos and ride the mechanical bull.

Our Seamless gutters are manufactured from .032 gauge pre-painted aluminum, the heaviest gauge used in the industry. If your home is 20 feet or 200 feet in length our seamless gutter is made in one continuous length, eliminating any joints or seams in the middle. Inquire before you purchase "Seamless Gutter" about the thickness of the material used and be certain that it is made in one continuous length.
Seamless gutter is formed, cut and installed on site by a two man crew...saving on labor cost. Freight charges are eliminated. Waste is almost unheard of due to gutter being measured and cut on site to exact lengths. No need to store left over odds and ends that get damaged before they can be used. Most jobs can be completed the same day. Call us for complete information and free estimates of your job at no obligation to you.

Swimmers begin schedule with an invitational meet

A fourth place finish in the nine-team Lakers Relays at Detroit Lakes Monday kicked off the 2002 season for the Thief River Falls girls high school swimming team.

Park Rapids Area won it with 466 points, followed by Warroad with 416, Fergus Falls 370, Thief River Falls 356, Perham 268, Detroit Lakes 228, Fosston/Bagley 188, Roseau 168, and Crookston 66.

Third place finishes in four races were the top showings by the Dawn Cossette-coached Prowlers. Those groups included Tiffany Sorenson, Kendra Mooney, Tevia Reese, Allyson Helling in the 400 medley; Jenna Dillon, April Peterson, Danielle Sorvig, Carli Cota in the 500 freestyle; Dillon, Reese, Haviland, Cami Hendrickson in the 200 freestyle; and Reese, Haviland, Hendrickson, Helling in the 400 freestyle.

Crookston sweeps volleyball match

Crookston dominated play at the start and went on to sweep visiting Thief River Falls 3-0 Tuesday in the 2002 high school volleyball debut for both teams.

The Pirates won 15-0, 15-12, 15-11.

After being shut out in Game 1 the Prowlers rebounded to play competitive volleyball the rest of the night, pointed out Thief River Falls coach Erika Ramstorf.

"They (Pirates) have a nice team, but we just weren't prepared at all mentally for that first game," explained Ramstorf.

A between-game discussion might have helped the Prowlers focus on the task at hand, offered Ramstorf. "We didn't give up," she said. "We came back after that first game and played pretty well. We did some really good things."

A part of the Prowlers' play that plagued them all night, however, was serving – they missed 13 of them. "Our serving really hurt," admitted Ramstorf.

Prowlers notch their second 6-1 dual win

East Grand Forks sophomore Kelly Gust was a winner at No. 1 singles, but that was the only point of the match for the Green Wave in a 6-1 Tuesday girls high school tennis loss at the hands of host Thief River Falls.

Kara Larson, Rebecca Delmore and Kelly Hanson were Thief River Falls winners at No. 2, 3 and 4 singles, respectively, while Maggie Stock-Eryn Clow, Kelsey Christensen-Ashley Leister and Kate Levinson-Erin Sieva provided the Prowlers with a sweep in doubles.

It was the second 6-1 victory in two dual starts for the Prowlers, who beat Park Rapids Area by the same score in the 2002 season opener the previous week.

The match was delayed from a scheduled 10 a.m. start to 2 p.m. due to a morning rainfall.

"The match went well," reported Thief River Falls coach Troy Hanestad. "It was a good opportunity for us to juggle our line-up and put players into positions that would challenge them. Eryn Clow (normally used at No. 1 singles) played doubles for the first time in her high school career and had an excellent match."

That elevated Karie Schommer to No. 1 singles. "She played an excellent match against a strong player," pointed out Hanestad.

There were other changes as well. "Kara Larson played singles for the first time, and beat a very good No. 2 player, convincingly," noted Hanestad. "Rebecca Delmore was bumped up to No. 3 singles, and cruised. Kelly Hanson (an eighth grader) played her first varsity singles match at No. 4 and controlled her match."

TRF runners make debut at Moorhead

Thief River Falls boys and girls high school cross country teams opened the 2002 season Tuesday by running in the Battle of the Border Invitational at Moorhead.

Fargo South took top team and individual honors in the boys race, while Staples-Motley followed suit in the girls competition. The Bruins' Sveryn Claymore and the Cardinals' Brittney Brenny were the first runners across the finish line in the two races.

Thief River Falls trailed the 10 teams who were in the boys scoring column. The Prowlers were not able to field a complete girls team.

"Overall, a good start to the season," was first-year Thief River Falls coach Greg Ueland's first-race assessment, "but we need to work on mental toughness and our race strategy."

The opener – sporting perennial powers like Fargo South, Staples-Motley and Moorhead – may have featured the strongest field the Prowlers will face all fall, pointed out Ueland.

Nathan Browning led the Thief River Falls boys with a 32nd place finish in a 69-runner race. The best showing for the Thief River Falls girls was a 56th place effort by Chelsey Helgeland in a 93-runner field.

Strong performances, noted Ueland, were turned in by Thief River Falls at the junior varsity and junior high levels, including a first place run by Jeremy Sich in the boys junior high race.

The Prowlers will be part of the Roseau Invitational Thursday.

Marshall County Central football...

Nordics hope to repeat success

Marshall County Central is looking to duplicate the kind of success the Nordics enjoyed during the 2001 high school football season when a 7-4 finish included an appearance in the Section 8 Nine-Man playoff championship game – a first for the Newfolden program.

It was a major turnaround from a 2-6 Marshall County Central showing in 2000, and seventh-year head coach Scott Parker is hoping the taste of success will result in a shot of both confidence and hunger in 2002.

Headed by the power of 5-11, 250-pound fullback Jake Anderson, a veteran offensive backfield might very well make the Nordics a title threat. The group also includes quarterback Adam Reisen (6-3, 190), along with halfbacks Louis Peterson (5-11, 150), Nathan Bennett (5-10, 175) and Joey Hogberg (5-11, 165). Bennett is a junior; the others are seniors.

"We definitely should be competitive," confirmed Parker. "The kids got a taste of it last year, and we've got some tools to work with this year."

There is concern, however, about the lack of experience in the offensive line, where junior end Arron Holtan (6-0, 180) is the only returning starter.

The Nordics' defense could rival the offensive backfield as a the strongest part of the team. Senior nose guard Pat Brons (5-8, 165) anchors the line; Anderson, Bennett and junior Tad Davidson (5-11, 170) have experience at linebacker, while Holtan and Hogberg are veterans in the secondary.

Gators' experience is real plus

■ Badger/Greenbush-Middle River volleyball

Staffed with underclassmen, Badger/Greenbush-Middle River collected just four wins during the 2001 high school volleyball season. This time around the Gators feature a veteran roster, including five seniors. And that year's worth of experience should go a long way in elevating the Gators' game, according to head coach Christine Adrian.

"Last year we were young and weak; this year we're older and stronger," said Adrian, who is starting her sixth year with the cooperative program.

The 2002 roster is led by senior setter Katie Borgen and sophomore hitter Kierah Kimbrough. Running a 5-1 offense, Borgen will be busy. She collected 22 assists Tuesday in the Gators' season-opening 11-15, 15-8, 15-7, 15-2 win over visiting Tri-County. Kimbrough finished with 12 kills, and senior Amanda Randall contributed to the attack with seven kills.

"We started a little slow in the first game," admitted Adrian. "We settled down and played okay after that."

Serving has been one of the Gators' strengths in the past, and they started off in that direction Tuesday, led by Borgen with six aces.

Strong front row play and solid setting will be strengths, but one of the tasks facing the Gators this fall will be the development of team chemistry, noted Adrian, who said, "We've got 14 kids on the varsity who can play. It will be a challenge," she pointed out, to find a spot for all of them, especially in a short three-game match.

Other seniors on the squad are Amy Borgen, Beth Wilhelmi and Anne Dostal.

While the Gators look to be competitive and expect to improve upon their win total, strong Lake of the Woods and Roseau programs present major post-season obstacles.

Activity cards, passes available for Prowlers

Adult punch cards and K-12 activity passes for Thief River Falls home athletic events can be purchased at the Lincoln High School activities office.

The adult punch card, a $40 value, is available for $30. The student activity pass, good for all home athletic events (excluding tournaments), is priced at $25.

Single-event ticket prices for the Prowlers' home events are $4 for adults and $2 for K-12 students, college students with a campus I.D. and those with a senior citizen pass.

Senior citizen passes, available to those who are 60 or older, can also be picked up at the activities office.

The activities office is open from 7:30 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Jim Sims, Director of Student Activities for School District 564, reminds those attending the Prowlers' home football games to follow the signage at the Multi-Events Center.

Fans must use the far west sidewalk and enter the Multi-Events Center building to purchase tickets. All teams, bands, cheerleaders, officials, and pass-holders must use the pass gate located at the west entrance. Everyone may exit through the south gate.

It is also noted that the south half of the Multi-Events Center bleachers have been designated for home fans, while the north half is intended for the visitors.

Fans are not allowed on the Multi-Events Center track and football field.

Soccer clinic planned at Challenger School for boys, girls in K-12

Boys and girls in grades K-12 are invited to participate in a soccer clinic scheduled Saturday, Sept. 14, at Challenger Elementary School.

Sponsored by the newly-formed Thief River Falls Soccer Association, the event will be held from 9 a.m. to 12:45 p.m.

Registration fee if paid by Sept. 10, is $5. The cost includes a Minnesota Youth Soccer Association membership, a subscription to Soccer Times, a ticket to a Minnesota Thunder soccer game, goodies bag, and insurance.

Check-in and late registration begins at 8:30 a.m. the day of the clinic. Participants are asked to bring a soccer ball and a water bottle. Parents are welcome to take part in the activities.

Clinic instructors will include Ian Barker, MYSA Coaching Director; Tom Johnson, MYSA Northwest District Boys Director; Phoukham Vongkhamdy, U14 coach, Bemidji Soccer Association; and David Wright, U11 coach, New Ulm Soccer Association.

Registration forms are available at Wells Fargo Bank, Northern State Bank, First National Bank, Hugo's, and SuperOne Foods of Thief River Falls.

The Thief River Falls Soccer Association will follow the introductory clinic with a spring/summer league beginning in May. League registration will take place this winter.

For additional information about the clinic, or the Thief River Falls Soccer Association, call Glen Kajewski at 681-8714 or email: gdkajewski@mncable.net.

NCTC Foundation announces high school student scholarships

Ten area high school seniors have recently been awarded the Lowell and Marge Swenson Endowment Scholarship. Awards range from $800 to $1,500 per academic year, and each scholarship is renewable for the sophomore year if a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.25 is met.

"This scholarship is exciting. It not only rewards the incoming student for their high school success, it rewards them again for their commitment and accomplishments at NCTC," said Jared Goldesberry, executive director of the foundation. Funds for the scholarship are generated by the interest from the Swenson trust account.

Recipients are chosen based on their past academic performance and include:

From Bagley: Sheena Reese; 3.54 GPA; Class Rank - 13th of 91; Enrolling in Liberal Arts with emphasis in Special Education and Psychology

From Edmore, N.D.: Jared Settingsgard; 3.67 GPA; Class Rank - 5th of 23; Enrolling in Liberal Arts

From Fosston: Benjamin Bruce; 3.32 GPA; Class Rank - 16th of 61; Enrolling in the Criminal Justice program

From Goodridge: Kelsey Johnsrud; 3.62 GPA; Class Rank - 2nd of 18; Enrolling in Liberal Arts with intention to transfer to a four-year college

From Goodridge: Rozlynn Haugen; 3.5 GPA; Class Rank - 4th of 18; Enrolling in the Nursing program

From Greenbush: Delayne Sovde; 3.69 GPA; Class Rank - 6th of 30; Enrolling in Liberal Arts with intention to transfer to the University of Minnesota

From Grygla: Ashley Holthusen; 3.74 GPA; Class Rank - 3rd of 14; Enrolling in Liberal Arts

From Kenmare, N.D.: Chris Zimmer; 3.75 GPA; Class Rank - 8th of 37; Enrolling in the Aviation Maintenance program

From Oklee: Emma Rustan; 3.59 GPA; Class Rank - 3rd of 18; Completed Post-Secondary Options program with 4.0 GPA; Enrolling in Liberal Arts

From Thief River Falls: Tylor Lahren; 3.62 GPA; Class Rank - 46th of 192; Enrolling in Liberal Arts with emphasis in Chemistry

Northland Community and Technical College is a comprehensive college offering a quality technical and liberal arts education since 1949. 2nd annual Hullaballoo Run scheduled for August 31

The Moorhead Parks and Recreation Department hosts the 2nd annual Hullaballoo Run on August 31. Last year, over 220 runners participated in the 10K Run, and run organizers are hoping to increase this year's numbers to 300-400 runners. To add to the festivities, a Senior Walk, 3K Fun Run and Youth Run are scheduled. The Senior Walk will begin at 8 a.m., and the 3K Fun Run will start at 9 a.m. The Youth Run will be held at 10:15 a.m.

Top runners in the Youth Run ages six and under will receive a bike, and those top runners ages seven to 10 will receive a Playstation 2. Cash prizes will be awarded to top runners in the 10K Run, 3K Fun Run/Walk and Senior Walk. The top 10K winner in both the men and women's division will receive $1,000. Second place winners receive $500, and third place winners get $250. There are eight age category divisions for men and women. The top winners in the eight age brackets win $100. Second place winners will be awarded a Sport Shoe certificate, and third place winners will win $25 cash. Several prizes will also be given away.

Saddle up for trail/wagon ride at Bemis Hill

The third annual Saddle Up for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Trail/Wagon Ride will be held September 21 at Bemis Hill Campground. Riders and participants get sponsors for the ride. All ride proceeds will be directly donated to the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. In the past two years, approximately 40 participants have raised a total of $4,600 for the hospital.

Registration is at 9 a.m. for the event, and the ride will begin at 10 a.m. Camping is available free of charge at Bemis Hill Campground. Local sponsors will provide free lunch on the trail for all participants. The Twins Corner Cafe in Badger will be serving a country style supper in the evening for $7.50 and a country style breakfast on Sunday morning for $4.50. The ride is open to anyone who would like to participate (teams/wagons or single horses). For more information and to get sponsorship forms, contact Darlene Danielson at (218) 463-2877.

At St. Jude, scientists and physicians are working side-by-side seeking the causes, cures and prevention of leukemia, Hodgkin's Disease, sickle-cell anemia, pediatrics AIDS and other child-killing diseases. All findings are shared with doctors around the world to ensure that children everywhere will benefit.

The hospital is an internationally recognized biomedical research center dedicated to finding cures for childhood catastrophic diseases. The hospital's work is supported through funds raised by the American Lebanese Syrian Associated Charities (ALSAC). All St. Jude patients are treated regardless of their ability to pay. ALSAC covers all treatment costs beyond those reimbursed by third party insurances and pays for total treatment costs for families who do not have insurance.

Three selected for MN Ag and Rural Leadership Program

Three area residents have been selected to participate in the second class of the Minnesota Agriculture and Rural Leadership (MARL) Program.

Bryan Grove of Thief River Falls; Theresia Gillie of Hallock and Mark Judovsky of Warren were selected for the program.

"We are pleased to have another outstanding group of participants," said Duane Alberts, chair of the MARL board of directors. "We seek people who have demonstrated their commitment to agriculture and rural Minnesota in leadership roles in their communities and organizations. That experience is coupled with aspirations for success in more responsible leadership roles in the future."

The participants will meet for the first time in mid-November for the first of a series of nine sessions held at different locations across Minnesota. The program curriculum also features a one-week national study tour to Washington, D.C. and a two-week international study tour. The program will be completed in April 2004.

The curriculum features a variety of leadership studies, personal skill-building and location-related experiences. The overall mission of the MARL Program is to develop the skills of Minnesota agricultural and rural leaders, so they may maximize their impact and effectiveness in local, state, national and international arenas.

The MARL Program is privately funded through donations and participant tuition. A board of directors from the private sector oversees the program.

flying over The Moving Wall and explained that they are burial flags that families donated to cemeteries. He said he thought it appropriate that they fly over The Moving Wall.

Linda Williams, who travels with The Moving Wall, added that it's great that children will be visiting it. "It's a history lesson that should be learned now while the veterans are still alive," she said.

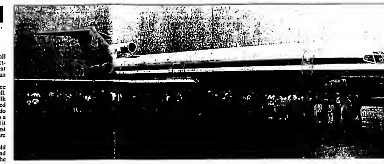
Williams also was explaining the procedure for rubbings to a volunteer. The volunteers will be doing the same for visitors while The Wall is in Grand Forks. Williams asks that visitors stop by the information booths and ask volunteers for assistance. They will have everything visitors need, including books and computers to look up names.

She also explained that the names on the wall are in chronological order starting in the center with 1959 and then flowing to the right. Names begin again in chronological order on the far left, so that it comes to a complete circle. There are 58,225 names on the wall. Memorials left at The Moving Wall will be collected at the end of the week and preserved. Williams said they will be sent to California and eventually displayed in a museum that will be built there.

There are two portable Moving Walls. The Moving Wall in Grand Forks is Moving Wall A. It is the first replica wall. It's last stop was in Eldon, Iowa, and after Grand Forks, N.D., it's next stop will be in Jamestown, N.D. The walls spend about eight months of every year on the road.

Even after 18 years, Williams said it's marvelous to see what The Moving Wall does for so many people. The Wall in Washington, D.C., she said is definitely a wonderful experience. But this is different, she said, because it's a community experience.

Amazing things always happen at the wall. The moment that stands out for Williams occurred when a man who was an infant when his father died in Vietnam met the sergeant who held his father when he died. Williams said the man had never learned how his father had died and his mother had remarried. Meeting the sergeant who was also looking up his dad's name was just one of those coincidences that makes The Moving Wall so special.



For John Hanson, the moment that stands out for him occurred when he found the name of a friend who had dropped out of high school and "disappeared." Finding his friend's name on The Wall solved the mystery. Hanson reflected on it and added that he sat next to him in high school, and they ran on the track team.

Norris Shears is one of the three co-founders of The Moving Wall. Shears was a professional silk screener when he was approached by two buddies who wanted to do something special. Shears, who is a veteran, was all for it. Shears said it took two years to complete the first wall. (The other two founders are John Devitt and Gerry Haver.)

Shears is now retired. He sold his silk screening business and moved from San Jose, Calif., to the mountains of Oregon. For the last three years, however, he has been traveling with The Moving Wall.

Shears said he enjoys seeing the country and meeting all the veterans. And even though he's seen many touching moments at the wall, he's still surprised when something special happens. Just recently, Shears said he was driving 70-miles per hour down the road when an 18-wheeler pulled up behind him. The semi stayed there for over 20 miles and then took about five minutes to pass him. Shears said he was getting pretty concerned. A short while down the road, Shears pulled off the road at a rest area and the semi was there too. Shears said the driver came up to him and said he had to stop because of him. Shears asked what he meant. The truck driver proceeded to tell his story as a Marine during the Vietnam War. He started clouding up, said Shears. "There still are things out there that get to you," he said.

For more information about The Moving Wall, see www.TheMovingWall.org.

opportunity she was looking for. Before making any spontaneous decisions, though, she scoped out the area. Upon her visit to Thief River Falls, Tara found a building with a large garage she could turn into a pet grooming shop and a vacant apartment nearby. Things were starting to fall into place.

When she arrived in Thief River Falls, she immediately went to work on applying for a small-business loan from the Northwest Minnesota Foundation.

The minute her loan was approved and she received the money, Tara and her father, Don, began renovating the garage that once held vehicles and lots of junk into a nice, clean, working environment. Don built her a large counter with a gate and a customized tub in which to give the dogs baths.

In the meantime, Tara had put up a few flyers around town and told a few people that she was working out of her parents garage temporarily. She had already started building a lengthy list of clients whose dogs were in need of grooming.

In October of 2000, Tara's Pet Grooming was set to open. After just two ads in the newspaper, Tara's business boomed right from the get-go.

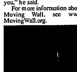
She doesn't do a lot of advertising because most of her business was coming from the referral of her clients. Tara now has a waiting list of people who want to get in and her appointment book is usually filled to capacity as far ahead as a month or more.

With 500-plus clients from all over northwest Minnesota in her register, Tara is a little more busy than she expected. She says she wouldn't mind hiring someone to help her get the pace of the shop going a little faster.

The busiest times of the year at Tara's Pet Grooming are usually during the spring and summer, but business is steady enough to keep Tara busy in the fall and winter, as well. She credits her busy workload to the fact that competition in the area is practically nothing.

For now, Tara only grooms dogs and she does all breeds, except for chows and scotties because of their volatile nature. She trims cats' nails, but doesn't groom them, only because it takes two people to keep a cat steady enough to bathe and dry.

"People think it's so simple, but you really have to be trained well and know the animals you're working with," she says. "Lots could happen." Pet grooming can be a dangerous job. With new, unfamiliar animals, the groomer has to take their best shot at making friends with them right off the bat. Otherwise the animal may decide to bite. Tara can testify to that with a couple of bite scars to prove it.



When a dog is brought in for a full groom, Tara will give them a bath, express the anal glands, dry them, brush them out, cut the fur, clean the ears and trim the nails. Some of the extras include teeth brushing, flea baths and skunk baths.

The average fee for the entire grooming process is around $35, but really depends on the type of dog and how long it takes to groom.

"I have great clients and really appreciate all the business support they've shown," she says. The only problem she seems to ever have with them is when they do not show up for their appointments. "I have a strict schedule and when they don't show up without calling, I've wasted a time slot that could've been used for a client that needed an appointment." She also notes that she loses money when people don't cancel their appointments ahead of time.

In the future, Tara would like to buy some property in which she could build a new shop. If the conditions are right, she would also consider adding kennel and boarding services to the business.

For now, though, the dogs will keep coming to the shop on Davis Avenue and Tara will continue to work a hectic schedule. A schedule she happily fills with her adoration of animals and proof-positive that you really can do what you love.

Tara Nicholson has owned and operated Tara's Pet Grooming, located on Davis Avenue in Thief River Falls, for two years now. An experienced pet groomer from the Minneapolis area, she found her hometown has had a great demand for the services she provides.

With the support of artist Kinji Akagawa and other students, NCTC Student Senate President Evan Barnett cuts the ribbon for the dedication of the Percent for Art Project.

Dogs never leave Tara's Pet Grooming without being fully dried. Tara Nicholson, owner of the dog grooming shop, says if they don't need a haircut, she'll at least give them a bath, dry them and brush them out.

National Assisted Living Week approaches

Valley Home provides autonomy and care

by April Scheinoha
Reporter

Originally when Ralph Long was looking for a place to care for him, he looked at Valley Home. Yet, Valley Home was not certified to care for someone who needed oxygen. Some time passed and Long considered Valley Home again. By that time, the facility was able to care for someone on oxygen because Valley Home became licensed for being an assisted living facility. As a result, Long moved to Valley Home in June.

Prior to starting an assisted living operation, Valley Home was a board and care facility for 40 years. It started offering assisted living for residents in May, and it is licensed for being both a room and board facility as well as an assisted living facility. Valley Home is the first assisted living facility in Pennington County.

Valley Home Manager Arden Solheim said, "Two years ago, the legislature started discouraging room and board and encouraging assisted living." Using a definition she learned at a conference, Solheim said, "Assisted living is a consistent balance between autonomy and care."

She was not the only one who used the word autonomy to describe assisted living. Social worker Jane Shafland echoed Solheim's comments and noted, "Assisted living comes in so many shapes and forms." Besides Valley Home's environment, assisted living facilities can include apartment complexes and houses.

In addition, Agency Director Ken Yutrzenka said, "Assisted living is really flexible. An individual can buy or purchase a menu of services." He added that those services include the resident's needs and desires. Yutrzenka continued, "It provides people in assisted living services with some level of comfort." He represents the county's interests. The county reimburses Valley Home for the residents' care.

Long agreed with Yutrzenka's comments about comfort. Before living at Valley Home, Long lived alone. Now, staff members are there in the event he needs someone. He said, "You'd rather be independent, but you reach a time where your health says you can't."

Melodee Rupprecht, R.N., added assisted living facilities ensure residents get three meals a day, their medications and their laundry done. She said, "They can enjoy the rewards of being in their own space."

It took a while for Valley Home to determine how to set itself up as an assisted living facility. In order to get a better grasp of what they needed to do, Solheim and Rupprecht looked at several assisted living facilities in Beltrami and Polk Counties. Rupprecht said, "From the ones we've visited, we're the largest." Valley Home houses 82 residents. She noted some facilities they visited had anywhere from 12 to 40 residents.

To provide assisted living care for residents, additional staff were hired. Staff are also required to have eight hours of training each year on infection control and other matters. They are tested on their skills as well.

Moreover, staff have supervised visits with residents within two weeks of when the resident arrives and every 62 days thereafter.

Long said, "I can't say enough about the staff. They're all good people."

County creates appeals body to weigh shoreline concerns

Warren - A Board of Adjustment to deal with appeals related to decisions regarding the shoreline ordinance was created by the Marshall County Board of Commissioners at its Tuesday meeting.

Jan Kasper, county Comprehensive Water Plan Coordinator, reviewed with board members the state requirement for such a board to hear certain appeals from landowners. For example, if Kasper, in enforcing the shoreline ordinance, made an administrative decision forbidding a landowner to construct a building within a certain distance of a shoreline, the landowner could appeal the decision to the Board of Adjustment. - The Warren Sheaf, September 4, 2002

Inadequate pipe was used for sewers

Red Lake Falls - Red Lake Falls City Council members were told Aug. 26 that Mark II Construction Company of Fosston used the wrong size of sewer pipe [illegible] about four years ago.

According to Public Works Director [illegible] Wilson, the main section of pipe is crushed and recent findings by Tim Korby, civil department manager with LHB Engineers and Architects of Minneapolis, show the pipe used was about eight feet of conduit pipe. "The plastic pipe is inadequate; it is the wrong size and does not meet sewer pipe standards," Wilson said.

Council member Kevin Harmoning said it is a matter of [illegible], not faulty pipe.

Wilson told council members the main section of pipe has been corrected, and the pipe to the service lines are the correct ones. - Red Lake Falls Gazette, September 4, 2002, by Lisa Hanson

Bikers give "Buddy Bears" to ambulance unit

Middle River - The Borderland Chapter of ABATE (American Bikers of Awareness Training and Education) biked to Middle River the morning of Saturday, August 24, 2002, to provide the Middle River Unit of the Tri-County Ambulance Service with trademark "Buddy Bears" that are distributed to children during [illegible] situations.

ABATE is not a Harley [illegible] club, but it is a not-for-profit organization committed to charitable and community projects and dedicated to the education of riders and the general public about motorcyclists. - New [illegible] Record, September 4, 2002

Greenbush - Retiring after a 42-year banking career that [illegible] the lives of families in small towns throughout northwest Minnesota, Sander Tureson has been the model small-town banker.

Trusted and appreciated, he was the "Go-to-person" when families and farmers from our area needed advice.

Many in that community of friends and neighbors that shuttled in and out of the retirement reception for Sander at Border State Bank on August 29 could recite a moment or a time when Sander had been there to help. - The Tribune, September 4, 2002

Arnold and Evelyn Skjerven are Newfolden's Outstanding Seniors

by April Scheinoha
Reporter

When most people reach their seventies, they slow down. Yet, Arnold and Evelyn Skjerven are not like most people. The couple, who reside in Newfolden, are in their early seventies, and it appears they will never slow down. The Skjervens volunteer for numerous organizations, and they have recently been named Newfolden's Outstanding Senior Citizens for 2002. Arnold Skjerven was also named as a Marshall County Outstanding Senior Citizen for 2002.

Arnold said, "I think it's quite an honor."

Evelyn agreed, "I was honored."

Even though the couple was happy they received the honors, Evelyn said, "We didn't really want to do it. (The Newfolden Senior Citizens' Club) encouraged us. I don't think we were more worthy than others." Yet, they appreciate the honors and the Newfolden Senior Citizens' Club for nominating them.

Other people also wrote letters recommending that Arnold and Evelyn receive the awards. In her nomination of Evelyn, Carol Borchert wrote, "She is a role model for people of all ages. She is active, vital and helpful to others."

About Arnold, Borchert wrote, "He takes responsibility seriously and can be counted on to complete any task he takes on. The whole community benefits from his positive approach and hard work."

Pastor Gary Barrett of the Newfolden Evangelical Free Church wrote, "As an American Legion member, (Arnold) regularly serves at funeral and Memorial Day services. He is part of a team of men who regularly clean the debris that less thoughtful citizens have discarded along the roadside."

In his nomination of Evelyn, Barrett wrote, "Evelyn has a concern for her peers demonstrated in the fact that she is beginning a new ministry in our church for our older members."

He continued, "Evelyn also has a special ability with young people. Her loving attitude draws her into their confidence, so they listen to and respect what she says."

Evelyn and Arnold volunteer for numerous groups, including the Newfolden Senior Citizens' Club, Marshall County Social Services and Newfolden Evangelical Free Church. Arnold served as treasurer and color guard member for the Newfolden American Legion as well. Evelyn serves in that group's auxiliary.

Besides being involved in those groups, the couple also helps their neighbors. Bob and Carol Dahl have known the Skjervens for over 20 years. They also wrote a recommendation letter in support of the Skjervens. "They have shown their love and concern for our family when we went through a flood, fire, an accident, illnesses, etcetera. We can always count on them, not only to help us, but, more importantly, to pray for us." The Dahls continued, "Recently, following the June rains, while Arnold and other friends helped sandbag to save our dike, Evelyn prepared and brought dinner out to us - just one more example of their generosity."

The couple will be participating in Newfest on Saturday. They will be riding in their 1929 Ford Model A in the parade. Not surprisingly, Evelyn has volunteered to bake items for a bake sale also occurring at Newfest.

Filing period closes on Tuesday

Individuals interested in running for Thief River Falls city office or School District 564 board of education have until the end of the business day on Tuesday, September 10, to file for office.

Carl Clark, who has served on the board of education for School District 564 for 13 years, has announced that he will not seek reelection. In an interview Thursday, Clark said it was time for new blood. He said he appreciated the time he had on the board, and thoroughly enjoyed serving the citizens of School District 564. He encourages others to file for office, stating that serving on the board is a good way to be a part of the community.

While he served on the board of education, Clark said he learned a lot. He added that it was satisfying to know that during the past 13 years he was able to contribute, in some small way, to the creation and development of the many projects that took place during that time, including Challenger Elementary school.

As of Thursday afternoon, only Randy Twistol had filed for one of the four positions open on the school board. Twistol is an incumbent. The other terms that are coming to an end have been held by Carl Clark, Mike Spears, and Barb Kalinoski.

While only one person has filed an application of candidacy for school board, several people have filed applications of candidacy for the seats opening on the Thief River Falls City Council. Jerry Unruh, Dale Wennberg, and Josh Whitlow have filed for the office of mayor. Elvera Cullen and Jarrod Wilde have filed for the office of Alderman at Large. Glen Kajewski has filed for First Ward representative. Terrence BlackLance has filed for Fifth Ward representative.

The filing period remains open until closing on September 10.

Northwest Medical Center Association annual meeting set

The regular (annual) meeting of the Northwest Medical Center Association membership will be held at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, September 10, in the Summit room of the Best Western in Thief River Falls. The election of Association board of directors will take place that evening as well. The polling booths will open at 5:30 p.m. and close on or about 7:15 p.m.

Two directors will be elected by association membership to two three-year terms on the Northwest Medical Center Board of Directors.

The Northwest Medical Center board of directors nominating committee, which is charged with the responsibility of nominating candidates who will serve the hospital and its mission of satisfying the community's health care needs now and into the future, nominated Lyle D. Hanson and Karen Kirkeby to fill the three-year terms.

Robert Dicken, M.D., has been nominated by the petition process outlined in the Association's Bylaws, which allows any five (5) Association members to make nominations in addition to those made by the official nominating committee of the board. The board of directors determined that Dr. Dicken competes with the corporation (hospital) and his nomination was not accepted.

Lyle D. Hanson is a lifelong resident of Thief River Falls, and a graduate of Lincoln High School. He attended college at Moorhead State University and the University of Minnesota. He owns Hanson's Boarding Home and has served as the CEO of Hanson's Boarding Home for 22 years. As the CEO, Hanson is well-acquainted with the challenge of meeting people's healthcare needs while dealing with reimbursement and healthcare regulatory agencies, which are strengths that he will bring to the board.

While on the board, Hanson has served on the executive, finance and strategic planning committees, and has attended board orientations and continuing education seminars.

He is dedicated to Thief River Falls, northwest Minnesota and to Northwest Medical Center and its not-for-profit healthcare mission. He believes that during this challenging period in healthcare in this region, it is essential that the board

Curves for Women helps clients shave pounds off figures

This is the sixth part in a series of eight feature stories that focus on the Northern Watch region's Young Business Leaders.

by Jenny Nicholson
Reporter

Women from all over the area have begun the battle of the bulge; and they're fighting it with great fervor.

Actually, most of these women aren't fighting many bulges, they just want to get into shape and have a little bit of fun while doing so.

This is one reason why Curves for Women in Thief River Falls has become such a hot spot for those who wish to burn some calories and, sometimes, get together with a couple of friends.

Curves for Women, which is a franchise that started in the early 1990s, is a unique venture in personal fitness that caters to the female gender only. The reason for this is that many women like to work out, but are sometimes apprehensive about doing it in front of the entire gym. Self-consciousness leads many women to stay at home rather than get out and exercise. At Curves for Women, the atmosphere is much more relaxed than at a large gym. The women who go there have no reason to feel ashamed of themselves and they become part of a group that supports each other.

Kari Obermaier, owner of Curves for Women in Thief River Falls, started the club last year in June. She first found out about it when her mother was told by her chiropractor that she needed to get some low impact exercise and recommended Curves. She started out slowly, but even in the first week she could feel results.

Kari decided to join a Curves in the Twin Cities area and fell in love with it immediately. She says she'd always struggled with her weight and had tried every kind of exercise and diet plan until Curves came along. Kari started working out religiously. She got healthy, fit and trim and has been a loyal Curves advocate ever since.

Kari's mother, who lives in International Falls, told Kari she wanted to start a Curves of her own and asked her if she wanted to go in it together. Kari, being a strong-minded independent woman, decided she didn't want partners, she wanted a business of her own.

After scoping out some of the regions that were in need of a Curves, Kari decided on Thief River Falls. She put together her proposal and presented it to the Curves franchise. They accepted her and she began a series of training courses. On June 18, 2001, Kari opened Curves for Women. A few months later, Kari's mother opened hers in International Falls. All the while, the two helped each other out.

Women from the Thief River Falls area have become increasingly excited to have a place they can call their own. Kari says she likes

Do you have zucchini? I thought everybody who planted it got zucchini by the truckload. I don't have any. I think there's something wrong with my zucchini patch. Anyway, a couple of today's recipes are for those of you who have an excess of zucchini, or maybe some neighbors who like to give you some. The other recipes are for those of you who like to make pickles from your fresh veggies.

Zucchini can make a meatloaf special – cook this one quick or put it in the slow cooker for an easy supper:

ZUCCHINI MEATLOAF

2 pounds ground beef
2 cups coarsely grated zucchini
1 cup dry Italian seasoned bread crumbs
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 small onion, chopped
1/2 package onion soup mix
1 cup milk
2 eggs
1/4 cup ketchup
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Combine all ingredients in large mixing bowl by hand, mixing well. Place in bread loaf pan for 1 hour. Can also be cooked in slow cooker (low setting) for 8-10 hours.

I bet you have all the ingredients for this salad in your garden. Make it a day ahead to have an easy meal:

ZUCCHINI SALAD

4 small zucchini, sliced thin
4 to 6 Roma tomatoes, cut into wedges
1 small green pepper, sliced into strips
1/4 cup sliced green onions
1/2 cup fresh snipped parsley
Dressing:
3/4 cup salad oil
1/4 cup vinegar
1 clove garlic, minced
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper

Toss vegetables in a salad bowl. Combine dressing ingredients in container and shake until mixed. Pour over vegetables, stirring to coat. Chill for several hours, stirring occasionally. Make a day ahead to blend flavors.

Won't these spicy little beet pickles taste good next winter:

PICKLED BEETS

3 pounds small (2 inch diameter) whole beets
2 cups vinegar
1 cup water
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon whole allspice
6 whole cloves
3 inches stick cinnamon

Wash beets, leaving on roots and 1 inch of tops. Place in 4-6 quart Dutch oven or kettle. Add water to cover.

Bring to boiling, reduce heat, and simmer, uncovered, until tender, about 25 minutes.

Drain and discard cooking liquid. Cool beets slightly and trim off roots and stems. Slip off the skins.

In same Dutch oven, combine vinegar, water and sugar. Place spices in square of cheesecloth and tie into a bag. Place in Dutch oven.

Heat ingredients in Dutch oven to boiling, then reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, for 5 minutes.

Pack beets into 6 hot, sterile half pint jars, leaving 1/2 inch headspace. Carefully add boiling pickling liquid, leaving 1/2 inch headspace. Discard spices and remove air bubbles from jars. Wipe rims and adjust lids. Process in boiling water canner for 30 minutes (start timing after water begins to boil).

Remove jars and cool in rack.

If you grew hot peppers this year, try this recipe – use your rubber gloves when preparing them though, because they can burn eyes and skin:

PICKLED HOT PEPPERS

1 pound red, green or yellow hot peppers (8 cups)
4 heads fresh dill or 2 tablespoons dill seed
3 cups water
1 cup white vinegar
2 tablespoons pickling salt
1 tablespoon sugar
2 cloves garlic, minced
1/4 teaspoon crushed dried red pepper

Wash hot peppers and drain. Make 2 small slits in each pepper and pack them into 4 hot, sterile pint jars, leaving 1/2 inch headspace. Place 1 head fresh dill or 1 1/2 teaspoons dill seed in each jar.

In saucepan, combine water, vinegar, salt, sugar, garlic and dried pepper. Bring to a boil. Pour over peppers in jar, leaving 1/2 inch headspace. Remove air bubbles, wipe jar rims and adjust lids.

Process in boiling water canner for 15 minutes, starting timing after water begins to boil.

Remove jars and cool on rack.

Here's a corn relish that will knock your socks off:

CORN RELISH

4 cups corn kernels (about 9 ears)
1 cup diced green bell pepper
1 cup diced red bell pepper
1 cup minced celery
1/2 cup minced onion
1-1/2 cup vinegar
3/4 cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon celery seed
1/4 teaspoon hot pepper sauce
1 1/2 teaspoons dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon turmeric
2 tablespoons flour for thickening

Sterilize pint canning jars. Prepare corn by boiling ears for 5 minutes, cooling and cutting from cob. Do not scrape cob. (May also use 3 [10-ounce] packages frozen whole kernel corn, thawed slowly in refrigerator.)

In an enamel kettle, combine peppers, celery, onion, vinegar, sugar, salt, celery seed and hot pepper sauce. Boil 5 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Dip out 1/2 cup hot liquid and mix with dry mustard and turmeric. Return to kettle.

Add corn. If you want relish slightly thickened, blend flour with 1/4 cup cold water and add to the kettle. Boil for 5 minutes, stirring to prevent scorching.

Immediately fill clean, hot pint jars within 1/2 inch of top. Wipe jar rims with clean cloth, adjust lids and process in a boiling water bath for 15 minutes. Makes 4 pints.

Lundrigan.

A name Minnesota has trusted for more than 100 years.

For three generations, the Lundrigan family has been proud to serve our state. Like his father and his grandfather before him, Ted understands northern Minnesota's people and issues. As a practicing attorney, a community member with strong volunteer ties, a Vietnam veteran and a respected author, he's been a valued part of the region throughout his life. His experience, compassion, impartiality and dedication to the values of northern Minnesota will make him an excellent 9th Judicial District Judge.

For the outpouring of love and friendship that was shown, and the many, many cards that were sent in memory of Scott Stenzel, we express our thanks and gratitude. We thank those who remembered us with food, paper products, beverages, or just a hug.

To our "special" Digi-Key friends who showered us with food, our sincerest thanks.

Special thanks to Digi-Key and The Times for their support and understanding.

To the many friends, neighbors and family who embraced us with love, kindness, prayers, flowers and memorials, we extend our thanks.

Thank you to Pastor Kirchner for your comforting words at the prayer service and the funeral; to the serving committee; and to members of the St. John's Lutheran Church for the dinner. Thank you to John Folland and Lisa Verbout for the wonderful music.

A special thank you to Johnson-Green Funeral Service for the excellent services they provided. Our thanks to Erling for the comfort and thoughtfulness you brought to our family during our time of loss.

Our family has been truly blessed with love and support.

Valley Homes provides autonomy and care

Susan Hoffman, whose mother lives at Valley Home, agreed, "Their recent transition to an assisted living program has been of exceptional value. It has allowed Mom to incorporate activities into her week that mean a lot to her, even though her kids aren't there. Something special is happening in the middle of the Thief River Falls community. It's called Valley Home."

Next week, Valley Home will be participating in National Assisted Living Week for the first time. To commemorate the week, it is planning on distributing thank you notes to the county, its residents and staff.

FSA reminds producers that idled acres require cover

The Pennington County FSA office reminds producers that any contract acreage not planted to the agricultural commodity in 2002 requires that an approved cover crop be established.

The deadlines to establish an approved cover crop are:

• Sept. 10 for establishing a cover consisting of a continuous seeding of small grains;

• Sept. 20 for establishing a cover consisting of winter wheat or rye that is intended for harvest in 2003.

Failure to establish an approved cover by the deadline is considered a contract violation that can result in payment reductions being assessed or the contract being terminated.

Producers with questions regarding idled contract acreage cover requirements should contact the county office at 681-1612, Ext. 2, before the appropriate deadline.

Youth in custody in connection with baby's death

Roseau County Attorney Michelle Moren has announced that a 14-year-old male juvenile has been taken into custody in connection with the death of Mia Powassin of Warroad.

Fifteen-month-old Mia Powassin died on July 5, 2002 at the Roseau Area Hospital. Her death was ruled a homicide by the Ramsey County Medical Center.

According to the news release from the Roseau County Attorney's office, County Attorney Moren has requested that a Grand Jury be convened to consider charges in this case. Moren's statement added that information regarding Grand Jury proceedings is not accessible to the public and no further information regarding these proceedings will be released.

Patriot's Day event held September 11 at Northland

On Wednesday, September 11, Northland Community and Technical College will host a Patriot's Day recognition event at at 6 p.m. at the Multi-Events Center in Thief River Falls. Patriot's Day honors local heroes, and the lives of Americans lost and changed forever as a result of the events of September 11, 2001.

Honored guests will include the American Legion, Emergency Medical Technicians, local fire departments, Minnesota State Patrol, National Guard, Pennington County Sheriff's Department, Thief River Falls Police Department, Veterans of Foreign Wars and many others.

This free event, which is hosted by the Student Senate at NCTC, is open to the public. It will include brief speeches and musical performances.

In the case of inclement weather, the event will be held in the school's gymnasium.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Dave Hill and do not represent opinion of other staff members. Opinions in items from other publications may not coincide with the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

What are you going to do on Sept. 11?

In mid August I asked the editorial department staff what we should do for the anniversary of the September 11, 2001 attack on the United States. It was a question news departments, schools, government officials and citizens of the United States have all been asking.

One staff member said too much had been done already and that the government was using it to further their cause for war. Other staff members set about finding stories about what other people were doing and how people who were personally affected by the events of Sept. 11 were faring one year from now.

The Poynter Institute, a leading research and education organization for journalists, asked, "How will newspapers, broadcasters, and online sites revisit Sept. 11 a year later?"

Responses varied. One reply was, "don't expect grisly replays." I, however, expect that there will be replays.

Gregory Favre, a member of Poynter's Leadership and Management Faculty, urged newsrooms to remember that above all, this is a story about humanity.

From my experience, it seems most news organizations are still interested in the human interest angle. Despite the national scope of the event, it was and still remains a story about people.

So what should we do?

A writer to the Grand Forks Herald recently urged people not to "celebrate." "What are we to 'celebrate?' Terrorists? There's no need to 'celebrate' when our country was attacked and at war. We have many things to celebrate as Americans, but being sucker-punched by terrorists is not one of them."

President Bush has designated September 11 as Patriot Day – a day to honor brave firefighters, police officers, office workers, rescue workers, airline employees, passenger and everyone that lost their lives in the September 11, 2001 attacks on America.

According to news stories, cities across the nation are planning commemorative services that include bell tolling, public remembrance services and patriotic music demonstrations. Many communities in our region are doing the same. Thief River Falls will be tolling bells at 7:45 a.m. Northland Community and Technical College student association is planning a Patriot Day celebration.

Of course, there are other questions we must ask.

Have the events of Sept. 11 changed our lives? I suppose we can all answer yes, if we are among the millions of individuals who traveled last year; or, if we attend church more regularly; or, if we are a little more patriotic and press our hands to our chests when the flag passes by; or, if we are a little more sensitive to what might pass as suspicious activity; or, if we lost a loved one or acquaintance or friend in the events of Sept. 11; or, if you had a friend, relative or neighbor who went to war in Afghanistan; or, if we worry about a repeat of those events; or, if we simply worry more. I suppose the answer would be yes for most of us, and in many ways we might not even recognize. Some say we've lost some of our rights as citizens. They say it's suddenly much more acceptable for government officials to search through personal belongings, enter homes, demand answers to questions no one used to ask or dared to ask. Some say we no longer have the right to express unpopular ideas.

So what will you do on Sept. 11?

I would like to suggest a moment of silence to remember those who were lost, those who came to the rescue, and a nation of people who cherish freedom.

Minnesota Safety Council Marks September 11 With Free Online First Aid Training

The Minnesota Safety Council, in partnership with the National Safety Council, encourages Minnesotans to take an online basic first aid and CPR training course free of charge from September 11-18, available at http://www.mnsafetycouncil.org/firstaid.htm.

Timed to commemorate the first anniversary of the tragedies of September 11, the free online course helps citizens make a difference in their communities. "During this important time, many of us will look for opportunities to take action—to do something," said Minnesota Safety Council President Carol Bufton. "Learning the basics of first aid helps us be prepared to make an important contribution in ordinary—and extraordinary—situations."

The interactive basic first aid and CPR course, developed by the National Safety Council in partnership with Jones and Bartlett Publishers, uses advanced graphics, interactive animations, realistic sound effects and video clips. Participants obtain comprehensive knowledge, while experiencing the sights and sounds of real emergency situations. The course usually takes about two hours to complete, but it can be taken at one's own pace. Certification is not provided with the Basic First Aid and CPR program. People requiring certification must take courses that include hands-on skill training.

Signing up in advance is not necessary. Beginning at 7 a.m. on September 11 and continuing through September18, the free program will be available through a link from the Minnesota Safety Council Web site at http://www.mnsafetycouncil.org/firstaid.htm.

The Minnesota Safety Council, a chapter of the National Safety Council, is a private, not-for-profit organization, founded in 1928 and dedicated to preventing unintentional injuries ("accidents") through education. It offers training and consultation in workplace, traffic, home and community safety.

Riverview Diabetes Support Groups begins 10th year

The first fall meeting of the Diabetes Support Group will be held at 4:30 p.m. on Wednesday, September 11, in the Riverview boardroom. Cindy Flannery, RD, certified diabetes educator, will speak on the topic of "Blood Glucose Monitoring and Meters."

The Riverview Diabetes Support Group was established in 1993. Its purpose is to provide persons living with diabetes, their family members and friends, the opportunity to share their similar experiences and to increase their knowledge of diabetes through education. The group meets monthly from September through May each year. Most meetings include a topic presentation and time to share personal experiences, successes and concerns. The meetings are free and anyone with an interest in diabetes is welcome.

Featured speakers this year will include Dr. William Erickson, DDS, who will address issues related to dental care for persons with diabetes, and Dr. Ian Revie, MD, who will speak on the prevention and treatment of diabetic eye disease. Some of the other topics that will be addressed include nutrition, managing depression and stress, and new developments in insulin. An anniversary party will be held in February 2003, to celebrate the Support Group's 10th year.

The Medicine Shoppe
National Prescription Centers
207 Second Street East • Thief River Falls, MN 56701 • (218) 681-8300

Dear Customers and Business Associates,

Since September 10, 1982, Dosser Pharmacies, Inc has operated as an independent pharmacy under a franchise agreement with Medicine Shoppe. The term of this agreement is twenty years. For personal and professional reasons, I have decided to close my business and join the Pamida Pharmacy team right here in Thief River Falls.

During early discussions with Pamida, I came to the conclusion that Pamida's patient care philosophy mirrors my own commitment to my customers. Pamida's primary concern is the health and well-being of their patients. They utilize today's top technology to screen for drug interactions and potential side effects, and verify appropriate dosing. Pamida maintains a personal history for each individual, which includes medication history, allergy information and profiles for tax purposes. They also process a majority of the insurance carriers.

As my staff and I anticipate joining the Pamida Pharmacy team, we want to continue to serve you there, where our prescription records and inventory will be relocated. We have worked very hard on a smooth business transition plan to minimize any inconvenience to you, our valued customers and business associates.

We will offer full prescription services at our current location until 6 PM on September 10, 2002. After September 10, 2002, we will be part of the pharmacy team at Thief River Falls Pamida Pharmacy located on Hwy 59 South, just across from the Dakota Clinic.

Currently, Pamida Pharmacy business hours are 9 AM to 6 PM, Monday through Friday and 9 AM to 3 PM on Saturday. We will look forward to seeing you there

Sincerely,

Don Dosser, RPh

Pregnant Teens and Young Parents Who Became Pregnant As Teenagers

Are you interested in sharing your pregnancy and parenting story with other teens to help prevent further teen pregnancies?

The Family Advocacy Program and Inter-County Nursing Service are looking for pregnant and parenting teens to staff the "Teens Reaching Out Panel" for the 2002-2003 school year. You can make money as you are trained and as you give presentations to area schools and community organizations. You will be paired with other experienced teen presenters, in a panel format, including other pregnant and parenting teen moms and dads. You will be expected to attend 5 evening training sessions and be available approximately one day per month to present. Training will begin on October 21st.

To receive an application or more information on existing teen panel presentations, call Jill Johnson at (218) 681-8711 ext. 242

Mustangs sweep volleyball match...

RLCC experience too much for TRF

Erika Ramstorf is still searching for the right Thief River Falls line-up combination. Nancy Bray, on the other hand, is simply looking to fine-tune an experienced Red Lake County Central roster. As a result, an early-season encounter between the two high school volleyball teams produced a 3-0 sweep for the visiting Mustangs Tuesday.

The 15-5, 15-7, 15-3 decision was the third straight shutout loss to start the season for the Prowlers.

"We still have a lot of work to do," acknowledged Ramstorf. "We're still putting the pieces together."

In trying to solve the puzzle, Ramstorf substituted extensively. "We're trying to find the right combinations," she explained. "Things aren't clicking yet."

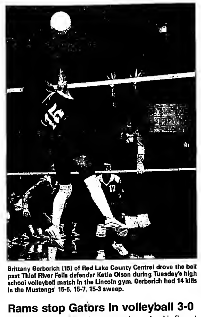
Two bench players did catch the eye of Ramstorf. "We were pleased with a couple of players we put in," she said, citing the efforts by senior Jenna Owen in the back row and junior Jasmyn Barth at the net.

Red Lake County Central started the year the previous Thursday with a 3-0 loss, but the 15-0, 15-11, 15-2 setback was at the hands of defending Class A state champion Fosston.

"We played much better than we did the other night," said Bray after beating the Prowlers. "Our passing and our net play was improved."

Brittany Berberich had a 14-kill night for the Mustangs, who scored the first 13 points of the match. They also had a 10-3 start in Game 2.

The Prowlers showed some spark by coming back from a 3-0 deficit to gain a 3-3 Game 3 tie off a Kristen Vanek ace and a Barth kill.



But back-to-back Thief River Falls mistakes took away the serve and began a run of 12 unanswered points for the Mustangs.

It was a step in the right direction, according to Bray, who quickly added, however, that the Mustangs have plenty of room for improvement. "We still need to do a better job serving and passing," she said. "We missed some serves tonight, and we need to get the ball up there with better passes to give ourselves more options."

Red Lake County Central won the junior varsity match 16-14, 15-9. Thief River Falls was a 15-4, 15-13 winner in the C squad contest.

Scoring

■ Kills - (RLCC) Brittany Berberich 14, Michelle Halvorson 6; (TRF) Melissa Skjerven 4, Jasmyn Barth 2.
■ Assists - (RLCC) Michelle Halvorson 14, Maureen Munt 8; (TRF) Kayla Loe 7.
■ Aces - (RLCC) Michelle Halvorson 3, (TRF) Holly Peterson 1, Kristen Vanek 1.

Brittany Berberich (15) of Red Lake County Central drove the ball past Thief River Falls defender Katie Olson during Tuesday's high school volleyball match in the Lincoln gym. Berberich had 14 kills in the Mustangs' 15-5, 15-7, 15-3 sweep.

NCTC starts league play with 3-0 sweep

A 3-0 road win over Itasca opened the 2002 Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division volleyball schedule for Northland Wednesday.

The Pioneers beat the Vikings 30-19, 30-26, 30-28.

It was a come-from-behind effort in all three games for the Pioneers, who trailed 9-3 in Game 1; fell behind 10-4 in Game 2; and faced a 26-21 deficit in Game 3.

Northland won despite the fact that sophomore starters Sara Gross and Lindsay Wegge both missed the match. Gross, a hitter from Blackduck, was sidelined by a dislocated shoulder. Wegge, a setter from Nielsville, sat out due to a concussion.

"We had some sophomores who stepped up and got the job done," pointed out Northland coach Mike Zachow.

Stacy Vedbraaten was one of the veterans who met the challenge. The Win-E-Mac graduate had service runs in all three games while turning in a perfect 28-for-28 night at the service line. As a team, the Pioneers were good on 87 of their 78 serves.

The Northland attack was led by sophomore Christel Berube of Fisher, who had 16 kills and seven blocks.

Thief River Falls sophomore Sara Jensen had a modest match total, but her nine kills were delievered at key times during the night.

With Wegge out, sophomores Cindy Lambert of Oklee took on additional duties in the setter department and finished with 17 assists.

"Those four sophomores really did the job for us," noted Zachow. "We had same kids who struggled. I think the freshmen felt some of the pressure playing their first conference match."

Northland took a 5-4 overall record into a Friday home match against Mesabi Range. The Pioneers host Vermilion today (Saturday) at noon.

Rams stop Gators in volleyball 3-0

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River turned in a competitive performance against perennial power Roseau, but still lost a 3-0 Tuesday high school volleyball match.

The host Rams won 15-10, 15-6, 15-12.

"We could play with them at times," reported Gators coach Christine Adrian. "We had some good stretches. There were some long rallies."

The Gators reached double figures on the scoreboard in Games 1 and 3 while forcing several service rotations with the Rams sitting at 14 points. But they couldn't complete the upset bid.

"They (Rams) have a couple more weapons than we do," pointed out Adrian, whose team lost for the first time in three starts.

Our Seamless gutters are manufactured from .032 gauge pre-painted aluminum, the heaviest gauge used in the industry. If your home is 20 feet or 200 feet in length our seamless gutter is made in one continuous length, eliminating any joints or seams in the middle. Inquire before you purchase "Seamless Gutter" about the thickness of the material used and be certain that it is made in one continuous length.
Seamless gutter is formed, cut and installed on site by a two-man crew, saving on labor cost. Freight charges are eliminated. Waste is almost unheard of due to gutter being measured and cut on-site to exact lengths. No need to store left over odds and ends that get damaged before they can be used. Most jobs can be completed the same day. Call us for complete information and free estimates of your job at no obligation to you.

RLCC takes first-game hit from Ulen-Hitterdal

Ulen-Hitterdal scored 44 second half points en route to a 58-0 Friday (Aug. 30) high school football win over Red Lake County Central. The game at Plummer was the 2002 season opener for both teams.

The Spartans led 8-0 after one quarter and took a 14-0 lead into intermission. They doubled the margin to 28-0 in the third quarter, then added 30 final quarter points.

Ulen-Hitterdal quarterback Kirby Jacobson scored two touchdowns and passed for two more.

"They're a pretty good team," said Red Lake County Central coach Gary Brantl. "We were behind 14-0, but actually, we hadn't played too bad in the first half. We didn't move the ball a lot, but we did move it some. In the second half, they recognized our weakness."

The Mustangs were limited to 68 total yards, with Nick Vettleson gaining 50 yards on 13 carries and Charles Magnell picking up 28 yards on five attempts. Red Lake County Central was 0-for-6 in the passing department.

Vettleson led the Mustangs' defense with 15 tackles and four assisted stops. Magnell was credited with eight tackles; Lucas Goulet had seven tackles; and Wade Longtin wound up with four tackles and two assists.

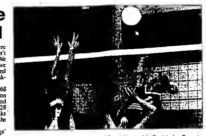
Nordics drop volleyball opener against S-A, 3-0



Marshall County Central had trouble mounting an attack Tuesday in a season-opening 3-0 high school volleyball loss to host Stephen-Argyle.

The Storm won 15-5, 15-2, 15-10.

"Not a good start," admitted first-year Marshall County Central coach Missy Foslien. "We missed nine serves, which didn't help, and our passing needs to get better. But we're hoping to improve."

MCC Scoring

■ Kills - Kari Holmstrom 3, Jordan Holthusen 3

Megan Gunderson came up with a kill on this Red Lake County Central hit against Thief River Falls defender Katie Olson in high school volleyball action Tuesday. The Mustangs beat the Prowlers 3-0.

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke is beaten by Warroad 3-2

Warroad was a come-from-behind 3-2 high school volleyball winner over visiting Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke Tuesday.

"It was a fun match to watch," offered Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Jean Schulz. "We are two evenly-matched teams."

Warroad fell behind 2-1 before wining the marathon contest 15-11, 11-15, 5-15, 15-11, 15-12.

After falling behind, the Wolverines battled gamely down the stretch, pointed out Schulz. "Our kids worked hard, but they (Warroad) just got too far ahead," she explained.

It was the second loss in as many starts for the Wolverines, who dropped a season-opening 3-0 match to Badger/Greenbush-Middle River the previous Thursday. "We played a lot better than we did against B/G-MR," noted Schulz.

TRF JV football team is winner in season debut

Thief River Falls junior varsity high school football team opened its 2002 season with a 20-9 Tuesday win at East Grand Forks.

Alec Holen scored on runs of 1 and 2 yards; Reid Haviland was on the receiving end of a 40-yard touchdown pass from Thain Abrahamson; and Dean Haugen caught a conversion pass from Dana Dallmann to account for the Prowlers' scoring.

The two teams played to a 6-6 first quarter tie. Thief River Falls led 12-9 at halftime

Kalinoski wins crown in first cross country meet

Stacia Kalinoski is doing double-duty this spring as a member of both the Thief River Falls girls tennis and cross country teams. The senior ran her first-ever cross country race Thursday – and won. She beat 28 other entries to highlight the Prowlers' performances at the Roseau Invitational.

"Awesome," was the way Thief River Falls coach Greg Ueland described Kalinoski's debut. "I am amazed by her mental toughness."

Thief River Falls boys also had a strong individual race turned in by Nathan Browning, who placed fifth in a 26-runner field.

The Prowlers ran second to Warroad in the boys varsity race. The Prowlers did not field a complete girls team.

"It was a great day for us," said Ueland. "Everyone had a very strong performance in tough, hot conditions."

Mistakes beat Gators

Elimination of first-game mistakes was the focus during high school football practice this week at Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

The Gators out-played host Walker-Hackensack-Akeley in the 2002 opener, but lost a 26-9 Friday (Aug. 30) decision primarily due to 16 penalties.

"As coaches, we were pleased with the physical part of it," noted Gators coach Kent Janicke, "but we didn't get it done mentally."

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River rushed for 312 yards and had 384 yards of total offense. Walker-Hackensack-Akeley netted just 36 yards on the ground, but did throw for 170 yards.

Dane Hanson, a 6-2, 215-pound junior fullback led the Gators' offense by rushing for 142 yards and scoring all of his team's points on a 2-yard touchdown run and a 20-yard field goal in the first half.

"We should have been up 16-8 at halftime, but instead we were down 14-9," pointed out Janicke.

The Gators finished with a 15-5 advantage in the first down department, but the 145 yards in penalties stymied the attack. The Wolves, meanwhile, were flagged for just two penalties.

A late-game Walker-Hackensack-Akeley interception return for a touchdown inflated the final spread.

Janicke looks for the Gators to make a big improvement on last year's 1-8 finish. Only two seniors were lost to graduation off that team – a squad that lost five games by a touchdown or less.

Hanson, who doubles as a linebacker, is expected to be one of the Gators' leaders this fall.

Janicke said key contributions should also come from junior Kyle Gregerson at offensive guard and linebacker; senior Kevin Johnson at offensive and defensive tackle; senior Tim Dion at half back and defensive back; and senior Brad Peterson at offensive and defensive tackle.

Playing both offense and defense is a must for most of the Gators, explained Janicke. "We just don't have the numbers," he said. "That's the one thing that could hurt us."

Wolverines swept by Bears; Nordics lose 3-2 against Wildcats

A strong Lake of the Woods squad swept Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke 15-2, 15-8, 15-1 Thursday in high school volleyball at Baudette.

"They have a very good team," pointed out coach Jean Schulz of the 0-3 Wolverines. "They're very quick. Our reaction time was a little slow."

Elsewhere Thursday, Tri-County outlasted host Marshall County Central 15-7, 12-15, 15-12, 7-15, 15-8.

"It was an improvement," reported Marshall County Central coach Missy Foslien, whose team fell to Stephen-Argyle 3-0 in the 2002 opener. "We played a lot better than we did Tuesday. Now we just need to learn how to win."

The Nordics' efforts featured a 16-for-16 serving performance by Kari Holmstrom.

Bemidji is winner vs. TRF

Even though it was a fourth straight loss to open the 2002 high school volleyball season, Thief River Falls found reason to be optimistic Thursday in a 3-1 North Sub-Section 8AAA setback at the hands of visiting Bemidji.

Consistency was a missing ingredient on both sides as the Lumberjacks came out a 15-1, 14-16, 15-5, 15-13 winner.

The Prowlers, who lost earlier 3-0 matches to Crookston, Stephen-Argyle and Red Lake County Central, had problems at the start. "We couldn't get it together as a team," said Thief River Falls coach Erika Ramstorf. "Serve reception was a problem."

Led by the net play of Katie Olson and Melissa Skjerven, a second-game turnaround raised the Prowlers' spirits, and their confidence level, according to Ramstorf. "Things started to click," she said. "We did a lot of things well."

But the momentum was back in the Bemidji court for Game 3, and the Lumberjacks held off the Prowlers' match-extending bid in a back-and-forth Game 4.

"We did some good things," noted Ramstorf. "Now we need to work on our consistency."

Bemidji won the junior varsity match 16-14, 15-13, dropping Thief River Falls to 1-3 for the year.

Scoring

■ Kills - (TRF) Katie Olson 6, Melissa Skjerven 6, Ally Torstveit 5, (Bemidji) Nikki Daniels 9, Lindsey Gregg 6
■ Assists - (TRF) Holly Peterson 9, Kayla Loe 7; (Bemidji) Alicia Fairchild 42.
■ Aces - (TRF) Kristen Vanek 3, Katie Olson 3; (Bemidji) Karsha Ball 5.

Nordics strike early

Striking from long range, Marshall County Central opened the 2002 high school football season with a 26-12 Thursday (Aug. 29) win over host Ada-Borup.

Things started with a bang when the Nordics' Nathan Bennett returned the game's opening kickoff 85 yards for a touchdown. It was the second straight year Marshall County Central started the season with a kickoff return for a score – a feat accomplished by Louis Peterson in 2001.

Marshall County Central later added breakaway touchdown runs by Pat Brons that covered 50 yards, Bennett that went 55 yards and Joey Hogberg for 46 yards.

Ada-Borup also had a long-range scoring play when Logan Christianson went 65 yards for a game-tying second quarter touchdown, but Brons blocked the conversion kick. The Cougars trailed 14-6 at halftime and fell behind 26-6 through three quarters.

"When we executed well, we got the big plays," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Scott Parker.

However, the offense didn't always work to perfection. The Nordics fumbled 10 times. "We definitely got some things to work on," acknowledged Parker.

When they did hold on to the ball, the Nordics netted 321 yards on 54 plays. All of those yards came on the ground, with Bennett gaining 144 yards on 19 carries. The winners with 0-for-3 passing.

to think of it as a place women can retreat to to get away from their everyday stresses.

The unique thing about Curves is the 30-minute circuit. A series of workout machines are placed in a circle with stationary platforms between each machine. The ladies exercise to special music that times them in 30-second increments. Once 30 seconds passes, they get off the machine and move on to a platform and run in place, do jumping jacks or whatever they like for 30 more seconds. They then move on to the next machine. The workout is timed so that whichever machine a person starts at, in the 30-minute session, they will have gone through the circuit 3 times. The women are encouraged to do some stretches at the end of their workout; this prevents any injuries that may occur by having tightened muscles.

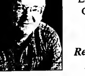
Women who join Curves are asked to commit to a year's worth of exercising. Kari says at an average of a dollar a day, most women say it's the best money they've ever spent.

One of Kari's main missions for Curves is to help her clients and keep them happy. She wants to educate them about the benefits of staying healthy and in shape. With the outpouring of success stories Kari has heard from women who say Curves has changed their lives, she knows she is successful.

Before she decided to pour herself into her this business venture, Kari says she prayed a lot to make sure this is what she should be doing. "If it's supposed to happen, it'll happen." And it has. With the number of women joining Curves climbing every day, Kari finds the greatest successes are sometimes not hers, but those of her clients.

Minnesota to "Remember the Heroes" on September 11

On September 11, Minnesota will "Remember the Heroes" of last year's terrorist attacks in America. The day will include a show of statewide solidarity with a moment of commemoration and remembrance at 7:46 a.m.



Law enforcement, firefighters, EMS, churches, schools and other community organizations across Minnesota will be sounding sirens, ringing bells or showing other acts of solidarity at precisely 7:46 a.m., the time when the first airplane struck the World Trade Center in New York. They will showing their solidarity and recognizing a moment of commemoration for 30 seconds.

Business Basics class scheduled for September 10

A "Business Basics" class will be offered on September 10 from 6 to 8 p.m. at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls.

The class is targeted toward women who are interested in learning more about the basics of getting started in business along with marketing basics and financing resources.

The class is being sponsored by the Minnesota Women's Business Center and is free of charge. Preregistration is required, so call the MWBC toll-free at 1-877-908-9469 to reserve a seat.

maintain its focus on meeting the community's needs well into the future.

Lyle and his wife Gabriel have three children: Gretchen, 21, Molly, 19, and Tyler, 17.

Karen Kirkeby has been an interior decorator with Paint and Glass Designs of Thief River Falls for 16 years. She has served on the hospital board for the past six years. While on the board, she has served on the executive, finance and strategic planning committees, and has attended numerous board seminars and board orientations. She serves as the board secretary.

Karen Kirkeby has been active in the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce and is a past chairperson for the Ambassadors and Retail Business Association. She is also active in Zion Lutheran Church and has served on the Zion Church Council and as Sunday School Superintendent. She has also served on the Parent Teacher Advisory Committee at Franklin Middle School.

Karen and her husband David live in rural Thief River Falls. David is the general manager of Cenex/Farmer's Union. They have two adult daughters, who both live in Fargo, N.D.

Karen believes the expansion of services through the Altru Clinic in Thief River Falls will help the community meet its healthcare needs as close to home as possible while also strengthening our community hospital and ensuring the hospital's future.

The purpose of the regular (annual) meeting is also to hear various reports from officers and committees. On Tuesday, September 10, these reports will follow a presentation by Chad Tabatt entitled, "Work Rehab Assists Employees and Employers."

It is the desire of the board to distribute the April 30, 2002, Northwest Medical Center Annual Report in the mail prior to the September 10, 2002 meeting.

On your mark, get set...slow

Speeding motorists will be arriving late for appointments all across Minnesota from September 7 through 14 when law enforcement agencies statewide conduct a Safe & Sober enhanced enforcement campaign, the Minnesota Department of Public Safety (OPS) Office of Traffic Safety (OTS) announced Thursday.

Last year in Minnesota, driving at illegal or unsafe speeds was the leading contributing factor in 144 fatal crashes, resulting in 158 deaths and nearly 7,700 injuries. Records indicate that roughly 80 percent of these speeding-related fatalities occurred on non-interstate highways. In 2001, the cost of speeding-related crashes in Minnesota was estimated at more than $329 million.

"To all those lead foots out there - beware," said OPS Commissioner Charlie Weaver. "Slow down and be a couple of minutes late, or speed and we'll guarantee you get there - much later."

Despite popular belief, OTS said speeding saves motorists very little time. For a 10-mile trip, traveling at 65 miles per hour (mph) versus 55 mph will only save a driver one minute and 41 seconds. Those motorists who are stopped and fined by police for speeding definitely lose time.

OTS reports two-thirds of all drivers admit to occasionally exceeding what they consider to be the maximum safe speed. Research shows motorists wrongly believe that speeding is not a great risk to safety or as serious as other traffic violations. However, motorists driving at unsafe speeds face a greater potential for loss of vehicle control, an increased stopping distance and an increased degree of crash severity, leading to more severe injuries.

More than 350 law enforcement agencies will be hitting the roads to not only cite racers, but to educate motorists of the dangers and consequences of speeding.

The enforcement effort is a component of OPS Safe & Sober campaign, which is funded by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. The Safe & Sober program is designed to reduce the number of traffic crashes and injuries.

These ladies seem to having a pretty good time while working out at Curves for Women in Thief River Falls. Often times friends will meet up to exercise and chat about their days while they burn some calories on the 30-minute circuit of workout equipment.

Governor calls special session

Special session begins at noon September 19

Thursday, Minnesota Governor Jesse Ventura called for a special session of the state legislature to deal with the flood disaster relief for northwestern Minnesota. The session will begin at noon on Thursday, September 19.

Ventura and Lt. Governor Smoot said Wednesday evening that progress had been made on what the relief package for northwestern Minnesota and that he expected a special session to be called sometime next week.

Stumpf said that in his travels through the region, he was worried about the attitude of some of the residents in northwestern Minnesota. He said several people appeared to be tired over the lack of warmer fair and from the state and were starting repairs to their homes on hold. Some weren't sure they were going to rebuild.

Rosenau, Midtstream, and Stumpf were among the committee leaders hit by the June rain-and flooding, but the federal disaster declarations, stemming from those rains and flooding, apply to 19 counties statewide.

In a news release issued Thursday, Senator Roger Moe said residents of northwestern Minnesota can look forward to badly needed state financial relief. "It's a fair and balanced package that addresses the most pressing concerns. With the fall harvest and winter home not too far off, the regions need to receive funds from the state as soon as possible."

Senators Moe and Stumpf said the governor and his administration had basically agreed to an aid package that will provide $21.5 million in state relief, including $11.1 million from the state general fund. The package also includes $7.4 million for property tax reductions and $3 million in appropriations and $5 million in allocations from the contract budget.

Brasbury will be used to provide the federal emergency relief money. The package includes $10 million for flood control and breaking, and funding for tax abatements to damaged and destroyed properties.

Stumpf and Moe both indicated that funding flexibility was important to the Northwest delegation.

Governor Ventura said this session is expected during his legislative leaders earlier on Thursday.

RLF School Board to put referendum on November ballot

Red Lake Falls - With declining enrollment and the loss of state aid that goes with it, money could be in short supply for the Red Lake Falls Public Schools.

The Red Lake Falls School Board held a special meeting last Wednesday to discuss putting a referendum on the ballot for the general election in November.

"We try to buy our band instrument, and we need new science equipment," Superintendent Al Foley said the school board. "We haven't bought a new bus for the last couple years, and the look of the bus is getting..."

Foley said the board the referendum, stating with in case of $250,000 over the next five years, would be needed to keep the budget balanced. (Red Lake Falls Gazette, September 11, 2002, by Jody Kenfield)

County sets levy, reduces taxes $130,000

Kittson County - Under levy limits set by the state of Minnesota, Kittson County Commissioners approved a levy of $1,996,882, a reduction of $133,148 in taxes in the county.

Commissioners approved the proposed levy at the Sept. 3 meeting.

Kittson County Auditor Marilyn Quotidian said each year the levy limits get more and more stringent.

She said the solutions were "not to be based on the response to taxpayers' requests for reduced taxes."

The levy limit for each county is based on a "legal" formula, which takes into account how many working people moving into and out of the county, as well as number of other factors. (Kittson County Enterprise, September 11, 2002, by Chris Stewart)

New school playground built with community assistance

Crystal - The ground site has been prepared, tiling has been put in place, and the new playground has been put together and installed for the new playground at the Crystal School.

Principal Loren Lonjaran said he was very pleased with the now-finishing, support from the community. Large numbers of parents and citizens showed up each day from Friday through Sunday to offer their help.

Work included reading plans and instructions, putting together all the various parts in the playground, digging holes, setting footings, finding holes, installing all the main supporting posts, pouring concrete, leveling and securing with a fabric layer and rock.

Lonjaran said wood chips will be put in the area and that local lover for the playground the Volunteers will still be needed to spread the chips by hand because the wet ground has created conditions where a vehicle would damage the surface. (Crystal Eagle, September 12, 2002)

Despite turnout variations, area results similar to rest of Minn.

by April Schelstadu
Reporter

Across the area, voter turnout varied for the primary election. With 10.1 percent voter turnout, Kittson County had the lowest voter turnout for area counties. Marshall County had the highest voter turnout with 37.5 percent.

Despite the numerous choices for some offices, voters in Pennington, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake and Polk counties voted for many of the same way as the majority of Minnesotan voters. Most voters in these counties voted for either North Coleman or Paul Wellstone for U.S. Senator. In the governor's race, the same thing happened with most voters picking the leading candidates from the Democratic-Farmer-Labor, Republican, Green and Independence Parties.

With the exception of a few races, local races did not have more than two candidates from the same party in the primary's race, which is unfortunate. David Huntington and Ted Lunstrigge were chosen to move on to the general election.

The Kittson County Commissioner District 5 position is also unopposed. Jay Burton and Betty Youngpeter were chosen to move on to the general election for this position.

Two other local elections had more than one person running for a particular party's nomination. Rod Skow was chosen to move on as the Democratic-Farmer-Labor Party's candidate for County Sheriff. Dan Starr

Nelson Inc. knows how to promote

Nelson Ink's web site, which the company introduced in 1999, helps their customers understand what their business is all about and keeps them current with the newest trends in promotional products. Nelson Ink's web site can be found at www.nelsonink.com

It's a common fact that people love free stuff. The more free stuff, the better, right? What better way to get your business name out there than to give away free stuff? Of course, you can advertise in a newspaper, on the radio or on TV, the way to get people to remember your business' name is to give them something that they can use and keep with them, a constant reminder of the goods or services you provide.

This is where Bryce and Melissa Nelson come in. The couple owns and operates Nelson Ink in Middle River, a company that specializes in promotional products. They design, [illegible] and print [illegible] business cards to mugs to key tags. Businesses and organizations then distribute these items to people they think would like, or do business with. It's a pretty simple concept, but not many people know where to find such services.

Nelson Ink actually started out when Bryce's father began a screen-printing business in his garage, and Melissa met at Adams. Bryce and Melissa originally from She had an associate's degree in graphic design, and Bryce has had [illegible] business administration. They eventually got married and lived in Bryce's hometown of Middle River. Soon after, in September 1999, they took over the screen-printing business from Bryce's father and called it Nelson Ink.

Over time, the couple only worked with screen-printing and graphic design, but their business started to grow, they got more design and

Area enrollments decline

by April Schelstadu
Reporter

Several school districts are facing a decline in enrollment figures for this school year. The Goodridge, Newfolden, Plummer, Thief River Falls, Tri-County and Warroad School Districts have less students enrolled than last year during the 2002-2003 school year.

Goodridge School 564 (Thief River Falls) has the largest decline in numbers, from 2,122 students at the end of the last school year to 2,100 students at the beginning of this school year.

The Tri-County School District has the next biggest decrease. This district went from having 356 students last school year to 347 students so far this school year.

The Warroad School District saw an 11 student decrease when it's enrollment at 1,311 students for this school year. The Newfolden, Plummer, Red Lake Falls and WARROAD/Argosy School Districts have single-digit decreases.

Three school districts have enrollment increases. The Greenbush/Middle River, Grygla and Oklee School Districts saw slight increases in comparison to last year.

The Oklee and Plummer School Districts are sharing facilities this academic year. Both school districts have their own kindergarten classes through the Plummer School. Students in the Oklee School District has both Oklee and Plummer, split through eighth graders. The Oklee School District has both of the districts' ninth through twelfth graders.

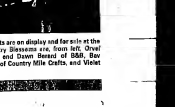
Sisler's Country Blossoms blooms with area talent

by Jenny Nicholson
Reporter

For many people, finding and buying just the right gift can be overwhelming. Whether you're looking for a wedding present, a baby shower gift or a birthday present, there's a wide variety to choose from. If you're looking for a little gift for yourself, there's a place right here in Thief River Falls that many people are overlooking – The Artist's Attic located in the upper level of Sisler's Country Blossoms.



It's not widely known, but Beth Sisler and her staff have a wide variety of gifts for sale on the second floor of the flower and gift shop to meet artistic and creative [illegible] knickknacks.

In recent months, area crafters and artists have received word of the Artist's Attic and the overabundance of locally made goods to showcase their work specifically.

The Artist's Attic is a place for those who make handmade arts and crafts to bring their items to sell to the public. Sisler's provides a four-by-six floor space, free advertising, sales reports and a sales associate. The artists must provide their own display items and their inventory and pay a $25 monthly fee plus six percent of their sales for consignment and [illegible].

Currently about 13 spaces are being used by various artists. Kelly Van Schaick, who is in charge of the Artist's Attic, said that there are a few more spaces coming in but they still have 25 spaces in the basement of the store that can be opened up if needed. She also notes that space

Mac to host annual Market and Craft Day event

McIntosh - The 1?th annual Market and Craft Day celebration will be held in McIntosh on Saturday, September 14. Each year, the McIntosh Booster Club and Retail Committee sponsor this event to allow local gardeners, craft people and artists an opportunity to display their produce and creations.

Booths and tables will be set up in the McIntosh Fire Hall where residents will find a variety of items ranging from jellies and produce to wood crafts or figurines. Many of the crafters that have displayed in previous years will be exhibiting, and many new craft people have reserved spaces to display their creations. Area residents are encouraged to bring their holiday gift list and get an early start on shopping for that special item. - McIntosh Times, September 11, 2002

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Is it fall yet? Anyway, there are signs that summer is coming to an end, so we might as well have some recipes for cooler days.

Everybody wants salsa at this time of year. Here's one with no tomatoes that you might like to try some time:

AVOCADO SALSA

1 (16 ounce) package frozen corn, thawed
2 (2 1/4 ounces each) cans sliced ripe olives, drained
1 medium sweet red pepper, chopped
1 small onion, chopped
5 garlic cloves, minced
1/3 cup olive or vegetable oil
1/4 cup lemon juice
3 tablespoons cider or white wine vinegar
1 teaspoon dried oregano
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
4 medium ripe avocados
Tortilla chips

In large bowl, combine corn, olives, red pepper and onion.

In small bowl, combine garlic, oil, lemon juice, vinegar, oregano, salt and pepper, mixing well. Pour over corn mixture and toss to coat. Cover and refrigerate overnight.

Just before serving, chop avocados and stir into salad. Serve with tortilla chips. Makes about 7 cups.

Do you have some of those nice little red potatoes – make a tasty side dish or appetizer with them:

TWICE-BAKED NEW POTATOES

1 1/2 pounds small red potatoes
2 to 3 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 (4 ounces) cup shredded Monterrey Jack cheese
1/2 cup sour cream
1 (3 ounces) package cream cheese, softened
1/2 cup minced green onions
1 teaspoon dried basil
1 garlic clove, minced
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 pound sliced bacon, cooked and crumbled

Pierce potatoes. Rub skins with oil and place in baking pan. Bake, uncovered, at 400 degrees for about 50 minutes or until tender. Cool to the touch.

In mixing bowl, combine Monterrey Jack cheese, sour cream, cream cheese, onions, basil, garlic, salt and pepper.

Cut potatoes in half. Carefully scoop out pulp, leaving a thin shell. Add pulp to the cheese mixture and mash. Stir in bacon.

Stuff potato shells. To serve, broil for 7-8 minutes or until heated through. (Makes about 2 dozen potato halves.)

Pork is so tasty and lean now – it makes a wonderful meal with the little red potatoes above:

BROILED PORK CHOPS

3/4 cup ketchup
3/4 cup water
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
1/8 teaspoon pepper
6 pork loin chops, 3/4 inch thick.

In saucepan, combine ketchup, water, vinegar, Worcestershire, brown sugar, salt, paprika, chili powder and pepper. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat and simmer for 5 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Set aside half of the sauce. Place chops on broiling pan rack. Broil about 4 inches from the heat for 4 minutes on each side. Brush with some of the sauce and continue broiling, turning and basting occasionally, for 3-4 minutes, until juices run clean. Serve with reserved sauce.

Roast beef is the heart of a meal when it's made like this one – serve with your favorite mashed potatoes for a real treat:

FALL POT ROAST

1 garlic clove, minced
2 tablespoons oil
1 boneless rump roast (5-6 pounds)
3 tablespoons cider or red wine vinegar
1/2 cup tomato juice
2 tablespoons ketchup
1 tablespoon sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
8 medium carrots, cut into thirds
1/2 pound small whole onions
1/2 cup flour
1 cup cold water
Salt and pepper to taste

In Dutch oven over medium heat, sauté garlic in oil for 1 minute. Add the roast and brown on all sides.

Combine vinegar, tomato juice, ketchup, sugar, salt and pepper. Pour over roast. Cover and simmer for 2 hours.

Add carrots and onions, cover and cook for 1 hour or until meat and vegetables are tender. Place on serving platter and keep warm.

Skim fat from pan juices. Add water to juices to measure 3 cups.

Mix flour and cold water until smooth. Stir into pan juices. Bring to boil and cook and stir for 2 minutes. Season with salt and pepper. Slice roast and serve with vegetables and gravy.

This is a wonderful, tasty fall soup for those of you who are watching what you eat:

CARROT APPLE SOUP

1 tablespoon reduced fat margarine
8 medium carrots, thinly sliced
2 medium tart apples, peeled and chopped
1 medium onion, chopped
1 celery rib, thinly sliced
5 cups low sodium chicken broth
1/2 teaspoon rubbed sage
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 bay leaf

In large saucepan, melt margarine. Add carrots, apples, onion and celery. Cook and stir until onion is tender, about 5 minutes.

Add broth, sage, pepper and bay leaf. Bring to a boil, reduce heat, cover and simmer 20 minutes or until carrots are tender.

Remove bay leaf. Let stand for 5 minutes to cool. Puree one-third of mixture at a time in blender or processor.

Return to saucepan and cover and cook over medium heat until heated through.

One recipe serves 7. One (1 cup) serving equals 1 vegetable, 1/2 fruit, 1/2 fat, 90 calories, 131 mg sodium, 4 mg chol, 16 gm carb, 3 gm protein, 3 gm fat.

ALTERNATE DELIVERY SYSTEM

Extension holds livestock grazing tour

The University of Minnesota Extension Service, NRCS, RC & D and the Lake of the Woods Soil and Water Conservation District are sponsoring a free livestock grazing tour for producers in northwestern Minnesota. The tour consists of stops at two Manitoba beef cattle operations and will highlight watering systems, paddock grazing systems, fencing, grass mixtures, nutrient management and cattle-handling facilities.

This full day tour will take place on Monday, September 23. Transportation will be provided. A bus will leave the Lake of the Woods County Government Center at 8 a.m., stopping in Warroad at 8:45 a.m and leaving Roseau at about 5 p.m. Additional transportation for producers in other areas may be available.

The first tour site is near Piney, Manitoba, where tourists will view a solar watering system that pumps from a dugout pond to an enclosed watering tank. The system provides water for approximately 200 head of beef cattle year-round.

The second farm site is near Steinbach, Manitoba, where tourists will view the producer's handling facilities to run 4,800 head of yearlings. The operation runs nine separate herds and rotates the cattle on eight to ten paddocks that utilize one watering system for each herd. This ranch is larger than most, but the general principles can be applied to most cow/calf operations.

A fencing specialist will be present to discuss fencing materials, techniques and to answer questions. There will also be a demonstration on utilizing high tensile fencing systems. Participants will be able to visit with the producers, find out what forages work for them, view the results of their pasture management efforts and ask questions. Informational materials will also be provided.

To register and receive an information packet, call Les Lemm or Cade Steffenson at the Lake of the Woods SWCD at (218) 634-1842 ext. 3 or the Lake of the Woods Extension Office at (218) 634-1511 or 1-800-493-1511. The registration deadline is September 17.

Statewide open house for snowmobile enthusiasts

Minnesota United Snowmobilers Association (MnUSA), its member snowmobile clubs and snowmobile dealerships will be holding a statewide open house Saturday, September 21 and Saturday, September 28 at every Minnesota snowmobile dealer. The open house will be held to teach both youths and adults about our state's extensive snowmobile trail system and how those trails are built and maintained. In addition, it will teach youths and adults about the important role the clubs and our state's snowmobile association performs.

MnUSA was formed in 1978 to create a strong, unified voice for the state's leading winter outdoor recreational activity. With a membership of nearly 50,000 individuals and 300 snowmobile clubs, MnUSA promotes safe and responsible snowmobiling.

Warren Living at Home/Block Nurse Program sponsors Memory Walk

The Warren Living at Home/Block Nurse Program will be sponsoring "Step Up" Memory Walk 2002 for the Alzheimer's Association. Beginning October 3, Darlene Akerman, Regional Director of the Alzheimer's Association, will conduct a public presentation on Alzheimer's Disease. The presentation will follow the noon meal at the community center at 110 W. Johnson.

Walkers will assemble at 4 p.m. at the community center, and at 4:30 p.m. they will begin their two mile walk to the Warren Pool and back to the community center. Local law enforcement will provide a safety patrol, and one of the officers may participate in the walk. Nancy Maurstad, R.N., will be available in the event someone needs her help.

The group is looking for people willing to walk and get sponsors for the walk. Participants will receive T-shirts and lunch. Those interested should call (218) 745-4005.

The program chose to sponsor the Alzheimer's Association because the association's local chapter has been supportive of the program for the past two years. The local chapter has helped educate the public and train Warren Living at home/Block Nurse Program staff and volunteers. With their training and support, the program was successful in assisting seven families. The Alzheimer's Association has been an asset to the program and helps it keep its commitment to enable people to stay in their own homes and communities for as long as possible. All money raised will go directly to the local chapter of the Alzheimer's Association.

Wildlife ecologist to discuss Chronic Wasting Disease

Karl J. Martin, Forest Wildlife Research Ecologist for the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources, will present "Chronic Wasting Disease: Wisconsin's Response and Implications for Minnesota" on September 20 from 10 to 11 a.m. The presentation will b held in Youngquist Auditorium, Northwest Research and Outreach Center on the University of Minnesota, Crookston (UMC) campus. The presentation is free and open to the public.

Chronic Wasting Disease (CWD) is a fatal condition that affects wild and captive deer and elk. It is a brain disease related to "Mad Cow Disease."

Martin will present an overview of the disease, possible causes, testing for the disease, human risks, the Wisconsin outbreak, the response regarding management and research and the implications for Minnesota. The presentation will be followed by a question and answer session.

Once predominantly a disease of western states, Wisconsin made headlines in February 2002 with the first case east of the Mississippi River. The first case in Minnesota was detected in early September near Aiken.

While very little is currently known about CWD, the disease has the potential to reduce Minnesota's deer herd to only a fraction of its current abundance, according to UMC Assistant Professor of Wildlife Ecology John Loegering. Implications for the management of captive deer and elk, wild deer and the long-term ecological response are unprecedented.

Martin's presentation is co-sponsored by the UMC Student Chapter of the Wildlife Society, the UMC Natural Resources Program and the Department of Fisheries, Wildlife and Conservation Biology in St. Paul.

Officials discuss budget, land use, transportation in Hallock

The impact of the state budget deficit on Minnesota cities' abilities to deliver services will be discussed by city officials September 25 at the Hallock Senior Center in Hallock. Candidates for the Minnesota Legislature are invited to share their views during a one-hour candidate forum beginning at 4:45 p.m.

The meeting, which is open to elected and appointed city officials as part of the League of Minnesota Cities' 2002 Regional Meetings series "Connecting Cities, Creating Futures," is also a platform to discuss transportation and land use issues faced by cities. The meeting runs from 12:30 - 8:15 p.m.

"As a grassroots, member-based organization, the League strives to support city leaders in their efforts to build quality communities," said Jim Miller, executive director of the League. "One goal for our meetings is to foster dialogue between officials and candidates on the critical issues facing our communities and our state, as well as discuss ideas and potential solutions."

Elected and appointed city officials can register for "Connecting Cities, Creating Futures" and download a full agenda by visiting the League's Web site (www.lmnc.org). A free, one-hour session at 12:30 p.m. will give city leaders an opportunity to explore GovOffice, a web-development tool designed by cities and for cities to communicate with citizens.

The League of Minnesota Cities is a non-profit, membership organization dedicated to helping cities throughout Minnesota build quality communities through excellence in governance, management and citizen services. The League serves its 818 member cities through advocacy, education and training, policy development, risk management and other services.

New Breakthrough Technology in Cataract Eye Surgery
Cataract surgery has become one of the most successfully performed surgical procedures in modern medicine. Now there is a new technique for cataract surgery that makes the experience easier and more comfortable for the patient.
The Clear Cornea technique makes an incision 1/8th of an inch long. The opening is so small, that in most cases, no eye patches or sutures are required.
When making this tiny incision, your doctor uses a sharp diamond blade that causes very little trauma to the eye and allows clearer vision more rapidly than with older techniques. Patients can return to normal activities with minimum interruption in their daily routine.
If you or someone you love has signs of cataracts, such as blurred vision or glare, call or visit your local eye care provider and learn more about this new procedure.

ATTENTION
Pregnant Teens and Young Parents Who Became Pregnant As Teenagers
Are you interested in sharing your pregnancy and parenting story with other teens to help prevent further teen pregnancies?
The Family Advocacy Program and Inter-County Nursing Service are looking for pregnant and parenting teens to staff the "Teens Reaching Out Panel" for the 2002-2003 school year. You can make money as you are trained and as you give presentations to area schools and community organizations. You will be paired with other experienced teen presenters, in a panel format, including other pregnant and parenting teen moms and dads. You will be expected to attend 5 evening training sessions and be available approximately one day per month to present. Training will begin on October 21st.
To receive an application or more information on existing teen panel presentations, call Jill Johnson at (218) 681-8711 ext. 242

Wishful Thinking
When you run your display advertising in the Yellow Pages, you'll do a lot of wishful thinking.
You'll hope people will see your ad on a regular basis. But the Yellow Pages are closed 90 percent of the time. And 67 percent of adults use the Yellow Pages less than twice a week.
You'll hope your customers will see your ad first. But they'll probably see your competitor's ads.
You'll wish you could advertise your prices. Or change your ad more than once a year. But you can't.
And when you figure the annual cost of your Yellow Pages advertising, you'll wish you had your ad run in the newspaper instead.
When people turn to their paper, they turn there with interest. Which means that's where your advertising message needs to be.
With all the choices available, it's difficult deciding how best to advertise your business. But everything becomes a little simpler when you remember one rule.
You Gotta Be In The Paper.

Goodridge plans Homecoming week, Sept. 23-27

Coronation of the Goodridge Homecoming King and Queen will take place at 2:45 p.m. Friday, September 27, in the school gym. The coronation and Blue Devil vs. Kittson Central football game in Grygla are among two highlights of a week of homecoming activities at Goodridge.

This year's Homecoming Theme is "Not A Day Goes By." Not a day will go by that week without a special dress-up day activity. The dress-up days include: Clothes Pin Day on Monday, September 23; Formal Day on Tuesday, September 24; Dress Like a Teacher Day on Wednesday, September 25; Funky Season Day on Thursday, September 26; and School Color Day on Friday, September 27. As a reward and incentive, cash prizes will be awarded each day for the best dressed student.

Athletic events are always important events during Homecoming week. This week, activities include Wolverine volleyball vs. Sacred Heart on September 23 in Goodridge, and Wolverine volleyball vs. BGMR on September 25 in Middle River and Greenbush. The big football game featuring the Blue Devils vs. Kittson Central in Grygla begins at 7 p.m. on September 27.

Coronation will also be held on Friday. Senior candidates include: King – Andy Hanson, son of Dawn and Dale Hanson; Kjell Johnsrud, son of Kim and James Johnsrud, and Kyle Wikert, son of Leann and Donnie Wikert; Queen – Lacey Hoffman, daughter of Sylvia and Rodney Hoffman; Christine Johnson, daughter of Lois and Jim Johnson; and Bethany Tharaldson, daughter of Sheila and Kevin Tharaldson.

This year's junior attendant is Cassandra Smith, daughter of Tracy and Tim Smith. The junior usher will be Adam Johnson, son of Debra and Michael Ford.

The sophomore attendant will be Danielle Frazer, daughter of Lorenda Colden. The sophomore user will be Nathan Peters, son of Jodi and Galen Peters.

The first grade attendants will be Sabrina Okesen, daughter of Mandy and Matt Okeson, and Gerald Roisch, son of Alona Anderson.

The mistresses of ceremonies will be Eliza Skibicki and Kacey Miller.

VFW, auxiliary sponsors Voice of Democracy

VFW Post 2793 and its auxiliary are again sponsoring the Voice of Democracy and Patriots Pen contests.

The Voice of Democracy contest is open to ninth, tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grade students who are enrolled in high school or home-schooled. This year's theme is "Freedom's Obligation." A three to five minute audio cassette is required. The first place national scholarship is $25,000, and there are also awards at local, district, and state levels. The contest deadline is November 1, 2002.

The Patriots Pen contest is open to seventh and eighth grade students in school or home-schooled. The theme is "My Pledge to America." The essay must be 300-400 words and typed. The first place national award is a $10,000 savings bond, and other awards will given at local, district, and state levels. The deadline for this contest is December 1, 2002.

If you have any questions about either contest, call Lois at 681-1338 or John at 681-6187.

Thank You

The family of Cody Brandon would like to thank the many people who took the time to visit, bring food, babysit, call, or just send us kind thoughts.

Special thanks go out to Pastor Hollands and Father Don for their beautiful words expressed for our son at both the prayer service and the funeral. Thank you to the Gatzke, Thief Lake and First Lutheran Ladies Aid for serving lunch and Linda Sparby and Rhandi Jo Halvorson for the wonderful music.

We would like to thank both the staff at Wells Fargo and Schenkey, Inc. for their love and patience.

To the staff at Fleet Supply, Cody's place of employment, for the memorial tree and to Lew and Tammy Wallace and family of Honker Flats for the beautiful flowers. Also to everyone who sent plants and flower arrangements.

Thank you for the memorials and donations to Cody's passionate cause, the Chronic Waste Disease.

A special thank you to Kaydell Super and Sue Lieberg, the staff at the Tribune and the Times for the copies of Cody's articles in time for his funeral. It meant so much to so many. We are so grateful to Rollin Bergman for letting Cody submit that first article nearly 3 years ago that gave him the courage to continue writing

To the staff at the Johnson-Green Funeral Home for their genuine kindness and support. They made this tragedy easier to deal with.

Last but not least, thank you to Cody's classmates for their many visits and memories. Each one of you has helped us know Cody the way you did. Because of you, we know he was that same kind, fun-loving, steadfast person he was around us.

We love you,

The Story of Ace Hardware
STARTED IN 1924 BY A GROUP OF INDEPENDENT BUSINESS OWNERS
OUR FIRST LOGO!
THE NAME ACE!
1920s An "Ace" of an Idea
THE NAME "ACE" came to represent the determination and courage of the World War I fighter pilots. The Ace founders were soon to learn how appropriate the name really was.
The decade which began with such unprecedented growth ended in economic devastation. On October 29, 1929, the stock market crashed, leading the nation into an economic depression. Ace Stores, Inc. weathered the storm by providing necessary goods, and exercising shrewd cost control
BY THE END OF THE 1940'S ACE HARDWARE HAD GROWN TO 133 STORES IN 7 STATES.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Dave Hill and do not represent opinion of other staff members. Opinions in items from other publications may not coincide with the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

A changed perspective since September 11

When he was in the third or fourth grade, he was at a friend's house when the friend's dad was called out to a house fire. The fire was only a couple blocks away, so two curious youngsters pedaled their way to the scene of the fire. As they arrived a firefighter came out of the burning house with a child in his arms. That firefighter was his friend's father.

"I don't know why I became a police officer," said Thief River Falls Police Officer Ryan Kezar, "but maybe it had something to do with this incident."

Officer Kezar was one of the speakers at the Patriot's Day September 11 Commemoration at the Multi-Events Center football field in Thief River Falls on Wednesday. Kezar, who was only told he had volunteered to give the presentation two days before the event, did an excellent job of identifying how perspective has changed for many of us since the events of September 11, 2001.

Kezar speculated that maybe he became a police officer because he wanted to be like his friend's father – an individual who was able to save lives or help people who were in trouble. Kezar wondered how the lives of youngsters who watched rescuers during the September 11 disaster will be shaped by what they saw.

Prior to September 11 people wondered where were all our heroes. And we asked, "Who should youngsters look up to?"

If you recall, the image of several of our national sports stars had been tarnished by events of their own doing. I think such coverage left many of us wondering, "Where is Super Man?" And prior to September 11, the image of law enforcement officials had been tarnished by widely publicized "civil right's infractions" – the broadcast images of violent beatings – and other wrongdoings, such as manufacturing evidence.

Since September 11 we've learned that life is easily broken or destroyed, and that heroes can be, and often are, average citizens who are spurred to action at a moment's notice only because they know that something needs to be done.

Our lives have changed since September 11. In some instances how our lives have changed may be very clear, but in other ways, the changes may not be so evident. Our perspective of the majority of law enforcement personnel and other emergency responders, for example, has certainly changed. We understand that their job is difficult, and sometimes very dangerous, and in many ways heroic. Patriotism is enjoying a surge of popularity. Flags fly and people salute and sing the national anthem with pride. The public has a new respect for emergency responders too. Look at shelves of toys and Halloween costumes in stores. Yes, we can see the change. But in his speech, Kezar raised an interesting and thoughtful question: How will the events of September 11 change the lives of children who witnessed the events on television or in person?

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

Brandon thanks community

To the Editor:

The death of a child is a pain that cannot be described with words. It is something our worst nightmares are made of. Even our son, Cody, would have had a hard time coming up with an inspirational article on this subject. Our lives will never be the same after his death, and it's hard to imagine ever being happy again.

However, this past month, the whole Brandon family has been showered with such love and compassion from friends, neighbors, and even strangers. We are so grateful to everyone who has sent cards, poems, kind words of our son--many who only knew him from his articles in the paper.

We are overwhelmed with pride, not only for our son, but pride for our small town communities. At our lowest point, the surrounding communities rallied around us to give us strength. We have been told that the words Cody put on paper changed people's lives. What more could a parent ask for? We have learned how strong a hug can make you feel and how the three little words "I love you" can help heal a broken heart.

We will survive the death of our youngest son, Cody, but only because of the love and prayers from all of you that we've been blessed with. Our faith has been tested this past month, but we've come to realize that God is working through each and every person who has called, stopped by, brought food, given us the time off we needed to grieve, and listened to us talk about our son.

Be proud of the community you live in. We know firsthand how the small town sticks together to pick up their own. Cody was so proud to be from northern Minnesota. There was nowhere he would have rather been.

Sincerely,
Scott and Cindy Brandon and families

Thanks for your help

To the Editor:

I would like to thank all of the businesses that donated prizes for a benifit flood relief day held in Roseau, Minnesota on August 24th. About $500 was mised the day of the event, which was organized by Chad Hassel of Thief River Falls. The dedication from all of the band members (seven groups in all) was amazing! The music began at 12 p.m. on Saturday and continued until 1 a.m.! The City of Thief River Falls can be very proud of its caring and giving nature. We would also like to thank KTRF's Mark Allen for being the master of ceremonies for the day. He did a great job!

Once again, thank you!

Fisher, Middle River and Viking receive funding

Congressman Collin Peterson announced the approval of several USDA funding awards at a "Funding Roll Out Ceremony" in Fisher, Minnesota on September 9, 2002. The awards were funded through the $181 billion Farm Bill that President Bush signed May 13. The funding awards were made to the communities of Fisher, Middle River and Viking for water and wastewater improvement projects. State Senator LeRoy Stumpf of Thief River Falls was also on hand at the ceremony to provide additional comments.

The funding awards are being processed through the Rural Utilities Service (RUS). The programs of RUS are administered by USDA Rural Development, a mission area of the United States Department of Agriculture. The City of Fisher will receive a $1,231,000 loan and a $497,000 grant for wastewater system improvements, the City of Middle River will receive a $121,000 loan for water system improvements and the City of Viking will receive an $80,000 loan and $603,000 grant for wastewater system improvements.

Representatives of all three communities were on hand at the ceremony to receive ceremonial checks from USDA Rural Development officials. Also on hand were representatives of the Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development (DTED) which also provided funding for the City of Middle River, and the Midwest Assistance Program, which provided technical assistance to the City of Viking.

Engineering Services for the projects are being provided by Floan-Sanders, Inc. (Fisher); Liesch Associates, Inc. (Viking) and Widseth, Smith & Nolting (Middle River).

Those present at the ceremony were Congressman Collin Peterson, State Senator LeRoy Stumpf, Toni Merdin of Congressman Peterson's Office, Karl Howe of DTED, Bill Wilde of Midwest Assistance Program, City of Fisher officials (Mayor Eddie Bowden, City Clerk Patti Lien, City Administrator Mike Moore, Mike Marschall and Zona Kaml of the City Council and City Engineer Lon Aune), City of Viking officials (Mayor Wayne Peters and Ardell Anderson and Richard Ness of the City Council), City of Middle River officials (City Clerk Sue Orindeland and Jan Nelson of the City Council), and Dan Labat, Andrew Gag and Butch Koehmstedt of USDA Rural Development.

USDA Rural Development provides financial and technical assistance for community and economic development for small rural communities and residents. Rural Development administers programs for housing, community facilities, water and wastewater infrastructure, plus business and cooperative development. Rural Development offices in Detroit Lakes, Bemidji and Thief River Falls serve northwestern Minnesota counties.

THE LYON'S SHARE

Tim Lyon

Lake of the Woods County, MN – A Lake of the Woods county man declared northern Minnesota safe yesterday, claiming to have statistically eliminated the potential for life threatening diseases in that area of the country for the next few months. Whether or not his claims are valid remains to be seen, pending confirmation by officials of the Centers for Disease Control (CDC), though no denials as to their validity had been issued as of this press release.

John Johnson, (no, not that one, another one) a long time resident of the small community of Rako, (population five, depending on whether Johnson's dog had run away that day) and a part-time statistics lecturer at rural county fair gatherings, asserts that his exposure to such recently threatening plagues such as West Nile, Lyme's Disease, and Chronic Wasting Disease, among others, should render the desolate area north of Bemidji, Minnesota, as safe an area of the country to enjoy the out of doors as exists in the nation.

"Northern Minnesotans have been great to me," Johnson explained in a telephone interview Tuesday, "and I wanted to give something back to them. What better way than offer a carefree outdoor experience in a time of such uncertainty."

"It's all about the math. Statistically it's safe to venture into the wild again. Look at the Lyme's Disease numbers, for instance. Both my wife and I contracted the virus this spring. The Minnesota statewide numbers suggest that five out of every 100,000 residents will be infected with it each calendar year. If one calculates the total population north of Highway 2 and west of 72 to be a little less than 50,000, that means that at the most only one-half an individual could now be stricken with Lyme's before New Years rolls around again. Now, I don't think that a one-half a person can exist if you don't count schizophrenics, so that's out. Heck, go roll naked in a field of ticks and, thanks to my wife Lolita and I, you're safe."

"Well, you can see where we went with this," continued Johnson. "I figured, what the hey, I'm already taking the bump on Lyme's, why not try the West Nile thing. Now, the numbers there say only one percent of mosquito bites will result in the transfer of West Nile and even then only one out of 150 of those will show symptoms. Well, I got bit about 450 times last night and the way I figure it we're covered up here for about four years. So head outside and forget about the bug spray."

"The CWD issue was a little harder to get my arms around mathematically, since there's no real 'animal to human' link to derive any ratios from. A DNR official was recently quoted as saying it was a "one in a million" shot that such a transfer could take place so I had to work with some pretty rough numbers. Taking that generalization into account, I went out and hunted for the mangiest two deer I could find these past few weeks and, having dispatched them in as humane a fashion as I could, I sliced off the tops of their heads and took a healthy slurp of their brain tissue, since that's the area of most biological concern. Then I made a necklace and a belt out of their spinal cords. I've been wearing them ever since. I figure if there's any possible human link to CWD, I've made it and if that one in a million number holds true, I've made it safe for deer hunters up here to hunt and eat for years, even generations, to come."

"I've probably eliminated the potential for a lot of other diseases, as well, during the course of this undertaking or at least reduced the possibilities. I've got a bad cold at the moment, for instance, which doesn't eliminate your chances totally because colds are so common, but it's a small step in your favor."

"I've also considered hiring myself out for coin flips at the Vikings game. I've got one silver dollar at home that I've flipped over 11,000 times and it's been tails over 8,050 of those. You could almost guarantee that the next toss would come up heads and I bet that Red McCombs would pay pretty well for that."

Johnson suggested that he was considering adding to his repertoire by taking on the sins of the world in addition to the diseases of the state's northern third, but thought that may have already been done.

"Besides," Johnson offered in closing, "I don't have a real good grip on how much pain is actually involved in burning eternally in Hell's fires. I might have to pass on that one."

Replacement of box culverts leads to detour

The Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT) is replacing three box culverts on Highway 89 south of Roseau. From the junction of Highway 11 and Highway 89, the exact locations are 3.5 miles, 5.3 miles and 8.1 miles on Highway 89.

The work will require a detour onto county roads. The Mn/DOT started the work on Thursday and expects that it will be completed in mid-October depending on weather conditions.

Seamless Aluminum Guttering
Heating, Air Conditioning
378-4641 378-4585

Our Seamless gutters are manufactured from .032 gauge pre-painted aluminum, the heaviest gauge used in the industry. If your home is 20 feet or 200 feet in length our seamless gutter is made in one continuous length, eliminating any joints or seams in the middle. Inquire before you purchase "Seamless Gutter" about the thickness of the material used and be certain that it is made in one continuous length.

Seamless gutter is formed, cut and installed on site by a two-man crew saving on labor cost. Freight charges are eliminated. Waste is almost unheard of due to gutter being measured and cut on site to exact lengths. No need to store left over odds and ends that get damaged before they can be used. Most jobs can be completed the same day. Call us for complete information and free estimates of your job at no obligation to you.

Warroad, EGF take cross country team honors at Warroad

Team titles went to the Warroad boys and East Grand Forks girls at Tuesday's Warroad Invitational high school cross country meet.

Thief River Falls boys ran fourth in a six-team field. The Prowlers did not have a complete girls team.

Individual winners were Eric Palmquist of Warroad and Shantelle Davidson from Lake of the Woods.

A ninth place finish by Nathan Browning led the Thief River Falls boys.

"A great race and time by Nathan Browning," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Greg Ueland, who also said Evan Jones (17th place) turned in a strong varsity performance.

"I think many of the runners had good races, but could have moved up in terms of places," noted Ueland.

Varsity Boys

■ Team totals - Warroad 37, East Grand Forks 44, International Falls 66, Thief River Falls 94, Bagley/Fosston 116, Lake of the Woods 134.

■ Individuals - 1. Eric Palmquist, Warroad, 16:26; 2. Matt Gamica, EGF, 17:00; 3. Joe Heppner, Warroad, 17:01; 4. Dustin Lillegaard, Bagley/Fosston, 17:17; 5. Rickie Spitsberg, EGF, 17:26.

■ TRF places - 9. Nathan Browning, 17:48; 15. Tanner Harlow, 18:33; 17. Evan Jones, 18:48; 22. Jesse Sich, 19:11; 31. Stefan Rundell, 20:06; 37. Jon Walrath, 20:57; 30. Colt Bergeron, 21:24.

Varsity Girls

■ Team totals - East Grand Forks 30, International Falls 48, Lake of the Woods 60, Warroad 114.

■ Individuals - 1. Shantelle Davidson, LGW, 15:51; 2. Amanda Wickersham, EGF, 16:29; 3. Krista Skoglund, IF, 16:31; 4. Anna Hagen, EGF, 16:33; 5. Andrea Lindberg, IF, 16:40.

Junior High Girls

■ Team totals - Warroad 25, Thief River Falls 54, East Grand Forks 83.

■ Individuals - 1. Lisa Mattson, Warroad, 13:51.

■ TRF places - 5. Brooke Rundell, 14:07; 10. Michelle Noreen, 14:46; 12. Kathryn Walrath, 14:55; 13. Chelsea Sorteberg, 15:04; 14. Jade Klien, 15:07.

Mustangs beat EGF

Three Red Lake County Central hitters finished with double-figure numbers in kills, while Maureen Munt and Michelle Halvorson combined for 57 assists Thursday as the Mustangs swept East Grand Forks 15-10, 15-13, 15-5 in high school volleyball at Plummer.

Halvorson had a 24-kill, 25-assist night. Brittany Berberich finished with 17 kills, while Munt also had a double-double with 11 kills and 32 assists.

The win pushed the Mustangs' record to 6-2.

"Our passing improved," reported Red Lake County Central coach Nancy Broy. "They have some good blockers, but we kept hitting."

RLCC Scoring

■ Kills - Michelle Halvorson 24, Brittany Berberich 17, Maureen Munt 11.

■ Assists - Maureen Munt 32, Michelle Halvorson 25.

■ Aces - Jenny Magnell 2, Cathi Berberich 2, Megan Gunderson 2, Michelle Halvorson 2.

Gators drop second game, this time 20-6 against Greyhounds

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River had a 6-0 lead at intermission, but failure to reach the end zone on three other first half trips inside the Fosston 10-yard line wound up costing the Gators down the stretch in a 20-6 Friday (Sept. 6) high school football loss to the visiting Greyhounds.

Dane Hanson scored on a 31-yard run and rushed for over 100 yards for the second straight week, but it wasn't enough to keep the Gators from falling to 0-2.

Mistakes added up to a 26-9 first-week loss to Walker-Hackensack-Akeley. This time it was simply a failure to turn opportunities into points, according to Gators head coach Kent Janicke. "We cut down our mental mistakes, big time," he said, "but when we got inside the 20, our kids shut down."

"We didn't score like we should have in the first half, and our big kids melted in the heat and humidity at the end," explained Janicke.

Running the veer offense, quarterback Ryan Swenson scored all three Fosston touchdowns, with two of them coming in the fourth quarter.

Kyle Gregerson, Kevin Johnson and Hanson all stood out on defense, noted Janicke.

Sportsman meeting set

A Fourtown/Grygla Sportsman Club monthly meeting will be held Tuesday, Sept. 17, at the American Legion in Thief River Falls. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m.

Jim Sims, Natalie Ueland to join UMC Hall of Fame

Jim Sims, currently Director of Student Activities for School District 564, and Natalie Ueland, a 1988 Marshall County Central graduate, will be members of the fourth class of inductees named to the University of Minnesota-Crookston Athletic Hall of Fame when the 2002 banquet is held Friday, Sept. 20.

Sims was Thief River Falls' head high school football and boys track coach before leaving the Prowlers to accept a similar dual coaching role at the collegiate level in Crookston beginning with the 1976-77 school year. He coached the UMC football team for 19 years and directed the track program five years.

Sims coached UMC through 17 years of Minnesota Community College Conference football competition and was at the helm when the transition was made from a two-year to a four-year institution.

Under Sims, UMC won three Northern Division football titles and appeared in one post-season bowl game – the 1982 Midwest Bowl in Lasell, Ill. He was named MCCC football Coach of the Year in 1976 and 1977. He earned the same honor for track in 1978. Eight Sims-coached UMC football players earned National Junior College Athletic Association All-America recognition.

Sims returned to Thief River Falls to head the athletic administration office in 1995-96. He is a member of the Prowler Hall of Fame.

Ueland became an MCCC basketball star as a sophomore when she led the 1989-90 UMC team in scoring and rebounding. She set a single-game school record with 26 rebounds.

Those efforts earned Ueland NJCAA All-Region 13, MCCC All-State and All-Northern Division honors.

Joining Sims and Ueland as 2002 Hall of Fame inductees will be Mark Bagaason, Jeff Perreault, Jay Gunderson, and the 1986-87 state champion women's basketball team.

NCTC golf program has a short season

A short 2002 fall golf season for men and women at Northland Community and Technical College reaches its halfway point when the Pioneers begin the two-day Central Lakes Invitational with a noon tee time Sunday. Competition resumes at 8 a.m. Monday at The Legacy.

The Rick Nikunen-coached Pioneers began an abbreviated schedule by hosting the Northland Invitational Sunday, Sept. 8. They golfed at Fergus Falls the next day.

Following the Central Lakes meet, the Northland regular season wraps up with a Sept. 20 dual at Central Lakes, along with tournaments hosted by Bethany Sept. 21 and Hibbing Sept. 24.

The combination Minnesota Community College Conference state and National Junior College Athletic Association Region 13 tournament will be played Sept. 30, Oct. 1 and 2 in Mankato.

Northland Invitational

■ Men's team totals - Central Lakes 300, Fergus Falls 387, Incomplete - Northland, Rainy River

■ Men's medalist - Justin Heitkamp, Central Lakes, 74. NCTC scores - Brandon Carlson 75, Tommy Greolls 76, Derek Gustafson 80.

■ Women's team totals - no complete teams

■ Women's medalist - Melanie Wilson, Central Lakes, 76. NCTC scores - Nicole Wiseth 105, Brenda Fritz 111.

Fergus Falls Invitational

■ Men's team totals - Central Lakes 305, Hibbing 327, Northland 342, Fergus Falls 354

■ Men's medalist - Justin Heitkamp, Central Lakes, 70. NCTC scores - Brandon Carlson 09, Tommy Greolls 80, Derek Gustafson 84, Wally Lang 06.

■ Women's team totals - no complete teams

■ Women's medalist - Jenna Larson, Central Lakes, 83. NCTC scores - Nicole Wiseth 103, Brenda Fritz 122.

Strong start fades in Gators loss to Rams

A strong start faded down the stretch Thursday when Badger/Greenbush-Middle River lost a 3-1 high school volleyball match to Lake of the Woods.

The visiting Bears emerged a 12-15, 15-7, 15-0, 15-3 winner.

It was a stunning start for the underdog Gators, who jumped out to an 8-0 Game 1 lead and had a 6-0 Game 2 start. But they were outscored 45-4 the rest of the way.

The Gators' match-opening victory was the first game they've taken from the Bears in Christine Adrian's six years as Badger/Greenbush-Middle River head coach.

"We had an outstanding start," said Adrian. "We were really focused, and they were making a lot of errors. But they have a major quick team. They move from left to right really well. We used all of our time-outs, but it was like somebody shut the switch off."

The loss dropped the Gators to 2-2. They were led by Kierah Kimbrough with 9 kills and Katie Borgen with 5 assists.

MCC vs. Warroad

Visiting Warroad swept Marshall County Central 15-8, 15-7, 15-5 Thursday, extending the Nordics' season-opening string of losses to four.

"Mistakes on passing are hurting us right now," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Missy Foslien, who is also looking for the Nordics to become more aggressive at the net. "We're timid when we hit. We need to have somebody step up and get 13-14 kills per match for us."

Jordan Holthusen had 5 kills and 3 aces for the Nordics, with Kari Holmstrom supplying 13 assists.

Goodridge/G-G vs. Roseau

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke finished with a flurry, but it wasn't enough to make up for a season-long problem – a slow start – in a 3-0 Thursday loss to Roseau in Grygla.

The Rams dominated early en route to a 15-1, 15-4, 17-15 victory. Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke is 1-4.

"We started way too slow," noted Wolverines coach Jean Schulz. "We dug ourselves too big of a hole."

In a schedule quirk, the two teams meet again Monday in Roseau.

"The kids decided to play," said Schulz in describing the Wolverines' comeback at the end. "I don't like to lose, but if you can play as hard and as well as we did at the end, at least you can feel good about yourself. We're looking forward to playing them again right away to see if we can pick up where we left off.

Scoring

■ Kills - (G/G-G) Laura Anderson 8, Bethany Tharaldson 5, Ashley Stavnes 5. (Roseau) Steph Timmerman 12, Rachel Kobes 7, Heidi Evans 6

■ Assists - (G/G-G) Jena Haugen 12; (Roseau) Ashley Baumgartner 18, Wendy Berg 7.

TRF looks for first win

Still searching for an elusive first win of the 2002 season, Thief River Falls is part of the Warren-Alvarado-Oslo Invitational high school volleyball tournament today.

The Prowlers will be idle during the week before playing host to their annual Northern Lites Invitational Saturday, Sept. 21.

Thief River Falls took an 0-9 record to Warren. The Prowlers were winless in four starts at the Saturday (Sept. 7) Ada-Borup Invitational and dropped a 3-0 Monday match at East Grand Forks.

Red Lake County Central (15-2, 15-2); Fertile-Beltrami (6-15, 15-7, 16-14); and Ada-Borup (15-1, 15-12) beat Thief River Falls in tournament pool play. Crookston then stopped the Prowlers 16-14, 15-6 in the eighth place match.

East Grand Forks shut out Thief River Falls in Game 1 en route to a 15-0, 15-11, 15-2 sweep.

"We've had the same pattern all year," explained Thief River Falls coach Erika Ramstorf. "We start out slow, play better in the second game and then struggle again in the third game. We need more consistency from individuals and the team."

TRF Tournament Scoring

■ TRF vs. Red Lake County Central - (kills) Katie Olson 2, Jasmyn Barth 1; (assists) Jasmyn Barth 1, Kayla Loe 1; (blocks) none; (aces) none.

■ TRF vs Fertile-Beltrami - (kills) Katie Olson 0, Melissa Skjervon 6, (assists) figures not available, (blocks) Kari Johnson 2, Katie Olson 2; (aces) Katie Olson 1, Ann Marben 1.

■ TRF vs. Ada-Borup - (kills) Kayla Loe 3, Katie Olson 2, (assists) Kristen Vanek 3, Holly Peterson 2, (blocks) Jasmyn Barth 1; (aces) Jenna Owen 1.

■ TRF vs. Crookston - (kills) Holly Peterson 4, Katie Olson 3; (assists) Kayla Loe 8, Holly Peterson 3; (blocks) Ally Torstveit 2, (aces) Kayla Loe 2, Kristen Vanek 1.

TRF vs. EGF Scoring

■ Kills - (TRF) Katie Olson 6, Melissa Skjervon 4; (EGF) Abby Evavold 16, Chelsie Haan 6

■ Assists - (TRF) Holly Peterson 8, Kayla Loe 5, (EGF) Anna Barrett 13, Ashley Kotrba 4

■ Aces - (TRF) Katie Olson 1, Kristen Vanek 1; (EGF) Anna Barrett 5, Chelsie Haan 3, Abby Evavold 3.

is going fast and is provided on a first come, first served basis only.

Many of the items in the Artist's Attic are made by local people, but some items come from as far away as Detroit Lakes. The current artists and their items include:

B&B

Dawn Berard and Karen Braunschweig formed their crafting team while they were both employed at Arctic Cat. They collaborated their crafty talents to design and make stuffed animals and dolls, wood creations and embroidered items such as towels and blankets. They start from the very beginning, sometimes with just a blank piece of wood and a scrap of fabric. B&B will make customized gifts for anyone who requests them.

Vi Barr Studios

Violet Barr, a former music teacher, got into painting watercolors and china in 1963. She wanted to learn a new hobby and the only teacher she could find was a china painting teacher, so that's what she learned. Vi now uses her watercolor skills to paint scenes for cards or full-sized prints. She also decorates china pieces such as plates, cups, saucers and bowls. In the past, Vi's art has been shown at the Lantern and in Northwest Medical Center.

Pot Dunning

Pat is also a painter. She began at a very early age with art classes and the Girl Scouts. Pat majored in art in college and has taught art for most of her life. She paints prints and makes cards. Much of her work focuses on people, places and things in and around Thief River Falls.

Heartland Candle Company

The Heartland Candle Company was started by Jesse Onidahl of Detroit Lakes. Jesse wanted to find an alternative to the regular paraffin wax candles that leave soot marks on the walls. She discovered a formula that uses soybean oil. The soybean candles burn longer, the color and fragrance are as strong or stronger and they are good for the environment. The candles are also priced just as reasonably as other candles.

Country Mile Crafts

Bev Rupprecht and Kristi Sigerud, a mother-daughter team, make unique framed collages that feature lace, beads and poems on burned parchment. They take requests and will customize to suit anybody's tastes. Customers can submit their own poems or sayings and request what kinds of decorations they'd like the collage to feature. Country Mile Crafts have been seen at local craft shows and now they are permanently located in the Artist's Attic.

Jan's Country Crafts

George and Jan Rinde are a retired couple who have turned their hobby into a full-time job; a job they love to do. They design and make wooden signs and plaques. They also make framed wallpaper borders. George, a retired business management teacher, special orders specific cuts of basswood which he uses to cut out the different shapes of their signs. He and Jan then work together to paint and decorate them with sayings and designs. Most of their items sell for $10 and under. Jan's Country Crafts can make personalized signs on request.

Warren ODC

The Warren Occupational Development Center provides vocational rehabilitation in the form of producing wood craft items. The participants create seasonal items of all sizes. They can also take special requests and make personalized items.

Orvel Stocks

Orvel began carving when a neighbor of his showed him what was involved. He is now highly skilled at his craft and produces items such as scroll saw pictures, cottonwood bark carvings, high- and low-relief carvings and the "club duck," which is made from the head of a golf club with a carved duck head attached. Orvel uses mainly basswood, which he says is one of the best woods for carving. He buys it specially from vendors at carving shows. Orvel has taken various classes and is continuing to learn new woodworking techniques. He says in the future, he may think about teaching a carving class.

J&B Aromatherapy

Jill Garceau, of Crookston, began making candles after she graduated from high school. She felt it was a shame to throw away all the wax that was left over from a candle. This prompted her to recycle the wax to make new candles. She would use the new candles herself and give away some as gifts. She decided to start selling the candles, and when she found people had a desire for her products, the business started expanding. Jill now makes candles in many varieties of paraffin, soywax and beeswax. She takes special orders to make the candles her customers can't find anywhere else.

Other crafters whose items are for sale at the Artist's Attic include Fran's Crafts, by Francis Adams of Grand Forks, N.D. who makes wood shelves, wooden paper towel holders and hat rocks; Sheila Michaels of Thief River Falls who hand-paints clothing; JL Enterprises by Jane Langer of Thief River Falls who makes milkweed pod ornaments in the form of angels and Santas; and Kathy Burrell from Badger who makes scented candles in various shaped containers.

Sisler's Country Blossoms extends an open invitation to all area artists who would like to take part in this unique venture. Van Sebaick says they already have a number of new artists who are getting ready to put up their displays in the Artist's Attic. Sisler's is located at 207 LaBree Avenue North in downtown Thief River Falls. If you are interested in the Artist's Attic, contact Sisler's at (218) 681-6434 or toll-free at 888-226-3971.

With the variety of items at the Artist's Attic, there's bound to be something for just about everyone. Even if you aren't looking for gift, the displays are really something to see. The artists put lots of time and lots of love into their hobbies and any bit of support they receive is sure to be appreciated.

Altru to hold 16th annual doll clinic

Altru Health System, the University of North Dakota and The Northern Red River Valley Doll Club present the Sixteenth Annual Children's Doll Clinic on Monday, September 16 from 5:30 to 7 p.m.

The Doll Clinic is a unique health care experience for children. During the clinic, children are asked to bring their sick stuffed animal or doll to Altru's Pediatrics Department. They will have fun watching their little patient go through a physical by real health care providers and learn that visiting the doctor is not so scary after all. If the doll or stuffed animal needs repair, it will even be taken to surgery and operated on by surgeons.

The Doll Clinic is a free event and is part of Altru's Second Annual Health & Wellness Week. Free car seat check-ups and booster seats will also be available.

printing of just about every imaginable promotional product out there.

The Nelsons have found a lot of their business via direct mail and by calling on potential clients. They have gotten business from everyone including farmers, gas stations and banks.

One of the unique facts about the promotional product business is that they don't print everything themselves. It would take an awful lot of equipment and be very expensive to do so. Instead, groups of businesses such as Nelson Ink get together based on who owns which machinery. For example, one business might own the equipment to embroider items, another owns the equipment to print on mugs and Nelson Ink has the equipment for screenprinting. These three businesses pool their resources so that they each can expand their range of products. It is through these groups that Nelson Ink has been able to expand their product list into the thousands.

Another reason Bryce and Melissa's business has flourished in the past few years is due to the Internet. They got their web site up and running in 1999, and it has expanded their customer base immensely. Now, instead of doing business in just the northwestern Minnesota region, they have sold their products in 49 states and 13 countries.

Melissa says the web site, which can be found at www.nelsonink.com, is a great resource for their customers. They can log on and actually see the thousands of items Nelson Ink offers and it helps them understand what is involved in the business. It has also sped up their order process a great deal, "especially in a remote area like Middle River," Melissa notes.

Being in Middle River is sort of like being in the middle of nowhere, but Bryce and Melissa say they would never want to move the business anywhere else. Bryce loves his hometown and says they are doing just fine, right where they are. "Sure, our client base would increase," he says, but they want to keep their overhead low so their prices remain reasonable.

They are, however, considering expanding their selling region. Currently, they call on the areas between East Grand Forks and Baudette. They are thinking about increasing that area to include everywhere from Grand Forks, N.D. to Bemidji.

Although many businesses in the area, and all over the country for that matter, have been experiencing the sting of a slight recession, Nelson Ink says this is actually a good time for their business. Businesses affected by declining sales are looking to promote themselves more than ever, and that means Bryce and Melissa will be right there to help them out.

Though the concept of promotional products is simple enough, the business of it is not so easy. The Nelsons have put a lot of hard work into promoting themselves. Every year they attend screenprinting seminars and go to promotional product conventions in order to keep on top of the current trends. They also work hard at providing their clients with the best customer service, whether it means calling them to tell them about a new product they might be interested in or sending them monthly postcards.

Bryce says a lot of people have asked him about starting up a business. The best piece of advice he says is to make sure you have enough start-up capital. Many times, when a business is just getting started, they don't immediately have a lot of clients. "It takes a few months before customers come around," he says and the business does not make any money during that time. People need to realize that they have to have the money to cover just being open for the first couple of months.

Another thing to consider before investing money in a business? "You have to be able to sell what you're selling," Melissa says. She explains, if you start a business just for the sake of starting a business, but don't know a lot about the products or services you're selling, you won't sell anything. That is a good point the Nelsons seem to have nailed down.

Nelson Ink has been dubbed "The Toy Store for Businesses." To see what they offer, it's no wonder why it is called that. Just like a kid in a candy store, business owners could spend hours browsing through Nelson Ink's web site. Even though it costs them money to buy the products, the results can be limitless.

NCTC sees 25 percent increase in enrollment since fall 2000

When school started on August 22 at Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC), more seats were filled than in previous years. More students are enrolling at the school than in previous years. The school has seen a 25 percent increase in enrollment since the fall of 2000.

Students are picking NCTC for a variety of reasons. Director of Enrollment Management Oene Klinke said many students pick the college because it is affordable. He added, "We have some very unique and some very good programs. They can stay in their own backyard and neighborhood and get those first few years out of the way." He continued that general education courses are the same no matter which college an individual attends.

In addition, Klinke said, "We have a state-of-the-art facility here." NCTC recently added three new science labs, a new Learning Resource Center, 10 classrooms, new faculty offices, an art gallery and a lecture hall to its facility. The renovation project also included expanding the library and wellness/fitness center.

Although NCTC has enough classrooms for the influx of students, Klinke said student housing is becoming a problem. "Many are looking for housing, and they're looking farther," he said. "They're going to Plummer and Red Lake Falls to look for housing. From an admissions standpoint, it's a great problem to have because it means you've got students coming to your school."

Despite the potential for an increased number of residents, Campus Court Apartments manager Peggy Mehrkens said, "The possibility of us being completely full is unlikely, but we will probably be close to being full."

Even though classes started on August 22, NCTC is still accepting applications for this school year. Applications will be accepted until August 29. Students can be registered on the spot. Some can register online or over the phone, but recent high school graduates and post secondary education opportunity students need to register in person. Interested students can call (218) 681-0701 for more information.

Despite turnout variations, area results similiar to rest of Minn.

Senator. Republican Michael Moore is running against Skoe. Mark Edevold was picked to move on to the general election as the Democratic-Farmer-Labor Party's choice to represent District 2B as a state representative. Doug Lindgren is the Republican Party's nominee for that position.

Other local races had one person running for each party's nomination, and those results were relatively consistent. If the primary election would have been the general election, Collin Peterson would have been elected to represent District 7 as a U.S. Representative. Moreover, incumbent LeRoy Stumpf would have been elected to represent District One as a state senator. Mark Borsheim would have defeated incumbent Maxine Penas for the District One A State Representative position. Bernie Lieder would have been elected to represent District One B as a state representative.

Besides changing or constant enrollment figures, some school districts hired new teachers. New teachers have been hired in seven school districts with the Newfolden School District hiring the most. School District 564 (Thief River Falls) hired 25 new personnel, which include both teachers and other school district personnel. The school districts of Goodridge, Grygla, Oklee and Warroad did not hire any new teachers for this school year.

NOTICE TO READERS
While work-at home advertising is often legitimate, we advise readers to fully investigate the background of any company before paying a fee. If an offer sounds "too good to be true," it probably is. Proceed with caution if you are asked to send money or in calling 900 numbers. All phone numbers prefixed by "900" are charged to the caller on a per minute per call basis. Remember, if you have any doubts, investigate.

DUE TO HEALTH REASONS, selling commercial city 1/2 block with established, lucrative auto repair business, 2-car Rollback car hauler, HydroMac with snow and gravel buckets and forks, Ford pickup with snow plow, warehouse with large inventory, used auto parts, 3-bedroom house (rental income) and 3 commercial vacant lots. Good potential. 218-681-4250 or 218-688-2899. P8t77p

Book to highlight Cody Brandon's columns

Middle River - A book containing Cody Brandon's columns that appeared in the New River Record and The Tribune will be published this fall in memory of the 17-year-old writer.

Cody Brandon was killed in an accident on August 7, 2002. He had written insightful and entertaining columns in the papers for nearly three years.

Publishers Rollin and Julie Bergman will provide for the professional printing of the soft-cover book. All proceeds will then be used to establish an ongoing scholarship for writing students in northwestern Minnesota.

The Brandon family has offered their permission for this project.

The book will be published this fall. Pre-sales for the book, at $25, will begin at Goose Festival in Middle River. - New River Record of Middle River/Newfolden, September 18, 2002

Bring your bike to Lake Bronson, Sunday, Sept. 22

Kittson County - The Lake Bronson Improvement Committee is sponsoring a festive ribbon cutting ceremony on Sunday, Sept. 22 for Kittson County's newest bike path.

The event will take place as part of Lake Bronson's Autumnfest 2002.

Ribbon cutting begins at 1 p.m. at the Kittson County Historical Museum in Lake Bronson. The event will include introductions and thanks to the many people and organizations for their work on the new bike path.

Also at 1 p.m., there will be an open house at the museum honoring Don Dagen's parking lot pavement donation.

Six bikes will be given away in a drawing set for 2 p.m. at the Village Square in Lake Bronson. Register at the museum, prior to the drawing. - Kittson County Enterprise, September 18, 2002.

Tveit receives Governor Act of Kindness Award

Warroad - On Thursday, August 29, 2002, Sheldon Tveit of Warroad received the 2002 Governor's Act of Kindness Award at the governor's residence in St. Paul, Minn. This award is designed to honor people who have demonstrated outstanding initiative in making life better for an individual, group, neighborhood, organization or town.

The award is given in categories, including achievement, business, good neighbor, leadership, organization, senior, student and heroism. Tveit received his award in the heroism category, which is a new distinction created this year to specifically honor him for his extraordinary actions.

Tveit came to the defense of a young woman who had been assaulted and was being pursued by the offender. During the altercation, Tveit suffered injuries and was hospitalized for several days. Through his heroism, Tveit quite possibly saved the life of this young woman. - Warroad Pioneer, September 18, 2002, by Trish Harren of Roseau County Victim Services

Work continues on new arena

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

Work continues on the new $10 million Ralph Engelstad Arena being constructed here in Thief River Falls. The exterior decking, the roofing system and the majority of the steel structure are in place. Construction has started on the interior stadia and concourse.

Jim Kobetsky of Schoen Associates Architects said, "Our goal is to have it ready for occupancy in February." At that point, the city will be taking care of final building preparations. The grand opening is expected in October 2003.

According to Kobetsky, construction on the facility is proceeding at a brisk pace. He said, "We're moving very fast."

As the facility has taken shape, more seats have been added to it. Kobetsky said, "We ended up getting more seats in here, roughly 3400." Engelstad wanted more seats in the facility, and those seats are going to be counter stools. They will be located off of the concourse and behind the stadium seats.

Another building feature is a multi-purpose community room. City Council Member Dale Wennberg said, "We wanted to make the building more useable." Community members would be able to lease the room, and the multi-purpose community room would allow for the building to be used year-round.

Moreover, the building will be surrounded by spotlights. A total of 22 lights will slant downward off of the building. Wennberg said, "So there's a little Las Vegas in this."

The city will handle some final building preparations, such as the parking lot, landscaping and community room. In addition, the city will also take care of the scoreboard, concession stand, weight equipment and Zamboni.

In order to cover those expenses, the city needs to do some fundraising. Jerry and Marilyn Wigness have been designated fundraising co-chairpersons.

Jerry Wigness said, "We just need to gear up to get major contributors on board."

Marilyn Wigness said, "We'd like to see the community involved by helping us do these extra things."

Wennberg said, "If we raised three (million dollars), we'd be in good shape."

Badger resident serves with Army in Saudi Arabia

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

As a young boy, Badger resident Brandon Chapin played with army figures like other boys his age. Once he got older, Chapin took that one step further and joined the U.S. Army.

Around the time of his graduation from Badger High School in 2000, Chapin enlisted in the army. "I figured it would be fun because I'd be able to travel around the world," he said. "I'd see the world for free."

A little over a year later, the terrorist attacks occurred. On the morning of September 11, 2001, Chapin's mother, Sheila Tooker, dropped off her other two children at school. She returned home and turned on the television to see the first plane had struck the World Trade Center. Tooker said, "The first thing I saw was the first plane hitting, and I didn't realize it was live. Then the second plane hit. I called the school. Then all I could think of was Brandon. I wanted him home."

After the attacks, Tooker became incensed. "The thing that bothered me was that people didn't really think it affected them," she said. "It does affect us locally, but a lot of people don't think it does."

Chapin said, "After September 11, [my colleagues and I] looked at each other - hoping they wouldn't send us to Saudi Arabia or other places."

Five months later, Chapin was in Saudi Arabia. While there, he worked as a command post operator.

Brandon Chapin

Despite their initial worries after the attacks, the Tooker family would come face-to-face with one of their worst fears a few months later. One day at 6:30 a.m. they received a phone call from someone claiming to be an army chaplain. The person declared that

Legislature passes flood relief package

Thursday, legislators approved a $32.4 million relief package for communities affected by flooding this spring.

Approval of the deal was delayed by attempts to add amendments to the bill, but in the end the package was approved.

According to a news release from the House DFL caucus, key elements of the bill are:

• $8.3 million to help the state pay the local-government share of federal disaster relief efforts.

• $1 million for property tax relief for farms with large crop losses and $1 million in "Flood Replacement Aid" to local governments

• $3 million in farm assistance, $3 million in business assistance and $4 million in housing assistance for damaged communities.

• $2 million to repair damaged public facilities, $5 million to repair local roads and bridges and $2 million to repair state roads and bridges

• $1 million to clean up property contaminated by fuel spilled into flood waters.

• $2 million for flood prevention and control structures

• $100,000 to the Roseau School District to cover state aid losses due to loss of enrollment.

The funding comes from a state bond issue of $28.4 million, with $2 million from the state's Highway fund and $1 million from the petroleum waste clean-up fund. Only $1 million would come from the state's general fund, the main budget account that is running a $2 billion deficit.

Study highlights housing crisis across Minnesota

Households in each of Minnesota's 87 counties struggle to meet their local housing costs. That is the common conclusion of reports released in tandem this week by the HousingMinnesota [sic] Campaign and the National Low Income Housing Coalition. Among the reports' findings, approximately 35 percent of Minnesota renters and 17 percent of Minnesota homeowners pay over 30 percent of their household incomes on housing.

"Out of Reach," the report prepared by the National Low Income Housing Coalition, concludes that for many families, full-time work does not provide enough income to afford a typical apartment. The state's two-bedroom "housing wage," the amount a worker must earn to afford a modest two-bedroom unit, rose 21 percent in two years, from $11.56 in 2000 to $14.64 in 2002. The study finds that Minnesota is the twelfth most expensive state in the country and the second most expensive in the Midwest. (Illinois, the most expensive Midwestern state, was ranked tenth most expensive in the country.)

The HousingMinnesota [sic] report, "Minnesota County Profiles of Affordable Housing," builds off the national group's report by comparing county incomes with rental and ownership housing costs for each Minnesota county. The county profiles also contain regional homelessness information and other important affordable housing characteristics of the county. Both reports use federal "fair market rent" data and employ the generally accepted standard for housing affordability - that a household pay no more than 30 percent of its gross income for housing costs.

"The county-specific information demonstrates once and for all that affordable housing is a statewide issue. There may be subtle differences in various parts of the state, but the trend is clear throughout the state - low and, increasingly, moderate-income households cannot afford housing," said Chip Halbach, Executive Director of Minnesota Housing Partnership and one of the founders of the HousingMinnesota [sic] Campaign.

Statewide, a household would need to earn $30,461 to afford the fair market rent for a modest two bedroom apartment ($762/month). A household would need to earn $39,937 to afford the median valued home ($122,400).

In Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington and Red Lake Counties, a household would need to earn $17,520 to afford the fair market rent for a two bedroom apartment ($438/month).

In Roseau and Polk Counties, households would have to earn more to afford the fair market rent for two bedroom apartments. A Roseau County household needs to earn $18,320, and a Polk County household would have to earn $23,760.

To afford the median valued home ($63,300) in Pennington

Iditarod musher to visit TRF school

Each time sled dog musher Vern Halter runs the Iditarod, he learns something new. This fall, he'll share his newfound knowledge from his 15th Iditarod with local students at Challenger Elementary School on Monday, September 23, as part of the Wells Fargo Dream a Dream Tour of Schools. In his presentation, Halter relates his dream of winning the Iditarod with help from some of his race dogs, an outfitted sled and a video presentation on his fifth-place finish in the 2002 Iditarod.

"It's fascinating to see the excitement in the faces of his audience whenever Vern speaks to kids," said Lenae Iverson, community banking president of Wells Fargo in Thief River Falls. "His message to youth that education, hard work and dedication are necessary to achieving your dreams is important."

Wells Fargo is a sponsor of Halter, supporting his quest to win the Iditarod Sled Dog Race. Halter, a Flandreau, S.D., native, has completed the "world's most grueling race" 15 times. He has seven top-10 and three top-five finishes including a personal best third-place showing in 1999.

Vern Halter

He and his wife, Susan Whiton, a veterinarian, are owners of Dream a Dream Dog Farm in Willow, Alaska. Halter is a graduate of the University of South Dakota Law School and served as a public defender in Kotzebue, Alaska, prior to his full-time training to win the Iditarod. In 1989, Halter placed second in the Yukon Quest in Alaska and third in Minnesota's John Beargrease Race. In 1990, he was the Yukon Quest champion and finished second in the John Beargrease Race. Halter was the winner of the 1998 Klondike 300 Sled Dog Race, held in Klondike, Alaska.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere
email: lacours@mncable.net

Nippy nights and cooler days – just right for good eating. Here are some really tasty ideas for a great meal.

Here's a quick main dish meal that you can whip up in a hurry for supper one of these busy nights:

GROUND TURKEY STROGANOFF

1 pound ground turkey
1 small onion, grated
1 cup sliced mushrooms
2 (10 3/4 ounces each) cans cream of mushroom soup
1/3 cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon garlic powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 cup sour cream
Hot cooked noodles
Minced fresh parsley

In a skillet, cook turkey and onion until meat is no longer pink. Drain.

Add mushrooms, cook and stir for 1 minute. Stir in soup, buttermilk, garlic powder, salt and pepper. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, 5-10 minutes.

Stir in sour cream and heat gently, but do not boil. Serve over noodles and garnish with parsley, if desired.

Did you grow sage in your herb garden? If not, use the rubbed sage for this recipe – it'll taste mighty good with that turkey stroganoff:

SAGE TEA BREAD

1/2 cup milk
2 tablespoons minced fresh sage OR 2 teaspoons rubbed sage
1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened
1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt

In small saucepan, heat milk and sage just until warm, but do not boil. Set aside to cool.

In bowl, cream butter and sugar. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each.

Combine flour, baking powder and salt. Add to creamed mixture alternately with milk mixture.

Pour into greased 9x5 inch loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 40-50 minutes or until a toothpick comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes before removing to rack.

This tasty salad will be great made with the succulent grapes and tangy apples of the season, and it has nutritional information for those of you who are watching your diets:

APPLE SALAD

1 (20 ounce) can unsweetened pineapple chunks
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons cold water
1 cup mayonnaise
8 cups chopped tart apples
2 cups green grapes
2 teaspoons poppy seeds
3/4 cup chopped pecans, toasted

Drain pineapple, reserving juice. Set pineapple aside.

Place juice in a saucepan and add butter, sugar and lemon juice. Bring to a boil.

Combine cornstarch and cold water until smooth. Add to saucepan, stirring constantly. Return to a boil, cook and stir for 2 minutes. Chill. Stir in mayonnaise.

In large bowl, combine pineapple, apples, grapes, poppy seeds and cooked dressing. Fold in pecans just before serving.

Recipe serves 14 with 3/4 cup serving each. Each serving (made with margarine and fat free mayonnaise) contains 170 calories, 159 mg sodium, 0 chol, 26 gm carb, 1 gm protein, 8 gm fat and the diabetic exchange is 1 1/2 fruit and 1 1/2 fat.

A simple treat for dessert, this one is a little different from the ones you usually make – make them for Halloween treats too, but try them out this weekend to see what the family says – and they're great for snacking:

CHOCOLATE PEANUT BUTTER TREATS

1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 (10 ounce) package marshmallows
3/4 cup creamy peanut butter
5 cups crisp rice cereal
1 cup butterscotch chips
1 cup semisweet chocolate chips

In large saucepan or micro-safe bowl, melt butter and marshmallows. Remove from heat and add peanut butter.

Gradually add cereal and mix until well coated. Spread and press in 9x13 inch buttered pan. Set aside.

In micro-safe bowl or the top of a double boiler, melt chips. Spread over cereal bars in pan. Cover and freeze for 15-20 minutes or until chocolate is set.

Public invited to band ducks at Agassiz

Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge invites the public to ruffle some feather and help band ducks on Thursday, September 19 and Saturday evening, September 21, 2002.

If either evening or both evenings are rained out or ground conditions are too wet for the first two banding sessions, then banding will be rescheduled for Tuesday, September 24. For the weeknight banding session participants need to be at the refuge headquarters office building by 5:30 p.m. and for the weekend session, participants need to be at refuge headquarters by 5 p.m. All ages are welcome to participate or watch how ducks are banded.

This is a hands-on experience. Participants will learn about waterfowl and banding techniques such as baiting, rocket and net set up, caging, handling, sexing and aging of mallard ducks. Pintail, black duck, wood duck and blue-winged teal ducks occasionally are caught, providing an opportunity for a close-up view of these duck species.

Proper clothes or rain gear is recommended for banding as ducks do get a little messy. Individuals who cannot make it to the scheduled evening banding sessions may check with refuge personnel during office hours to find out other times of participation for banding during September.

No pre-registration is required. Refuge Headquarters is located 11 miles east of Holt, on Marshall County Road 7. Banding will be completed by dark. If more information is needed please call the refuge office at 218-449-4115, extension 214, 211 or 215 or dial 0 for specific assistance. Office hours are 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Thief River Falls JV is a 36-31 football winner

Fullback Matt Stuckey rushed for big yardage to set up three touchdowns by Reid Haviland and two by Alec Holen as Thief River Falls out-scored host Crookston 36-31 Thursday in junior varsity high school football.

The Prowlers, who improved to 4-0, led 16-0 at the end of the first quarter, had a 30-18 halftime advantage and went into the final quarter with a 30-24 edge.

Haviland scored on runs by 34, 45 and 77 yards. Holen's scoring plays covered 33 and 30 yards. Thain Abrahamson threw conversion passes to Dean Haugen and Kyle Dobias, with Stuckey adding a two-point run.

Prowlers, Panthers split junior varsity tennis duel

Thief River Falls and Park Rapids Area won six matches each Thursday in a junior varsity girls high school tennis duel hosted by the Panthers.

Warroad outlasts G/G-G

Warroad added to the frustrations being experienced by Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke Thursday by winning a 5-15, 15-8, 15-11, 8-15, 15-8 high school volleyball match played at Grygla.

The loss dropped the Wolverines to 1-6.

"The losing is getting very frustrating," acknowledged Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Jean Schulz, whose team is the two-time defending Sub-Section 31A champion.

Mistakes at the service line hurt the Wolverines, according to Schulz. "Serving could have been better," she said. "It was a pretty even match – a fun match to watch. But the girls are getting frustrated. We're not used to this."

Scoring

■ Kills - (G/G-G) Bethany Tharaldson 21, Ashley Stavnes 13, Laura Anderson 11; (Warroad) Megan Kroeze 26, Sara Solberg 13, Ashley Amiot 11.

Looking Behind Us

"Those who ignore history are condemned to repeat it." Wise words spoken by somebody who occupies a prominent, yet hazy position in my memory. Either it was Winston Churchill or my mother-in-law. I'll ascribe it to the latter just because her proximity to my general existence poses a greater physical threat than does the deceased British politician's. Whoever it was, I hope the Minnesota DNR is paying attention.

Now, we're all in agreement that the recent court rulings limiting the DNR's authority in vehicle, boat and fish-house inspection situations is a little beyond the realm of practicality. Aren't we? Or are we? Perhaps those who are screaming loudest about the enforcement handcuffing need a little historical priming. There are reasons to have expected such a legal short-leashing.

Consider the now infamous Lake of the Woods "Sting" operation of a little more than a decade ago. Enforcement egos around the state of Minnesota as well as those across the country were running at high levels, having yet to experience too much in the way of embarrassing public spectacles like a Rodney King arrest or the widespread corruption of a Los Angeles or New York police force. Minnesota's DNR, like enforcement agencies elsewhere, wanted to flex its muscles publicly and chose a backwards, red-necked community like Lake of the Woods to practice on. No real threat there. And just to add to the credibility, they invited the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to join in. It would be, they assured their federal bredren, a public relations bonanza for all involved.

Well, the details are a matter of public record and too lengthy to pursue here. Suffice it to say that grossly unethical violations were uncovered in a two-year undercover operation. Community wide charges were leveled at businesses and individuals. The media was given easy and complete access to pictures and text describing the heinous events. People cheered, dogs barked, grandmothers made apple pies! State enforcement people hugged Federal enforcement people! It was a day when good triumphed over evil! Oh Frabjous day, Calooh Callay!

And then the next day came and the joy ebbed away. Mistakes had been made. Legally possessed fish and game had been confiscated and had to be quietly returned. Undercover agents acknowledged that some of their evidence had been fabricated and more of the charges were unpublicly dropped. And slowly but surely the expensive, time consuming two-year operation crumbled away. Several minor charges continued to be pursued in a desperate attempt by the state to escape with shreds of dignity, yet the final verdicts rang so pitifully weak that few of those made even the most distant of back pages.

And those who had hung their hats so high on this enforcement coup, now found themselves relegated to the back alleys of whatever bureaucracy they originally inhabited. The Federal Prosecuting Attorney proclaimed his intentions about a gubernatorial run several times during the early days of the Sting, though his name has been noticeably absent from the public polls ever since. The DNR's lead man throughout the process had been considered a potential successor to the Commissioner's office at the time, though the present finds him nowhere among that organization's elite. The local warden from the west who was an active player in the "Sting" found himself quickly and quietly transferred to some out of the way Minnesota locale to finish out his DNR days.

The newly appointed Commissioner, a man without enforcement roots and unattached to the operation that tainted his early days in office, was forced into awkward public positions. He worked admirably at saving some face for an agency that had covered themselves with so much egg while at the same time he offered apologies and made social and financial reparations to a community that had been so senselessly wronged. Needless to say, however, when his time at the helm was done, he moved out of state.

The embarrassment not only took its toll on the individuals of the department, but it rang deep into the credibility of northern, and eventually statewide communities. Trust diminished and the relationship between the public and the DNR became an antagonistic one. Any and all DNR efforts, whether enforcement or otherwise, were viewed with skepticism.

And we should be surprised when a high court now rules to restrict the DNR's enforcement powers?

So, trying to keep this on the historically informative level that it began on, what's the point?

The point is, that there was a time when the enforcement character of the Minnesota DNR ran roughshod over the state. And it's very possible that the nature of the DNR a decade ago has lent itself to the decision making process of today. Minnesotans are "nice," but they're not "ignorant." They've learned quite a bit over the years and remember what happens when an aggressive bureaucracy gets a little too much power. Of course we want controls on the way we use our outdoors. But maybe we don't want the kind of controls we saw in 1992.

And if those in enforcement don't heed that message, maybe there's a history lesson to be learned from an opening in some "out of the way" Minnesota locale.

And if that doesn't knock some sense into them, there's always my mother-in-law.

Senior planning meeting for parents at LHS

Parents of 12th graders at Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls are invited to attend a meeting at 7 p.m. Monday, September 23, in the Lincoln High School cafeteria.

This year, counselors at the high school are following up each meeting they have with seniors with a meeting for their parents. This meeting will cover such items as graduation requirements and graduation status, the college search and selection process, ACT and SAT scores, and career search resources.

All parents are invited to attend this meeting, however, parents of seniors at Lincoln High School are specifically invited to attend.

Representatives earn small business awards

Representatives Maxine Penas of Badger and Tim Finseth of Angus earned "Guardian of Small Business Awards" for the 2001-2002 biennium. Mike Hickey, state director for the National Federation of Independent Business, said the two representatives are good friends and real supporters of small business interests at the capitol. He added that they understand the vital role small businesses play in our state's economy, and realize how many jobs are created by small business each year.

Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Sanctuary to feature fall programs

Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Audubon Sanctuary will be hosting four fall programs. Admission is free and all are welcome to attend.

Visitors are invited to arrive early or stay late to walk the trails and see the fall colors.

Study highlights housing crisis

County, a household would have to earn $20,654. Overall, 11.1 percent of Pennington County residents and 10.7 percent of children under the age of 18 live in poverty.

Median value home costs vary across the area. In Roseau County, a household needs to earn $24,896 to afford the median valued home (76,300). In Polk County, a household must earn $24,471 to afford the median valued home ($75,000). A Marshall County household has to earn $16,477 to afford the median valued home ($50,500), and a Norman County household needs to earn $14,226 to afford the median valued home ($43,600). In Red Lake County, the amount needed is $14,096. The median valued home in Red Lake County is $43,200. A household would have to earn even less ($12,856) in Kittson County to afford the median valued home ($39,400).

Chapin had either been shot or in an explosion in Saudi Arabia. As one would expect, the Tookers were shaken. Tooker said, "We were frantic all day."

Chapin's stepfather, Kevin Tooker, said, "That's when it hit home. That's the scariest moment since he's been gone."

Kevin and Sheila Tooker tried calling Chapin throughout the day. Eventually, they received word from him. Chapin said his family did not hear from him for over 24 hours after the person claiming to be an army chaplain called. He had not been involved in a shooting or an explosion.

Chapin returned recently for a few days. On the anniversary of the attacks, he was back home. He attended area honor ceremonies and spoke with fifth and sixth grade students at Badger School. Chapin left late last week for his army base in El Paso, Texas.

Kevin Tooker said, "I'm proud of what he has chosen to do, and he's serving my country like my father and brother did."

Taralseth Building in Warren makes national register of historic places

In its heyday, the Taralseth Building was the place where folks in Warren bought their dry goods, hardware and groceries. A few years ago, the old building was abandoned and left to transients, who ripped great holes in its walls.

Now, this example of early commerce has been refurbished in its original style, and it has been listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

This two-story commercial building with Tudor Revival characteristics was built in 1911 by the K.J. Taralseth Company to replace a structure that had burned. Knud J. Taralseth, a Norwegian immigrant, opened a general store in Warren in 1882. The store and its successor building were the hub of Warren commerce for the next 50 years. At that time, competition from other stores began to end its domination of the retail scene.

National Register Historian Susan Roth said this brick-faced building is an example of the all-purpose general stores that served the sparsely settled areas of Minnesota in the early 20th century. Residents of small towns relied on general stores for clothing, hardware and supplies brought in by rail. In addition, Roth said such stores often served civic functions. The Taralseth Building's second floor served as a dentist's office, judicial offices and a Masonic Lodge over the years.

When Knud Taralseth died in 1904, his son Ralph carried on the business. Ralph Taralseth became Warren's mayor and its fire chief for many years as well as its leading merchant. In the late 1930s, competitors brought a more modern merchandising concept to town, and the old notion that groceries, hardware and shoes were purchased in one store began a slow extinction.

After being closed in the 1970s, the Taralseth Building began a steady decline. A renovation began in August 2001. The bricks have been cleaned, windows have been replaced with historically accurate replications, woodwork has been repaired or replaced, and the interior is currently being repaired. A law firm will occupy the first floor. The second floor will be used for senior citizen apartment housing and a community center.

Being listed on the National Register recognizes that properties are worthy of preservation. Certain properties also may be eligible for federal tax benefits and grant funds. The National Register is maintained by the National Park Service and is administered in Minnesota by the State Historic Preservation Office at the Minnesota Historical Society, St. Paul. For information about the National Register, or to learn more about historic preservation in Minnesota, call (651) 296-5434.

Seamless Aluminum Guttering
Heating, Air Conditioning
378-4641 378-4585

Our Seamless gutters are manufactured from .032 gauge pre-painted aluminum; the heaviest gauge used in the industry. If your home is 20 feet or 200 feet in length our seamless gutter is made in one continuous length, eliminating any joints or seams in the middle. Inquire before you purchase "Seamless Gutter" about the thickness of the material used and be certain that it is made in one continuous length.
Seamless gutter is formed, cut and installed on site by a two-man crew...saving on labor cost. Freight charges are eliminated. Waste is almost unheard of due to gutter being measured and cut on-site to exact lengths. No need to store left over odds and ends that get damaged before they can be used. Most jobs can be completed the same day. Call us for complete information and free estimates of your job at no obligation to you.

Wishful Thinking

When you run your display advertising in the Yellow Pages, you'll do a lot of wishful thinking.
You'll hope people will see your ad on a regular basis. But the Yellow Pages are closed 90 percent of the time. And 67 percent of adults use the Yellow Pages less than twice a week.
You'll hope your customers will see your ad first. But they'll probably see your competitor's ads.
You'll wish you could advertise your prices. Or change your ad more than once a year. But you can't.
And when you figure the annual cost of your Yellow Pages advertising, you'll wish you had your ad run in the newspaper instead.
When people turn to their paper, they turn there with interest. Which means that's where your advertising message needs to be.
With all the choices available, it's difficult deciding how best to advertise your business. But everything becomes a little simpler when you remember one rule.
YOU GOTTA BE IN THE PAPER.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Dave Hill and do not represent opinion of other staff members. Opinions in items from other publications may not coincide with the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

It's the political season: Letter generates response

Last week a reader called me on our policy regarding allowing individuals named in letters an equal opportunity to respond in the same edition. I've been very tough about that, but last week I slipped up and let a letter get through and the reader wanted to know why.

The letter in question, which was written by Sen. LeRoy Stumpf and appeared in the September 18 edition of The Times, was critical about comments Sen. Dick Day of Owatonna (now Senate District 26) had made in a news article appearing in the Grand Forks Herald.

The reader was absolutely correct, but I don't know why I let it slip. Maybe it was because the author was Sen. Stumpf. It's more likely, however, that I neglected to follow procedure because I just slipped up.

The comments Sen. Stumpf referenced in his letter to the editor appeared in the Sept. 4 edition of the Grand Forks Herald, and were as follows: Referencing Northern Minnesota, Sen. Day said, "If I became majority leader, I guess that would be the last place I would look at to locate any development dollars."

I don't blame Senator Stumpf for being upset and writing a letter to the editor. I was so incensed by that comment myself that I wrote a nasty editorial about it. For some reason unknown to myself, I never chose to print that editorial. Editorials take a lot of time and effort and it is a rare day indeed for me to write, and then not print, an editorial. While my editorial didn't get published, Senator Stumpf's letter did appear in the newspaper on Wednesday. Thursday morning a reader called to ask "what's up?"

It was fortunate indeed that it was Thursday because our legislators were at the state capitol trying to reach an agreement on disaster assistance for Roseau flood victims. Senator Day was in his office. He explained that the whole conversation with a reporter from the Star Tribune was not in reference to "Northern Minnesota," but Duluth, which he said has never elected any republicans. (I didn't check the veracity of that statement and I'm assuming he meant to the legislature. I was also left with the impression that the original comment was made in jest, but that's a guess. And if it weren't made in jest and I lived in Duluth, I'd be a little incensed.)

So readers understand, I also should explain that the story appearing in the Grand Forks Herald was probably a story newspaper staff picked up from the Associated Press. Most daily newspapers belong to a press association that provides news articles to its members. The Times and Northern Watch are weekly publications that print news of local interest and do not belong to a similar press association.

Politics appears to be behind part of this matter too. Senator Day is the minority leader, and this being an election year, if votes swing in favor of Republicans he could end up being the next majority leader. Sen. Day indicated that he had received a faxed copy of a similar letter or story appearing in another newspaper. Apparently that was from another politician as well, so it now appears to this casual observer that his comments – accidentally taken out of context – are being used against him. Sen. Day said he would probably have to issue some statement to address the confusion in the near future. Day said the impression left by the story that he is against development dollars for northern Minnesota is "not true and completely against his make-up." Sen. Day added that in fact, he is a co-author of the Roseau funding bill.

In spite of the negative impression left by the story, Sen. Day said he had nothing against the reporter who wrote the original story. He added that he thought he was a very good reporter.

This is an election year, isn't it.

It appears that because it is an election year, politicians expect, anticipate and participate in these types of games all the time. Yet, I think these games are precisely the sorts of things that turn the public off.

Take deliberate, specific actions to improve safety during the harvest season

A recent news release from the University of Minnesota Extension Service reports that during 2001 in Minnesota, 30 people died in the farm workplace, up from 22 the year before. While fatal farm accidents can take place anytime, it seems that harvest-time is when these types of accidents garner more attention.

While there exists a need for continued education and development of safer equipment, it's important for farmers and those in the agriculture industry to think safely. Use common sense. The University of Minnesota also suggests that farmers and individuals in the agriculture industry to take deliberate, specific actions to eliminate the hazards commonly implicated in farm injuries and fatalities.

Farm injuries and fatalities place a huge emotional and economic burden on families and communities. While it's important to recognize the need for safety all the time, it's especially important during the harvest season.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

Corps awards contract for EGF levee

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, St. Paul District, awarded ICS, Inc., of Grand Forks, N.D., a $8.5 million contract mid-September to complete State 2 of its East Grand Forks flood control project.

This is the second Corps contract awarded to ICS, Inc., this month. Last week, the Corps awarded this company a $21 million contract to complete Stage 2 of its Grand Forks, N.D., flood control project.

The communities of East Grand Forks, and Grand Forks, N.D., have been working aggressively with the St. Paul District to develop a permanent, comprehensive flood damage reduction project, since record flooding devastated the area in 1997. The contract includes building 11,000 linear feet of earthen levees, 650 linear feet of floodwalls, one pump station, one closure structure, one restroom facility, a parking lot, 5,000 feet of linear feet of recreation trail and 7,500 linear feet of storm sewer and related items, as well as raising U.S. Road 2.

The entire project consists of levees and floodwall set back from the river, forming three rings around both communities, as well as stabilization of an existing dam, removal of a former railroad bridge, interior flood control features, numerous road and railroad closures, extension and expansion of an existing diversion channel and construction of an additional diversion channel.

Total costs for the entire project are estimated at $390 million. The Corps of Engineers will provide 50 percent of the funding for this project, with the cities of Grand Forks and East Grand Forks contributing the remainder. Construction of stage 2 is expected to start this fall and be completed in two years.

Action on flood relief praised

Praising legislative leaders for coming to agreement on relief for flood-stricken areas of northwestern Minnesota, Congressman Collin C. Peterson (D-7th District) said Thursday's special session will be a good first step in the region's recovery process.

"It's been a tough summer for those whose lives were disrupted by the flooding. Roseau Mayor Jeff Pelowski and other community leaders have worked hard to keep attention focused on the importance of keeping their region viable," Peterson said.

"Senator Moe, Speaker Swiggum and the Governor deserve praise for getting this assistance directed to northwestern Minnesota at such a critical time.

The flood relief plan will provide about $32 million in state funding to Roseau, Warroad, Mahnomen, Ada and other communities that received heavy rains in June. The state money will match federal disaster aid to pay for agricultural damage, help rebuild infrastructure, and to assist businesses, local government and homeowners as they begin the recovery process.

"Disaster assistance has to be a joint effort between the state and federal government, and without the state stepping up to the plate, there would be no federal money coming this soon. A special legislative session won't fix all the problems, but it should provide a much-needed boost to farmers, business owners and homeowners who have been waiting for help," Peterson said.

Applications being accepted for "Steak in Education" Scholarships

Applebee's Family Restaurants and the Minnesota Beef Council (MBC) have teamed up to offer "Steak in Education" Scholarships. Applebee's and the MBC have partnered in several beef promotion activities in recent years, and as a result, Applebee's has contributed funds to support the scholarship. Several $750 scholarships will be awarded.

In order to be eligible, applicants must be preparing for careers in education (elementary, secondary or extension) and attending an accredited two or four-year college university. Furthermore, applicants must be Minnesota residents and completed at least one semester or quarter of study. Applications must be postmarked no later than November 1, 2002 and must include a completed copy of the application form, a recent official grade transcript, an essay and two references. The essay should be less than 300 words and include the applicant's reasons for pursuing his/her present educational program, the applicant's career plans, his/her attitude toward animal agriculture, the applicant's financial need, his/her college activities and why the applicant is deserving of the scholarship. One of the two references must be from a current or former teacher.

The MBC is a promotion and research board created under Minnesota statute. It is authorized by the Cattlemen's Beef Promotion and Research Board to collect the $1-per-head beef checkoff and invest the funds in promotion, research and educational activities on behalf of Minnesota's 35,000 beef and dairy producers.

Applications should be sent to:

Junior Achievement poll shows nearly nine out of ten teens refuse to work for a company accused of unethical behavior

With corporate integrity, fairness, and dependability on the national agenda, students across the country are speaking their minds on business ethics. In the midst of ongoing, high-profile corporate scandals, Junior Achievement (JA) asked 1,449 students nationwide to share their thoughts on business ethics. Poll results show that nearly nine out of 10 teenagers refuse to work for a company accused of wrongdoing, while three out of four teenagers say they would not even buy a product from a company accused of wrongdoing.

The Junior Achievement poll was conducted as JA launched its new, online Business Ethics Center. The center features several activities designed to teach young people about business ethics and can be found at http://www.ja.org/programs/programs_ethics.shtml.

Are boys more tolerant of corporate wrongdoing? Ninety four percent of girls said they would not work for a company accused of unethical behavior, in contrast to 81 percent of boys who said the same. Mirroring a similar trend, 82 percent of girls said they would not consider buying a product from a company accused of unethical behavior, while 68 percent of boys said the same.

Still, students' overall perception of business remains fairly healthy. Despite the recent wave of scandals, 62 percent of students said they were "just as likely" to consider a career in business, 30 percent said "less likely," and eight percent said it "made no difference."

Among top career choices, for the first time in the three-year history of the poll "doctor" slipped from its perch as the number one ideal career.

Only 5.2 percent of respondents said "doctor" was their ideal career choice, compared to 10 percent in previous years. The profession of "lawyer" was slightly more popular, with 5.5 percent of students saying so. By contrast, nine percent of respondents named "businessperson" as their ideal career choice, making it the most popular answer of all.

When asked about government's role in monitoring business, 63 percent of students said government should regulate the "same as now" or "less" (48 percent and 15 percent, respectively). Boys were more likely to favor less government regulation, with 19.4 percent of them saying so—compared to only 10 percent of girls. The belief that government should regulate business more was nearly identical between boys and girls.

Students were also asked how the recent corporate scandals might have changed their opinion of business. Fifty-nine percent of respondents said the scandals made no difference, 34 percent answered "for the worse," and seven percent said "for the better."

Two out of three students polled had never participated in a Junior Achievement program.

The Internet-based JA Enterprise Poll on Business Ethics was conducted from August 20, 2002 to September 10, 2002 by Junior Achievement nationwide. It was also promoted by Terra Lycos and Angelfire.com. A total of 1,449 students participated. Based on the total sample of middle grades and high school students nationwide, the margin of sampling error is +/- 2.9 percentage points. The poll is part of an ongoing series on students' views of economic issues.

For more information, contact Edwin Bodensiek at (719) 540-6297 or ebodensiek@ja.org, or visit the Business Ethics Center at http://www.ja.org/programs/programs_ethics.shtml.

Unemployment rate in Minn. remains steady

Minnesota Department of Economic Security Commissioner Earl Wilson has announced that Minnesota's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for August was 4.3 percent. The August rate was unchanged from July but well above last year's 3.7 percent.

Nonfarm employment contracted by a seasonally adjusted three-tenths percent in August, the largest decline since last October. Nondurable manufacturing employment increased by one-half percent; all other sectors either held steady or decreased over the month. The largest numerical drop occurred in government.

The state's unadjusted unemployment rate was 3.9 percent in August, down from last month but up by six-tenths percent from a year ago.

"Even though Minnesota's job market has lost some momentum in the current economic climate, the long-term prospects remain encouraging," said Governor Jesse Ventura.

Report highlights economic importance of livestock industry

Livestock production and processing activities generate an impressive amount of economic activity in Minnesota, according to a new economic report released by the Minnesota Department of Agriculture (MDA).

The report focuses on three cheese and whey plants, as well as eight meat animal processing facilities. The study uses an economic modeling system to trace the linkages between the dairy and livestock production and processing sectors, and their impacts on Minnesota's economy. The study found that the 11 processing plants, which together comprised a substantial share of the state's overall processing capacity, generated more than $5 billion in economic activity for the state, and supported 38,000 jobs.

The plants included in the report are the Hormel plant in Austin, the First District dairy plant in Litchfield, PM Global's beef processing plant in Windom, the Zumbrota dairy processing plant, six processing facilities operated by Jennie-O Turkey, and a Fergus Falls dairy processing plant that closed shortly after the study was completed.

MDA Commissioner Gene Hugoson said the report illustrates the key role livestock production and processing plays in the state's economy. Meanwhile, the collapse of one of the highlighted businesses shows the challenges at hand.

"This study demonstrates how important livestock production and processing is to Minnesota's overall economic well-being," Commissioner Hugoson said. "Without the economic activity generated by these processors, Minnesota's economy would be a lot weaker than it is today. That's why we can't afford to write off animal agriculture or ignore the industry's ongoing decline in Minnesota."

In addition to detailing the present contributions of the selected processing plants, the report considers the impact of increased or decreased production at these plants. The clear message in each case is that as production drops, so does employment and income in many parts of the state.

For a complete copy of the economic impact report, contact MDA economist Su Ye at 651-296-6384.

Lumberjacks defeat Thief River Falls 6-1 in high school dual Bemidji won all but the No. 2 doubles match Thursday in a 6-1 girls high school tennis win over visiting Thief River Falls.

"Obviously, the girls and myself were not satisfied with the results," said Thief River Falls coach Troy Hanestad, "but it did give us a much-needed indication of where we stand and what we need to work on."

Senior Stacia Kalinoski and freshman Ashley Leister combined for the lone Thief River Falls win.

The loss in a rare night match, dropped the Prowlers' dual record to 4-2.

Annual Northwest Quad, which rotates among the participating schools, will be played in Thief River Falls Tuesday. That will be followed by the Thief River Falls Quad Thursday. Both meets begin at 10 a.m. Saturday, Thief River Falls faces Alexandria and Bemidji in a double-dual hosted by the Lakers.

"We play a lot of tennis in the next two weeks, and we are looking forward to the opportunities we will have to take our games to the next level," offered Hanestad.

Government procurement fair to be held

A government procurement fair will be held at Fort Snelling on October 22. Small businesses interested in doing business with government agencies can meet with representatives from the respective organizations. In addition, attendees can participate in workshops on topics ranging from becoming HUBZone certified to how to sell to the government. Small businesses owned by ethnic minorities, veterans and women can learn about special programs designed to provide better access to the government marketplace.

The fair will start at 9 a.m. It will be held at the Bishop Henry Whipple Federal Building. All attendees must pass through security to enter the facility. Attendees need a picture I.D. and should allow for a few extra minutes to clear security.

To register for the event, call the Small Business Administration (SBA) at (612) 370-2324 or email the SBA at minneapolis.mn@sba.gov. Be sure to include your individual and company names in your registration.

National champions fall to Northland 3-1

Mike Zachow might have found the cure far the comman cold. The Northlund Community and Technical College volleyball coach was feeling under the weather until the Pioneers gave him a shot af medicine – a 3-1 Wednesday win over two-time defending notianal champion Central Lakes

"That felt pretty gaod," said Zachow ufter Northland's 30-24, 22-30, 30-23, 30-24 Northern Division victory.

A strong start set the table for the host Pianeers as they jumped to 14-4 und 18-8 Game 1 leads. The Raiders chapped the difference to 26-24, but got no closer in an opener that ended with a Christel Berobe put-buck.

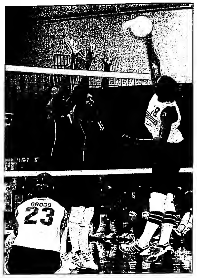
"I don't know if they (Raiders) had van legs or what, but they were a step slow in the first game," said Zachow. "We played well."

There was na evidence of Central Lakes being road-weary in Game 2 as the visitors turned a 10-10 draw inta leads of 17-11 and 27-15. The Pioneers put together a 6-1 mini-rally, but the Raiders finished it with a cross-caurt spike by Lexie Palo and a drive by Jessica Melheim that went off a pair af Northland blockers.

"I thaught Central Lakes played a heckuva second gume," noted Zachow.

The Raiders' Game 2 wake-up call prompted Zachaw to make some personnel changes in an effort to neutralize the Central Lakes attack And it worked.

Behind a strong net play by Tera Davidson, the Pioneers regrouped for the pivotal third-game win. The sophomore from Newfolden scored Northland's final four points on a put-away, two kills and a block.



Looking to tie the match, Central Lakes grabbed a 13-6 Game 4 lead before Northland went on a 17-3 scoring ron to take control during an extended Davidson stay at the service line. Back-to-back blocks by Palo brought the Raiders to within 28-24, but the Pianeers closed it out when Sara Jensen beat a pair of blackers for point No. 29 and Central Lakes hit out-of-baunds for the final point of the night.

"We came out and got the job done in Games 3 and 4," pointed out Zachow. "They (Raiders) were off, especially in the fourth game, and we were on. I made a couple of changes in the third gome to try to turn things around. It worked, so I went with the same line-up in the last game."

Berobe led the Pianeers with 16 kills, while Davidson and Jensen both finished with six and Jacqie Knight had six. Berube also had seven blocks.?

Setters Cindy Lambert and Lindsay Wegge directed the Narthland offense with 19 ond 13 assists, respectively.

Narthland improved to 8-6 overall and 4-2 in the Northern Division. The Pioneers are at the Itasca Invitational today (Saturday). They have a chance to improve their position in a tight division race with home matches Wednesday vs. Fergus Falls, Friday against Hibbing and Saturday with Ruiny River.

Cantral Lakes defanders Jassica Mathaim and Jenny Skiba ware unable to block this spike by Northland's Christel Barube during tha Pleneers' 3-1 Minnesota Communtty Cellaga Confarance volleyball win Wednasday. Sara Gross of Northland (23) watchad the action.

Prowlers' balance too much for Roseau

Once again, Thief River Falls showed its balance Tuesday when five different individuals won races in a 108-58 girls high school swimming win over Raseau.

The victory at the Franklin Middle School pool improved the Prowlers' dual meet record ta 3-1.

Two eighth graders were among the Thief River Falls first place finishers as Ashley Meunier won the 500-yard freestyle and April Peterson took the 100 backstroke.

Other wins for the Prowlers came from senior Michelle Jahnson, 100 butterfly; junior Cami Hendrickson, 100 freestyle; and freshman Allyson Helling, 200 individual medley.

Thief River Falls also swept all three relay races. Senior Brittany Haviland, Petersan, Helling and Hendrickson formed the winning combinatian in both the 200 medley and 200 freestyle. Johnson was joined by juniors Danielle Sorvig, Kendra Mooney and Carli Cota on a first place 400 freestyle unit.

Two of the three Roseau wins came from Anneliesse Nelsan in the 200 freestyle and 100 breaststroke.

Thief River Falls junior varsity swimmers out-pointed Roseau 73-56.

Ponies hand TRF losses in ninth grade volleyball

Warren-Alvarado-Oslo took a pair of ninth grade volleyball matches from Thief River Falls Tuesday.

The Ponies won the A match 16-14, 8-15, 15-13 after sweeping the B match 15-0, 15-5.

Mustangs handle Eagles; Gators swept by Warroad

Red Lake County Central handled host East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 15-3, 15-0, 15-4 Tuesday in high school volleyball.

Head coach Nancy Bray said it wasn't the best perfarmance of the year for the 7-2 Mustangs, but it did have a plus side. "Everybody got a chance to play," she noted.

RLCC Scoring

■ Kills - Michelle Halvorson 13, Megan Gunderson 10, Brittany Barberich 7, Emily Bjerkle 6.

■ Assists - Maugeen Munt 12, Michelle Halvorson 16.

■ Aces - Jenny Magnell 8, Tanya Melby 2.

Gators lose to Warroad

Close matches were won by Warroad Tuesday in a 15-10, 15-9, 15-13 sweep of Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

"We didn't play bad at all," pointed out Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Christine Adrian. "They just played a little better than we did."

The final blow, according to Adrian, came when the host Gators lost service when trailing 14-13 in Game 3.

"They (Warroad) do a good job blocking the middle," explained Adrian. "They shut us down at the net."

B/G-MR Scoring

■ Kills - Kierah Kimbrough 9, Anne Dostal 8, Ashley Mekash 4

■ Assists - Katie Borgen 27.

■ Aces - Ashley Mekash 2.

Youth bowling Fun Day, registration is Sept. 28

Thief River Falls youth bowling Fun Day and registraion for the 2002-03 season will be held Saturday, Sept. 28, at the Family Bowl.

Juniors are invited to attend from 9 to 10:30 a.m. A session for Prep and Bantam-age bawlers will be held from 10:45 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.

Sanction fee is $10. Fun Day participants can bowl for 50 cents per game. A hot dog and beverage can be purchased for 50 cents.

Pioneers' setter earns recognition; Pioneers ara nationally ranked Cindy Lambert, a Northland Community and Technical College sophomore setter from Oklee, was named volleyball Player of the Week in the Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division for Sept. 9-14.

Lambert had 44 assists and five ace serves during the Pianeers' Sept. 13-14 weekend road trip when they lost a 3-1 Friday match at Rainy River, then won a 3-1 Saturday contest at Hibbing.

Meanwhile, even while trying to stay above .500, the Pioneers have drawn national recognition.

Sparting a 7-6 record at the time, Northland was ranked seventh in the latest National Junior College Athletic Association Division III poll.

Three Northern Division teams are currently ranked nationally, including No. 1 Mesabi Range, No. 5 Ruiny River and No. 7 Northland. Five of the Pioneers' six early-season losses came at the hands of the Norse and the Voyageurs."

B/G-MR schedule gets tougher

Naw comes the hard part. A Badger/Greenbush-Middle River trip to Fertile-Beltrami for a Friday (Sept. 20) high school football game began a five-week stretch that will test the Gators' mettle.

After playing the Falcons, Badger/Greenbush-Middle River will host Hawley, visit Mahnomen and entertain Red Lake Falls in successive Friday night match-ups, then end the regular season with a Wednesday, Oct. 16, road game against Warren-Alvarado-Oslo.

The Gators broke into the win column for the first time with an 18-14 Friday (Sept. 13) victory over visiting Lake Park-Audubon. Earlier losses came at the hands of Walker-Hackensack-Akeley and Fosston.

"We won, but we're still having troubles," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Kent Janicke, who watched a number of scoring opportunities slip away – again. The Gators, he pointed out, are just 4-for-18 from inside the red zone this fall.

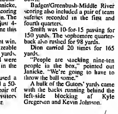
While claiming a four-point win, the Gators finished with a sizeable 463-207 advantage in total yards. The Raiders trailed 9-0 and were limited to 33 yards rushing in the first half.

But Lake Park-Audubon used a 70-yard run on a reverse and a 50-yard pass play to set up a pair of touchdowns that put the visitors ahead 14-9 in the third quarter.

The Gators regained the lead on a 1-yard Dane Henson touchdown run. They clinched the win when Tim Dion came up with an interception of the final play of the game. The return went 80 yards before ending short of the goal line.

Jake Peterson caught a 21-yard pass from Jason Smith in the second quarter for the Gators' first touchdown.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River scoring also included a pair of team safeties recorded in the first and fourth quarters.



Smith was 10-for-15 passing for 150 yards. The sophomore quarterback also rushed for 98 yards.

Dion carried 20 times for 165 yards.

"People are stacking nine-ten people in the box," pointed out Janicke. "We're going to have to throw the ball some."

A bulk of the Gators' yards came with the backs running behind the left-side blocking af Kyle Gregerson and Kevin Johnson.

Kiwanis Club begins raising funds for park

Kiwanis Club of Thief River Falls has begun raising funds to purchase playground equipment for Northrop park.

"There's no playground equipment there," said Barb Natvik, first vice president of Kiwanis in Thief River Falls. Natvik also pointed out that other than playground equipment at Red Robe Park, which is near the Eighth Street bridge, there are no playgrounds for children anywhere on the north side of Thief River Falls.

Natvik said plans for the playground at Northrop Park, which is located near where Northrop elementary school used to stand, are being developed by the Thief River Falls Parks and Recreation department. Plans far the park have nat been approved, but Natvik said it is her understanding that some of the playground equipment will be the same as found in other community parks, while other unique playground equipment will be added to this park.

Playground equipment and park development is expensive. Natvik said the Kiwanis Club of Thief River Falls wants to start raising funds now. They anticipate the cost of the playground equipment to be in the neighborhood of $50,000.

The first fundraiser for the park will be the Kiwanis Club Full Supper scheduled for Saturday, September 28, at Zion Lutheran Church. The menu will consist of meatballs, potatoes and gravy, vegetables, a salad and milk and coffee. Kiwanis Club members will be serving from 5 to 8 p.m.

Tickets are available at the door. The cost of the supper is $7 for adults and $4 for children under the age of 12. Natvik said individuals who are not able to attend the Fall Supper, but who may want to make a donation for the playground equipment, may do so by sending their donation to: Kiwanis Club, P.O. Box 144, Thief River Falls, MN 56701. Please include a note with your donation indicating that it is for the playground equipment.

The second fundraising activity is also underway. Natvik said the club is now selling coloring books. They will be available for purchase at the Fall Supper too.

Northland hosts annual College Fair Wednesday

Northland Community and Technical College is planning an area College Fair for continued education from 9 to 11:30 a.m. on Wednesday, September 25, in the college gymnasium.

This program gives students, parents, and those interested in pursuing higher education, the opportunity to explore a variety of options for continued education, technical training, or military service. Representatives from more than 60 educational institutians and other organizations will be available to answer questions and provide important information for post-high school planning. Structured like a trade show, participants will be free to browse various displays and speak with the schools, colleges, and organizations that interest them.

Northland has hosted the College Fair for nearly 15 years, and, according to event organizer Don Howe, the event is essential for individuals interested in attending or planning to return to school. "The College Fair gives students the opportunity to learn more about education and job opportunities in the area. Students can meet with individuals to answer their questions and make the first step toward continuing their education," said Howe.

Northland's College Fair is sponsored by the Minnesota Association for College Admission Counseling (MACAC), the same group that hosts the successful National College Fair each fall in Minneapolis.

NW Regional Library to host Harry Potter Trivia

The Northwest Regional Library system will host a region-wide Harry Potter Trivia Challenge for youth at 2 p.m. on Saturday, October 26. The event is currently scheduled to take place at the Greenbush Community Center meeting room.

The competition will be set up "Family Feud-style" and will feature teams of four teens or late preteens. The teams participating will be from each of the five counties in the Northwest Regional Library system area, including Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake and Roseau. All participants will receive a Harry Potter Challenge t-shirt and other prizes will be awarded to team members from the first and second place teams.

Each library will decide on team members in their own way. Input from Harry Potter enthusiasts in the community is being solicited to ensure the contest is a fun and exciting event. Thief River Falls library manager Heidi Hoks notes, "This is a wonderful way for children who read, especially the Harry Potter series, to put their knowledge to the test and to have a great time getting together with other Harry Potter buffs."

An informational meeting for those interested in joining the Thief River Falls team will be held at 4 p.m. on Tuesday, September 24 at the library. Those who are interested but cannot make it to the meeting should call Heidi Hoks at the library at (218) 681-4325 or at home at (218) 681-2980 in order to be placed on the team. While only a four-member team advances to the competition, everyone who joins the Thief River Falls team will work on the project.

For more information about the Harry Potter Trivia Challenge, contact the Thief River Falls Public Library at (218) 681-4325. Harry Potter books, books on cassette and the video are available for check-out throughout the Northwest Regional Library system. If the item of your choice is checked out, ask the library staff to place a request on it for you and they will gladly do so.

NOTICE TO READERS
While work-at-home advertising is often legitimate, we advise readers to fully investigate the background of any company before paying a fee. If an offer sounds "too good to be true," it probably is. Proceed with caution if you are asked to send money or in calling 900 numbers. All phone numbers prefixed by "900" are charged to the caller on a per minute per call basis. Remember, if you have any doubts, investigate.

28th Annual Middle River Goose Festival

The Miss Middle River Pageant will be held beginning at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday at the Middle River School gymnasium. Four young contestants will be vying for the crown this year.

The four contestants include: Kelsey Dawn Holmes, daughter of Steve and Gail Holmes; Danielle Peterson, daughter of Todd and Colleen Peterson; Jaclyn Renae Peterson, daughter of Brian and Connie Peterson; and Kelsey Lynn Filpula, daughter of Richard and Amy Filpula.

The Miss Middle River Pageant is prelude to the Annual Middle River Goose Festival that will be held the following weekend.

Ride the mechanical bull, check out the craft and flea market, see Arsenic and Old Lace or participate in the wild goose cook-off and calling competition. All of these events are part of the fun at the 28th Annual Middle River Goose Festival September 27, 28 and 29.

Each year thousands of area residents attend the Middle River Goose Festival. Don't be left out of the fun.

Friday's list of events and activities include a blood pressure clinic from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., a beer garden starting at 3 p.m., the Legion Auxiliary supper beginning at 4:30 p.m., bingo at the Legion beginning at 5 p.m., a performance of Arsenic and Old Lace at the community theater beginning at 7:30 p.m., a dance with Bethany Lynn and the Violators at the Legion beginning at 9 p.m., and a dance featuring Deliverance at The Wheel beginning at 9 p.m.

Saturday's list of activities is even longer. Most of the events take place right on main street. Check out the craft and flea market, the festival parade at 12:30, and much more. This year's grand marshals are Arvin Dahl and Gary Pearson. The wild goose cook off contest begins at 6 p.m. The Teen dance will be held from 8 p.m. to midnight. A special feature of this year's event will be the remote control car racing event held in memory of Cody Brandon who died in an accident this summer.

Don't forget about all the activities on Sunday. The community Pancake breakfast will take place from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. at the community center. A polka mass and lunch will be held beginning at 11:15 a.m. at St. Joseph's Catholic Church. Team sorting will take place beginning at noon at the Ornquist arena, which is one-half mile west on Highway 6. Registration begins at 11 a.m. A tractor pull will be held beginning at 1 p.m. at the Farmer's Co-op Grain and Seed elevator. A music jam will be held at the American Legion at 2 p.m.

Don't forget to check out the 28th Annual Middle River Goose Festival.

Senior meals program sets candidate forum for next Wednesday

Warren - A candidates forum for Warren city and Marshall County election candidates will be hosted by the Warren Senior Nutrition Program following the evening meal, which will be served at 5:30 p.m. on October 2.

The public is invited to attend and enjoy the evening meal with the seniors. Suggested donation for the meal is $3 for persons ages 60 and older and $5 for all others.

Candidates invited to participate in the forum include those seeking election to city council, mayor, county auditor/treasurer, county board from Commission District 1, sheriff, recorder and county attorney.

Format for the forum will be for each speaker to make a minute or two of introductory remarks, then field questions from the audience. - Warren Sheaf, September 25, 2002

Lowell and Margaret Hamrum are the new emerging leaders

Red Lake Falls - The Red River Leadership Program (ELP) is filled with opportunities for rural leaders to develop and expand their leadership skills.

The program, developed in 1985, exists to create and sustain a network of community of leaders in northwestern Minnesota, focusing on agricultural and natural resource issues. They accomplish this by recognizing and encouraging individuals through leadership programs designed to strengthen personal skills in leadership, citizen involvement and legislative processes. To date, more than 500 individuals have participated in the training.

The program strives to empower people to make a difference in the region. Participants of the ELP say it is a great vehicle for building networks with other leaders throughout the region and an educating tool to recharge people on leadership, the importance of community and giving back to the community.

Individuals selected to take part in the program are expected to attend four training sessions (held in November, January, February and March). They are to provide leadership for recruiting and selecting the next year's program participants from their county. They coordinate local public relations and recognition of new program participants. They also serve on the ELP Fund Development Committee for their county for at least one year after completing the program.

Additional opportunities for participants who have completed the four-session training program have the opportunity to continue their involvement through educational training sessions designed for program "graduates" and to serve in an advisory capacity to the ELP executive board on the program development or public relations and recognition committees.

Lowell and Margaret Hamrum of Brooks were selected to serve as emerging leaders for Red Lake County for 2003. They will be introduced in the near future to past emerging leaders at a banquet in Brooks. - Red Lake Falls Gazette, September 25, 2002, by Lisa Hanson

No one to apply
Businesses not applying for enterprise funds

by April Schelnohu
Reporter

Even though funding is available from the Northwest Regional Enterprise Fund, Inc. (NREFI), new and existing Pennington County businesses have not applied for it in the past 10 years.

Businesses in seven counties can receive Enterprise Fund loans. Of those, Pennington County businesses have received the least money per capita at $34.20. Kittson County, whose population is roughly one-third of Pennington County's population, received the most, $136.73 per capita. Since its inception in 1986, the fund has distributed almost $7 million. For this fiscal year, which ended June 30, over $450,000 was loaned to eight businesses.

Loan Fund Manager Linda Nelson believes fewer Pennington County businesses apply for the fund because Thief River Falls has its own Community Development Revolving Loan Fund. She said, "It doesn't surprise me because Thief River Falls has its own loan pool."

Enterprise Fund loan committee member Ray Safranski said, "I think we need to get the publicity out there that you can get Enterprise Fund loans for start-up and existing businesses."

The NREFI enables business owners to receive funding despite their inability to get credit from financial institutions or owner investments. It is supported by federal, state, county and city funding as well as by the Northwest Minnesota Initiative Fund and Northwest Regional Development Commission. The counties of Kittson, Norman, Marshall, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau provide funding for the program. The cities of Crookston, East Grand Forks, Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls also support the fund.

The Enterprise Fund receives money from the above entities on an as-needed basis. It received more money from the federal government via the Federal Economic Development Administration in 1993 and 1997 due to natural disasters. Whenever the fund receives

Similarities with Russia
Maggie Anderson participates in exchange program

by April Schelnohu
Reporter

Maggie Anderson is probably the only Thief River Falls resident to have a white napped crane tear a hole in her boot. While in Russia, Anderson met the white napped crane. It tried to pick grains out of the seams of Anderson's boot.

Anderson recently went to Russia as part of an exchange program. Her trip occurred August 30-September 12.

Anderson is the manager of the Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge. The trip was sponsored by her employer, the United States Fish and Wildlife Service. Each year, a group of U.S. refuge managers travels to Russia to offer their expertise. Likewise, Russian refuge managers travel to the U.S. to do the same thing.

The host country determines certain problems or areas on which to focus. From there, it picks certain wildlife preserves, and then the other country selects wildlife refuge managers, who have worked with similar habitats. (Instead of "reserves," Russians prefer using "preserves.")

"It's a trip of a lifetime for someone like me," said Anderson. "I couldn't afford it otherwise. I'm glad the Fish and Wildlife Service does it."

This is the second time Anderson has traveled to Russia. In 1998, she also took part in an exchange. This year, she visited four nature preserves: the Khingansky, Bolonsky, Bolshekhekhtsirskiy and Komsomolskiy Nature Preserves. All are located near the Amur

TRF secures FAA grant for runway project

by April Schelnohu
Reporter

On Wednesday, city officials formally accepted a $3.36 million Federal Aviation Administration grant for the airport's crosswind runway project. The grant will cover Phase I of the project, which includes the crosswind runway construction, parallel taxiway construction, land acquisition and deer/security fencing. It will fund 90 percent of the costs, and the rest will be covered by the city and state. The cost of Phase I is $3.81 million.

The grant consists of two parts: airport development and land costs. The airport development portion of the grant amounts to approximately $3.3 million, and the land costs portion is approximately $63,500.

The city's portion of the project is $381,000. Johs, Incorporated has provided the city with $180,000 toward the project. As a result, the city will be responsible for paying $200,000 toward the project.

So far, the city has already spent approximately $350,000 to finance the project, according to Lindberg. The money financed a justification and needs study, an environmental assessment and design engineering. However, Lindberg said that the city will receive a 90 percent reimbursement of that money from the grant.

As a result, Lindberg said, "Now we'll have monies to pay the contractor as he starts the construction process." The city will also be reimbursed by passenger facility charges or ticket taxes, which would amount to approximately $380,000.

Davidson Construction Company of Holt is the contractor. Lindberg noted that the consultant will be scheduling a pre-construction meeting within the next two or three weeks with the city and contractor. Soon after that time, Lindberg anticipates that the contractor will begin clearing wooded areas and constructing drainage ditches to allow for an early 2003 construction start.

Phase II of the project includes runway lighting, taxiway lighting and the rest of the land acquisition. For Phase II, the total estimated cost is $900,000. Providing that the city receives 90% of the cost through a federal grant, Phase II could also begin in the spring of 2003.

FMS pool is too shallow for diving
S.D. 564 levys for improvement

by David Hill
Editor

The Franklin Middle School swimming pool is too shallow for diving.

While this year's maximum levy request from School District 564 is less than last year, two health and safety projects included in the levy are receiving added attention – Franklin Middle School swimming pool, and air quality improvements for the high school auditorium.

Harry Nelson, business manager for School District 564, said they had an estimate that was really a ballpark figure for the cost to bring the Franklin Middle School swimming pool into compliance with state health and safety rules. The estimate, he said, is not based on any work done at our pool, but is based on what was done at other swimming pools.

As reported in a Star Tribune article on Tuesday, September 24, and an August 28 story in the Thief River Falls Times, Thief River Falls doesn't have the only swimming pool that has a depth rule problem. There will be no diving this year at school swimming pools at a number of schools across the state.

For purposes of the 2002 payable 2003 levy, Nelson said they estimated the cost of repairs at $280,000, which would include fees. Because the figure is not based on architectural studies, of

Grand Jury returns murder indictment

A 21-year-old has been indicted on charges of first degree felony murder and two counts of second degree murder by a Roseau County Grand Jury.

Curtis A. Korb made an initial appearance in Roseau County District Court on September 24. The charges stem from the July 5, 2002, death of 15-month-old Mia Powassin of Warroad. An Omnibus Hearing has been tentatively scheduled for November 15. Korb is being held at the Roseau County Jail in lieu of a $250,000 cash bail or $1 million surety bond.

The Grand Jury was convened at the request of Roseau County Attorney Michelle Moren to investigate the circumstances surrounding Powassin's death. The child's death was ruled a homicide by the Ramsey County Medical Examiner's Office.

Joe Kezar tunes in to local recording artists

by Jenny Nicholson
Reporter

When Joe Kezar was just a little boy, no bigger than the piano bench he sat upon, his career in music was already starting.

Joe and his older brother and a couple of the neighborhood kids formed a small band and won a local talent contest. They then had the chance to audition for a national show that would air on television from New York. The audition came and went and months passed with no word on how they did. Joe's older brother graduated from high school and joined the Air Force.

Finally the show got back to them - they had won a trip to New York to be on TV! But since Joe's brother was already gone, the group felt they could not go on without him. They gave up their position in New York City and their chance at fame and fortune.

Although it sounds like an episode of "The Wonder Years," it is a true story, but it didn't just end there. Joe got over his disappointment and decided to write his own destiny by pursuing a career in the music industry.

Joe has owned and operated Kezar Music for over 11 years now. In that time, he's slowly been adding equipment to his recording studio. Joe has used the studio to record the Back Behind the Barn Boys, who he has been friends with for quite a while, as well as his own band, Saddle Tramp.

Lately, the studio has seen a little more action by people interested in recording and learning how a recording studio works. Joe says in the last couple of years he's worked with everyone from country singers to rappers and instrumentalists to a multitude of garage bands that have formed around the area.

"A lot of people don't know what to expect," he says of first-time recording artists. He says many of them come into the studio and just start playing like they do at home, but when they hear themselves on tape, it comes as quite a shock. They usually don't end up sounding anything like they think they do after just one take. Joe says they can hear what they need to adjust and they instantly become better. "They learn fast just by doing it," Joe says.

At the studio, Joe takes on the role of producer and engineer. For $30 an hour, he will listen to what the artists want to get out of their session and as he records, he makes the necessary adjustments on the Joe Kezar has owned and operated Kezar Music for the past 11 years. In those years, he has incorporated a recording studio into his business. Joe has recorded and mixed the music of everybody from garage bands and rappers to country singers and instrumentalists. As interest in recording music has grown, Joe has been adding new equipment and expanded the area he uses as a studio into the lower level of the store.

Lake Bronson celebrates completion of $157,000 bike path

Kittson County - Kittson County, along with the city of Lake Bronson and the Lake Bronson State Park celebrated the completion of the new bike path Sept. 22 at the museum in Lake Bronson.

Kittson County Economic Developer Mike Troy invited various public officials to speak at the ribbon cutting ceremony, which dedicated the new 1.3 mile path that connects the city with the state park.

While the bike path may seem to be a recent development, the project's history goes back to 1997.

Kittson County Engineer kelly Bengtson said it was as early as 1997 that a patron of the county visited with the commissioners about building a bike path between Lake Bronson and the park.

A $40,000 grant was approved for the project in 2000. The city of Lake Bronson agreed to pitch in $10,000 toward the effort.

Bengtson said the estimate on the project, however, came in at $100,000. The crew at the highway department worked on getting some additional funds and succeeded with a $90,000 Department of Natural Resources grant in May 2001. - Kittson County Enterprise, September 25, 2002, by Cindy Stewart

Sherry LaCoursiere

If you watched the recent series on PBS about Germans from Russia, here are some recipes from them. My cookbook is from Ashley, ND, where many Germans from Russia came to live. It is a beautiful little town. My daughter lived there for a while.

Here is the recipe for Knephla Soup that I promised to print:

KNEPHLA SOUP
Dorothy Oockter

3 cups flour
1 tablespoon salt
1 egg
3/4 cup lukewarm water

Mix into a dough, adding just enough additional flour so it can be handled easily. After mixing, cover and set aside.

In large kettle, place:
8 cups water
4 tablespoons beef soup mix
1 pound pork sausage, fried and broken into small pieces
2 cups diced carrots

Cook for about 10 minutes. Turn stove to medium and cut in the knepfla dough pieces. (Place dough on table or bread board and work with heel of hands, employing a rolling motion. Cut dough in half and mold into a kind of flattened, round shape. Sprinkle with flour and roll each with rolling pin, then snip off pieces with scissor about the size of one's little finger.)

After adding knepfla, add:
4 more cups water
2 bay leaves
1 teaspoon whole allspice

Simmer, covered, about 20 minutes. Remove bay leaves and allspice before serving.

Here's another Knepfla soup recipe:

KNEPHLA SOUP
Rita Ost

4 quarts chicken broth
Cubed potatoes
Diced celery, as much as desired
Diced onions, as much as desired

Start cooking while making dough below.

Dough:
1 cup butter or margarine, melted
8 eggs, beaten, added to melted butter or margarine
4 level cups flour
3 teaspoons salt

Mix only in order given. Drop by teaspoons into simmering chicken soup. Cover and cook about 20 minutes.

According to another recipe (much harder, so I didn't include it), 2 tablespoons of vinegar and a little milk or cream might be added to the soup just before serving. Some people like their Knepfla soup clear and others like it creamy, I guess. This was from a recipe by Grandma Gottlieb Kessel. Grandma also said to cook a beef soup bone with the chicken for more flavor if the chicken is young.

If you have any tomatoes left, try canning this German recipe to have on hand for the long winter months – It sounds like it would be really versatile and tasty in many dishes:

CANNED TOMATO SOUP
Hildagard Weisser

2 gallons tomatoes, peeled
2 stalks celery
1 whole green pepper
4 onions

Blend in blender, then cook for 1 hour and add:
1-1/2 cups flour
3/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup salt
3/4 cup butter

Bring to a boil. Place in jars and process 20 minutes.

One pint of tomato soup and one pint of milk make a great bowl of soup for lunch. Also use in hot dishes.

End of garden soup might be a good name for this one – It sounds delicious – Just right for a cool fall day:

BROCCOLI-VEGETABLE CREAM SOUP
Lenora V. Harrison

1 medium to large potato, diced
1 large onion, chopped
2 stalks celery, cut fine
1 large carrot, diced
1 (12 – 16 ounces) package frozen broccoli (or fresh), diced
3-5 tablespoons chicken granules bouillon
1 can cream of celery soup
3-4 tablespoons flour
1 quart milk
1/2 pound Velveeta cheese, cut into pieces

Cover vegetables with water. Simmer until tender. Add chicken granules to taste.

Mix soup, flour and milk and add to vegetables. Heat just to boiling. Simmer slightly to thicken.

Stir in cheese. Remove from heat and stir to melt cheese.

Here's a hearty soup that you can make yourself instead of buying in a can:

POTATO HAM SOUP
Alvina Ulrich

1 cup diced carrots
1 cup finely cup onions
2 cups finely diced celery
6 cups raw, peeled diced potatoes
1 tablespoon snipped parsley, fresh or dried
2-3 cups diced cooked ham
8-10 peppercorns
1 large bay leaf
2 cups milk
1/2 cup cream
Salt to taste

Cook carrots, onions, celery, potatoes, parsley, ham, peppercorns and bay leaf in 4 cups water. Cook slowly to conserve liquid.

Add milk and cream just before serving and heat through. Salt to taste. If more liquid is desired, add milk.

Here's a soup for those of you who are watching your diets – It is not from the Ashley cookbook:

CARROT LEEK SOUP

1 medium leek, thinly sliced
4 teaspoons low fat margarine
6 medium carrots, sliced
2 medium potatoes, peeled and cubed
3 cans (14-1/2 ounces each) low sodium chicken broth
2 cups skim milk
1/8 teaspoon pepper

In large saucepan, sauté leek in margarine until tender. Add carrots, potatoes and broth. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat, cover and simmer until vegetables are tender.

Cool to room temperature. Remove vegetables with a slotted spoon and place them in blender or food processor. Add enough cooking liquid to cover and blend until smooth. Return to pan.

Stir in milk and pepper and heat through.

Recipe serves 10 with 1 cup each. Each serving has Diabetic Exchange of 1/2 starch, 1/2 skim milk, 1/2 fat. Also 89 calories, 113 mg sodium, 4 mg chol, 15 gm carb, 4 gm protein, 2 gm fat.

2002 Northern Minnesota Beef workshop set

The 2002 Northern Minnesota Beef Workshop will be held on Tuesday, October 15, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Beltrami County Fairgrounds. This workshop is designed to enhance the knowledge and productivity of northern Minnesota beef producers. The University of Minnesota Extension Service sponsors the program. This year's keynote speaker is Dr. John Lawrence from Iowa State University, who works with national and international livestock economies.

Topics for the day include:

• Shaping northern Minnesota in the future of the worldwide beef industry. How do we compete? How must we change?

• Using the computer to buy and sell hay. Easy to learn, easy to do;

• Increasing profits in lean times;

• Embryo transplants from a farmer's perspective;

• New and emerging health concerns for beef producers;

• Current and future outlook for feeder cattle. Has the world changed? Is there still a beef cycle? Has the drought in the Midwest affected long term prices?

Many commercial exhibitors and purebred cattle will be on display and new exhibitors are always welcome. There is no cost to attend and lunch is provided at no cost, courtesy of the commercial exhibitors. Program brochures are available from you local extension office. For more information, contact the Clearwater County Extension office at 218-694-6151 or 1-800-866-3125.

Thank You

We would like to thank everyone who made our 50th anniversary so special. To our family, Roger and Mary, grandchildren, Michelle & Husband Jeff, Jason & friend Lorrie. Thanks to the band that played such good music. Special thanks to Beverly Rux and Lorraine Anderson for helping Mary with the supper. It was such a good meal.

Thanks for all the cards, letters and gifts we received. Family and friends are so wonderful, we appreciate all you very much.

God bless all of you,
George & Millie Hill

Thank You

Thank you to all my friends & family for visits, phone calls, cards and support & caring during my hospital stay in T.R.F and Fargo.
Forever grateful.

Future shines brighter for Roseau

It was an important and happy week for Roseau and victims of summer floods. Legislators met on Thursday, and approved a $32.4 million flood aid package for northwestern Minnesota.

It was long over due. Only a week ago, public officials were concerned about the future of the community. Because aid was slow in arriving, repairs were being delayed or put off, and citizens were even contemplating a move to other communities. Business leaders had also expressed concern–they didn't want to struggle under the burden of additional loans when they weren't even sure there would be enough people left in the community to support their business.

The aid package was unanimously approved. Legislators stuck to their guns and pushed the bill through, despite some attempts to add amendments to the bill. According to a Roseau Times Region story, at the conclusion of this latest chapter in the flood battle, Mayor Jeff Pelowski thanked Sen. LeRoy Stumpf, and Rep. Maxine Penas for their hard work. He might as well have added numerous other names to that list, including his own. It's well deserved, that's for sure.

Shortly after approving the $32.4 million aid package, Roseau manufacturer Polaris announced plans to spend $7 million on a construction project in the community of Roseau. Such a well-timed announcement is certain to boost public confidence. But then again, the fact that Polaris has been a very good neighbor is nothing new to residents of Roseau. A story in the Roseau Times Region last week, noted how the Polaris Disaster Recovery Fund had disbursed over $500,000 for flood recovery this summer. Obviously, one of its goals of this effort was to provide assistance to its employees, but as its employees spend those dollars, it will have a beneficial impact on the entire community and northwestern Minnesota.

Once again our legislators and a major employer (Polaris) demonstrate their dedication to northwestern Minnesota.

War with Iraq: Will history repeat itself?

To the Editor:

Does this reading audience remember the undeclared Vietnam War and the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution?

History has taught us that the Johnson administration created the Gulf of Tonkin "incident" to justify the action this country took in sending our sons to war with over 56,000 of them coming home in body bags. We now have what is called the Vietnam War Memorial Wall that was recently in Grand Forks. Will we have an Iraq War Memorial Wall, and how long will it be?

I cite this example because the Bush administration is totally convinced of the need to send our loved youth to Iraq, which is 6,500 miles away from here, to fight an undeclared war (to date) against Saddam Hussein. However, the Bush administration has yet to give us some facts to justify this action. We have heard many speeches using rhetoric and suppositions. Where are the facts?

To quote Scott Ritter, a former UNSCOM inspector, "If I were an American, uninformed on Iraq as we all are, I would be concerned." According to Ritter, who spent seven years in Iraq with UNSCOM weapons teams performing detailed investigations into Iraq's weapons program, no such capability exists. Iraq simply does not have weapons of mass destruction and does not have threatening ties to international terrorism. Therefore, no premise for a war in Iraq exists. Considering the American military lives and the Iraqi civilian lives that will be spent in such an endeavor, not to mention a deadly regional destabilization that will ensue, such a baseless war must be avoided at all costs.

"The Bush administration has provided the American public with little more than rhetorically laced speculation," said Ritter. (Truthout editorial, "The Coming October War in Iraq," Wednesday, 24 July, 2002.)

Are we Americans unpatriotic to question our government, or should we just let our government (Bush administration) do its own thing? The rest of the world does not buy the rhetoric that the Bush administration is putting forth. So, will coercion or promises be made by this administration to achieve world support? It will mean our tax dollars and possibly more military aid to future rogue nations.

Before we send our most precious resource, our youth, on such a dangerous adventure based on such dubious suppositions, paranoid suspicions and "secret" evidence, I would want to have some pretty solid factual evidence. Wouldn't you?

What I do know is that there are Iraqi individuals who have come to this country and are lobbying our government leaders to go to war – Ahmed Chalabi of the Iraqi National Congress, Sherif Ali Bin AlHussein of the constitutional Monarch Movement, and Alyotollah Mohammad Baqir al-Hakim of the Supreme Council for the Islamic Revolution in Iraq, an Iran-based Shiite group, to name a few. ("The Washington Post," July 27, 2002, page A15 by Glenn Kessler.

If we can say that Saddam Hussein has killed his own people (the Kurds back in 1988) using chemical/biological weapons, we have to ask where was the outrage back then by the U.S.? Was it muted because chemical and biological weapons were being used against Iran, a nation we considered a rogue nation, and we sided with Iraq?

Many times politicians and the press make it sound like Saddam Hussein is the only one who has used weapons of this type or would use a nuclear weapon when in fact the U.S. used chemical weapons in Vietnam and nuclear weapons in Japan, and the Germans used mustard gas in World War I. And if you go back far enough, the U.S. used biological weapons against the Native Americans in our earlier history. Who gets to decide which is justifiable? A world court or just the U.S.?

Will an invasion of Iraq add to world security or lead to more chaos in the Middle East and more terrorism? Look at Israel for a moment. Israel, after many suicide bombings by the Palestinians, drove its tanks into Palestine and began a program of mass destruction overwhelming the Palestinians with their military might as we may well do with Saddam. However, has this made the Israeli people any more secure from terrorist actions?

To further quote Ritter, "It is of a certainty that few in the Muslim world support another American war with Iraq. Osama bin Laden used the civilian suffering in Iraq under the sanctions to demonstrate to his followers the evils of America and the west. Another war would exacerbate those already raw emotions. After 9/11, much of the Islamic world repudiated bin Laden and his actions. Another Iraq war would go a long way to proving in the minds of many Muslims that bin Laden was right all along. The fires of terrorism that would follow this are unimaginable." (Truthout, 24 July, 2002)

The first Gulf War triggered the madman Osama bin Laden. How many more Osamas are out there waiting to be triggered by another war?

The U.S. has identified the following countries as "rogue nations": North Korea, Cuba, Iraq, Iran, Libya, Sudan and Syria. Should we also invade these countries: How does an administration decide which country to invade? And how do we classify a nation as rogue? Does it have anything to do with the training and harboring of terrorists? The terrorists that hit us on 9/11 were Saudi Arabian and Egyptian citizens living and being trained in the U.S. Should the U.S. target Saudi Arabia and Egypt also as rogue nations?

Most recently, the arrests of U.S. citizens in Buffalo, N.Y., and of Ramzi Binalshibh in Pakistan, came about because of intelligence and police actions. These arrests make me feel more secure and are more consistent with our constitutional form of government, not some aggressive action of war that flies in the face of international law.

How will our economy react to this war action? Can we afford it? I do not hear the Bush administration discussing a Plan A or a Plan B for maintaining a supply of oil to keep our vehicles running during this period of time. Currently the stock market is pessimistic at best with regards to this more-than-likely 'war' in Iraq. Can we expect to see our general economy continue downward? What will the national debt reach? What will happen to oil supplies? Will President Bush's oil buddies get even richer? Will this country self-destruct and fulfill Osama bin Laden's dream?

Would any of these questions even have to be asked if the U.S., as a world power, had developed renewable energy when we had the first oil crisis in the 1970's?

If you are totally convinced that going to war is justified, then you can send your sons and daughters off with your blessings. I would prefer peacefully resolving issues through the U.N. and discussion. The time to think seriously about this action is now. Contact your congressional delegation and let them know how you feel on this issue. Remember the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution!

Sincerely,
John and Connie Omdahl

More Hilarious Howard Hampton Hijinks

Howard Hampton has been a longtime member of Canadian politics. Currently, he is the New Democratic Party's parliamentary representative for the Rainy River District. He's occupied much of his elected time waging an ultra-nationalist campaign against the spread of Americanism into his beloved home nation. Oftentimes, that campaign has reached such a frenzied, irrational level that even some of Hampton's most loyal constituents have looked at him in disbelief, wondering how their leader can maintain such a high political office while at the same time sputtering out such absurd and vindictive anti-American drivel. I'm here to reassure you, that such inanity is not the product of a balanced human process. Howard Hampton, you see, is not mortal in the least. As uncovered in an earlier investigative effort here, Howard Hampton is actually a cartoon figure fabricated by talented Canadian bureaucrats to provide entertainment for citizens of all border communities.

The name speaks for itself. Howard Hampton. Note the alliteration. A little too cutesy, wouldn't you say? Like Bugs Bunny. Or Daffy Duck. Screwy Squirrel and Deputy Dawg. Howard Hampton! It's a giveaway.

And, of course, 'toons and humans can intermingle successfully. Don't you remember the 90's exposé "Who Framed Roger Rabbit?" The results aren't always pretty, but the laughs never seem to stop. Howard Hampton is a great illustration of the practical and entertaining benefits of this 21st century animated effort.

Consider his wild and crazy public stances. Take the most recent episode at the Rainy Lake Bass tournament in which Hooligan Howard tries to pass last minute legislation to block American organizers of the event from headquartering on the Canadian side. It was vintage Hampton material! He defends his position, on several fronts. Economic benefit to Canadians, for instance, which sounds all well and good until one realizes that before the tournament showed up, there was absolutely nothing happening on the Canadian side of the lake that weekend other than four local women getting together to pick ripened hazelnuts from a roadside grove of brush. Hotels, restaurants, and bait-dealers apparendy hadn't informed our Hero Howard that they were interested in making a few more dollars after the traditional Labor Day shut down and before the onset of brutal winter. Good wholesome humor.

Well, if that little plot twist wasn't enough to split your already aching sides, Homeboy Howard claimed that the full hibernation patterns of the bass had begun already and by allowing the tournament anglers to pull them off those spots, the fish would be stressed and probably not survive. Perhaps he's got a point there, but here comes the really funny part – a Canadian group is holding a bass tournament in the exact same waters a week from now with six times the number of participants and if the fish were possibly on those resting spots a week ago, they are most certainly going to be on them next month! A few dead bass in September, according to Howard, is apparendy worse than dead bass floating everywhere in October. Man oh man, is this funny stuff or what?!

But wait, there's more! When all of Helter-Skelter Howard's last minute public posturing fails short of stopping the tournament, he simply pulls some political strings and gets his buddies at immigration to deny the tournament's organizers a work permit. This immigration shtick is the equivalent of a safe falling seven stories onto Elmer Fudd's head, you see. Hee-hee-hee. The pin on the entire tournament gets yanked right in mid-cast on day one. Take it easy, you're killing me with this! Which sounds all fine and dandy for Humorous Howard's cause, until the question pops up about work permits for the American entrants of next week's tournament, putting the Canadian sponsored event in jeopardy and reducing the potential for any economic benefit for the region, which was Howard's big push in the first place. Oh, how animation and irony make me laugh!

And just to add one last anvil-dropping belly laugh of a twist to the whole comic strip character of the installment, it seems that only two days prior to all this, Fort Frances and International Falls had signed a "Sister Cities" agreement in an effort to jointly promote outside and within the area. Har-har! I thought it was only in the most deprived and backward of human cultures that sisters received such harsh and disrespectful treatment. But apparently cartoons can stoop that low, too. I wonder what next week's episode of Hysterical Howard Hampton will bring. I can only hope the tears have stopped rolling down my cheeks by then! Ho-ho-hee!

Homeowners invited to free weatherization workshops

Otter Tail Power Company invites area homeowners to a free workshop to help them prepare their homes for winter.

"We'll share information to help you make your home more energy-efficient and keep it comfortable all winter long. And many of the tips we provide don't cost a lot," says Vicki Severson, Otter Tail Power company's training supervisor.

Attendees will learn how to:
• Reduce their energy costs by insulating, weather stripping, and air-sealing their homes.
• Solve their heating challenges by using innovative, energy-efficient electric heating technologies.
• Control moisture and mold problems.
• Improve indoor air quality for a healthier home.

Workshops begin at 6:30 p.m. and will be offered at the following four locations:
• Red Lake Falls City Hall on Monday, September 30.
• Gonvick Community Center on Tuesday, October 1.
• Fergus Falls, Otter Tail Power Company model home on Wednesday, October 2, south of Westridge Mall.
• Minneota Community Center on Thursday, October 3.

For detailed information, call Otter Tail Power Company's Idea Center at 1-800-493-3299.

When it comes to healthcare, who should we leave behind?

No One.

Mark Borsheim believes it's time for action and will work to:

• Lower health care costs for all Minnesotans
• Make sure all children have access to quality health care.
• Enact meaningful prescription drug reform.
• Seek state funds to finance hospital renovation efforts for small-town health care facilities.
• Improve the care our elderly receive by making sure nursing homes and long-term care workers are protected from further cuts.
• Protect patients from HMO's by working with Attorney General Hatch to pass a Patient's Bill of Rights.

Berube, Pioneers use power hitting in division sweep

Northland overpowered Fergus Falls with its offensive arsenal Wednesday, registering a 30-28, 30-15, 30-28 Minnesota Community College Conference volleyball sweep over the visiting Spartans.

Christel Berube, a sophomore from Fisher, is recognized as the leader of the Northland hit parade. But she has a strong supporting cast in sophomores Tera Davidson (Newfolden), Sara Jensen (Thief River Falls) and Sara Gross (Blackduck), along with freshmen Alicia Halvorson (Newfolden) and Ashley Holthusen (Grygla).

Because of the number of Northland hitters capable of putting points on the board, Fergus Falls coach Ann Williams was placed in a tough spot. If she tried to contain Berube with a double-block, one of the other Pioneers would be left open. She went with a single blocker on Berube. It didn't work.

"We were hitting the ball pretty well," acknowledged Northland coach Mike Zachow, especially with Christel in the middle."

Zachow told his setters that as long as Fergus Falls tried to defend Berube with a single blocker to keep feeding her the ball. "I don't think anybody in the league can stop Christel with a single blocker," he explained. "She does a great job, and we've got a good mix with the rest of them."

Holthusen has recently joined the Pioneers' hitting club after making a switch to the right side, according to Zachow. "I thought Ashley had a great match tonight," he said. "We moved her to the right side in the (Sept. 21) Itasca tournament, and it worked. She's playing really well right now."

Berube finished the night with 17 kills and six blocks. Davidson had what Zachow called her best match of the season with 15 kills. Kelsey Johnsrud and Cindy Lambert wound up with 16 and 15 assists, respectively.

Northland never trailed in Game 1, although the Pioneers' lead was never big enough to relax. It ended with a Holthusen kill.

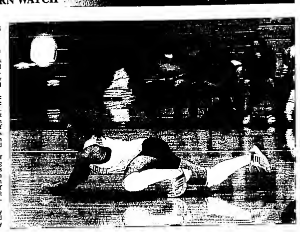
Only Fergus Falls lead in Game 2 came at 1-0 as the Pioneers breezed and closed it out with a Stacy Vedbraaten (McIntosh) service line run.

Game 3 was a back-and-forth affair that included a 28-27 Fergus Falls lead on a block by Erica Pederson.

But the Spartans gave up a key point on a missed serve, then spikes by Jensen and Berube ended the match.

It was an important victory for the Pioneers, who improved to 5-2 in the Northern Division, where they remained in a second place tie with Mesabi Range behind Rainy River. Fergus Falls, meanwhile, fell to 3-4 and back in the pack with Hibbing and Central Lakes.

"It's nice to win at home, and it's nice to put a little space between us and the teams right behind us," said Zachow.



RLCC beats Eagles in middle of a busy volleyball schedule

Despite being a little weary in the midst of a busy stretch of matches, Red Lake County Central was able to muster up enough energy to beat rival Red Lake Falls 15-3, 15-13, 12-15, 15-7 in Tuesday high school volleyball played at Plummer.

The Mustangs, who won the Thief River Falls Northern Lites Invitational Saturday and beat Climax/Fisher Monday before stopping the Eagles, still had a Thursday trip to Roseau before wrapping things up for the week.

"We started out well," said Red

A diving effort by Northland's Alicia Halvorsen kept a Fergus Falls serve off the floor during Wednesday's Minnesota Community College Conference volleyball match in Thief River Falls. Halvorson is a freshman from Marshall County Central. The Pioneers beat the Spartans 3-0.

Northwest Quad won by Pirates

Crookston won two singles and two doubles crowns Tuesday en route to team honors at the annual girls high school tennis Northwest Quad. Thief River Falls was this year's host.

The Pirates finished the day with 17 points, followed by Thief River Falls with 14, Moorhead 8 and East Grand Forks 3.

Crookston singles winners were Lindsey Johnson at No. 3 and a combination of Sara Fee-Amy Burke at No. 3.

The Pirates added doubles titles by Sarah Sannes-Kathy Westrom at No. 1 and a Lauri Russ-Rachel Erickson-Danielle Gasper combination at No. 3.

Thief River Falls senior Eryn Clow won the top prize for the day – the No. 1 singles title.

"Eryn Clow had a very strong performance," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Troy Hanestad. "Eryn has added a lot to her game this season, and is getting better with every match she plays.

A second Thief River Falls title came from seniors Kelsey Christensen and Maggie Stock at No. 2 doubles.

"Kelsey Christensen and Maggie Stock dominated play at No. 2 doubles and won easily," noted Hanestad "Kels and Mag both play a very aggressive doubles game. They both have huge serves and returns, which tends to set the point up well for their partner."

Freshman Ashley Leister was third at No. 3 singles, but still drew praise from Hanestad. "Although Ashley Leister lost two of her matches, I thought she played very well, and has improved her singles game tremendously," said Hanestad. "I really like the game that Ashley plays. She goes out and pounds the ball and has her opponents scrambling on every point. Ashley will be a force in the section in the years to come."

Hanestad liked what he saw, but said the Prowlers still have room for improvement. "The girls played well, again, but were edged out," he explained. "We had our chances to win the head-to-head match, but Crookston won all three of the matches that were close. We have to start winning those close matches against good teams if we want to advance past the sub-section tournament."

The coach might have been able to alter the outcome, too, according to Hanestad. "Hindsight is always 20/20, but I think I could have chosen a better line-up," he offered.

Regular season ends for Northland golfers

Regular season schedule ended Wednesday for the 2002 Northland Community and Technical College men's and women's golf team during an appearance at the Itasca Invitational.

It was an individual outing for the Pioneers, who did not have a complete team for either portion of the meet.

Northland freshman Tommy Greelis (Thief River Falls) finished tied for first in the men's medal standings with a 73, but he lost on the second sudden-death playoff hole to Chris Bengedorf of Hibbing.

The Rick Nikunen-coached Pioneers will golf in the Minnesota Community College Conference state and National Junior College Athletic Association Region 13 tournaments Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Mankato Country Club.

Northland was in Mankato for the Sept. 21 Bethany Invitational. The Pioneers also golfed Sept. 15-16 at the Central Lakes Invitational.

Spuds stop Game 3 comeback to finish sweep against TRF

Moorhead stopped a third-game Thief River Falls comeback at 14 Tuesday to complete a 3-0 high school volleyball sweep over the visiting Prowlers.

The Spuds won 15-6, 15-8, 16-14.

"We had a pretty good lead in the third game, but we got stuck at 14," reported Thief River Falls coach Erika Ramstorf.

The loss dropped the Prowlers record to 2-15-1.

"We went up and down, again, with our level of play," noted Ramstorf.

There were some positive things that happened during the match, according to Ramstorf. "Our blocking was a lot better than it has been," she said. On the down side, however, were three rotation violations that cost the Prowlers. "Those are the kind of things we need to eliminate," she added.

Detroit Lakes cross country invitational race results posted

Late-reported results have been made available from the Sept. 17 Detroit Lakes Invitational boys and girls high school cross country meet.

Moorhead swept the team titles. Thief River Falls boys ran ninth in a 13-team field, and the Prowlers did not have a complete girls team. Still, first-year head coach Greg Ueland was pleased with the results.

"Overall, it was really a great day for us," said Ueland. "There were some real positive performances by most of our runners."

Ueland was especially happy with the showing by the Thief River Falls boys. "Jeremy Sich had an awesome race in his first varsity race of the season," he said. "The boys showed they can compete with many of the Section 8AA teams. Our goal for the season was to finish in the middle, team-wise, at the regional met, and today we proved to ourselves that it is very possible.

Early edge disappears in 3-2 B/G-MR setback

An extended Game 3 win carried Warren-Alvarado-Oslo to a come-from-behind 3-2 Tuesday high school volleyball win over visiting Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

The Gators won the first two games, but couldn't complete the sweep as the Ponies rallied for a 10-15, 12-15, 16-14, 15-5, 15-8 victory.

"We were playing really well at the start," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Christine Adrian. "At the end, we just weren't getting the kills like we did earlier in the match. We were maybe a step slower, and they were getting a piece of the ball."

The Gators were led by a 26-kill night by Kierah Kimbrough and 46 assists from Katie Borgen.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was coming off a 3-2 performance at the Bagley Invitational Saturday when the Gators beat Wadena-Deer Creek, lost to Hawley and Clearbrook-Gonvick, added a rematch victory over the Wolverines and finished the day with a win over Kellher/Northome.

The loss dropped the Gators to 6-6.

Les DeBriyn cousin to Hall of Fame coach...
TRF has Arkansas baseball connection

Les DeBriyn of Thief River Falls is pretty proud of his cousin, Norm DeBriyn. And he has reason to be. Norm DeBriyn served as the University of Arkansas head baseball coach for 33 years before stepping down at the end of the 2002 season. His accomplishments will be recognized with his induction into the American Baseball Coaches Association Hall of Fame Jan. 3, 2003, in San Diego.

A native of Ashland, Wis., and a University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh graduate, Norm DeBriyn finished with a 1,161-650-6 record and a .641 winning percentage while directing the Razorbacks' program. He ranks 14th in career wins among NCAA Division I coaches.

Under DeBriyn, the Razorbacks made four College World Series appearances. Their best finish was a runner-up effort in 1979. They fell one game short of returning to the World Series this spring. Nineteen of his players earned All-America honors.

Currently serving as vice president of the Razorback Foundation, Norm DeBriyn was named Southeast Conference Coach of the Year in 1999 after winning similar honors in the Southwest Conference six times. He was inducted in the Arkansas Sports Hall of Fame and the Razorback Hall of Honor in 1991.

Gators lose 27-14 game

Kent Janicke had issued the warning earlier. The Badger/Greenbush-Middle River head high school football coach knew the toughest part of the Gators' 2002 schedule would be a five-game stretch against Fertile-Beltrami, Hawley, Mahnomen, Red Lake Falls, and Warren-Alvarado-Oslo. And it started with a 27-14 Friday (Sept. 13) loss at the hands of the host Falcons.

The Gators scored the first and the last touchdowns, but they still trailed at the quarter stops 8-7, 15-7 and 27-7 while falling to 1-3 for the year.

Hawley was scheduled to visit the Gators for a Week 4 match-up to be followed by an Oct. 4 Badger/Greenbush-Middle River game at Mahnomen.

Mustangs post wins over C/F, RLF

Lake County Central coach Nancy Bray after watching the Mustangs improve to 13-3 with the Tuesday victory. "Then we started missing some serves, and our passing wasn't as good as we would like."

The Mustangs, however, were able to match their start with a solid finish behind Michelle Halvorson, who had nine kills in Game 4 to hike her match total to 21.

Red Lake County Central outlasted Climax/Fisher 15-10, 12-15, 15-12, 12-15, 15-13 the night before at Plummer.

It was a come-from-behind effort by the Mustangs, who trailed 10-3 in Game 2, fell behind 10-2 in Game 3, faced a 12-6 deficit in Game 4, and had to overcome Climax/Fisher leads of 9-3 and 12-6 in Game 5.

"It was a marathon," noted Bray. "We didn't pass the ball as well as we should, but we battled back and didn't give up."

The Knights beat the Mustangs 2-0 in the finals of the Sept. 7 Ada-Borup Invitational.

FMS pool is too shallow for diving

course, the cost could go up or down.

The problem with the Franklin Middle School swimming pool was discovered last summer when the pool's filtration system was inspected by the state health department. The depth rule that is being enforced requires a water depth of at least 10 feet from the end of the board out to 12 feet. Apparently the rule has been on the books since 1995.

Nelson said he was never personally aware that there was a problem, and believes that had the school district been aware of the problem, it would have addressed it earlier.

At its deepest point, the Franklin Middle School pool is nine-feet, 10-inches. Even where it's close, Nelson said, it doesn't go out far enough from the edge of the board.

Activities Director Jim Sims said he was surprised and dismayed when he received the report back in July. He said he was aware that there was a 10-foot rule, but it had never been defined. He thought the pool had 10-feet of water, and they didn't have a problem.

The Thief River Falls diving program has produced a number of state qualifiers. The most recent standout was Chelsea Haviland. Because diving in the pool has been prohibited, divers in the program are traveling to Grand Forks, N.D., a couple times a week.

Sims said over the years the program has produced some outstanding divers, both male and female. There haven't been a lot of students participating in the program, but there's a reason for that, Sims said. It's a sport that requires a great deal of skill. Statewide, Sims added that a school is fortunate if it has a half dozen to 10 divers.

Sims said there continues to be interest in the diving program in Thief River Falls.

But Sims added there's more to the depth issue than the a diving program. Students at schools in Thief River Falls receive water safety education training through their physical education classes. "Look at where we live. You can't tell me that the education students receive through their physical education classes isn't important," said Sims.

Sims said he really has to pat the school board and staff on the back for doing the right thing.

A separate budget Item

While the cost to bring the pool into compliance is in the levy, the school board will still have to consider its options. Nelson added that health and safety projects, like this swimming pool improvement project, are really separate budget items. Nelson said the swimming pool project wouldn't even be considered a capital improvement project. He explained that this means this project would not affect the district's budget in a way that would have any financial impact on any program, or education in the district. While "it's off budget," Nelson added that "it's not treated lightly either."

Because it is a health and safety issue, a portion of the project will be paid for by the state. Nelson said the formula indicates that the local levy would account for 64 percent of the cost and the rest would come from the state, which he also noted comes from taxpayers.

The other health and safety project in the levy is an air exchange project for the Lincoln High School auditorium. Again, the cost estimate included in the budget was not looked at by an architect but was based on the cost of similar projects at other schools. Nelson said the estimate for this project was placed at $116,000, and again it would require a 64 percent local effort. Nelson said he thought the system at the auditorium was the original equipment. In any event, it no longer meets code requirements.

The 2001 payable 2002, levy had a health and safety levy request for $291,740.12. The health and safety levy request for 2002 payable 2003, is for $341,336.16.

equipment. Although he can make some changes to the way a recording sounds, he says people should not expect miracles. Joe enjoys working in the studio as much as possible because it gives him more experience and he's constantly learning.

Joe has also opened his store up as a venue for high school kids to host an "open mic night." Many of them are students of the arts programs and will gather for poetry readings. Recently, one of the teenage bands Joe recorded decided to have a CD release party. Joe invited them to use his lower level for the band to showcase their new music. The party was a great success with a lot of young fans coming out to see the show.

Joe says the open mic nights and band showcases are a great way for kids to get their music heard. He doesn't do any promotion for the events, the kids put them together and promote them on their own. He also notes that it's a safe place for them and parents are always invited to come check it out.

In the future, Joe says he will probably be adding a computer program called "ProTools." The program allows producers to adjust recordings on the computer screen where they can visually see every single note that has been played. Joe has his reservations about the program. "I'm more of a hands-on person." He says he will probably end up getting the program, though, but not before he upgrades his track recorder. Right now, Joe uses an 8-track recorder and wants to move up to a 24-track. The ability to record 24 tracks at a time gives musicians more freedom to be creative with their music.

Joe also has a hand in helping some of the local musicians take their careers to the next level. Mike Sistad, a former "Barn Boy," works in Nashville and often keeps in touch with Joe and his former bandmates in the area. Sistad works for a company called ASCAP, which is a performing rights group that works with songwriters and music publishers. Joe has worked with Sistad a few times, sending him demos of local musicians that want their music to be heard by the big record companies. Sistad then helps the recordings get to the right people in Nashville. Joe says he enjoys working with the musicians that have the initiative to try and further their music careers.

Joe doesn't plan on moving his business anywhere. He just wants to be at home with his family and on the occasional weekend, take a road-trip with the guys in the band for a few shows here and there. He talked about a friend whose father was still playing in a band and said he hopes when he's that age he can still get out for a set or two on the weekends. "I'm not going anywhere," he says, "I'm too old."

So, maybe he thinks he's too old to go anywhere, but Joe certainly has many years ahead of him to do the things he loves - running his business, working in the recording studio, playing in the band and spending time with his family.

And if you're wondering about those kids who had to give up their spot on national television; well they're all grown up now and they all do different things with their lives. But just as all the great bands of the past do at least one reunion show in their lives, so did they. For Joe's parents' anniversary, the little band got together, practiced for a couple of hours and surprised everyone with a performance. "We hadn't played together in 20-some years, but it was fun," he said.

Speaking naturally, we have some

River, which is the longest undammed river in the world. The preserves are northwest and west of Khabarovsk, Russia. Khabarovsk is located in eastern Russia.

Both trips helped Anderson realize the similarities and differences of the two countries. "They've got some major issues with the timber industry," said Anderson. "The farm situation out there is a lot like northwest Minnesota."

She continued, "The one thing they don't have is invasive species." Invasive species include purple loosestrife, which is present in Minnesota. The Russian wildlife preserves do not have invasive species because the preserves are not presently open to the public. Eventually, they will be open to the public. As a result, the preserves will have to deal with invasive species.

In addition, the Russian wildlife preserves face some issues American wildlife refuges do not encounter. One issue is access to global information systems (GIS). Anderson said GIS enable people to see "when we do this burn, are we doing what we want to do? When we raise the water quality, are we doing what we want to do?" GIS also help refuge workers determine if the refuge's habitat is affected by those two activities.

Moreover, Anderson noted poaching occurs in the area. She said, "With a lot of the prey species, like deer, poaching has been a big problem." She also mentioned that musk deer, which have both tusks and antlers, are poachers' prey.

She remarked, "At a lot of these preserves, a lot of the staff is law enforcement."

Furthermore, she observed the Russian preserves have more employees than American reserves. One reason is the larger size of Russian wildlife preserves. Of those that Anderson visited, three were over 150,000 acres in size, and one was slightly over 100,000 acres.

The wildlife preserves also employ numerous specialists in the same field. "They have bioscientists with expertise - a biologist, ornithologist - maybe two and a hydrologist," Anderson said. "I'd love to have an entomologist to look at my insects."

Besides those differences, some Russian wildlife preserves are tigers' homes. "We didn't see any tigers," she said. "Just knowing they were there and seeing the casts of some of the footprints was really exciting."

Next year, several Russians will be journeying to the United States for the program. Anderson said, "I'm hoping I'll be having some of them."

Anderson is also hoping the Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge will be internationally recognized as a RAMSAR site. The refuge is currently applying for the recognition. As a result, tourists, who specifically travel to RAMSAR sites, will probably flock to the refuge.

Almost 1,200 wetland sites have been recognized as RAMSAR sites. The 1971 Convention on Wetlands, which was held in Ramsar, Iran, spawned the recognition. The convention was an intergovernmental treaty that provided the framework for national action and international cooperation for the conservation and wise use of wetlands.

One criterium for the designation is to have at least one percent of the population of one species or subspecies of a waterbird. The Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge fits that criterium by having 10 to 20 percent of the world's Franklin gull population. Next year, the refuge will find out whether it received the recognition.

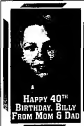
federal money, local communities are required to match that amount. In addition, money repaid to the fund by borrowers goes back into the fund to be dispersed to other businesses.

Businesses applying for funding need to be located in one of the seven counties that contribute to the fund. They must create or retain jobs; however, they cannot relocate jobs to another labor market. New businesses need an equity contribution, and existing businesses can either use additional cash equity and/or ask for consideration of the business' net worth. Moreover, they have to satisfy a local need for essential goods and services or show that the project is related to tourism.

A business can receive between $5,000 and $150,000 in funding. Generally, the funding provided is not more than one-third of the total project cost.

In addition to Enterprise Fund loans, Thief River Falls businesses can receive loans from the Community Development Revolving Loan Fund (CDRLF). Like the Enterprise Fund loans, CDRLF loans are available for both new and existing businesses. Community Development Director Don Stewart said, "The lion's share of our loans have been with existing businesses - something like 90 or 95 percent."

Despite being available for new and existing businesses, according to Stewart, the fund was meant to help manufacturing, processing and wholesaling businesses. The fund usually does not provide funding for service-oriented businesses because the city does not want to give one business a competitive edge over another.



However, the Community Development Advisory Board is currently devising a plan to give monies to retail and commercial businesses. Stewart said, "The Community Development Revolving Loan Fund or Jobs, Incorporated could provide some incentives albeit modest incentives for retail or other commercial businesses."

For more information about Enterprise Fund loans, contact Linda Nelson at (218) 745-6733. For more information about the Community Development Revolving Loan Fund, contact Don Stewart at (218) 681-2500.

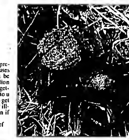
It's the Influenza Season!
TRF flu shot clinics now being scheduled

by Jenny Nicholson
Reporter

The influenza season is right around the corner and now is the time to think about getting your flu shot.

Inter-County Nursing Service has announced several clinics that are open to the public will be held in Thief River Falls this month.

According to Cyndi Onkka of Inter-County, influenza, or "flu," is a serious disease caused by a virus that spreads from infected persons to the nose or throat of others, making anyone susceptible to acquiring the disease.



Symptoms of the illness are fever, cough, sore throat, headache, chills and muscle aches. Most people are ill with influenza for a few days, but some get seriously sick and require hospitalization. Influenza causes thousands of deaths each year, mostly among the elderly.

The influenza vaccine can prevent influenza. Since the viruses change often, the vaccine must be updated each year. Protection begins about two weeks after getting the shot and can last for up to a year. Although some people who get the vaccine still get the flu, their illness is usually much milder than if they had not gotten the vaccine.

The clinics being held in Thief

On Wednesday, a newly hatched snapping turtle explored the area near First National Bank's parking lot in Thief River Falls. According to Lincoln High School biology teacher Patti Johnson, snapping turtle eggs take 100 days to hatch. The eggs are usually the shape of ping pong balls and are half pink and half white.

Board approves renovations on Oak Lane golf course

Erskine - The Oak Lane Golf Board recently approved several areas of renovations on the Oak Lane Golf Course located near Erskine. Work on this project got underway on Monday morning and is expected to be in the completion stages after three weeks. All of the areas will be re-seeded with dormant seed allowing for a quick growth start this spring and hopefully, not much missed play.

Over the past years, there has been problems with flooding, several areas staying wet, high water in the slough, weed infestation and deteriorating turf conditions along the fairway - all leading to the determination that now was the time to undertake the changes. - The Erskine Echo, October 3, 2002

Kittson Central works to cut $200,000 from next year's expenses

Kittson - Numbers, numbers and more numbers - that's what filled the agenda of the Kittson Central School Board meeting, Sept. 23.

One alarming number revealed to Kittson Central board members was the possibility of facing a $1.6 million budget shortfall within five years.

Kittson Central Superintendent Bruce Jensen reminded board members that this alarming scenario was a "possibility," assuming the district did nothing to combat the problem.

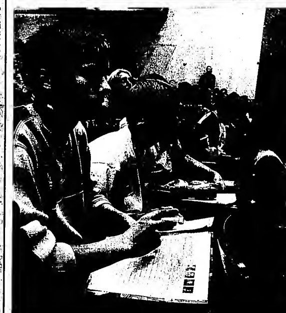
The problem is declining enrollments. - Kittson County Enterprise, October 2, 2002, by Cindy Stewart

Flea market in Grygla will have a full house

Grygla - A total of 24 different contributors will be offering crafts and other items for sale at the annual Fall Flea Market, sponsored by the Grygla Senior Citizens. The flea market will be held Saturday, October 5, 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Grygla Community Center.

Tables have been all sold out for the event, which means there will be a large variety of wares for sale. Besides the local tables, artisans and contributors will be coming from McIntosh, Newfolden, Thief River Falls, Warroad, Roseau and Oklee. - The Grygla Eagle, October 8, 2002

Woods to be Inducted Into Hall of Fame



Fosston - North Dakota State University (NDSU) in Fargo, N.D. will induct eight members, including Fosston's Janice Woods, on Oct. 18, into the Bison Athletic Hall of Fame.

Woods is the third all-time leading scorer in NDSU women's basketball history with 1,779 points and a career average of 16.0 points per game. As a senior in 1986, she was a second-team All-American and averaged 21.1 points that season.

During the 1981-82 season, her senior year playing for the Fosston Greyhounds, Woods made school history by passing the 2,000 point mark during the game in Twin Valley. The following week in games against Clearbrook and Thief River Falls, she added another 70 points to her total. - The 13 Towns, October 1, 2002, by Kim Thompson

Candidates for Minnesota Secretary of State: Dean Alger, Independent, Buck Humphrey, DFL, Mary Kiffmeyer, Republican, and Andrew Koebrick, Green Party, participated in a debate held Wednesday.

Lucas Pearson and Jorden Herbott, ninth graders at Lincoln High School, listen intently to the debate between candidates running for Minnesota Secretary of State. Kids Voting USA and local teachers and staff of School District 564, organized a debate between the candidates. The event was held Wednesday in the school's auditorium.

Students take charge of debate

by David Hill
Editor,
and Kate Levinson
Times Student Intern

Someone pulled the fire alarm. After standing outside on a nice autumn day, students reluctantly filed inside the auditorium. They chatted, laughed, loudly cheered classmates on the stage, and shifted in their seats; but, as the debaters in front of them began to trade barbs, the fidgeting began to slow. The students began to lean forward, eventually paying keen attention to what was being said.

"Before this, I didn't know anything about the secretary of state, and I think that this event helped a lot of students," said Ben Worker, a Lincoln High School senior class representative. Krista Brennu, another Lincoln High School senior explained, "It was interesting, even though I'm not old enough to vote. But if I were 18, I would definitely go out and vote on election day."

Worker was among the class representatives and officers who asked questions of the four Minnesota Secretary of State candidates appearing for a debate at Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls on Wednesday.

Senior Class President Nathan Browning, who also asked the candidates questions, said "It was a good experience that helped connect students to politicians. It made them seem accessible."

Dean Alger of the Independent Party, "Buck" Humphrey of the DFL Party, Mary Kiffmeyer of the Republican Party, and Andrew Koebrick of the Green Party, presented their reasons for running for the Minnesota Office of Secretary. The debate was sponsored by Kids Voting USA for the express purpose of engaging students in the political process.

"It was fabulous," said Carol Ihle, curriculum coordinator for

2. "Buck" Humphrey, DFL	105
3. Mary Kiffmeyar, R	55
4. Dean Alger, I	14

Cal Lindberg, social studies teacher, said the poll represented a sampling of four classes of students, ninth through 12th grades, who attended the debate. From the comments from students, Lindberg said it appeared that the students connected with Koebrick and thought he was a bit more flashy and interesting, but they also liked Buck's flair. He said the students liked the fact that Kiffmeyer stayed above the attacks and remained focused. Many of the students mentioned that Alger went overboard in mentioning his credentials, and despite stating that he was a "non-partisan expert," he was the most partisan, especially in his attacks against Kiffmeyer.

A day in the life of...
The funeral director

by Jenny Nicholson
Reporter

Death.

It's a word that conjures many emotions. It's a word that makes us uncomfortable. It's a word most people don't want to think about.

The death of a family member or friend is never easy. Who among us can actually say we are prepared to part with our loved ones? And what do we do when that time comes?

Putting together all the last-minute details of a funeral is something most people don't even want to think about, much less do. This is where funeral directors come in to the picture.

For those of us who have been to funerals but have not been involved in making the arrangements, funeral directors are somewhat of an enigma. Who are they and what exactly do they do?

They are the men and women who take care of all the arrangements and details involved in putting together a funeral. It's not an easy job, nor is it a job for everyone. A funeral director's work is endless and tireless and requires patience, composure, and most of all, humanity.

This is all true of the folks at Johnson-Green Funeral Home in Thief River Falls. Co-owners and brothers Eric and Erling Johnson, along with Duane Morey and Todd Mack make up a very special group of men who are ready at any time to help anyone in need.

The Johnson brothers' father, Jim, has also recently joined the business. After running his own funeral home in North Dakota for 37 years, he decided it was time to retire, only to come to Thief River Falls and start all over again with his sons.

Erling says he's always wanted to become a funeral director. For the Johnsons, it has become a family business. Eric, the older sibling, started working at Green Funeral Home in 1992. Erling started in 1994. At that time, Green Funeral Home was owned and operated by Orin Green and Gordon Peterson. In 1995, Eric took over the Peterson Funeral Homes in Red Lake Falls and Oklee and in just the last year, he and his brother took over Green Funeral Home.

Although the former owners no longer have any ownership, the Johnsons decided to keep Green as part of the name. Since Green Funeral Home had been around for so long, most people in the area recognize it by name. In a way, the name is synonymous with the wonderful care and compassion that people come to expect.

The staff at Johnson-Green Funeral Home in Thief River Falls are always ready to lend a helping hand and a comforting word to those in need. In the back row are funeral directors Duane Morey, Erling Johnson, Todd Mack, Eric Johnson and Jim Johnson. In the front row are Johnson-Green's administrative staff members Paulette Grindeland and Lenore Wold, not pictured is Delphine Mongoven.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

If you need ideas for special treats for after school or desserts, here they are, and there are a couple of recipes for pigs in a blanket at the end too, just in case you wanted one of those like Tina did:

Here's an old favorite you can make in one pan:

OUTRAGEOUS COOKIE BARS

1/2 cup butter or margarine
1-1/2 cups graham cracker crumbs
1 (14 ounce) can sweetened condensed milk
12 ounce package semi-sweet chocolate chips
1 cup flake coconut
1 cup chopped walnuts

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Melt butter in 9x13 inch baking pan in oven. Remove from oven and sprinkle graham cracker crumbs over butter. Stir well and press into bottom of pan. Pour condensed milk over crumbs, then sprinkle with chips, coconut and nuts. Press firmly.

Bake 25-30 minutes or until light golden brown. Cool completely in pan on wire rack before cutting. Makes 2-3 dozen bars.

Another simple recipe, this will make good after-school snacks:

BUTTERSCOTCH HAYSTACKS

1-2/3 cups butterscotch flavored morsels
3/4 cup creamy peanut butter
1 (8.5 ounce) can or 2 (5 ounces each) cans chow mein noodles
3-1/2 cups miniature marshmallows

Line baking sheets or trays with waxed paper.

Microwave morsels in large, micro-safe bowl on medium-high for 1 minute. Stir. Microwave at 10-20 second intervals, stirring, until smooth. May also melt morsels over hot, not boiling water in double boiler, add peanut butter and then transfer to bowl to mix in cereal and marshmallows.

Stir in peanut butter until well blended. Add noodles and marshmallows and stir until coated.

Drop by rounded tablespoonfuls onto prepared baking sheets. Refrigerate until ready to serve. Makes about 6 dozen haystacks.

Make brownies that aren't brown, but they surely do taste great:

WHITE CHIP ISLAND BLONDIES

1 cup plus 2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup packed light brown sugar
1/3 cup butter or margarine, softened
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 large egg
1 cup white morsels
1/2 cup coarsely chopped macadamia nuts
1/2 cup toasted coconut

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease 9 inch square baking pan.

Combine flour, baking powder and salt in medium bowl. Beat sugar, butter and vanilla in large bowl until creamy. Beat in egg. Gradually add flour mixture. Stir in morsels, nuts and coconut.

Place in prepared pan and bake 20 to 25 minutes or until golden brown. Cool in pan on wire rack before cutting. Makes about 16 bars.

Hungry for chocolate? Make fudge – It's easy with this recipe:

FAMOUS FUDGE

1-1/2 cups sugar
2/3 cup evaporated milk (not condensed)
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups miniature marshmallows
1-1/2 cups semi sweet chocolate chips
1/2 cup chopped pecans or walnuts (optional)
1 teaspoon vanilla

Line 8 inch square baking pan with foil.

Combine sugar, evaporated milk, butter and salt in medium, heavy saucepan. Bring to a full, rolling boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Boil, stirring constantly, for 4-5 minutes. Remove from heat.

Stir in marshmallows, chocolate chips, nuts and vanilla. Stir vigorously for 1 minute or until marshmallows are melted. Pour into prepared baking pan. Refrigerate for 2 hours or until firm. Lift from pan, remove foil. Cut into pieces. Makes 49 pieces.

Here are a couple of recipes for Cabbage Rolls from my Ashley cookbook:

HALUPSIE (PIGS IN A BLANKET) (CABBAGE ROLLS)

1 small, firm head cabbage
1 tablespoon salt
1/4 cup vinegar
1 pound beef hamburger
1/2 pound pork burger
1 small onion
1 cup raw rice
3 cups water
1 can tomato soup or tomatoes
1/2 cup sweet cream or evaporated milk
2 teaspoons salt and pepper

Cut core out of cabbage and soak in vinegar and boiling water until leaves come off.

Mix hamburgers, washed rice, onions, salt and pepper. Fill the leaves with mixture, roll up and place in greased roaster. Add 3 cups water.

Bake 2 hours at 325 degrees. Pour cream and tomato soup over cabbage rolls and continue baking 30 minutes.

PIGS IN THE BLANKET (CABBAGE ROLLS)

1 cup rice
1 teaspoon salt
1-1/2 cups water

Cook until all water is absorbed by rice.

1 pound hamburger
1 cup finely diced ham
1 small onion, chopped
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
Salt and pepper to taste

Mix above ingredients together, including cooked rice. Roll in parboiled cabbage leaves and place in casserole. Add 1/2 cup water and bake 2 hours at 350 degrees. After first hour, pour 1 can of tomato sauce or soup over all. (Meat/rice mixture may also be used to stuff green peppers.)

FSA has low interest credit assistance available

State Executive Director John Monson has announced that direct and guaranteed loan programs are available to Minnesota dairy producers experiencing cash flow difficulties due the the depressed price of milk. The Farm Service Agency (FSA) provides direct and guaranteed loans to producers that are unable to obtain financing from commercial credit sources.

FSA can provide direct operating loans for any purpose including payment of operating expenses, debt refinance, and the purchase of livestock and equipment. As of October 1, the interest rate on direct operating loans is at a historic low of 3.75 percent. The term of these loans can be up to seven years or longer depending on repayment ability and security. FSA can also provide a direct farm ownership loan for up to a 40-year term to purchase or improve real estate at rates as low as four percent.

In addition, direct operating and farm ownership loans up to a maximum amount of $200,000 in each program can be made to qualifying producers.

To learn more about these programs and others, please contact your local FSA office.

Police dept. warns of telephone fraud

The Thief River Falls Police Department is warning residents about telephone fraud. In the past few days, police have received three complaints about attempted telephone fraud. The caller claimed he would be able to help the recipient block telemarketing calls. Then he asked the recipient for their social security or bank account numbers. When receiving solicitation calls, residents are reminded to never give out their personal information.

Expectant parents class scheduled to begin Oct. 7

The fall session of Expectant Parents Class will begin at Northwest Medical Center on Monday, October 7 from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in the North Lobby.

Registrations are now being received. The classes are designed for those in their first six months of pregnancy. Parents and parents-to-be are provided with information that promotes healthy babies and healthy mothers and gives new families a good beginning. The classes will be held on Monday evenings for five consecutive weeks and are free.

The grandparents-to-be are invited to attend with the expectant parents on Monday, November 11 at 7 p.m. to find out what's new in childbirth, tour Northwest Medical Center's birthing area and discover how important they are as grandparents. The instructor for all of the classes is Evodell Tangquist, RN, Patient Education Coordinator at Northwest Medical Center. For more information or to register, call Evodell Tangquist at (218) 683-4446.

Getting The Old Run-Around

There is no perfect recipe for this time of year on Lake of the Woods. You know the funky period I'm talking about – that gray area between late summer and early fall where one weather system will demand little more than shorts for attire while the next will precipitate a departure for Arizona. It's that time of year when you wake up happy because it's football season, but you fall asleep in front of a SportsCenter segment that's all about baseball. That time of year where you can fool some of the fish some of the time but you just can't seem to fool all of the fish all of the time. Oh, don't misread me here, the fishing is good, real good. It's just that those who approach it one-dimensionally won't necessarily agree with that assessment. But for those of us with attention spans not unlike that of a seven year old, this early October Lake of the Woods fishery is a hodgepodge of undisciplined excitement and anticipation, where impatience is an oft rewarded virtue. Every fishing strategy works, only none of them work consistently. Okay, I'm getting sphinx-like with the fishing thing. Let's just divide and conquer.

We're doing a lot of vertical jigging. That makes sense because the water's cooling down and the fish are moving more slowly. And we're catching a lot of fish jigging along the current edges. Perhaps hundreds on most days. The problem is that most of the nicer fish are coming early and late in the day, with the midday being a literal plague of 8 to 10 inch walleyes. And as exciting as catching so many fish might seem to the casual observer, it can get pretty tedious after 30 in a row with nothing even close to fry-pan size. Ten o'clock is about time to change.

Grab a couple of crankbaits and troll the shallow river edges for northerns for an hour or two. They seem to like the high, light conditions afforded by a midday sun in their quest for shiners and they'll feed reasonably close to the surface. Even if you're not a big northern fan, the genuine pull at the other end of your line, after countless small walleyes, can be a refreshing feeling.

Next comes a meteorologically based decision. If the weather is reasonable, pretend that it's mid-July and take your spinners out to those open water rock piles. Drift over the tops and around the edges just like it's midsummer. If the wind is down- even better. Drop the jigs and move even slower over the tops. Some nice walleyes, a few chunky bass, and the occasional gargantuan northern.

If the weather is crappy, stick to the river but move out to the center of the channel. Some ultra passive jigging or simply a spinner laid on the bottom should produce a few sturgeon. What they might lack in action, they more than make up for in size and fight. It's probably as good a time of year to catch the biggest thing you'll ever have on a hook and line since you inadvertently casted that Dare-Devil into Uncle Bert's buttocks.

Of course we're done downrigging. Heck, we've been done downrigging for a few weeks now. No real tears shed on that front. I can't honestly remember the last time a guest jumped up and hugged me when I suggested we put the downriggers down. But does that mean I've removed the riggers from the transom of the boat? Certainly not. I may write these words like I've got a little backbone in my life, but when it comes to making hard and fast decisions about fishing, I'm as spineless as they come. Besides, those eight pound balls of lead can come in real handy for a fish or two during a lull in the midday or on a particularly balmy autumn afternoon.

And then we sneak back to the river for the last hour or two of the day. Those little fish haven't entirely disappeared, but an aggressive move by their larger brethren make the bite worth the effort there once again.

And that's your day of fishing. You've ended up with 16 nice walleyes, 6 perch and four northern in the cooler. Plus you've released three sturgeon, one smallmouth and a ton of 6-10 inch walleye, sauger, and perch. Not a bad day for someone who ran all over the place like that proverbial, headless fowl. And you thought fishing was tough.

Mn/DOT to hold meeting on Hwy 59 project near Winger

Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT) will hold a public information meeting to discuss project issues relating to the proposed project on Minnesota Trunk Highway 59 near Winger. The proposed project is a resurfacing project from the junction of Trunk Highway 2 to two miles south of Winger. This project will require a detour from Winger to Trunk Highway 2.

The public information meeting will be held on Thursday, October 17, at the Community Center in Winger. The purpose of this meeting is to gather comments and concerns from individuals and groups regarding the proposed project. Information and data will be shared and discussed. The meeting will take place between 6 and 8 p.m. The proposed letting date for this project is December 20, 2002, with a total proposed cost of $2,662,000. Construction will start in the summer of 2003.

SURPLUS TO DEFICIT

How did the Republicans in the Minnesota House and Gov. Ventura convert a $6 billion surplus in four years to a $2 billion deficit?

They gave millions of dollars of tax relief to the richest Minnesotans. Suburbs got 93% of new transportation levy takeover money. And suburban school districts received hundreds of dollars more per capita in new state money compared to rural Minnesota schools. To top it off, they cut the fairest tax, the income tax, so that every year the wealthiest 7% get 40% of the tax cut!

Unlike his opponent, Mark will fight for District 1A instead of handing out pork to the rich suburbs!

School District 564. "The candidates said a lot of things that impacted students. They are interesting people with personality."

Dave L. Peterson, technology instructor at Lincoln High School, had his students draft a rating sheet for students to use. Peterson said he wanted his students to be engaged in the political process and also learn how they could participate in the debate.

Cal Lindberg, social studies teacher at Lincoln High School, also said the debate benefitted his students. "It got them interested in politics," he said. "By seeing the candidates in person, they were able to observe and evaluate their personalities."

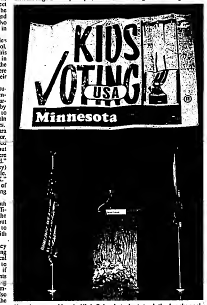
Eight Lincoln High School students–four student senate representatives and four class officers–participated directly in the debate by asking the candidates to respond to questions formulated by Lincoln High School social studies classes.

Student Senate President, Kara Larson, acted as the moderator. "The student body responded well," she said. "When I looked out into the audience, students were attentive and obviously interested."

Worker said, "Buck (Humphrey) ripped on Mary (Kiffmeyer) a little. It was a debate, so that's OK." Worker added that he thought all of the candidates made some strong points.

After the debate, two ninth graders said they had a little difficulty understanding some of the words the candidates used, but were impressed they had the guts to get up on stage and compete with each other.

Each of the candidates said they were pleased students were taking such an interest in the political process and encouraged them to continue to be involved. Even if they can't vote quite yet, students can make a difference by doing such things as handing out pamphlets. The candidates were also impressed with the quality of the questions asked by the students.



Questions ranged from, "What makes you uniquely qualified to be Secretary of State, to what would you say to someone who says voting is a waste of time?"

When asked afterwards what students would do differently about the debate, if it was in their power to do so, many said give the candidates more time to respond to the questions.

Overall, however, Tom Hunt, Lincoln High School principal, was satisfied with with the event. "The student organization and input was exceptional. I believe it was more meaningful to students because it was student-organized," he said.

"I trusted the leadership of the students," agreed Lindberg. "It was nice to be able to sit back and let the students take charge."

As they left the auditorium, students were heard discussing some of the qualities of the candidates, and some of the barbs traded during the debate. The lack of interest that was so obvious during the beginning of the debate was suddenly a thing of the past.

Kara Larson, a Lincoln High School student, took the lonely position as moderator for the Kids Voting USA debate among candidates vying for Minnesota Secretary of State. The event was held Wednesday at Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls. Students from Thief River Falls and 20 other area schools attended the event.

TRF flu shot clinics being scheduled

River Falls will give priority to "high risk" people and their caregivers or household members. Being high risk means everyone over 65; residents of long-term healthcare facilities; those with long-term health problems including heart disease, lung disease, asthma, kidney disease, metabolic diseases such as diabetes and anemia or other blood disorders; anyone with a weakened immune system due to HIV/AIDS or another disease that affects the immune system, long-term treatment with drugs such as steroids or cancer treatment with x-rays or drugs; anyone six months to 18 years of age on long-term aspirin treatment (who could develop Reye Syndrome is they catch influenza); pregnant women who will be past the third month of pregnancy during the flu season (usually November-March, but past March in some years); and physicians, nurses, family members or anyone else coming in close contact with people at risk of serious influenza.

Flu shots are also encouraged for healthy children six to 23 months of age and their caregivers or household members; household contacts and out-of-home caretakers of infants less than six months of age; people who provide essential community services; people at high risk for flu complications who travel to the Southern Hemisphere between April and September, or anyone who travels to the tropics or in organized tourist groups at any time; people living in dormitories or under other crowded conditions, to prevent outbreaks; and anyone who wants to reduce their chance of catching influenza.

To find out more information about the risks and side effects of the influenza vaccine, who should not get the vaccine and what to do if you have a reaction to the vaccine, ask your doctor or nurse or contact the Center for Disease Control and Prevention at 1-800-232-2522.

Dates for the Thief River Falls flu shot clinics are as follows:

•Tuesday, October 8 beginning at 5:30 p.m. at the Inter-County Nursing Service Office.

•Wednesday, October 9 beginning at 1 p.m. at the Heritage Community Center.

•Tuesday, October 22 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at First National Bank.

•Saturday, October 26 beginning at 9 a.m. at the Inter-County Nursing Service Office.

Dates for Resident-Only flu shot clinics are as follows:

•Wednesday, October 16 beginning at 9 a.m for residents of Skylite Apartments.

•Wednesday, October 16 beginning at 10 a.m. for residents of Riverside Terrace.

•Wednesday, October 16 beginning at 11 a.m. for residents of Summerfield Place.

To make an appointment for one of the clinics, call (218) 681-0876. The cost of the vaccine is $8. They will also process Medicare (please bring your card) and bill them.

Phil Palisoul Brings His Comedy to UMC October 9

Comedian Phil Palisoul will perform Wednesday, October 9, at the University of Minnesota, Crookston (UMC). The performance will begin at 8 p.m. in Bede Ballroom on the UMC Campus. Admission is free to UMC students and $2 for all others. The event is open to the public.

Palisoul builds his show from a playful and silly mixture of life experiences. He touches on childhood memories (growing up in a typical suburban neighborhood, in a typical suburban family) and married life. His comedy has made him a favorite in television, corporate shows, comedy clubs and colleges across the country.

He began his comedy career in Denver and quickly became one of the city's top acts. Palisoul was soon headlining comedy clubs across the country. In 1994, he moved to Los Angeles, where he became a regular at the World Famous Hollywood Improv and the legendary Pasadena Ice House. He also began a successful career as a television writer.

In addition to landing a spot at the prestigious 1999 HBO U.S. Comedy Arts Festival, Palisoul has continued to perform his stand-up routine on such shows as The Tonight Show with Jay Leno, Louie Anderson's Comedy Showcase, and A&E's Caroline's Comedy Hour.

Palisoul's local performance is sponsored by UMC's Student Programming and Activities for Campus Entertainment Committee. Disability accommodations are available upon request and can be made by calling (218) 281-8506.

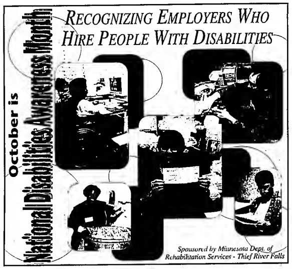
How do we help business in NW Minnesota?

Got a good idea for a new business? It was interesting to read in the last edition of the Northern Watch that plenty of funds are available but individuals haven't been taking advantage of the opportunity.

Funding sources for business entrepreneurs are available. According to the story, the NREFI enables business owners to receive funding despite their inability to get credit from financial institutions or owner investments. It is supported by federal, state, county and city funding as well as by the Northwest Minnesota Initiative Fund and Northwest Regional Development Commission. The counties of Kittson, Norman, Marshall, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau provide funding for the program. The cities of Crookston, East Grand Forks, Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls also support the fund.

But to me, it was even more interesting to read in the story that at long last a local committee is devising a plan to provide assistance to retail businesses.



Far more frequently than I really enjoy, someone takes time to bend my ear about the lack of business in our communities in northwestern Minnesota. For most part, they are complaining about the lack of retail business and the resulting lack of selection available to shoppers.

I rarely know what to tell these people. Yes, we could use more retail businesses in northwestern Minnesota, but providing the kind of assistance they're talking about is a complicated matter.

One of the biggest factors that influence entrepreneurs is the support he or she expects to receive in a community. If an individual with a good business idea sees that people are traveling to Grand Forks or Fargo to shop and recreate, they are going to be less inclined to invest in a business opportunity. How can a small-town business compete with large-volume retailers that can easily underprice him or her?

Residents also need to understand that it hasn't taken this long to come up with plan to assist retail businesses because there hasn't been an interest in helping retail business. One of the major hurdles to achieving this goal is the fact that, if not done properly, such assistance could give a new business a competitive advantage over an established business. Another hurdle is the fact that stealing business from one community and bringing it to another, would serve no one well in northwestern Minnesota. It would create intense animosity, and it wouldn't bring anything new into the community.

What can we do to help develop the retail and business market in northwestern Minnesota? We can start by supporting the local businesses in our communities and we can also encourage entrepreneurs to take advantage of the opportunities that are available to them. Ray Safronski is absolutely correct when he stated, "I think we need to get the publicity out there that you can get Enterprise Fund loans for start-up and existing businesses."

Applications available for teacher of year

It's nomination time for the new Minnesota Teacher of the Year. Anyone may nominate an educator who they believe stands out as a great example of the teaching profession.

Nominations opened October 1 and will remain open through November 15. The announcement of the new recipient will take place on May 4, 2003.

Who's eligible?

• Public or nonpublic school pre-K though 12th grade teachers.

• Must hold a baccalaureate degree and a Minnesota teaching license.

• Must have completed three years of teaching by the nomination deadline and must intend to teach during the 2003-04 school year.

There are no restrictions on who may nominate teachers. Self nominations are also accepted.

The state program has been highly successful nationally. Minnesota ranks second behind California with four National Teachers of the Year.

For more information or to receive a nomination form, call 651-292-4875 or 800-652-9073. You may also nominate a teacher on the Education Minnesota Online Community at www.educationminnesota.org. Click on Professional Development.

Sponsored by Education Minnesota, the program receives support from Education Minnesota-ESI, McDonald's Restaurants of Minnesota, NCS Pearson, Inc., Teacher Federal Credit Union, United Educators Credit Union and the SMARTer Kids Foundation.

Due date extended for business property taxes in flooded counties

Businesses in flood-affected areas may be eligible for late payment of property taxes without penalty, as a result of the 2002 flood relief law passed in the recent special legislative session. The Minnesota Department of Revenue reminds taxpayers that the deadline to apply for this extension is Oct. 15, 2002 - the date when these payments normally would be due.

The law allows the taxpayers of commercial, industrial, or public utility property to request an extension allowing them to pay the second half installment of the payable 2002 property tax before May 15, 2003 without penalty for late payment.

This due date extension applies to the entire second half installment of the property taxes on the property, including the state general tax, but does not apply to special assessments.

In order to qualify for this extended taxes due date:

(1) The commercial, industrial or public utility property must be located in a presidentially declared disaster county. To date, these counties are: Becker, Beltrami, Clay, Clearwater, Goodhue, Hubbard, Itasca, Kittson, Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, McLeod, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, Roseau and Wright.

(2) The taxpayer must be unable to make the second half payment of the property taxes due on Oct. 15, 2002 because of the flooding in the first half of calendar year 2002, and must make a request to the county treasurer for an extension of this due date.

(3) The taxpayer must have paid the first half of the payable 2002 property taxes by May 16, 2002.

Business taxpayers who meet these criteria should request the extension through their county treasurer's office in writing by Oct. 15, 2002. The request must state that the taxpayer is unable to pay the second half installment of the property tax on the business by Oct. 15, 2002 because of the flooding that occurred in 2002.

This law does not provide a blanket extension of business property taxes. If the taxpayer has not requested an extension from the county treasurer by Oct. 15, 2002, property taxes due and not paid by that date may be subject to penalty on Oct. 16, 2002.

Walk for Kids held in TRF on October 5

The Thief River Falls Hope Team, formed to support the ongoing effort started by Norman Ball in his 8,500-mile walk of Hope, will be holding its first annual Walk for Kids on October 5, in Thief River Falls. Registration will start at 3:30 p.m. at the New Family Worship Center, 246 Kindall Ave. The walkathon will start and end at the same location. There will be a barbecue for all registered participants with prizes and awards for pledges collected.

Scottsdale resident, Norman Ball, a 59-year-old grandfather of five, will complete the 8,500-mile walk November 2, 2002. His mission is to rescue severely at-risk children around the world. As Norman's local teams conduct fundraising events across America, 50 percent of all funds raised will stay in the communities that helped in the annual events to help children at risk in those communities.

"Children the age of my grandchildren are living in the streets, garbage dumps and sewers in most of the major cities of the world," says Ball. "The needless slaughter of hundreds of thousands of innocent children must stop and only people working together can stop it."

Funds the Walk of Hope is raising will be funneled into both domestic and child aid efforts and international relief programs through Walk of Hope Inc., and international relief organizations.

The Walk of Hope was launched from Goodyear, Ariz., January 1, 2001. He walked through Thief River Falls on October 5, where Mayor Mark Borsheim presented him with a proclamation from the city.

Join the Thief River Falls Hope team to help hurting children at home and abroad. For more information or to make a donation, contact the Walk of Hope at 681-6205, ext. 203.

A day in the life of...

Going through the whole process of arranging a funeral takes a lot of work. Funeral directors must help family members make some very important decisions, which are not always easy to make.

Always on call, the directors have to be ready at any time of the day to go pick up a body. Sometimes an autopsy is needed, so they are brought to either Fargo or St. Paul, depending on the situation. The director then brings them back to the funeral home. This is when the embalming process is started. According to Erling, embalming takes an average of a couple of hours.

When a family initially comes in to set up arrangements for the funeral, they are told to bring in clothes to dress the deceased in. They suggest bringing something this person would normally wear. "If they never wore a suit and a tie, we tell [the family] not to dress them in a suit and tie, that's not how they would have been comfortable," Erling says.

Most of the time, he says, the person who has died has already made his wishes known to their family about what they would like done with their remains. Some people want to be cremated and some want a regular burial in a casket. The family picks out a casket or an urn and can personalize them with depictions of the person's favorite hobbies and interests.

The initial visit to the funeral home can be one of the most difficult times for the family of the deceased to have to deal with. They have just lost someone dear to them and then they have to go and talk about what kind of casket they want, how to take care of financing and what kind of music should be played at the funeral. In a way it can be a reality check - up until then, the passing of someone may have seemed unreal.

Erling says no matter how many times he and the other funeral directors go through this process, it never gets easier. Situations are different for every family and they have to handle each one in a different way. "It's not something you learn at school, it's something you learn on the job," he said.

After the first visit the family makes to the funeral home, they leave and the funeral directors go to work preparing the chapels, writing obituaries, making arrangements with the cemetery and the church and preparing the deceased for the services.

The family is encouraged to put together a photo collage of their loved one to bring with them to the funeral home. It's a nice way for people to remember someone - to see all the happy times in their life and the people they loved to share them with.

Erling says the family is also told that they are welcome to come to the funeral home before other visitors to have some private, quiet moments with their loved one. It is also a time when they can make any final arrangements or make changes to previously made arrangements. Families seem to appreciate this time and it gives the funeral director a chance to visit with them when they've had a few days to get over the initial shock of a death.

For many people, death does not come as such a shock when an elderly person passes away. It is still not an easy time, but made a bit easier by those who have taken the time to pre-arrange their own funerals. "A lot of people don't want to put so much burden on their families," Erling says. People can go into the funeral home at any stage in their life to make pre-arrangements. It takes a great amount of the anxiety, as well as the financial strain, off the family members.

Some of the hardest funeral arrangements Erling says they have to work with are when children die or someone passes away suddenly. The families are so unprepared to deal with such a tragedy that it is incredibly hard for them to make arrangements. But with the kind words and compassion of the funeral director, it is made a bit easier.

To make the decision to become a funeral director should never be made on a whim. Within the first five years, 80 percent of those who become funeral directors leave the profession. It is an extremely demanding job. A job that demands a person to pour out every last bit of mental strength they have and encourages them to use their emotions as an advantage. Funeral directors must also keep a positive attitude and a sense of humor (as strange as it may be sometimes) is a must. Without these things, they will never last in their profession.

For those who have never been to a funeral or a funeral home, it is hard to understand the real importance of a funeral director. Even for those who have only just attended a funeral, it can still be hard to imagine how a funeral director's role has impacted the family of the deceased. But for those who have had to go through the hardship of laying a loved one to rest, it is easy to see just how hard the funeral director and the funeral home's entire staff works and how much they are appreciated.

As it exited this small hole in the ground, this newborn snapping turtle (center) saw the light of day on Wednesday. Along with its 26 siblings, this turtle was born near First National Bank's parking lot. The newborns are black and approximately the size of golf balls. Lincoln High School biology teacher Patti Johnson said snapping turtles are usually born in June or July. Between 20 and 30 snapping turtles are born at one time. Over the 100 days of incubation, the temperature determines whether the brood will be totally male or female. At 30 degrees Celsius, females are born, and males are born at 25 degrees Celsius.

Filpula crowned Miss Middle River 2002

by Del Stordahl of the New River Record

The 28th Miss Middle River Pageant, a featured event that precedes the community's annual September Goose Festival, named Greenbush Middle River senior Kelsey Filpula Miss Middle River 2002, at the ceremony held Saturday, September 21.

Graced by the presence of Miss Middle River 2002, Breanna Holm, and royalty from neighboring communities, pageant judges crowned Kelsey Filpula Miss Middle River following competition with GMR classmates, seniors Kelsey Holmes, Danielle Peterson and Jackie Peterson.

Recognized by her classmates and the community for her leadership and scholarship, Kelsey Filpula is a thoughtful and articulate young lady.

"I've dreamed of being Miss Middle River from the time that I was a little girl," she said.

"However, I know that being Miss Middle River is more than a crown and a pretty dress."

Devoted to children and her city, she added, "I feel responsible to the city of Middle River and to everybody in the community, and I want to show young girls that the pageant is a very valuable and meaningful experience."

Following her graduation from Greenbush Middle River High School this spring, Kelsey plans to attend the University of Minnesota to study kinesiology and sports medicine.

She will represent Middle River in the Miss Marshall County 2004 Pageant.

The contestants and Miss Middle River 2001, Breanna Holm, opened the program with a self-choreographed show number, Yankee Doodle Dandy.

The pageant featured patriotic music and the larger-than-life image of the WWII icon Rosie The Riveter proudly proclaiming, "We Can Do It!"

Introduced with the expert direction of emcee Mark Allen, the young women competed with charm and talent in four competitions: Swimsuit, Talent, Personal Interview and Evening Gown divisions.

Judges ranked Kelsey Filpula first in three competitions: Swimsuit, Talent and the Personal Interview.

Kelsey Holmes placed first in the Evening Gown Division, and was named First Runner-up. Judges picked Danielle Peterson and Kelsey Filpula co-Miss Congeniality.

The individual Talent performances, memorable and entertaining, were appreciated by the audience.

Kelsey Holmes, daughter of Gail and Steve Holmes, presented a piano solo, The Setting of Two Suns; Danielle Peterson, daughter of Colleen and Todd Peterson, sang the ballad Killing Me Softly; Jackie Peterson, daughter of Connie and Brian Peterson, played the flute solo United We Stand; and Kelsey Filpula, daughter of Amy and Richard Filpula, played the piano solo Ballade.

Additional entertainment was provided by Lisa Aakre, Miss Marshall County, Heidi (Scromstad) Domyahn, Miss Middle River 1984, and the G-Men, the men's vocal group from Greenbush Middle River High School.

Escorted to her farewell performance and address by her father, Steve Holm, the reigning Miss Middle River 2001 Breanna Holm, reflected on her year of service to the community.

"It has been great representing Middle River; we have a great community and I'm proud to be a member of it.

There have been a lot of fun things that I have been given the opportunity to do this past year. I was able to judge some contests, participate in the parade, hand out trophies, play the piano at the Music Jam, and best of all, meet and talk with the people attending the festivities.

I thank this wonderful community for all the support you have given me. You have made this year so enjoyable for me. I also thank my parents who have supported me with pride."

Sponsored by the Middle River Community Club and expertly produced by a cadre of committed people, the pageant was well-planned, well-organized and remains a much appreciated asset and institution for the young women and residents of the City of Middle River.

Three Pioneers will compete in NJCAA national golf meets

Three Northland Community and Technical College golfers will take their game to the national level after qualifying for the NJCAA Division III tournament during state/regional competition completed Tuesday at the Mankato Country Club.

Pioneers who will pick up the 2002 fall season next spring will be Tommy Greelis, Brenda Fritz and Nicole Wiseth.

Fritz, a sophomore from Win-E-Mac, and Wiseth, a sophomore from Thief River Falls, will play in the National Junior College Athletic Association women's Division III national tournament May 19-23 in Daytona Beach, Fla. Greelis, a freshman from Thief River Falls, will compete in the NJCAA men's tournament June 1-6 at Jamestown, N.Y.

Top two teams and top 10 individuals in the combined Minnesota Community College Conference state and NJCAA Region 13 men's tournament were national qualifiers. The women's state/region tournament did not have a single complete team, but the top 15 individuals earned Florida trips.

Madison Area Tech of Wisconsin and Central Lakes of Brainerd were the top two finishers in the men's team standings at 628 and 631, respectively. There were 12 complete teams, but Northland was among the six schools without a full four-man squad.

Clayton Johnson of Minneapolis was the men's medalist with a 75-73–148.

The Pioneers' entries included Greelis and sophomore Brandon Carlson (Lake Park/Audubon) with an identical 86-80–166 and freshman Derek Gustafson (TRF) at 84-91–175.

Greelis and Carlson finished in a tie for the tenth and final national tournament spot, forcing the teammates to square off in a sudden-death playoff. Greelis won it on the second hole.

Carlson is listed as the first alternate on the NJCAA qualifier chart, and Northland coach Rick Nikunen pointed out that traditionally, two or three golfers opt not to make the trip, leaving the door open for Carlson to join Greelis in New York.

Melanie Wilson of Central Lakes was the medalist in the women's competition with an 86-89-175.

Fritz shot a 97-111–198 for eighth place and Wiseth went 113-99–212 for a tenth place tie.

"Conditions were really terrible," pointed out Nikunen. "The winds were 35 miles per hour on the first day. Scores were higher than normal. There were just three 70s. It was a little better the second day."

Regular season girls high school tennis...

Prowlers close at 10-3

Regular season play come to a close Tuesday for the Thief River Falls girls high school tennis team in a 5-2 win at Roseau.

Thief River Falls coach Troy Hanestad switched his line-up around for the finale that featured singles wins by Stacia Kalinoski at No. 1 and Erin Steva at No. 4, along with a doubles sweep by Kara Larson-Eryn Clow, Elise Peterson-Ashley Leister and Katie Schommer-Rebecca Delmore at 1-through-3, respectively.

"Basically, we had all of our doubles players playing singles, and our singles players playing doubles," explained Hanestad. "I think we could have won the match 7-0 with our regular line-up, but I think that it is more important and beneficial to challenge our players in every match they play."

There were a couple of highlights, mentioned Hanestad. "Stacia Kalinoski beat a very good player at No. 1 singles," he said. "Erin Stevo had a big win at No. 4 singles and our doubles teams cruised."

The Prowlers will take a 10-3 dual record into the North Sub-Section 8A team tournament Tuesday in Grand Forks.

TRF swimmers win fourth straight dual

Thief River Falls, after opening the 2002 girls high school swimming season with a tie and a loss, won its fourth straight dual meet decision Tuesday when the Prowlers beat visiting Fosston/Bagley 99-68.

Cami Hendrickson was a double-event individual winner for the Prowlers in the 100 and 200-yard freestyle races.

Joining her as first place finishers for the Prowlers were Allyson Helling in the 50 freestyle and Tiffany Sorenson in the 100 breaststroke.

Thief River Falls also won two relay races – Hendrickson, Helling, Tevia Reese and Brittany Hoviland in the 200 freestyle; Hendrickson, Haviland, Helling and Michelle Johnson in the 400 freestyle.

Other top times, pointed out Thief River Falls coach Dawn Couette, were turned in by Katie Pribula, 200 freestyle; Danielle Sorvig and Johnson, 200 I.M.; Haviland, 50 freestyle; Helling and Johnson, 100 butterfly; Hoviland, 100 freestyle; Pribula, 500 freestyle; Kendra Mooney and Reese, 100 backstroke; Casey Engelstad, 100 breaststroke; a 200 medley relay team of Reese, Sorenson, Johnson and Jenna Dillon; and a 200 freestyle relay team featuring Carli Cota, Sorvig, Sorenson and Dillon.

Patriots, Green Wave beat Thief River Falls

■ Strong starts turn into volleyball losses

Back-to-back early-week high school volleyball matches against Win-E-Mac and East Grand Forks resulted in a pair of losses and a 2-18-1 season record for Thief River Falls.

The host Patriots broke open a close Monday match in Game 5 to complete a comeback that produced a 13-15, 15-17, 15-13, 15-13, 15-7 victory.

It was disappointing to see a 2-0 match lead disappear, admitted Thief River Falls coach Erika Ramstorf, but she was happy with the Prowlers' play. "The first two games went really well," she said. "They had a lot of fun out there. They came out with a lot of enthusiasm and excitement."

However, the tide began to turn against the Prowlers in Game 3, and by Game 5 the Patriots were in control.

The Prowlers hurt their own cause, explained Ramstorf, by missing 16 serves.

Thief River Falls also had a solid start Tuesday against the visiting Green Wave, but still wound up being swept 15-10, 15-10, 15-3.

"Again, we came out in the first two games and played well," said Ramstorf. "We did a some good things."

The Prowlers have elevated their game to a competitive level, noted Ramstorf, but they still need to put a complete match together before they can be fully satisfied.

Mustangs back in win column after Tuesday sweep vs. Crookston

Red Lake County Central returned to the win column Tuesday with a 15-6, 15-9, 15-5 high school volleyball win at Crookston.

The Mustangs found themselves trailing 4-0 on the first rotation of Game 1, but quickly established their dominance behind an 11-point service line run by Michelle Halvorson.

"Our serving was better," said Red Lake County Central coach Nancy Bray, whose team had a 95 percent success figure at the line, "and our passing is getting better."

The Mustangs were coming off a Thursday (Sept. 26) loss at Roseau, where early leads carried the Rams to a 15-11, 15-7, 8-15, 15-2 victory.

"It wasn't a good night," reported Bray. The Mustangs faced a 7-0 first-game deficit and fell behind 7-1 in the second game. "We fell behind and we couldn't climb back."

After letting the Mustangs off the hook in Game 3, the Rams served three aces to ignite an 11-0 start in Game 4.

The latest results put Red Lake County Central at 14-4 for the year.

Pioneers' rally comes up short

An attempt to rally from an 0-2 deficit fell short for the Northland Community and Technical College volleyball team Wednesday in a 3-2 loss to Providence College in Otterburne, Man.

The 9-0 Canadian team won 30-24, 30-26, 25-30, 28-30, 15-13.

"We started kind of slow, but we picked things up and played pretty well in the third and fourth games," reported Northland coach Mike Zachow. "That's the best Providence team I've seen."

Christel Berube had 14 kills and 8 blocks for the Pioneers. Sara Jensen matched Berube's kill total, while Cindy Lambert had 23 assists and back-row defensive specialist Stacy Vedbraaten was credited with 15 digs.

Northland fell to 12-10 for the year. The Pioneers took a 6-3 Northern Division record into weekend Minnesota Community College Conference matches at Vermilion and Mesabi Range.

MCC having a tough time of it on offense in volleyball losses

Strong competition has made it tough for a struggling Marshall County Central offense to register many points. The Nordics' record fell to 3-13 Tuesday in a 15-0, 15-3, 15-9 high school volleyball loss at Roseau.

"We couldn't serve receive in the first game," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Missy Foslien. "They played 110 percent better in the third game."

Fifteen attack errors cost the Nordics opportunities to score more points during the match.

Marshall County Central also spent most of a Thursday (Sept. 26) match trying to play defense and never had a chance to mount an attack in a 15-4, 15-3, 15-2 loss at the hands of Climax/Fisher in Newfolden.

Jena Haugen has 51 assists...

Goodridge/Grygla-Getzke stays on the attack in 3-1 victory at Red Lake Falls

Efforts by setter Jena Haugen helped three Goodridge/Grygla hitters reach double figures in kills Tuesday as the Wolverines beat host Red Lake Falls 10-15, 16-14, 15-9, 15-9 in high school volleyball.

Haugen finished the night with an eye-opening 51 assists. Bethany Tharaldson led the Wolverines' hit parade with 21 kills, while Ashley Stavnes had 13 and Laura Anderson 11.

"We struggled a little bit at the beginning," admitted Wolverines coach Jean Schulz, "but we kept hitting. Give them (Eagles) credit, they really go after the ball. They cover the floor really well and pick up a lot of things that you don't think they can reach."

The win improved the Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke record to 9-7.

G/G-G Scoring

■ Kills - Bethany Tharaldson 21, Ashley Stavnes 13, Laura Anderson 11.

B/G-MR volleyball squad is unable to keep momentum

Momentum from a 3-1 Monday Badger/Greenbush-Middle River win over Red Lake Falls did not carry over to Tuesday, when the Gators were swept by Lake of the Woods 15-3, 15-7, 15-12 in high school volleyball at Baudette.

"We played such a good match the night before," noted Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Christine Adnan. "We didn't play with quite the same intensity this time, but Lake of the Woods had something to do with that. They're always on the attack."

The loss dropped the Gators to 7-8.

Gators' tough slate of games takes toll

It hasn't been an easy season for Badger/Greenbush-Middle River. The Gators saw their record dip to 1-4 Friday with a 16-6 high school football loss at the hands of Hawley.

"We're giving teams good games – people haven't been able to play their reserves on us – but we're just not winning," explained Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Kent Janicke.

Prior to the start of the 2002 season, Janicke expected the Gators to be a conference and section contender...if a thin roster could stay away from injuries. However, the coaches' biggest worry has come to life. Four of Janicke's senior starters missed the game against the Nuggets because of injuries. Three freshmen were called on to fill the void.

"We're asking freshmen to step up and do the job," pointed out Janicke. "They're doing well, but they're playing against seniors."

The Gators followed a familiar pattern against visiting Hawley with a strong start before wearing down against the depth of the opposition. Friday, a 4-yard run by Badger/Greenbush-Middle River quarterback Jason Smith produced the only points of the first half. But Nuggets did all the scoring in the second half.

"First half, we just dominated," said Janicke. "Second half, it just reversed. They dominated."

Eight carries netted Jon Howard a team-high 82 yards for the Gators, who got most of their 194 rushing yards in the first half, but fumbled away a couple of promising possessions. Smith was 8-for-10 passing for 84 yards.

Defensively, Kyle Gregerson and Dane Hanson turned in their usual strong games, according to Janicke, who said that Hawley, after being held to 40 yards rushing in the first half, ran for over 200 yards in the second half.

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T
Hawley	0	0	9	7	16
B/G-Middle River	6	0	0	0	6

B/G-MR - Jason Smith, 4-yard run, kick failed

Hawley - Joey Grandbois, 4-yard run, kick failed

Hawley - Cody Baxter, 20-yard field goal

TRF JV football win streak snapped with 22-8 loss at Warroad

A season-opening six-game Thief River Falls junior varsity high school football winning streak ended Tuesday with a 22-8 loss at Warroad.

The Prowlers fell behind 14-0 after one quarter and trailed 22-0 at halftime before scoring in the third quarter on a 67-yard Dana Dallmann pass to Zach Anderson and a Dallmann conversion pass to Chris Thompson.

Thief River Falls had turned a 6-0 halftime lead into a 24-6 win over visiting Roseau in a Thursday (Sept. 26) start to extend the win streak.

Reid Haviland scored on runs of 20, 2 and 60 yards, while Luke Kenner added a one-yard touchdown run.

NEW LEADERSHIP FOR NORTHWESTERN MINNESOTA Elect
LYLE KENNER
Minnesota State Senate District 1
KEY ISSUES
1. Education
• Local control of K-12 education is very important and needs to be greater in the future
• Every child should have the opportunity to get a well rounded education and determine his or her own career
• The Profile of Learning should be repealed because of its opposition to the above freedoms.
2. Land Use and Property Rights
• State agencies have become excessively involved in regulation of land use. The rights and freedoms of private property ownership need to be restored.
• Public land use should be based on common sense, good science, and the needs of the general public.
3. Taxes
• Our state has one of the highest tax rates in the nation. This should be reduced for the benefit of the average citizen.
• We need to let everyone keep more of their own money in their own pocket.
4. Constitutional Rights
• Basic constitutional rights such as freedom of speech, the right to bear arms and the right to life, must be respected and upheld at all levels of government.

Redeemer to host 12th Annual Hospice Benefit

The 12th Annual First Care Hospice Spaghetti Supper Benefit will be held Monday, October 7, 2002 from 5 to 7 p.m. at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls. Redeemer Lutheran and Black River Church volunteers team with hospice volunteers and staff to provide spaghetti with fresh vegetables, garlic bread, and homemade bars. A free-will offering can be made to benefit First Care Hospice and funds will be matched by AAL Branch 9813 and 7092 and Lutheran Brotherhood Branch 8129.

The Hospice Patient Care Team supports both the terminally ill patient and the family by easing pain – physically, emotionally, and spiritually. Dame Cicely Saunders, founder of the hospice movement once said, "You matter to the last moment of your life, and we will do all we can, not only to help you die peacefully, but also to live until you die." This philosophy is an important part of hospice care. Hospice care is provided wherever the patient is: at home, in a nursing home, or in residential care.

Services include:

- •Nurses who manage pain, symptoms, medications, patient/family education, and provide on-call support 24/7.
- •Social Worker addresses emotional issues, grief, advanced healthcare directive, and referrals.
- •Chaplain provides spiritual care in accordance with patient/family/clergy wishes.
- •Home Health Aides for personal cares, bathing, hair and skin care, homemaking.
- •Volunteers for respite care, companionship, errands.
- •Medications and equipment related to terminal illness.
- •Physical, Speech, and Occupational Therapy as necessary.
- •Bereavement and Grief Care for one year after the loss.

Last year, a total of 3,053 Hospice visits were made to patients and families. Bereavement services, offered to patient family members for one year after the death, were provided to more than 100 family members each month.

First Care Hospice relies on the generosity from this community who contribute toward the 15% overall cost of patient care that is not covered by Medicare or insurance payments. Hospice services are provided with no charge to patients or families.

If you wish to learn more about hospice care or grief and loss, speakers are available to provide a presentation to your church, club, or organization. Contact Kelly Rogalla at 681-6189 for more information.

Badger Creek Free to host "Giving God First Place"

Special meetings for the family entitled "Giving God First Place" will be held October 6-9 at 7:15 p.m. at the Badger Creek Free Lutheran Church.

Rev. Tom Olson of Cloquet will be the speaker. He was interim pastor at the Badger Creek-Oiland Parish in the late 1980s. Special music will be provided by the Kevin Nelson family on Sunday, Rhonda Rothenberger on Monday, the Greenbush Quartet on Tuesday and Vernon Lorenson on Wednesday.

Refreshments will be served and everyone is welcome to attend.

Fourtown-Grygla Sportsmen's Club chosen "Outstanding Conservationist"

The Fourtown-Grygla Sportsmen's Club (FGSC) has been chosen as "Outstanding Conservationist" award winner for 2002 by the Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation District (MBSWCD).

The organization originated as a snowmobile club in the 1960s. Eventually, the snowmobile club became the FGSC. It is a family organization with over 60 family memberships (averaging two to three members) and over 50 individual memberships. Nearly half of the membership resides in the Thief River Falls area, and the other half of the membership resides in the Grygla and Fourtown area.

The FGSC spends a lot of time and effort in enhancing and improving outdoor recreational activities to attract tourism in the area. The club has worked with the MBSWCD on a number of occasions. Main activities involve Resource Conservation and Development projects for improvements to the Grande Comer Rest Area and Gravel Pit site. Grande Comer is the site of an old schoolhouse located 11 miles east of Grygla. The development of the area into a wayside rest area was a community effort with the cooperation of several agencies. The Grande Comer Rest Area is used by tourists, hunters and the community. Ball games are held there every Wednesday evening all summer long.

In 1992, the MBSWCD received an $11,400 grant from the Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development for the rest area. The club matched the grant via in-kind labor. Two picnic shelters, a campground, volleyball court, softball diamond, restrooms and playground equipment were added to the rest area.

Later, the project was expanded with assistance from the Gizibii Resource Conservation and Development. Spruce Grove Township received an additional $5,685 in grant money. Again, the club provided the matching in-kind labor for the local match. Restroom facilities have been upgraded (with construction by the Grygla school carpentry class), and improvements were made to the ball diamond, picnic shelters and camper pad clearing. Right now, the club is in the midst of helping obtain funding to link an adjacent state-owned gravel pit to the rest area. The gravel pit would allow for improved fishing and outdoor activities.

The community has utilized a state-owned gravel pit adjacent to Grande Comer for many years as a recreational area. The site is part of the Beltrami Island State Forest and managed by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR). Gravel has been excavated leaving ponds that are spring fed. These ponds are used for swimming, canoeing, tubing and fishing.

Enhanced fishing potential has been a main activity over the past 14 years and is a part of planned future activities. Since 1988, the FGSC has been stocking fish along with the Minnesota DNR. Records indicate that the club has stocked an average of 900 fish per year. Fish stocked include bluegill, crappies and rainbow trout. Due to the numerous agencies involved in the project (Spruce Grove Township, DNR forestry, DNR fisheries, DNR wildlife, DNR trails and others), the MBSWCD worked with the club to get the agencies together to discuss plans and request Resource Conservation and Development assistance for the planning process.

Spruce Grove Township obtained a $7,500 grant from the Red Lake Game Fund to implement some of the planned improvements. Besides deepening the pond, the plan calls for constructing trails between the rest area and the pit site, seeding disturbed areas, constructing and installing a picnic area and constructing a walking bridge. Among other things, the MBSWCD will assist with seeding plans. Future plans would include parking area and bathroom facilities.

The FGSC has acquired an oxygen tester. MBSWCD staff has been sampling oxygen levels to determine the fish survival ability in the ponds. The club's goal is to maintain the water quality in order to continue these activities.

The main focus of the FGSC is outdoor recreational and youth activities. The club is a family-oriented organization and works on projects benefiting all ages.

Since the club started as a snowmobile club, snowmobiling activities are still a main focus. The club assisted in designating snowmobiling trails in the area. It was involved in the state's Grant In Aid program. As such, they now have their own trail groomer and maintain over 230 miles of snowmobile trails. Wildlife also use the trails as "greenways" to travel between feeding areas. Hunters, skiers, and other wildlife enthusiasts use the trails for their activities. In 1970, the club built a shelter. It is well maintained and kept stocked with firewood for all trail users. Firewood is supplied from slash left from timber harvests or from downed trees, clearing the area for new growth. It also has a rescue sled, which is used to transport accident victims from remote areas.

The club sponsors two snowmobiling trips every year to various destinations. It holds an annual family picnic. A membership/belated Christmas party is held in January.

The club has assisted with snowmobile races in the area and past "winter festival" activities. Two notable activities were the "Arctic Cat Pride" run and the serving of a meal for the "Governor's Ride."

The club also helped the Middle River community in setting up a trail system and has helped connect surrounding trails.

To fund its projects, the club sponsors several raffles each year with the lucky ticketholders winning snowmobiles, ATVs and guns. Since becoming a charitable gaming organization, over $100,000 in charitable contributions have been made to a variety of causes. Half of these funds are used for area youth scholarships with total yearly amounts varying from $5,000 to over $17,000. Because the club is a charitable organization, it makes donations to various causes, including Pathfinders of Thief River Falls. Pathfinders is an organization that works with troubled youth. Part of their work is having the youth repair bicycles and sell bait. A $600 donation from the club enabled Pathfinders to buy a minnow tank and agitators. Other youth activities are the after-prom party, youth gun training and the Area I Envirothon. The club has built and operated a motocross track. It is part of a racing circuit. In conjunction with the motocross track is a BMX track. Another project sponsored by the FGSC, Pembina Trail Resource Conservation and Development and Gizibii Resource Conservation and Development was a request for funding assistance for the motocross track. The request was for funds to improve and expand seating, improve safety with fencing and improve the existing BMX facilities. A $5,000 grant was secured through the Beltrami County Red Lake Game Fund for motocross track improvements. The club has also assisted with benefits for individuals.

The FGSC takes an active role in the Grygla Fall Festival activities, including organizing the parade, a beer garden, "button" sales for admission to street dances and motocross races. This year, they served a meal following the airport dedication.

The club is currently working on a joint project with the Minnesota Deer Hunters Association and the Rough Grouse Society to develop walking trails for hunters.

The FGSC is well known and well respected as a community-minded organization. It is willing to take on the various projects that come along, regardless of the size or time commitment needed. The club follows through on all projects in a timely manner, making sure it meets the guidelines planned. Its continued maintenance and upkeep of existing projects is again timely and complete. The club has a reputation of being willing to work with a variety of groups and agencies for a common goal. It has a good working relationship with the MBSWCD over the years. Club projects not only provide recreational activities, they also provide tourism and economic and community development.

Thank You

We would like to thank everyone for the cards, gifts, phone call and visits after Richard's accident and during his hospitalization. The tremendous outpouring of love and support from the communities was amazing and helped to make a very difficult time more bearable. Each day someone was there to lend support, words of comfort, and most importantly, prayer. Richard is making great progress and we are so grateful to everyone for their concern and prayers.

Home Repair To-Do Lists are Rampant, Often Lengthy, New Study Reveals

Yet, When To-Do's Are Done, Folks Feel Gratified, Accomplished

(ARA) - If you think American homeowners waste their free time on trivial pursuits, a new study dispels that notion. Instead, large numbers are driven by to-do lists that keep them focused on home improvement projects throughout the year.

In addition, the vast majority surveyed report that rather than dreading the list, they actually feel a real sense of accomplishment in their lives when they finally cross a completed item off the list.

Can it be that the more you do around the house, the better you'll feel about yourself? Ace Hardware Corporation pondered that theory when it commissioned "America's To-Do List" Study of 1,000 American homeowners.

A whopping 75 percent of American homeowners maintain some sort of to-do list, either a written or a mental list. And, many of these lists are lengthy. Remarkably, one in 10 people have 10 tasks or more on their lists. Half have at least three items they are planning to complete.

Sense of Accomplishment

Whether to-do list items are written or committed to memory, virtually everyone, 89 percent, agrees they feel gratified when projects are completed. People under age 55 are more likely to feel a sense of accomplishment, although, at the same time, feel a bit more pressure and stress when dealing with home projects than their older counterparts.

"Using a to-do list breaks down what could be viewed as overwhelming projects into doable parts," said Dr. Martin Steigman, a Chicago clinical psychologist and psychotherapist and professor at Northeastern Illinois University. "And, as the person completes each task, he or she feels good about it because it provides relief from the 'overwhelmed' feeling and, therefore, is encouraged to try the next one."

This feeling of accomplishment appears to have led many folks, 67 percent, to proudly proclaim they are a "do-it-yourself" kind of person when it comes to home improvement chores. And, 66 percent reported they try to plan ahead for home projects to avoid emergencies.

"Most people think of their homes as both an asset and a comfort zone," said Paula Erickson, consumer affairs manager for Ace Hardware. "They want to ensure every home product works, so they plan ahead to either head off potential problems or complete the projects that will enhance the enjoyment of their homes."

This helps explain why, according to Erickson, that more than one-third, 36 percent, reported a task is placed on the to-do list because it is a preventive maintenance chore. Another 41 percent said the to-do list mostly includes things that wear out and need repair.

Four Areas Dominate Upcoming To-Do's

Four home project areas dominate Americans' to-do list activities, the study revealed.

Sixty-three percent said they likely will reorganize storage areas in their homes. Nearly an equal number, 62 percent, will enhance, improve or change something in their yards. More than half will hang pictures or art (52 percent) and paint the inside of the home (51 percent).

About a third will tackle repairs such as fixing an item using glue or epoxy (39 percent), replacing an electrical switch, outlet or light (36 percent), changing or replacing a faucet or showerhead (36 percent), repairing walls or millwork (34 percent) and repairing windows and screens (30 percent).

More than one-fourth will paint their home's exterior (28 percent), change or replace a plumbing fixture (26 percent), enhance their home's safety and security (25 percent) and repair a driveway (25 percent).

No matter what the project, nearly half agree it is important to have the latest tools and equipment.

Getting the Job Done

People are equally divided when asked about the longest period of time an item has remained on their to-do list. One-third reported up to three months, another third said three months to a year and another third more than a year. Coincidentally, nearly a third admitted they procrastinate when it comes to completing projects around the house.

"Human beings are born procrastinators," added Dr. Steigman. "We just need to discipline ourselves to focus on and complete tasks in a timely manner."

"America's To-Do List" Study, conducted by an independent research firm, surveyed by telephone a national probability sample of 1,000 adults living in private households in the continental United States.

Our Seamless gutters are manufactured from 032 gauge pre-painted aluminum, the heaviest gauge used in the industry. If your home is 20 feet or 200 feet in length our seamless gutter is made in one continuous length, eliminating any joints or seams in the middle. Inquire before you purchase "Seamless Gutter" about the thickness of the material used and be certain that it is made in one continuous length.

Seamless gutter is formed, cut and installed on site by a two-man crew, saving on labor cost. Freight charges are eliminated. Waste is almost unheard of due to gutter being measured and cut on site to exact lengths. No need to store left over odds and ends that get damaged before they can be used. Most jobs can be completed the same day. Call us for complete information and free estimates of your job at no obligation to you.

Beautifying Your Basement

Need a place to entertain the guys and house the pool table? Want to rid the family room of toys from tots and teens? Remodeling your basement is the easiest and most affordable way to add value and additional living space to your home.

Depending on your skill level, you may need to hire a professional contractor to help out with parts of the project. However, with a little preparation and planning, refinishing your basement can be simple.

* Plumbing and Patching – If you're planning to install a bathroom or a wet bar, plumbing needs to be the first priority since pipes may need to be installed beneath the cement floor. Once all plumbing is installed, be sure to patch all cracks in the floor and walls. Use a low-odor, polyurethane sealant, such as PL Concrete and Masonry Sealant (www.stickwithPL.com), which will produce a flexible, long-lasting seal for all cracks in the foundation.

* Block in Beauty and Security – If your basement is not already equipped with glass block windows, it may be a good idea to have them installed now. Glass block windows (www.pittsburghcorning.com) not only provide aesthetic appeal and light transmission, but also provide added security from intruders.

* Electrical -- Once the plumbing system is in place, it is time for the electric. Be sure to install a sufficient number of electrical outlets and telephone lines to accommodate televisions, lamps and computer modems. And don't forget the cable lines too!

* Walls -- Drywalling is the easiest way to cover cement walls to create a smooth surface. Be sure to use a low-odor, fast-grabbing adhesive such as PL Premium Polyurethane Construction Adhesive (www.stickwithPL.com) to create a secure bond and to reduce the need for difficult nailing into the cement block. Once the drywall is in place, PL Premium can be used to adhere baseboards and wainscoting over the drywall. These decorative accents will not only add beauty, but also functionality to the walls by protecting the drywall from dents or scratches from flying cue balls or toy car crashes.

* Drop the Ceiling -- When it comes to ceiling choices, acoustical tiles are a safe bet. Not only are these tiles aesthetically pleasing, but they will also provide easy access to utilities for the rest of the house.

* Flooring -- Since the floor of the basement is in direct contact with the ground, it is most likely going to be cold! Installing a subfloor between the concrete and flooring surface will provide a warmer, dryer environment for your new basement living area. In addition, it will provide a smooth, secure surface for your carpet or other flooring choice.

Cruise into Fall with Deck Chair Plan and Brass Hardware

If, as the saying goes, it's all in the details, then this deck chair is so authentic you'll almost feel the ocean breeze and smell the salt water in the air.

Featured in the newest catalog from Rockler Woodworking and Hardware, the plan was designed by "The New Yankee Workshop" to recapture the era of luxury travel on grand ocean liners. To help make building the deck chair "smooth sailing," the plan comes with a step by step video by master builder Norm Abram of "The New Yankee Workshop." The plan itself is easy to follow, and includes all the drawings and patterns you'll need to complete the project.

The deck chair owes much of its commanding presence to the naval brass: Rockler Woodworking and Hardware's exclusive, solid brass hardware adds real charm and authenticity to your project. Included in the hardware kit are the deck chair mechanisms, screws, cap nuts and brass sleeves for one deck chair. For the final flourish, Rockler also offers a cardholder similar to those found on the original deck chairs.

Rockler has additional outdoor furniture plans from "The New Yankee Workshop" for all landlubbers, including a romantic garden swing, a traditional Adirondack chair and the popular English garden bench. Each features the same detailed instructions, drawings and complete materials list found in the deck chair plan, as well as an instructional video by Norm Abram.

All plans, including video, are available from Rockler Woodworking and Hardware for $24.95 each. The Deck Chair Solid Brass Hardware Kit is $89.99.

To order or to receive a free catalog, call Rockler Woodworking and Hardware at (800) 279 4441 or visit them online at www.rockler.com.

Outdoor Living Is In

Move over family room, the outdoor room is taking over! Yesterday's patios, porches and decks are growing up to be full-fledged living areas, making way even for outdoor kitchens. Bringing the indoors out is the latest frontier in home design.

According to a recent research report by the International Furnishings and Design Association, "the boundaries between indoor and outdoor environments will blend into one big comfortable space." Creating a truly furnished room outdoors is a way to extend actual livable space, and a backyard oasis seems to be just the antidote for a nation of overworked people.

The growing trend in outdoor living, cooking and entertaining is overwhelmingly evident. Outdoor furniture sales are exploding; the outdoor fabric business is booming; hot tub installations are up; and outdoor kitchen appliances are getting more plentiful. "People are upgrading to better barbecue grills, that's for sure," says Andy Sovant, senior product manager, Thermador. "They're buying larger models with more features to facilitate better results."

The barbeque grill has long been the focal point of backyard living. Now, this icon of the American lifestyle is getting plush surroundings, to the extent that outdoor kitchens are being created coast-to-coast. The selection of grills is getting better, too, evolving from a simple charcoal grill to gleaming gas stainless steel beauties, worthy of any designer kitchen. Thermador, at the luxury end of the grill spectrum, even offers fully assembled grills ready the moment you bring one home.

As for style, many backyard gourmets opt for the freestanding version with storage underneath and optional pop-up side shelves for instant workspace. At the high-end level, some homeowners build all-weather counter tops to stage a drop-in or slide-in unit. Thermador is one of several manufacturers that offer a variety of grill options. Its Char-Glo barbecue series offers a smoker tray to add hickory or mesquite flavors, a rotisserie capable of roasting a 25-pound turkey, and grilling space large enough to feed burgers to an entire Scout troop. Accompanying side burners, whether integrated into the grill or separate units, keep marinades warm or can be used to whip up dishes from scratch. It's a barbecue for the whole family and the group gourmets.

More information about the Thermador Char-Glo series can be found at www.thermador.com or by calling (800) 656-9266.

Are Pollens Invading Your Home?

Another allergy season is upon us, and an estimated 50 million to 60 million Americans are or soon will be suffering from upper respiratory symptoms -- itchy eyes, runny noses and sneezing -- caused by allergic reactions to airborne pollens.

According to the Asthma and Allergy Foundation of America (AAFA), about one of every five adults and children suffers from allergies, which are the sixth leading cause of chronic disease in the United States, including allergic asthma.

Most allergy sufferers use one or a combination of three recommended approaches to control their symptoms: taking medications, being immunized and/or avoiding the offending allergens.

While effective, the costs associated with taking medication, whether prescribed, over the counter or immunization (allergy injection therapy), are astounding. According to the AAFA, Americans spend more than $4.5 billion on yearly medical care for seasonal allergies, attending approximately 8.4 million physician visits each year. The organization reports the cost of allergy-triggered physician services alone totals $225 annually.

With airborne pollens, avoiding "offending allergens" sometimes is easier said than done. After all, it's not practical during peak allergy seasons to live sealed indoors. Yet physicians commonly advise patients to not invite outside airborne pollens into their living environment by closing windows and doors and spending as much time as possible within a well air-conditioned home or building.

However, closing windows may provide a deceptive sense of security for some allergy sufferers. Many windows and doors do not provide a tight barrier, allowing microscopic airborne pollens to flow freely indoors. Older homes are especially susceptible to structural air leaks around windows and doors, not only due to normal aging but also because the windows and doors were produced using outdated design and construction techniques when industry standards were less stringent.

Experts agree that living environments can be improved to help alleviate allergies at a fraction of the cost spent annually on medical care to treat asthma and allergies. And, the improvements are long-lasting. Replacing windows and doors with a proven airtight seal can actually reduce airflow and inhibit the invasion of offending allergens.

There are three window features that make the biggest contributions to an airtight seal: design and construction, weatherstripping, and the locking mechanism. When buying an existing home, considering window replacement in an older home or building a new home, check the following elements:

1. What is the air filtration standard for the window? The industry standards, set jointly by the American Architectural Manufacturers Association and the Window and Door Manufacturers Association, vary for different types of windows (for example, double hung windows which have two sashes and can be moved up and down versus casement windows, which have a single sash that opens to the outside with a crank handle). The standards measure how many cubic feet of air per minute penetrate from the exterior to the interior. Do your windows meet or exceed these standards? Some manufacturers adhere to more rigorous standards than required by the industry. Also, ask the manufacturers how often they test their windows to meet the industry standards. Some test every window, some don't.

2. Is the weatherstripping worn, dislodged, missing or somehow compromised? In a casement window, is the weatherstripping mitered and securely joined together in the corners of the window?

3. Does the locking mechanism contribute to an airtight seal by pulling the sash tighter against the frame (for casement windows) or compressing the window frame against the weatherstripping for a tighter seal (double-hung windows)?

The criteria used to judge the airtight seal of windows also can be applied to doors, although the industry standards are different. For sliding doors, design can make a big difference. If the sliding or "vent" panel is on the exterior and the fixed panel is on the interior, wind or air pressure actually creates a tighter seal. Similarly, a two-point locking mechanism (with locks positioned at the top and bottom of the door) closes more tightly and allows less air to penetrate.

Homeowners interested in learning more about controlling or avoiding allergy and asthma flare-ups can contact one of the local chapters of the Asthma and Allergy Foundation of America or call the national office at (800) 7-ASTHMA, or (202) 466-7643, or go online to www.aafa.org.

For more information about windows and doors, visit one of the following Web sites or call the American Architectural Manufacturers Association at (847) 303-5664, www.aamanet.org; the Window and Door Manufacturers Association at www.wdma.com; or Pella Corporation at www.pella.com, (888) 84-PELLA.

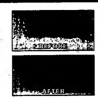
Making Your Kitchen Kid-friendly



Ensuring your kitchen is child-proof is essential for proper safety. Taking a few small precautions can eliminate unnecessary accidents. Also, providing children with their own kitchen space can make the time spent with your child more enjoyable. The National Kitchen & Bath Association (NKBA) has developed a short list of ideas to make your kitchen more kid-friendly.

1. Put all cleaning products and poisonous substances out of reach in a high cabinet or closet. If products must be in a cabinet accessible to children, install child safety locks on the doors.
2. Move all electrical cords to the back of the countertops and tape them to the bottom of the counters, out of reach.
3. Remove all tablecloths from the table so children cannot pull and drag heavy or hot items on themselves.
4. If you have a table with glass or sharp corners, attach corner guards.
5. Eliminate loose rugs in your kitchen by placing no-slip pads underneath them.
6. Place kid-size plastic dishes, snacks, and napkins together in a lower cabinet so children can reach them. Having this self-service cabinet will make the children feel grown up and will allow you to have more cooking time without being interrupted.
7. Encourage children to help participate in kitchen clean-up by purchasing kid-sized toy brooms and dustpans. Also purchase a junior set of utensils so children can feel they are helping during food preparation.
8. Hang a chalkboard or dry erase board at a good height for children on the side of either your kitchen island or wall. Children will be able to draw pictures and remain entertained while you are busy preparing meals.

NKBA Members are the finest professionals in the industry and can help make your dream a reality. To find a member near you or to receive your free Kitchen and Bath Workbook, call (877) NKBA-PRO or visit www.nkba.org.

Yearning for the Green, Green Grass of Home?

You might need more than just a little water.

Even after watering your grass day after day, you might wonder why your lawn isn't maintaining its optimal lush green color. That's because lawns need more than just water for maximum color saturation and stress relief.

Like the human body, which requires a balanced diet chock-full of vitamins and minerals, your lawn requires a variety of nutrients to maintain its deep color, as well as a solid root structure.

A good fertilizer will provide much of that nutrition. Yet, who wants to mow their lawn every other day to keep up with the excess growth that will be stimulated by most fertilizers? And especially during the dog days of summer when temperatures peak, it's not good to promote all that blade growth without supporting the roots.

For optimum results that rival some of this country's premiere golf course greens, be sure your lawn gets the iron it needs. Lawn revitalizers, like PerkUp by Greenview, are high in iron. However, they are low in nitrogen, so they don't promote excessive growth, which means no additional mowing!

One application of granular PerkUp adequately watered in will green up lawns within as little as 48 hours and keep them greener than the neighbors' for as long as six weeks. And, with no worries of buildup, you can reapply as often as desired to maintain a lawn that's sure to turn your neighbors green with envy.

In addition to iron, PerkUp also includes potassium, a vital ingredient needed to strengthen roots, and magnesium, which is included for better micronutrient balance. PerkUp has been used by leading golf courses in this country for years to green up fairways and greens prior to tournaments, as well as at major sports stadiums. It has only been made available to consumers through neighborhood lawn and garden centers in the past year. Its restorative ingredients are also ideal for use with various acid-loving plants, such as azaleas and rhododendron, to help leaves maintain their deep color.

For maximum effectiveness, lawn revitalizers like PerkUp should be applied early in the growing season -- late spring or early summer, depending on the region and current weather conditions. The goal is to start enhancing root development before the heat and droughts hit.

Of course, watering is still always a good idea -- regardless of the weather (remember it's not just during the hot, dry months that lawns crave moisture). Also keep in mind that frequent watering for short periods of time can actually hurt your lawn by not allowing enough water to reach the roots. Instead, water your lawn once a week for about four hours, allowing the water to seep deeply into the soil to promote maximum root growth.

But with all the water bans in place during summer heat and drought periods, your lawn will still benefit most with a lawn revitalizer that helps you get the most out of your soil with a minimum amount of nutrients and water.

Other tips for maintaining the "green, green grass of home" include:

* Mow grass regularly at the highest setting so blades are not as susceptible to damage.
* Recycle grass clippings, since these contain vital nutrients and can act like free fertilizer.
* Control weeds so they don't compete with blades for the water and nutrients that are in the soil.

If your lawn still turns brown after following these steps, consider having your soil tested for disease or insect infestation.

For more information on how you can perk up your lawn this season, visit www.lebsea.com or call 800/532-0090, ext. 214.

Saving the planet – one house at a time

Happiness is never having to pay another energy bill, which is the goal of an innovative home-building demonstration project currently underway in the Atlanta suburbs.

Combing resource-efficient construction techniques, materials and products, Zero-Energy Homes are designed to prove just how energy self-sufficient a home can be. Roof-mounted solar panels provide most of the electricity as well as hot water. Copper tubing burried in the yard recirculates refrigerant liquid to a geothermal heat pump, using the constant temperature of the earth to further reduce home water- and space-heating requirements. Structural insulated panels and common-sense architectural design add to the overall efficiency of the buildings.

The project is being developed by a consortium that includes the Department of Energy's Building America program, media mogul Ted Turner's kid-friendly "Captain Planet Foundation," the American Lung Association, a long list of product manufacturers and building-industry associations, and local Georgia builders.

A first, smaller house, dubbed the Zero-Energy Cottage, debuted at the International Home Builders Show in February, then was dismantled and trucked to Washington, D.C. for display at the National Park Service's first Sustainability Fair in May. A second larger and even more ambitious Zero-Energy Home is now nearing completion. According to the developers, the purpose of the homes is to show how environmental and energy-efficient "sustainable" practices can be put to good use by builders today. Both homes are said to be up to 90 percent more energy-efficient than an average house.

One participating sponsor, the Copper Development Association (CDA), provided all of the copper tubing for the hot and cold-water plumbing, for dual solar water-heating and solar photovoltaic electric systems, and for geothermal direct-exchange heat pumps that heat and cool the homes.

According to CDA spokesman Ken Geremia, the association was asked to support the project because copper materials are inherently energy efficient and enviromentally smart. "Copper is the most recycled and recyclable building material you can use," says Geremia, "so sustainability demonstration projects like this are a perfect fit for us. The fact that this particular project is being done for such a good cause, on behalf of both the Building America program and the Captain Planet Foundation, is a plus as far as CDA is concerned."

In tune with the project's earth-friendly goals, the Zero-Energy Homes take full advantage of copper's excellent heat-transfer properties to offset typical home energy costs. "Far and away, copper is the best option for all kinds of heat-exchange systems, especially heat pumps," he adds.

Copper is also used in all the home's electric wiring and in its sophisticated structured wiring communications system, which will allow occupants to network home computers, distribute audio and video throughout and install home-automation features. The project's developers expect to complete the second Zero-Energy Home by the fall, when it will open to the public. Both homes are to be auctioned, with all proceeds to benefit the Captain Planet Foundation.

Technology advances Northern Woodwork

Minnesota Technology Inc. recognizes TRF company

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

When Northern Woodwork Inc. (NWI) was formed about 90 years ago, its owners probably never thought about 21st century technology. Now in the 21st century, its current owners have thought about technology and are using it to their advantage.

The Thief River Falls company uses advanced automation to custom-manufacture casework, cabinetry, work center and reception stations for schools, hospitals, nursing homes, offices and commercial settings. Since 2001, the company has been working with Minnesota Technology Inc. (MTI), which has provided NWI with comprehensive business and Internet assessments.

According to NWI Co-owner Myron Dargus, MTI was a great help to the company. "You have business professionals come in and analyze your business, said Dargus. "Where else can you get that done?" MTI brought in professionals from Colorado and Arizona to work with NWI.

Furthermore, he noted, "(MTI) did the feasibility study that we didn't have the time or wherewithal to do."

According to MTI, NWI is now better positioned for growth, has

County sees "official" end to 1997 record breaking Red River flood

Kittson County - Five years and six million dollars later, Kittson County can now officially see an end to the 1997 Red River flood.

Kittson County Emergency Manager Gary Rice presented a grant report to the Kittson County Commissioners, Oct. 1, regarding the 1997 flood.

Rice said 16 grants from agencies such as the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), the Department of Natural Resources (DNR), the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), the Department of Trade and Economic Development (DTED) and the Northwest Minnesota Foundation, helped residents in the county cope with the disaster that resulted in flooded homes, farmsteads, roads and bridges.

One repair project is still incomplete, that being the Highway 171 St. Vincent bridge project. - Kittson County Enterprise, October 9, 2002, by Cindy Stewart

State test scores showing W/A/O Elementary improved

Warren - Scores recently announced on tests taken last March show pupils at Warren/Alvarado/Oslo Elementary School are doing well, said Principal Ron Leverington.

He was particularly pleased with the performance of fifth graders last spring on reading and math tests, compared to their performance two years ago as third graders.

Scores on the Minnesota Comprehensive Assessment (MCA) tests taken in March were only recently made public because part of the testing involved an assessment of student writing, said Leverington, and that took additional time for the Minnesota Department of Children, Families and Learning to get scored.

W/A/O fifth graders, last spring, scored 1,517 on their reading test, compared to the 1,378 the same group of students scored two years ago as third graders. They scored 1,478 on their math test this year, up from 1,406 as third graders two years ago. - Warren Sheaf, October 9, 2002

Bill Dent in DSU Athletic Hall of Fame

Lancaster - William "Bill" Dent, high school science teacher at Lancaster, has been inducted into the Blue Haw Boosters Athletic Hall of Fame at Dickinson State University.

He is one of six individuals and one team who were inducted during Homecoming 2002. The class includes three men and three women, each representing a distinct area of Dickinson State athletics. Dent represents 1990.

Dent joined the Dickinson State track and cross country teams in 1983. He won the NDCAC and District 12 cross country meets in 1986 after placing third and second in the previous two seasons. He was a four-time national qualifier at the NAIA cross country meet. In track, Dent specialized in the steeplechase. He holds a career record of 37-1 in NDCAC and District 12 steeplechase competition. He was an All-American in 1985 and 1987 in the steeplechase. - North Star News, October 10, 2002

An Ageless Hero weaves a beautiful legacy

Ray Gusa, an Ageless Hero, cuts denim, fabric strips for a rug he is designing.

Gusa is "Ageless Hero"

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

During a time when age seems to matter to most people, one Thief River Falls resident does not let age affect him. Ray Gusa, a 90-year-old Valley Home resident, recently won a Blue Cross Blue Shield of Minnesota Ageless Hero award. He received the honor for his self-designed weaving technique, which enables him to weave a rug a day.

In January 2001, Gusa became a Valley Home resident and began his rug weaving odyssey. Other residents were weaving rugs, and Gusa started helping them. He cut and sewed the fabric strips. Then the other residents would use a loom to create the rugs. Eventually, Gusa became involved in all aspects of the operation. Now, he cuts, sews and weaves the rugs himself.

"It's something to do," said Gusa. "I couldn't sit around and do nothing."

Gusa estimated he has woven 450 rugs since that time. Of those, he figured 235 were woven so far this year. Gusa said it takes him five or six hours to create a rug.

Gusa is not interested in making a profit from his rugs. Instead, he gives the rugs to Valley Home to sell in its shop. He also makes rugs upon request for individuals.

At Valley Home, customers are constantly buying the rugs. "We can't keep enough," said Gusa. "We don't have enough on hand." Valley Home uses the profits to pay for miscellaneous expenses not covered in its budget.

His unassuming ways led his daughter to nominate him for a Blue Cross Blue Shield of Minnesota Ageless Hero award. The awards are given annually to 12 older Minnesotans in such divisions as "Against the Odds" and "Bridging the Generations." Gusa won in the "Creative Expressions" division.

The other "Creative Expressions" award winner, an 81-year-old Minneapolis man, was honored for performing music in senior residences.

The award ceremony was held on October 2 at the Mall of America. Gusa's family attended the event with him, and they stayed overnight in the Twin Cities. The humble Gusa did not tell Valley Home staff why he was going to the Twin Cities. Another source

Area nonprofits receive Round Up grant funds

Eighteen area nonprofit organizations recently received grants of Operation Round Up funds. Red Lake Electric Cooperative members provide the funding for the grants through their voluntary rounding up of their monthly electric bill payments.

Four Christmas gift programs were each given $500. As a result, area children in need will receive gifts from programs administered by Marshall County Social Services, Toys for Tots in Crookston, Red Lake County Holiday Gift Program, and Christmas for Pennington County.

Four emergency service organizations received grants. The Oklee Fire Department received $1,000 to help with the purchase of new pagers for their volunteers. The Brooks First Responders, the Red Lake Falls Ambulance Service, and the Oklee Ambulance Service each received $500 for equipment or training needs.

A $500 grant was made to the Pennington County Support Program for support services for the mentally ill and their families. The Hillcrest Nursing Auxiliary of Red Lake Falls received $500 to go toward the purchase of a new bathing system for their residents. Clients of the Occupational Development Center in Red Lake Falls will benefit from a $450 grant for a number of equipment needs.

Children will learn safety practices as a result of three grants made. The Pennington County/Thief River Falls Safety Camp received $500 and the Red Lake Falls ECFE Safety Camp

Arctic Cat Racing Seminar Nov. 16

Arctic Cat's racing department has announced that the 11th Annual Team Arctic Racing Seminar will be held on Saturday November 16, at Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC). An ice-breaker reception will be held beginning at 6:30 p.m. on Friday, November 15 in the NCTC gymnasium. This event includes the unveiling of the new Arctic Cat racing machines.

The seminar, which offers Arctic Cat racers valuable information and resources for the upcoming race season, has become known as the best in the snowmobile industry and is open to anyone interested in learning the technical side of snowmobile racing.

"This is an excellent opportunity for racers, mechanics and technicians to learn about our new technology and make the contacts that they'll use all race season," said Team Arctic Manager Brian Sturgeon. "From beginners to professionals, the Team Arctic race school has something for everyone."

Technical seminars will be held by engine, clutching, calibration, chassis and shock experts, Kirk Hibbert and Greg Spaulding. Doug Braswell will discuss set-up tips for racing and highlight important changes to the new race sleds. A number of racing associations from the United States and Canada will be on-hand to promote their organization and answer questions, and numerous vendors will also be displaying products at the seminar.

The schedule of events include the ice-breaker reception beginning at 6:30 p.m. on Friday, November 15. The unveiling of new race machines will be held from 7 to 9 p.m.

The race seminar begins at 8 a.m. on Saturday, November 16. Seminars on suspension and motors will be held at three

Pennington County Humane Society joins recycling effort

by Jenny Nicholson
Reporter

The Pennington County Humane Society is asking the residents of northwest Minnesota to help the animals and the environment by recycling their aluminum cans.

Cans for Canines, PCHS's local project, is part of the national Paws to Recycle program that is sponsored by Friskies PetCare Company, the American Humane Society and Alcoa. During the months of September, October and November, PCHS is putting an extra emphasis on their can collection efforts to coincide with a Paws to Recycle competition. The shelter can win one of four $3,000 prizes, cases of pet food and other items to benefit the animals.

The Cans for Canines project is in its second year in Thief River Falls and has been increasingly successful. So far, through the recycling project and other fundraising efforts, the shelter has been able to build a new fenced-in area outside for dogs and has improved the exercise area for cats. Maggie Kaste, one of the PCHS volunteers, says they are also proud to have recently celebrated their 1,000th adoption.

While they have come a long way in the five years since they officially formed, PCHS is always in need of donations and volunteers. Kaste says they have a couple hundred members, but only a couple dozen of them who volunteer.

Mari Jo Kirchner, also a volunteer with PCHS, says there are many activities they need volunteers to help with such as exercising the animals, spending time with the cats, cleaning kennels and helping organize events and educational projects. Kirchner, who plays a large role in the Cans for Canines program, says she could also use some help.

Aside from volunteer help, the shelter is also in constant need of funds. Since they work with a number of counties, the shelter has a lot of animals, which cost quite a hit to maintain. Since PCHS is largely in support of controlling the animal population, they also have a program to spay and neuter the animals. Kaste says they still can't

The staff at Pennington County Humane Society (PCHS) have placed cans like this one around town for people to dispose of their recyclable aluminum cans. PCHS's recycling campaign, Cans for Canines, is part of a national project called Paws to Recycle. The proceeds will support the local humane society efforts.

Celtic culture is alive and well at the Warroad Public Library, Oct. 12

Warroad - Celtic culture is alive and well in Fort Frances, Ontario and at the Warroad Public Library, Saturday, October 12 at 7 p.m.

The Fort Frances Highlanders have been entertaining in the Rainy River District and northern Minnesota since 1956. Wearing the Cameron of Erracht tartan, the pipes and drums of the Fort Frances Highlanders are proud to have the opportunity to provide this entertainment. Accompanying them will be Highland Dancers trained under Madame Borka in traditional Celtic performance. - Warroad Pioneer, October 9, 2002

Here are some recipes from the new cookbook I bought recently. It is called, "The Best from My Desk II" by Myrtle Tydlncka. It's a good time to try some new bar recipes, isn't it?

A flaky, buttery crust, topped with almond filling and creamy frosting makes something special:

ALMOND BARS
First Layer:
1 cup butter, softened
2 cups flour
1/2 cup powdered sugar
Small package slivered almonds

Mix butter, flour and powdered sugar in 9x13 inch pan. Sprinkle slivered almonds on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 15-20 minutes.

Second Layer:
1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese
2 eggs
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon almond flavoring

Beat cream cheese until creamy. Add eggs, sugar and almond flavoring. Beat and spread over first layer. Bake at 350 degrees for 15-20 minutes. Cool thoroughly.

Frosting:
1/2 cup melted butter
1 1/2 cups powdered sugar
Scant 1 1/2 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon almond flavoring

Mix and spread over top of cooled bars.

These are one of my family's favorite bars, and they're easy to make:

MARSHMALLOW BARS
3 cups graham crackers, crushed
1-1/2 cups miniature marshmallows
1/2 cup walnuts
1 cup coconut
1 cup sugar
3/4 cup butter
2 beaten eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix crackers, marshmallows, walnuts and coconut in bowl.

Cook sugar, butter and eggs in top of double boiler. Cool slightly, then add vanilla and pour over cracker mixture. Mix well and spread in buttered 9x13 inch pan.

Here's a nice, tangy bar for a cool fall day:

GOLDEN APRICOT BARS
2/3 cup dried apricots
1/3 cup water
1/4 cup sugar
1 1/3 cup flour
1/2 cup butter
2 beaten eggs
1 cup brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup nuts

Cook apricots and water for 5 minutes. Drain, cool and chop.

Combine sugar and 1 cup of the flour. Add butter and mix until crumbly. Pat in bottom of 8 inch square pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes.

While crust is baking, beat eggs, brown sugar and vanilla.

Sift remaining 1/3 cup flour with baking powder and salt. Add flour mixture, nuts and apricots to egg mixture. Mix well and spread over baked crust. Bake 30 minutes longer.

How about some tasty chocolate brownies:

CHOCOLATE OATMEAL BROWNIES
1/2 cup softened butter
1/3 cup sugar
1/3 cup brown sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/8 teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup oatmeal
1 cup chocolate chips

Beat butter, sugars, egg and vanilla until light and fluffy. Blend in flour, baking powder, salt and spices. Stir in oatmeal and 1/2 cup chips. Spread in ungreased 9 inch pan. Sprinkle with remaining chips.

Bake at 350 degrees for 20-25 minutes or until lightly browned.

This recipe is rich and delicious:

COCONUT BARS
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 cup flour
2 eggs
1 cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup coconut
1 cup nuts

Cream butter, brown sugar and 1 cup flour. Pat in 8x8 inch pan and bake 10 minutes at 350 degrees.

Beat eggs, sugar and vanilla. Mix flour, baking powder and salt and add to egg mixture. Add coconut and nuts and spread on first mixture.

Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes.

And here's a delicious treat for those of you who are watching your diets:

SUGAR-FREE MAPLE COOKIES
1/2 cup reduced fat margarine, softened
1/2 cup sour cream
1 cup shredded peeled tart apple
2 eggs
1 teaspoon maple flavoring
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups flour
Artificial brown sugar sweetener to equal 1/3 cup brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon baking powder

In mixing bowl, combine margarine, sour cream, apple, eggs, maple flavoring and vanilla.

Combine flour, sweetener, soda and baking powder. Add to apple mixture and mix well.

Drop by heaping tablespoonfuls onto baking sheets coated with nonstick spray. Bake at 375 degrees for 9-10 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool on wire racks. Store in airtight containers.

Issued by Freddie Mac
- 20-Year Final Maturity 10/15/22
- Noncallable until 10/15/06
- Offered at $100.00
- Callable at $100.00

The issue is callable on 10/15/06 and any date thereafter upon 10 business days prior notice. Any calculation of a yield other than the yield to maturity will depend upon assumptions made regarding the level of future interest rates, which would cause the issuer to elect to call the securities prior to maturity.

In the event of death, notes are redeemable at par, subject to provisions stated in the offering circular supplement under the heading "Repayment Requests."

*Bond equivalent yield if purchased at par.

In the event interest rates decline during the life of the bond, the bond will likely be called and investors may lose the opportunity to lock in higher rates. If interests rates rise, this would negatively affect the principal value, and if these notes are sold in the secondary market prior to maturity or call date, they may be worth less than their original cost.

New Breakthrough Technology in Cataract Eye Surgery

Cataract surgery has become one of the most successfully performed surgical procedures in modern medicine. Now there is a new technique for cataract surgery that makes the experience easier and more comfortable for the patient.

The Clear Cornea technique makes an incision 1/4th of an inch long. The opening is so small, that in most cases, no eye patches or sutures are required.

When making this tiny incision, your doctor uses a sharp diamond blade that causes very little trauma to the eye and allows clearer vision more rapidly than with older techniques. Patients can return to normal activities with minimum interruption in their daily routine.

If you or someone you love has signs of cataracts such as blurred vision or glare, call or visit your local eye care provider and learn more about this new procedure.

Marvin Windows raises $62,800 for flood recovery

The $37,800 raised by Marvin Window employees to aid in the 2002 flood recovery process, has been matched by a $25,000 donation from Marvin Windows and Doors Co.

"The giving spirit of the people that work here is overwhelming," said Frank Marvin, vice chairman of Marvin Windows and Doors. "Several of our own employees suffered damages from the flood and they pitched in to help others in need for flood recovery."

Recently, community leaders from Warroad, Roseau and Baudette attended a flood recovery check presentation ceremony at the Marvin Windows plant in Warroad to accept the gift.

Representatives of the Marvin Flood Recovery Team presented the checks, which were allocated according to the percentage of Marvin employees living in each affected area.

Receiving checks for the various communities were:

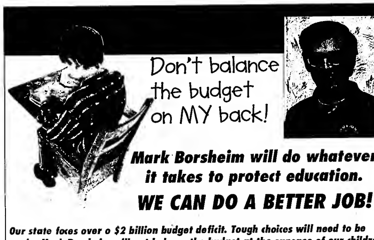
• Baudette Mayor Rick Rone, Roosevelt Mayor Neil Sims, Williams City Clerk Andrea Mickiewicz and Sandy Baumgartner, Northwest Community Action on behalf of Lake of the Woods County, in the amount of $9,720.

• Roseau Mayor Jeff Pelowski, Roseau Area Flood Recovery Fund Committee Chair Mary Ross; Art Brandli, chairman of the board for Northwest Minnesota Foundation in the amount of $9,720.

• Warroad Mayor Bob Marvin, Warroad Area Flood Recovery Fund Committee Chair Steve Anderson, and Art Brandli, chairman of the board for Northwest Minnesota Foundation in the amount of $43,360.

"I've never seen so many people come together to help their neighbors and have so much fun in the process. I thank the Marvin company for giving us this opportunity," said Wally Simmons, Marvin Flood Recovery team member.

Marvin Windows and Doors employs over 2,600 people at its corporate headquarters and facility in Warroad.



Warroad and Lake of the Woods county residents and nonprofit agencies that suffered significant damages from the 2002 floods are encouraged to contact Northwest Community Action at 1-800-568-5329 for information or applications for assistance. Roseau-area businesses, residents and nonprofit agencies that suffered damages from the 2002 floods are encouraged to contact Mary Ross at 218-463-2672.

The 2002 Warroad Area Flood Recovery Fund and the 2002 Roseau Area Flood Recovery Fund were established with the Northwest Minnesota Foundation to provide financial support for immediate and long-term needs of the Warroad and Roseau community and its residents. The Northwest Minnesota Foundation is a charitable foundation committed to improving the quality of life for residents in 12 counties of northwest Minnesota by investing resources, creating opportunities and promoting philanthropy.

Don't balance the budget on MY back!

Mark Borsheim will do whatever it takes to protect education.

WE CAN DO A BETTER JOB!

Our state faces over a $2 billion budget deficit. Tough choices will need to be made. Mark Borsheim will not balance the budget at the expense of our children.

Mark will work for:

• Equity in education so that all our kids get a quality education.
• Accountability in our school system to ensure our resources are spent wisely.
• Smaller class sizes.
• Teacher support and training that helps students receive a quality education.

Fighting for every child.

The Vocabulary of Success

I was involved in a discussion recently with a big cities outdoor writer. The two of us were doing the standard "guy thing" by comparing stories about our summer's fishing exploits, trying as subtly, yet as obviously as possible, to push our own cause into the number one position. Who caught the most, the biggest, blah, blah, blah. It's just what guys do, ladies, trust me. I think it's a ritual that began shortly after the invention of the public urinal and has progressed at least a little further into social acceptance these days. The details as to who came out ahead are not important, but what struck me as offensive was this writer's choice of words pertaining to his successes.

"Oh, we did real well on the Red River for cats," he bragged at one point. "You just chunk a line out there and reel the big ones in."

Or, in a description about the productivity of the Roseau River he crowed, "Heck, you simply drag a line behind the boat and you catch walleyes."

I tried not to look too self-righteous and appalled at these phrases, though my solid Episcopalian upbringing made that a little difficult. However, there are obvious grammatical problems there, aren't there?

First off, get rid of that "simply" and "just" stuff right now. Anyone with more than a few years of marriage under their belt knows my angle here. Anytime my wife uses the word "simply" or "just" in a sentence, you can bet that the effort is the diminishment of a Herculean event. "Couldn't we "simply" move the house four and a half feet to the west in order to catch a little more of the morning sun?" Or "Just" make a decision as to whether it's the camo-raingear or the olive green." Fishing, it seems, is just not that simple!

But it's the verbs that this writer used that really worry me. It suggests a totally random act produced his fishing success. "Drag" a line?! What's that supposed to suggest to the casual, non-fishing listener? That whatever was on the other end was reluctantly there and therefore an unwilling participant in the fishing process? And "chunk"? Billy-Bob might "chunk" things into a bayou somewhere south of the Mason-Dixon line in order to catch 'gators, but up here we "chuck" stuff. And even then it's into the garbage when we're "just" cleaning out the garage. We certainly don't "chuck" things into the water during our leisure hours on the lake. If we seasoned Minnesota anglers are placing a lure in the water, the very least we're doing is skillfully inserting it into the medium.

We are craftsmen when it comes to fishing. There is nothing in our vocabulary or in our tackle box that implies any random nature as to what we do on the water. We "troll" plugs a very specific distance behind the boat, so that they dive a precise depth beneath the surface, we don't "drag" them. We "cast" lures into predesignated pockets of water and then retrieve them in a very scientific fashion, we don't "chuck" them, and we certainly don't "chunk" them.

We "twitch" jigs, not "yank" on them. We "work" a spinner, which is a far cry from "pulling them around". We "set" anchors, we don't "drop" them. We "finesse," "coerce," and "entice." There is no room for "jerking," "heaving," and "lugging."

And if all this seems like a nose-in-the-air discussion by a potentially bruiseable ego, remember the sad tale about the fisherman in Georgian Bay nearly a decade ago that was fortunate enough to hook a world record Muskie on eight-pound test line. When later interviewed in front of a myriad of cameras and reporters at the dock, his prize catch at his side, his first acknowledgement was that he was "dragging a lure in an unknown depth of water for anything that would bite." The buzzing crowd fell silent. Cameras stopped rolling, pencils stopped scribbling and, most importantly, lucrative corporate sponsors quietly tucked blank checks back into their pockets and drove away.

The moral to the story is "simple." While the chances are good that you're really "just dragging something around that you chunked into the water a fur-piece back," don't let the rest of the world onto the notion that it really might be random.

NARFE to hold open house and forum

The National Association of Retired Federal Employees (NARFE) will hold an open house and forum at the Grand Forks Herald Community Room on Oct. 17 from 7-9 p.m.

The forum is open to the public, but is geared to current and retired Federal employees. A speaker will explain the do's and don'ts of Long Term Care Insurance.

LYLE KENNER
For Minnesota State Senate District 1
Why Repeal the Profile of Learning?
This is what teachers are saying to me about the Profile of Learning
• Whoever wrote this material obviously is not a teacher, because I have to redesign it to make it work
- Lincoln High School
• I think it is a 'joke' (educationally) It creates a lot of paper work, which sometimes is falsified so that we can move on.
- Roseau High School
• The Profile wastes classroom time It is liberal social engineering.
- Karlstad High School
• If you get rid of the Profile of Learning I will vote for you
- Newfolden High School
My opponent has voted repeatedly to keep the Profile of Learning.
Why isn't he listening to these teachers?
I hear them and as your State Senator I will fight to repeal the Profile of Learning.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Who are the judges we're being asked to vote for

By now everyone should know that a major election date is fast approaching.

During the next few weeks, I may be mentioning some of the candidates who have visited northwestern Minnesota. Let's be clear, these are not endorsements. I have two goals. The first goal is to inform the voters of who they will have an opportunity to vote for in November. The second goal, is to alert voters to the candidates who made an effort to visit northwestern Minnesota. That's all.

Despite all the attention politics is getting in the media these days, there may be times when we approach the ballot box not knowing who is running for office. From the individuals I've visited with, this is more true of the candidates running for judicial seat than any other office.

In November, voters will be asked to vote on nine races in the Ninth Judicial District. Seven of the races are filled by candidates who are running unopposed, and all of the unopposed candidates are incumbents. Voters also will see an abbreviation after the name. For example, John R. Solien's name will be followed by a designation of J3. The designation stands for the location where the individual will serve. I knew a few of the judges and where they work, but I had to call the Ninth Judicial District's main office to find out what the other designations meant. I've added that to my list of candidates.

The unchallenged candidates running for Ninth Judicial District Judge include: John R. Solien, J3, Aitkin County; Charles H. LeDuc II, J6, Koochiching County; Donald J. Aandal, J8, Marshall County; Michael Kraker, J11, Mahnomen County; J.D. Mondry, J14, Hubbard County; David J. Ten Eyck, J21, Crow Wing County; and Kurt Marben, J22, Polk County.

By now you may be asking, "Just how big is the Ninth Judicial District?" It covers 17 counties, which brings up another question, or two: "why do we have to vote for judges who live and work in distant counties? We don't know who they are, and may very well never know who they are, or have any contact with them, so why should we have to vote for a judge, who for example, is living and working in Aitkin County?"

I think those are fair, and good questions.

I can only offer that on occasion, a judge from a different district will travel to Pennington County, for example, to cover for a judge on leave, vacation, or who has a conflict of interest in a case. Since this is an editorial, perhaps we can suggest that for the purposes of voting that the 17-county district be divided into subdistricts, much like school districts.

Who are the candidates in districts where there's a challenger?

There are two races where there are multiple candidates. In J4 (Cass County), Ted Lundrigan and David F. Harrington are running against each other. I didn't receive any information about either candidate. As a general policy, The Times doesn't print letters from individuals endorsing candidates. That's a policy we started before I worked here. I think we don't run endorsement letters because it would be so difficult for one individual to do his or her duties at the newspaper and keep on top of how many letters were received and make sure that the coverage is "balanced and fair." At this juncture, however, because we didn't receive any information from either candidate, I feel I must state that I received an endorsement letter in this race from Retired District Judge Warren A. Saetre, who supported Ted Lundrigan.

The other office where there is a challenge is in J12 (Itasca County) where David G. Kuduk and Lois J. Lang are running for the same office. Both candidates, or their representatives, stopped by The Times and dropped off information.

David G. Kuduk has practiced law for 30 years with a strong emphasis on civil trial work. He is a 1969 graduate of St. John's University and a 1972 graduate of the University of Minnesota Law School. For the past 10 years he has been the managing attorney of the Grand Rapids Legal Aid Office, and has been involved in his community. Kuduk and his wife Cathleen have two adult daughters. He also is an honorably discharged Captain in the United States Army. In his press release, Kuduk said, "the court system needs to be organized and run to assure maximum access and fair results for all persons – I believe I can make that happen."

Lois J. Lang was the first woman ever appointed to the Ninth Judicial District trial court bench. After her appointment, she won an election in 1996. From 1997 to 2001, she served as assistant chief judge and chief judge of the Ninth Judicial District. Her responsibilities included, but were not limited to, personnel, budgets and judicial assignments. She is a member of numerous professional organizations.

Lang grew up on a farm near Henning. In 1976 she received a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Minnesota. In 1979, she graduated from the University of Minnesota Law School. Prior to being appointed to a judgeship, she practiced law in Bemidji, where she focused on civil, family and probate cases. Today, she lives in Grand Rapids.

There you have about as much as I can squeeze into an editorial about the candidates running for election in the Ninth Judicial District.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively: letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Rydell National Wildlife Refuge to dedicate "Jayzebo" on October 12

On October 12 at 2 p.m., the Rydell National Wildlife Refuge (RNWR) will dedicate the "Jayzebo," as coined by Jay Johnson's friends. The "Jay-zebo" was built to honor Johnson for his work at the RNWR as a volunteer and board member. Johnson helped ensure that the refuge is one of the most accessible in the system. He was also instrumental in assisting with the passage of a Minnesota legislative bill, which helped fund RNWR access improvements.

The public is invited to attend the dedication. For more information, contact the RNWR at 1-800-841-0172 or Options at 1-800-726-3692. The RNWR is located near Erskine.

From Mentor, take Highway 2 and drive approximately 2.5 miles east. Turn south on County road 210 (white barn and Rydell Refuge sign) and drive approximately 2.5 miles on the curvy, gravel road.

High school tennis...

TRF will have three players competing in 8AA tournament

Singles player Eryn Clow and a doubles entry of Stacia Kalinoski-Kara Larson will represent Thief River Falls at the 2002 Section 8AA girls high school tennis tournament.

The trio extended their season with top-four finishes during the North Sub-Section 8AA tournament individual competition Wednesday at the Grand Forks (N.D.) Tennis Centre.

Clow, a senior, reached the singles finals with a first round bye, a 6-3, 6-0 quarterfinal victory over Kelsie Parrish of Brainerd and a 6-0, 6-0 semifinal win over Alison Hedman of Moorhead.

Kim Lindblom of Fergus Falls stopped Clow in the championship match 6-1, 6-3.

Lindblom and Clow were seeded 1-2, respectively, going into the tournament.

Kalinoski-Larson also carried a No. 2 seed in the doubles portion of the tournament. They received a first round bye and beat Lisa Henriges-Cindy Ask of Detroit Lakes 6-1, 6-2 in the quarterfinals. Third-seeded Sara Berg-Sarah Murphy of Bemidji defeated the Thief River Falls tandem 6-4, 6-1 in the semifinals.

In an all-Bemidji final, No. 1-seeded Melissa Fogelson-Lindsey Folkert defeated Berg-Murphy 6-3, 6-2.

Kalinoski-Larson finished with a 6-2, 6-2 third place victory over Laurie Verant-Emily Brand of Alexandria.

Senior Katie Schommer, Thief River Falls' second singles entry, was eliminated with a first round loss.

A pair of seniors forming the Prowlers' No. 2 doubles team – Maggie Stock-Kelsie Christensen – opened the tournament with a first round win, but were ousted in the quarterfinals.

State-qualifying Section 8AA individual tournament will be played Wednesday in Grand Forks.

Bears shut down MCC offense 15-5, 15-0, 15-0

Lake of the Woods out-scored Marshall County Central 45-5 Tuesday in high school volleyball at Baudette.

The Bears overwhelmed the Nordics 15-5, 15-0, 15-0.

Marshall County Central coach Missy Foslien was not happy with her team's performance. "We did not show up to play," she said. "They (Bears) have a good team, but we did not do anything."

Producing just five points in a match doesn't put many numbers in the scoring column, acknowledged Foslien. The only statistical figures registered by the 4-14 Nordics were two kills by Jordan Holthusen and three assists for Shantel Magner.

Kristen Venek came up with this serve reception bump to get the Thief River Falls offense started during Tuesday's high school volleyball match against Fergus Falls. The Otters came from behind to beat the Prowlers 3-2.

Otters' rally results in win vs. Prowlers

It's been a reoccurring problem, but Thief River Falls' inability to follow up a strong start might have produced the Prowlers' toughest loss of the 2002 high school volleyball season Tuesday.

Fergus Falls came from behind to win the North Sub-Section 8AAA encounter 6-15, 7-15, 15-9, 15-6, 15-4.

The Prowlers have won just twice in 23 starts, but they put together some of their best volleyball of the fall in winning Games 1 and 2.

Plagued by problems at the net, Fergus Falls' only lead in the opener came at 1-0. It ended with a back-row hit by Katie Olson that was tipped at the net and fell in.

Momentum followed the Prowlers into Game 2 as they continued to turn Fergus Falls' shaky front row play into a 6-0 lead that evolved into a 14-1 cushion.

But that's when the trouble began, according to Thief River Falls head coach Erika Ramstorf, who watched the Otters score six straight points before Olson and Jasmyn Barth combined on a double-block for the game-winner.

"We got stuck at 14 in the second game," Ramstorf mentioned. "That seemed to start things. I don't know if we got into a comfort zone or what, but Fergus Falls picked things up. They made a lot of mistakes at the net in the first two games, but they played a lot better at the end."

Thief River Falls tried to complete the sweep in Game 3 with 6-2 and 7-3 leads. But a Fergus Falls combination of Tanya Hensch at the net and Becca Hegstad in the back row fueled the Otters' comeback that put the visitors ahead 8-7 on a drive by Katie Shalkoski.

The Prowlers stayed within 11-9 until a final four-point sequence that included an ace by Brittany Schultz, a block by Hensch, a kill by Chris Hystead and another ace by Schultz to finish it.

Fergus Falls dominated play after that. The Otters scored the first seven points in Game 4 and wiped out an early 2-0 Game 5 deficit by out-scoring the Prowlers 15-2 the rest of the way. It ended on an ace by Shalkoski.

"It was a tough loss," acknowledged Ramstorf. "It's just hard for us to finish it."

The Prowlers close out their regular season schedule at home Tuesday vs. Roseau.

Thief River Falls won the junior varsity match 15-13, 15-6. Fergus Falls took the C squad encounter 15-7, 18-16.

Scoring

■ Kills - (TRF) Katie Olson 11, Melissa Skjerven 10, (FF) Tanya Hensch 13, Katie Shalkoski 7.

■ Assists - (TRF) Kayla Loe 10, Kayla Haule 7, (FF) Becca Hegstad 18, Joe Gillaspey 8.

■ Aces - (TRF) Jamie Dahlen 2, Katie Olson 2, (FF) Brittany Schultz 4, Becca Hegstad 4.

Bemidji takes title in North 8AA team play

■ Jacks beat Prowlers in finals

Thief River Falls reached the North Sub-Section 8AA girls high school tennis team tournament finals for the fourth time in six years Tuesday, but for the third time since 1999, the Prowlers had to settle for second place following a 5-2 title match loss at the hands of Bemidji.

The Lumberjacks swept all four singles matches and added a win at No. 3 doubles.

Thief River Falls championship match points came from the doubles combinations of Kara Larson-Stacia Kalinoski and Kelsey Christensen-Maggie Stock.

The No. 2-seeded Prowlers shut out No. 7 Detroit Lakes 7-0 in the morning quarterfinals and handled No. 6 Moorhead 6-1 in the afternoon semifinals to reach the finals that night. The top-seeded Lumberjacks received a first round by and beat No. 4 Fergus Falls 6-1 in the semifinals.

"Our kids played their hearts out," reported Thief River Falls coach Troy Hanestad. "Our efforts in all three matches were outstanding. Moorhead played very well upsetting No. 3 Alexandria in the quarterfinals, and they gave us some problems in the semifinals. But a couple of our girls pulled out big wins."

Thief River Falls beat Bemidji 4-3 in the 1997 North Sub-Section 8AA finals, then lost a 7-0 state tournament-qualifying Section 8AA championship match to St. Cloud Tech. The Prowlers were back in the sub-section finals in 1999 and 2001, but lost to Bemidji 5-2 and 6-1, respectively.

Bemidji spoiled Thief River Falls' line-up stacking championship match strategy by coming up with a win by Bekki Rasmussen-Maria Smith at No. 3 doubles – a victory that also led to a Melissa Fogelson victory over the Prowlers' Eryn Clow at No. 1 singles.

"Our kids felt great going into the final with Bemidji," said Hanestad. "We tried to load up our doubles teams to get three wins, and then we were hoping the team match would come down to Eryn's match at No. 1 singles."

But the Rasmussen-Smith decision sealed the outcome and Fogelson produced the final point spread with an eight-game pro-set decision over Clow.

"Bemidji's No. 3 doubles team played very well and came up with a big win," acknowledged Hanestad. "Eryn was actually ahead 3-2 in her match at that time, but after learning the team had lost, her match was shortened. I still believe that Eryn would have won if the team result would have been on the line."

Bemidji will meet Litchfield in the 8AA team finals Tuesday.

The Prowlers finished the year with a 12-4 dual meet record, including regular season 6-1 and 5-2 losses to the 16-0 Lumberjacks.

Prowlers top Rams in swim dual

Final home appearance of the 2002 season for the Thief River Falls girls high school swim team will be a Thursday, Oct. 17, dual vs. Perham at the Franklin Middle School pool. Meet time is 5:30 p.m.

The Dawn Couette-coached Prowlers boosted their dual record to 5-1-1 Tuesday with a 118-47 win at Roseau.

Freshman Allyson Helling went long distance to lead the Prowlers, winning both the 200 and 500-yard freestyle races.

Other Thief River Falls individual first place finishes came from senior Brittany Haviland, 100 freestyle; junior Cami Hendrickson, 50 freestyle; eighth grader Tevia Reese, 100 butterfly; and eighth grader April Peterson, 100 backstroke.

The Prowlers also won all three relay races. Helling, Hendrickson, Peterson and Haviland combined to win both the 200 and 400 freestyle events, while Reese, senior Tiffany Sorenson, senior Michelle Johnson and sophomore Jenna Dillon headed the 200 medley relay.

MCC wins with big plays, 54-20

Big plays were turned in by both the offense and defense Tuesday as Marshall County Central rolled to a 54-20 Nine-Man high school football win over East Grand Forks Sacred Heart.

The Nordics racked up some impressive numbers. They rushed for 506 yards and had 603 total offensive yards for the night. Nathan Bennett led the way by going 258 yards on 11 carries. Jacob Anderson added 85 yards on 14 tries, while Louis Peterson netted 84 yards on 14 attempts.

Quarterback Adam Reisen was 3-for-5 passing, adding 97 yards and a pair of touchdown passes to the Marshall County Central offense.

"Offensively we did the things we need to do, mentally," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Scott Parker. "We were sharp. We didn't make the mistakes we've been making. We did a real nice job moving the ball and taking advantage of opportunities; we made the big plays."

Sacred Heart moved the ball, too, with 416 yards of offense.

However, Sacred Heart also lost four fumbles and threw two interceptions. Most of those turnovers were converted into Marshall County Central points.

One of those fumbles ended a first quarter Sacred Heart scoring threat at the Nordics' 7-yard line. Another key Marshall County Central defensive stand came in the second quarter when the Eagles failed to score on four plays from inside the Marshall County Central 10-yard line.

The 4-2 Nordics finish the regular season Monday against Kittson Central.

Stephen-Argyle blanks Blue Devils

Despite being shut out 35-0 by Stephen-Argyle, Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke had reason to be at least partially satisfied with a Tuesday night high school football performance against the state's No. 2-ranked Nine-Man high school football team.

Poor game-opening field position for the Blue Devils led to a touchdown off a blocked punt by the Storm. And it wasn't long after that when Dustin Grabowska and Reece Hendrickson hooked up on a 71-yard touchdown pass for a 14-0 first quarter difference.

It was 21-0 at halftime.

"It might sound funny with the score being 35-0, but it was a very good game," pointed out Blue Devils coach John Wilebski. "We actually moved the ball on them, but the little things kept us out of the end zone. It could have easily been 21-21 or 21-14 at halftime."

Five times Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke moved the ball inside the Stephen-Argyle 12-yard line, only to fall short of the end zone.

The Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke offense netted 215 yards worth of offense, including 169 yards on the ground, where Elroy Johnsrud carried 10 times for 62 yards and Jon Miller rushed 11 times for 61 yards. The Blue Devils were 5-for-10 passing for 46 yards.

Matt Rindahl and Miller were the Blue Devils' defensive stars of the game, according to Wilebski.

The 2-4 Blue Devils will be back in Goodridge Monday for a regular season finale against East Grand Forks Sacred Heart.

Pioneers win two volleyball matches

Host Northland beat both Itasca and Providence Wednesday in college volleyball.

The Pioneers outlasted the Vikings 30-21, 30-25, 31-33, 23-30, 15-12 in a Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division-counting contest to start the night.

Itasca swept Providence 30-25, 30-26 in the second match.

Northland finished with a 30-16, 30-25 victory over the Canadian squad that beat the Pioneers 3-2 a week earlier in Otterburne, Man.

"We didn't play real well the whole match against Itasca," admitted Northland coach Mike Zachow. "Give them (Vikings) credit for hanging in there. They don't have a whole lot left to play for since they can't make the state tournament, but they didn't quit."

Sara Gross played what Zachow described as her best match of the year while registering eight kills and nine digs. Katie Raymond came off the bench in Game 5 and contributed two key service aces.

Christel Berube finished with 14 kills and 12 blocks. Sara Jensen came up with 13 kills and six blocks, while Cindy Lambert collected 30 assists.

There was a dramatic turnaround in the Pioneers' play in th second match of the night, according to Zachow. "We played a lot better," he said. "It was like two different teams out there."

Berube had seven kills and Lambert finished with 10 assists in the short contest.

Results put the Pioneers at 14-12 for the year.

Mustangs shut out by Jaguars 57-0 in Tuesday match-up

Two long touchdown plays – one scored by the defense – broke open what might have been a close first half and NorthStar went on to beat Red Lake County Central 57-0 Tuesday in a Nine-Man high school football game played at Oklee.

The Jaguars came into the game with one loss; the Mustangs had one win.

NorthStar scored just 3 1/2 minutes into the game when Kelvin Johnson broke away on a 69-yard run.

Trailing 15-0, the underdog Mustangs were on the move and threatening to make it a one-touchdown game before halftime when an interception by Brian Hanson was returned 73 yards for a touchdown.

John Folland added a one-yard touchdown run with 35 seconds to play to make it 28-0 at halftime.

"The interception was the back-breaker," said Red Lake County Central coach Gary Brantl, whose team was coming off a 55-6 Thursday loss at the hands of Kittson Central. "We played a lot better on both sides of the ball, but the end results were no different."

Red Lake County Central moved the football, but only between the 20-yard lines, pointed out Brantl. Nick Vettleson carried 25 times for 104 yards and Charlie Magnell netted 73 yards on six attempts for the Mustangs, who finished with 219 yards on 43 running plays. A 4-for-20 passing night added just 29 yards to the offense.

Freshmen ends Jeremiah Willett (5 tackles, 2 assists, 1 sack) and Nathan Whalen (3-2, 1 sack) played solid games on defense, according to Brantl. Vettleson (5-2), Brett Rewertz (4-4) and Wade Longtin (5-1) were also major contributors to the Mustangs' tackle charts.

received $250. Quinn County Community Health Services received $400 to provide "Seeds of Safety" program booklets to area children in second and fifth grades.

Victims of crime will benefit from a $500 grant to the Pennington/Red Lake counties Victim Services. The organizations provide various types of aid to victims of crime. A $400 grant was given to the Red River Valley Emerging Leadership Program that provides leadership training to area ag couples.

First Care Hospice in Thief River Falls received $1,000 for bereavement services for families of deceased clients. A $250 grant was also made to the Pennington County Humane Society.

Directors of the Red Lake Electric Trust, Inc. determine grants of Operation Round Up funds. Directors include Orlan Stolaas of rural Oklee, Joyce Johnson of rural Viking and Terry Weiss of rural Red Lake Falls. Verol Mosbeck and Ron Kennedy of Red Lake Electric Cooperative serve as ex-officio directors.

Grants are determined at semi-annual meetings in March and September. For more information, contact Ron Kennedy at 1-800-245-6068.

A NWI employee removes a board from the company's new beam saw recently.

Technology advances Northern Woodwork

improved its technology and has developed a Web site better able to identify marketing opportunities.

Recently, NWI was recognized for its technology contributions during the "Greater Technology in Greater Minnesota" tour, which runs through the end of 2002. The tour will honor more than 30 companies.

State Representative Maxine Penas (R-Badger), who is running for re-election, and her challenger, Mark Barsheim, toured the company. They also listened to the company's concerns about health care, workers' compensation and Occupational Safety and Health Administration guidelines.

NWI employs 30-35 people. Of those who work full-time for the company, the average length of employment is 15 years.

The company serves Midwestern clients. However, the majority of its work is for Minnesota clients. "I guess three-fourths of our product is going down to southeastern Minnesota," said Dargus. He estimated that one-fourth of their product goes to Bemidji, Minn.; Duluth, Minn.; Fargo, N.D. and Grand Forks, N.D. It has also completed jobs for places in Indiana, Iowa and Wisconsin. One of its jobs was for the University of Notre Dame.

Co-owner Larry Mogen said, "It's highly competitive, but our quality and service have gotten us far."

He added, "We're bidding against people 10 times the size of us in the United States, and we're competitive."

From late 2001 to early 2002, business was at a five-year low for NWI. Along with other U.S. companies, NWI was routinely outbid by a Canadian company. However, business has now increased. Mogen said, "In the last six to eight months, we're at a record high." The company has jobs already scheduled for 2004.

NWI is owned by Dargus, Mogen, Lincoln Olsan, Neil Peterson, Steve Spilde and Corey Teie. The owners currently rent NWI's facility. They will have the option to buy the building in January 2003. Mogen said, "Next year, we'll be looking at where we want to take things." He said the owners want to make the building more useable, which would mean building an addition to the facility. The owners would like to have more space for storage.

Besides working with NWI, MTI has worked with Hamark Company of Red Lake Falls. MTI is the state's technology-based economic development organization, contributing to the growth of Minnesota's economy through technology. It serves area businesses from offices in 17 locations throughout Minnesota. MTI has a 10-year return-on-investment track record of adding more than $600 million to 4,600 Greater Minnesota companies' bottom lines. It has helped manufacturing, technology, electronics and life-science companies.

Gusa is "Ageless Hero"

told staff the reason for Gusa's departure.

Besides weaving rugs, Gusa also knits. He has been knitting longer than most people have been alive. His mother taught him to knit 75 years ago. Gusa said he learned how to knit, so that he would have wool socks in the winter. Now, Gusa knits mittens, and knitting mittens for his 16 grandchildren and 16 great grandchildren keeps him busy.

He has also knitted mittens for other people. When Gusa arrived at the Mall of America to receive his award, he gave one of the judges a pair of mittens.

In addition, Gusa creates intricate art pieces with wood. His room is filled with many of his creations. However, most of his creations are located elsewhere. If they were with him at Valley Home, Gusa said he would not be able to move around.

By doing these things, this ageless hero and craftsman has engaged many in creating memories that will survive for lifetimes. This is his legacy.

afford to spay or neuter all the animals, but it is a major goal of theirs to be able to do so someday. For now, PCHS offers certificates to those who have a adopted a pet that hasn't been spayed or neutered. The certificates give reduced rates on spaying and neutering so the new owners can afford to have it done.

Some of the volunteers at PCHS also work with the city pound. The city pound picks up lost animals and keeps them for a specified amount of time. PCHS makes an effort to get people to identify and pick up their pets before their time limit is up and they are destroyed.

Thief River Falls contracts with other counties such as Marshall, Red Lake, Roseau and Kittson. Kaste says people don't understand that if they live in Warren and they've lost their pet, it could easily be in Thief River Falls. Most residents in the surrounding area don't realize that lost pets can be found here, and they should not assume "they are just gone for good," Kaste says. The city pound is located on the north end of Horace Avenue and is open on Tuesday evenings and Saturday mornings.

PCHS is located on Highway 59 South. Those who wish to donate cans can drop them off at Evans Steel Co. or Phillips Iron & Metal, both in Thief River Falls, or at Howell Steel & Recycling in Roseau and let them know the cans are being donated to the Cans for Canines program. Cans can also be dropped off at the can drive on November 22 in the Hugo's parking lot. If you cannot drop your cans off, call PCHS and they can arrange to have them picked up. For more information about the Cans for Canines program, information about volunteering or to have cans picked up, call the Pennington County Humane Society at (218) 681-8045.

Seamless Aluminum Guttering
Heating, Air Conditioning
378-4641 378-4585

Our Seamless gutters are manufactured from 032 gauge pre-painted aluminum, the heaviest gauge used in the industry. If your home is 20 feet or 200 feet in length our seamless gutter is made in one continuous length, eliminating any joints or seams in the middle. Inquire before you purchase "Seamless Gutter" about the thickness of the material used and be certain that it is made in one continuous length.
Seamless gutter is formed, cut and installed on site by a two man crew saving on labor cost. Freight charges are eliminated. Waste is almost unheard of due to gutter being measured and cut on site to exact lengths. No need to store left over ends and ends that get damaged before they can be used. Most jobs can be completed the same day. Call us for complete information and free estimates of your job at no obligation to you.

Extension service holds Regional Food Day on Oct. 29

The University of Minnesota Extension Service will be sponsoring Regional Food Day - the Diet Disease Connection on October 29. The program will be offered via live satellite in the Pennington County Courthouse Boardroom, Thief River Falls, from 6-9 p.m.

The live satellite conference originates at the North Mankato Technical College and has been offered in south central Minnesota for over 10 years. The annual event features current research-based information on topics of nutrition, health and physical activity. This is the first year the program is being made available statewide by satellite broadcast.

The 2002 Regional Food Day program features presentations on functional foods, Type 2 Diabetes, heart disease management and Be Active Minnesota. Be Active Minnesota is a new program by the Minnesota Department of Health. The program will be unveiled at Regional Food Day and promises to offer simple and fun ways to get everyone stretching and moving.

For the event, registration is necessary and due by Oct 23. The fee is $10 per person. For registration and/or more information, contact Glenice Johnson, Pennington County Extension Office, at (218) 683-7030 or Sharon O'Gorman, Regional Extension Educator-Health and Nutrition, at (218) 847-9224. Clock hours or attendance certificates will be available upon request.

FSA wants people for committee

Farm Service Agency (FSA) is looking for people to serve on the FSA farmer-elected committee. Individuals serving on the farmer-elected committee would be individuals who want to help out, get involved, and work to help others in the business of agriculture in our community.

The FSA would like to have more than a couple of farmers to pitch in now and then. They want people who know the business of farming, are farming new or different crops, and individuals who can bring a different perspective to the USDA's work in the area.

If you know someone who might be interested in working on the farmer-elected FSA county committee – or if you would personally like to help – get in touch with the local FSA office.

It's your business, and it's your community.

Want to Rent

WE ARE a young, professional couple with a child who are looking for a home to rent in the city limits of Thief River Falls. We recently accepted a position with Arctic Cat, Inc. and will ed relocating to the area near the end of October. If you have an upper end, three or four bedroom home with a garage and are interested in renters for a long term lease, please contact us. If you were considering selling your home, maybe a long term lease with excellent renters would be a potential alternative. We will be in TRF from Saturday, October 5th through Monday, October 7th looking at residences for rent. Our cell phone number is 300-961-3082 and our email address is Seth_Clamane@yahoo.com.

UMC to Host Equestrian Competition October 12-13

The Intercollegiate Horse Show Association (IHSA) Riding Team at the University of Minnesota, Crookston (UMC) will serve as the host for a Western riding competition October 12-13. The two-day event will be held at the University Teaching and Outreach Center (UTOC) Arena, on the north end of the campus. The competition begins at 1:00 p.m. Saturday, October 12, and continues at 9:00 a.m. on Sunday, October 13. The event is free and open to the public.

Equestrian teams from Saint Cloud State University, the University of Wisconsin-River Falls, the University of Wisconsin-Madison, South Dakota State University and the University of Nebraska-Lincoln will compete with UMC's team in the area of Western equitation. These teams comprise Zone 9, Region 3 of the IHSA.

UMC has been a member of the IHSA organization since 1996. UMC's riding teams have been strong competitors at the zone level and have sent several members on to national competition over the past six years.

IHSA competition provides supplemental riding opportunities for students enrolled in UMC's Equine Industries Management degree program as well as for other majors on the campus. UMC is one of the few schools in the nation to provide such a specialized equine science program.

For more information, contact Dawn Sherwood, Assistant Professor of Equine Science, at (218) 281-8109, or refer to the UMC IHSA Team web page at http://webhome.crk.umn.edu/clubs/IHSAteam/.

Disability accommodations are available upon request and can be made by calling (218) 281-8587.

Benefit for Jim Weckworth this Sunday at Legion

Everyone is invited to come watch the Vikings game with Jim Weckworth this Sunday, October 13 from 12 noon to 6 p.m. at the Thief River Falls American Legion.

Cheeseburgers and fries will be served with a free-will offering. The benefit is being sponsored by the Sons of the Legion and Four Town Grygla Sportsman Club.

TRF police investigating possible fraud

In the past week, numerous residents of Thief River Falls have reported to police that they have been receiving calls from an individual asking for information about their bank accounts.

The Thief River Falls Police department reminds residents not to give out any personal information over the telephone, especially bank account numbers. Police are looking into the claims made by the individual who represented himself as a representative of Global Buying Group of Atlanta, Ga. In addition, anyone with any information about Global Buying Group is asked to contact the Thief River Falls Police Department at 681-6161.

Results not good enough

Red Lake Falls - Based on a number of complaints, the Red Lake County Sheriff's Department initiated alcohol compliance checks in Red Lake County last Tuesday. That compliance check revealed five out of nine, 60 percent, off-sale liquor stores sold alcohol to minors.

"The 60 percent failure rate indicates a problem," said Red Lake County Sheriff Les Arlt.

Two 19-year-olds were taken to the off-sale liquor stores and instructed to buy 12-packs of beer. Only minors who were asked for their identification were refused the sale, no false identification was presented.

Because this is a first offense for the businesses, each store owner will be issued a warning. The sheriff and the chief deputy will work closely with businesses to educate them and their sales staff to prevent future underage sales. - Red Lake Falls Gazette, October 16, 2002

Chase bags drunk driver

Fosston - A high speed chase Sunday, Oct. 13 around 2 a.m., started in Clearwater County and ended near McIntosh. Although speeds reached were in excess of 100 miles per hour, no injuries were incurred.

Kevin Barsch, 28, of McIntosh led about nine squad cars from Clearwater County, Polk County and the McIntosh Police Department in hot pursuit.

Barsch had been approached in Bagley by Clearwater County officers due to erratic driving and had taken off. He now faces felony fleeing charges as well as felony driving while intoxicated charges. - The 13 Towns of Fosston, October 15, 2002

City mulls over inspections

Warren - Annual inspection of rental residential property in Warren is being formally considered after a discussion of the matter at the city council meeting Tuesday night.

City Clerk/Treasurer Robert Brooks, who presented the idea, said the purpose of inspections would be to ensure structures with rental units comply with the city building code. He said that in the past there have been instances when some rental units have been allowed by landlords to deteriorate and become a possible hazard to tenants.

The matter was referred to the council's finance and budget committee. - Warren Sheaf, October 16, 2002

Firefighters get federal funding

Newfolden - Senator Paul Wellstone announced $41,806 in federal funding for the Newfolden Fire Department. The funding was awarded as part of the Assistance to Firefighters Grant Program, administered by the U.S. Fire Administration, a part of the Federal Emergency Management Administration. These funds will be used for fire operations and firefighter safety training. - The Messenger of Marshall County, October 17, 2002

An Unanticipated Gift

Swensons donate home to Northland

College begins looking at many possible uses for the large home

by David Hill
Editor

Lowell and Marjorie Swenson have donated their home in Thief River Falls to Northland Community and Technical College.

During a press conference Thursday morning, Northland Community and Technical College Dr. Orley Gunderson called the gift of the house unbelievable. Gunderson had only been aware of the Swenson's desire to donate the house to the college last week. "This is a tremendous and unanticipated gift – a lasting legacy of the partnership between the Swenson family and Northland College," said Gunderson.

Gunderson said that the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities board of trustees had approved the gift to the college, making the endowment official.

When asked why he would donate his house to the college, Lowell Swenson said, "love of the college and the community. It's that simple."

The 12,000 square-foot home was constructed in 1991 on 3.5 acres of land. It sits on the banks of the Red Lake river and is adjacent to the confluence of the Red Lake and Thief rivers. It is located just south of the college and next to Centennial Park at 1020 Centennial Drive. It has seven bedrooms, eight bathrooms, a swimming pool, an elevator, a large living area, large kitchen and a large recreation room. According to records of the Pennington County assessor, the assessed valuation of the house is set at $600,000, but it is widely considered much more valuable, even in the millions.

Dr. Gunderson said there are many different values, but the college has not determined its exact value. He said its intrinsic value is inestimable.

Lowell Swenson and his late wife Marge, have been long-time supporters of the college. Dr. Gunderson said the Swensons had lived in Thief River Falls since the 1960s. Lowell served in the the United States Air Force during World War II. He is a founder of Arctic Cat and was involved in Northwest Airlines. Dr. Gunderson said that the Swensons have made numerous gifts to the community. In 1978, the Swensons established a trust for the AVTI in Thief River Falls and since then, thousands of students have benefited from their generosity. The Swensons are also charter members of Northland Foundation. In March of 2002, Lowell married a childhood friend.

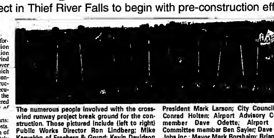
In 1991, Lowell and Marjorie Swenson constructed this home on the banks of the Red Lake river in Thief River Falls. On Thursday, it was announced that they have donated it to Northland Community and Technical College. Uses for the home are still being discussed.

TRF breaks ground for crosswind runway



$3.8 million project in Thief River Falls to begin with pre-construction efforts this fall

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

On Wednesday, city officials formally accepted a $3.36 million Federal Aviation Administration grant for the airport's crosswind runway project. The grant will cover Phase I of the project, which includes the crosswind runway construction, parallel taxiway construction, land acquisition and deer/security fencing. It will fund 90% of the costs, and the rest will be covered by the city and state. The cost of Phase I is $3.81 million.

The grant consists of two parts: airport development and land costs. The airport development portion of the grant amounts to approximately $3.3 million, and the land costs portion is approximately $63,500.

The city's portion of the project is $381,000. Jobs, Incorporated has provided the city with $180,000 toward the project. As a result, the city will be responsible for paying $200,000 toward the project.

So far, the city has already spent approximately $350,000 to finance the project, according to Lindberg. The money financed a justification and needs study, an environmental assessment and design engineering. However, Lindberg said that the city will receive a 90% reimbursement of that money from the grant.

As a result, Lindberg said, "Now we'll have monies to pay the contractor as he starts the construction process." The city will also be reimbursed by passenger facility charges or ticket taxes, which would amount to approximately $380,000.

Davidson Construction Company of Holt is the contractor. Lindberg noted that the consultant will be scheduling a pre-construction meeting within the next two or three weeks with the city and contractor. Soon after that time, Lindberg anticipates that the contractor will begin clearing wooded areas and constructing drainage ditches to allow for an early 2003 construction start.

Phase II of the project includes runway lighting, taxiway lighting and the rest of the land acquisition. For Phase II, the total estimated cost is $900,000. Providing that the city receives 90% of the cost through a federal grant, Phase II could also begin in the spring of 2003.

It was an exciting day for the Torgerson children. On Sept. 14, the children, Mariah, age 10, Kaleb, age 8, and Jordan, age 13, participated in Youth Waterfowl Hunt Day. Each got their goose. It was Mariah's and Kaleb's first hunt. Of the three geese taken, Mariah's weighed the most at 12 pounds. The three were hunting with their father Mike Torgerson in a stubble field between Ditch 20 and Ditch 200 in Agder Township, Marshall County. (Submitted photo)

Youth hunt creates memories children will cherish for years

by David Hill
Editor

Before the glowing hint of daylight announced the start of a new day, Mike Torgerson was rousting his children out of warm beds. It was not your typical morning routine, however, and the children quickly dressed and headed out the door with him.

"It went exactly they way it's supposed to," said Torgerson.

He explained that the night before the four of them, his two sons and one daughter, scouted an area and found out where the geese were coming in to feed. Torgerson then contacted the renter and then landowner to get permission to hunt on the field the next day. The next day dawned bright and warm. While that may not exactly be what most waterfowl hunters want, it's a good thing when you're hunting with children on Youth Waterfowl Hunting Day.

Minnesota's 2002 Youth Waterfowl Hunting Day was held Saturday, Sept. 14. Torgerson and his children were among the many individuals participating in Minnesota's Youth Waterfowl Hunting Day.

The youth hunt day is very popular with youngsters, said Paul Telander, area wildlife manager at Thief Lake Wildlife Refuge.

Telander said there were about 30 children on the lake hunting with a parent or [illegible] guardian that day. Telander feels youth hunt day provides an excellent opportunity for children to learn about hunting. In this setting, the youth aren't competing with adults and the adults can help the youth focus on safety and on developing their skills.

> "I can't say enough about how excellent the day is." – John Williams, wildlife manager

John Williams, area wildlife manager in Thief River Falls, said the children generally do very well. This past event was not as good as in past years due to spring rains flooding nests, but the youth still did very well, anyway.

It was an excellent day for the Torgersons too. Even before they were out of the decoys the first two geese glided into their set.

Jordan, age 13, was the first to bag a goose. He then sat in the decoys and called for his sister Mariah and brother Kaleb.

Mariah wasn't too keen on it at first, said Mike, [illegible] Mike's youngest, Kaleb, shot she decided it was okay. All three children claimed a goose that day and all within an hour. The biggest goose, which was taken by Mariah, weighed 12 pounds.

Mike said the kids were real excited about the hunt, but he was probably even a little more excited for them. The proud father took the

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

This casserole tastes just like lasagna. It is from Myrtle Tydlacka's cookbook:

SUPER SUPPER CASSEROLE
1 (8 ounce) package noodles
2 tablespoons butter
1-1/2 pounds ground beef
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper
1/4 teaspoon garlic salt
1 (8 ounce) can tomato sauce
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 cup creamed cottage cheese
6 green onions, chopped
3/4 cup grated sharp American cheese

Cook noodles until tender. Drain and rinse with cold water.

Melt butter in skillet. Add meat and cook until it is no longer red. Mix in salt, pepper, garlic salt and tomato sauce. Simmer gently about 5 minutes. Remove from heat.

Combine cottage cheese, sour cream, onions and noodles. Alternate layers of noodles with meat mixture in 2 quart, greased casserole. Top with grated cheese.

Bake at 350 degrees about 30 minutes until brown on top. Serves 6-8 people.

Have a light green lettuce salad with the hearty hot dish above, and top it with this special homemade dressing that was also in Myrtle's cookbook:

THOUSAND ISLAND DRESSING
1 small onion
1 green pepper
1/2 bottle sweet pickle relish
1/2 cup sliced olives
1 quart salad dressing
1 bottle chili sauce
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash of Tabasco sauce
Pinch of salt

Drain sweet pickle relish and olives well. Grind onion and green pepper. Add relish and olives, along with salad dressing, chili sauce, Worcestershire, Tabasco and then salt to taste.

I don't know how well these muffins will go with the lasagna above, but they'll be great for breakfast. They taste like jelly donuts with a nutty topping – eat and enjoy:

CHERRY ALMOND MUFFINS
1-3/4 cups flour
1/2 cup plus 1 tablespoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup cold butter or margarine
1 egg
3/4 cup sour cream
1 teaspoon almond extract
Topping:
1/3 cup flour
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons cold butter or margarine
1/3 cup chopped sliced almonds
Filling:
1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese, softened
1 egg
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
3/4 cup cherry preserves, warmed

In bowl, combine flour, sugar, baking powder, soda and salt. Cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs.

Beat egg, sour cream and almond extract until smooth. Stir into dry ingredients just until moistened. Batter will be thick.

For topping, combine flour and sugar in small bowl. Cut in butter until crumbly, then stir in almonds. Set aside.

For filling, in another bowl beat cream cheese, egg, sugar and vanilla until smooth.

Fill greased muffin cups half full of batter. Divide cream cheese filling and preserves between all muffin cups and swirl gently. Cover with remaining batter and then sprinkle with topping.

Bake at 350 degrees for 20-25 minutes or until muffins test done. Cool for 5 minutes before removing from pans to wire racks.

Makes 7 jumbo muffins or 14 regular sized. (Bake jumbo muffins 30-35 minutes.)

Make a big, delicious chocolate cake for that bunch this weekend – bet you have all the ingredients on hand, too:

CHOCOLATE BUNDT CAKE
1 cup salad dressing*
1 cup water
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups flour
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cocoa
2 teaspoons soda
1/4 teaspoon salt

In mixing bowl, combine salad dressing, water and vanilla. Combine flour, sugar, cocoa, soda and salt. Add to salad dressing mixture and beat until mixed.

Place in greased and floured bundt pan (pan will not be full). Bake 35 to 40 minutes at 350 degrees until toothpick inserted near center comes out clean.

- Cool 10 minutes in pan, then remove to wire rack. Dust with confectioner's sugar or drizzle with chocolate glaze, if desired.

*Miracle Whip salad dressing is best. DO NOT use light or fat-free salad dressing.

This delicious fall dessert is for those of you who are watching your diets:

PUMPKIN CHIFFON PIE
2 3/4 cups cold skim milk
2 (1.5 ounces - each) packages instant sugar-free vanilla pudding mix
1 (15 ounce) can solid pack pumpkin
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1/4 teaspoon cloves
1 reduced fat graham cracker crust (9 inches)
Light frozen whipped topping and additional cinnamon, if desired

Combine milk and pudding mix. Beat 1 minute (mixture will be thick).
Add pumpkin and spices and beat 1 minute longer. Pour into pie crust. Cover and refrigerate 2 hours or until firm.

To serve, garnish with whipped topping sprinkled with cinnamon, if desired.

TRF to celebrate Manufacturers and Technology Week Oct. 21-25

Thief River Falls will be celebrating Manufacturers and Technology Week October 21-25. Manufacturing and Technology Week is designed to showcase Minnesota's diverse manufacturing and technology industries and to increase legislative and public awareness of the importance in providing high-wage, high-skilled jobs for our communities.

The Thief River Falls community will celebrate Manufacturers and Technology Week with media interviews with manufacturing personnel and a "Salute to Manufacturers" breakfast and program. The breakfast and program will be held at the Evergreen Eating Emporium on Tuesday, October 22 at 7:30 a.m. The cost is $6 per person. For reservations, contact the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce at 681-3720.

The above events are sponsored by the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce, Minnesota Workforce Center, Northland Community and Technical College Center for Outreach and Innovation, Jobs Inc., First National Bank, Northern State Bank, Wells Fargo Bank, Red Lake County State Bank and Red Lake Electric Cooperative.

Johnson Family to perform at Faith Lutheran Brethren Church

The Johnson Family Singers, from Willmar, Minn., will be in concert at 7 p.m. Sunday, October 20 at Faith Lutheran Brethren Church.

Together with five of their six children, John and Cherie Johnson sing contemporary Christian and Southern gospel music. Before the program, a soup and sandwich supper will be served at 6 p.m. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Extension Service to hold slow-cooker safety workshop

What is better than coming home this fall and winter to a house filled with wonderful smells and dinner ready for the table? Learn how to use a slow-cooker or crock pot safely by attending the workshop, Cooking Safely in the Slow Cooker. The workshop will be held on November 1 at 9:30 a.m. at the Pennington County Courthouse Meeting Room in Thief River Falls. The presenter will be Regional Extension Educator Carol Ann Burtness.

None of us have a lot of time on our hands, and this appliance is one of the best time-saving appliances in the kitchen. The workshop, sponsored by the University of Minnesota Extension Service of Pennington County, will help you use the slow-cooker or crock pot to create tasty and nutritious meals. Learn how to use food safety skills to create safe meals using slow-cooking techniques. The selection and care of slow-cooking appliances will also be addressed. Attending this workshop will motivate you to use your slow-cooker every week for safe and healthy meals.

This workshop is open to anyone. For further information, contact the Pennington County Extension Office at (218) 683-7030.

This workshop will be presented at the following sites throughout northwest Minnesota. Feel free to attend the workshop closest to you:

-On October 30 at 9:30 a.m. in the Roseau County Courthouse Meeting Room, Roseau.

-On October 31 at 9:30 a.m. in the Kittson County Courthouse Meeting Room, Hallock.

-On October 31 at 1:30 p.m. in the Marshall County Courthouse Meeting Room, Warren.

-On November 1 at 2 p.m. at the Municipal Building Auditorium, McIntosh.

In Loving Memory of Morgan McAnnany
who passed away one year ago, October 27, 2001

God Saw she was getting tired, and a cure was not to be.
So he put his arms around her,
and whispered, "Come with me."
In tears we watched her suffer, and saw her fade away.
Although we loved her dearly,
we could not make her stay.
A heart of gold stopped beating, talented hands now rest.
God broke our hearts to prove to us,
He only takes the best.
Dearly loved and sadly missed by all her family and friends.

EDUCATION

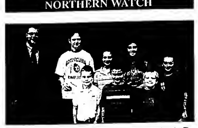
DFL ENDORSED

The House Republicans and Gov. Ventura passed the General Education Levy Takeover, transferring state money to local school districts. Most people thought this was a good deal, treating children equally and funding education fairly.

But the result was far from fair. Some school districts won big and got a fat check from the state, and some districts were forced to skinny down and live on less.

Who won and who lost?

The Big Winners:		The Big Losers?
Edina	$515.89	Roseau	$ 72.36
Minnetonka	$318.01	TRF	$101.39
Wayzata	$529.62	GB/MR	$ 50.70
	per capita	Badger	$ 41.85
		Warroad	$102.55
			per capita



The Republican House passed this legislation which is fundamentally unfair to Greater Minnesota. Rural school districts received less, while the rich suburbs received hundreds of dollars extra per student.

Unlike his opponent, Mark will fight for District 1A instead of voting for bills that are totally unfair to Northwest Minnesota!

Elect Mark Borsheim
Minnesota House of Representatives
District 1A

These Goodridge School students won $25 savings bonds. The students participated in the school's summer reading program and won the savings bonds in a raffle. They read at least 20 minutes for 20 days of each summer month. Savings bond winners include (front row) Matthew Henson, Sean Farris, Nick Shaska, Alex Wisath; (back row) Keyla Thareldson, Rachel Nelson and Beth Phillipp. Travis Kotrba of Northern State Bank (far left) presented the savings bonds to the students.

Pumpkin picking can be fun family outing

Halloween would not be the same festive full celebration without pumpkins. In fact, the process of choosing and carving pumpkins can create a special family tradition that helps you get this kid-friendly holiday off on the right foot.

Pumpkin patches are found throughout Minnesota, with many located at apple orchards and local nurseries. Beyond an assortment of pumpkins and fabulous apples, those orchards with pumpkin patches also feature a mix of farm tours, wagon rides, crop mazes, cider pressing, live-music and other fun outdoor activities for kids of all ages. Numerous locations can be found throughout the state.

Orchards with pumpkin patches offer the widest variety of entertainment options on weekends. However, weekday evenings may allow you to beat the crowds and may offer a shot at picking a better weather day. With a little forethought, there should be plenty of daylight in the next couple weeks for an after-school adventure to remember. "MEA weekend" presents another opportunity for families to plan a Halloween pumpkin picking adventure (MEA is the former term for the Oct. 17-18 Education Minnesota Conference).

To find a pumpkin patch, request a free copy of the Minnesota Grown Directory by calling 612-EXPLORE, or logging on to www.minnesotagrown.com. You can search the guide to find a neighborhood patch or plan a fall-color tour to a scenic location such as the Mississippi or Minnesota River Valleys. The online directory includes phone numbers, maps, links to grower Web sites and more.

If you do not have time for a pumpkin outing, local nurseries, farmers' markets and roadside stands listed in the Directory offer Minnesota grown pumpkins to go. Many also feature affordable and fun fall decorating items like corn shocks, decorative corn, scarecrows and gourds.

For more information on preserving your pumpkin, preparing pumpkin seeds or harvesting squash, log on to the University of Minnesota Extension search page at: http://search.extension.umn.edu/extension/. You can find tips on pumpkin handling on Gertens Greenhouse's homepage at http://www.gertens.com.

Business management forum honors Kolden

Jerod W. Kolden, the Thief River Falls investment representative for the financial services firm Edward Jones, was one of 35 representatives honored at a business management forum in Los Angeles, Calif. The event was held October 2-5.

Kolden was recognized for the excellent business management skills he has demonstrated. In addition to being honored, Kolden met with other Edward Jones investment representatives to share ideas for increasing office efficiency, improving customer service, increasing investment knowledge and expanding his knowledge in the area of estate planning. Edward Jones representatives regularly attend advanced-training seminars and classes, such as this one. The class' sponsor was SunAmerica.

Edward Jones, the only major financial services firm advising individual investors exclusively, traces its roots to 1871 and currently serves nearly five million clients. The firm offers its clients a variety of investments, including certificates of deposit, taxable and non-taxable bonds, stocks and mutual funds.

The largest firm in the country in terms of branch offices, Edward Jones currently has more than 8,100 offices in the United States, Canada and the United Kingdom. By 2003, the firm expects to have 10,000 offices. For more information, see www.edwardjones.com.

Minnesota manufacturers expect stability in 2002

Even as the country's general economic doldrums continue, Minnesota manufacturers say they anticipate stable conditions during the second half of 2002. A survey released today by the Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development (DTEO) reflects slightly improved performance among manufacturers relative to 2001, but most do not expect improved performance in 2002.

The survey, conducted in August and September, found that most manufacturers expected orders, production level, investment and employment to either increase or stay the same during the second half of the year. Although most said they expect little change in most indicators before the end of this year, the percentage expecting declines in these indicators remained largely unchanged from the last survey conducted in April.

"We're not out of the woods yet," said DTED Commissioner Rebecca Yanisch. "But this survey suggests that Minnesota's manufacturers are recovering their equilibrium after the staggering blow they absorbed in the last two years. And even though their overall performance hasn't recovered fully, the manufacturers generally don't expect conditions to decline."

While manufacturers are showing some signs of optimism within their businesses, they are less sanguine about the outlook for the state's broader economic health. The survey revealed pessimism about consumer spending, economic growth and corporate profits - with 47 percent expecting corporate profits to decrease over the last six months of 2002.

"This survey tends to support the conclusions of a similar manufacturing survey last April, which indicated that Minnesota manufacturers have seen better days," said DTED's Analysis and Evaluation Director Bob Isaacson. "I think we can conclude from this new survey that our manufacturers are experiencing a gradual return to economic health, but that most remain cautious about predicting a quick economic turnaround."

Analyze options when choosing Farm Program base acreage

by Fraser Norton, University of Minnesota
Extension Service

The federal 2002 Farm Program provides landowners and producers a onetime opportunity to enroll. This enrollment will determine the level of payments they will receive from now until the end of the 2007 crop year. The owner or owners of a farm have until April 1, 2003 to elect an option that establishes the base acreage for the farm.

"Corn is king" in the new Farm Program, and you will want to choose the option that gives you the most corn base acres. Corn acres pay the best, followed by wheat, soybeans, barley and oats, in that order. Corn will pay about two and one-half times as much as soybeans. You will also want to keep any wheat base you might have. However, you will generally want to replace barley base and always replace oats base with eligible soybean acres.

The five options are:

• Option 1: Retain the current 2002 Production Flexibility Contract (PFC) acreage with no oilseed additions. This option can be used by farms that currently have a 100 percent corn and/or wheat base, or in cases where the 1998-2001 planting history is such that payments are not increased.

• Option 2: Retain the 2002 PFC acreage and add eligible oilseed acres up to the level that will require no offsetting of current PFC base. This option fits farms that currently have a good corn or wheat base with no barley or oats base acres. The oilseeds can be used to "top up" the base acres.

• Option 3: Retain the 2002 PFC acreage and add eligible oilseed acres to the extent that the maximum PFC acres are offset. This option will be appropriate for farms that currently have a reasonable corn or wheat base and have a 1998-2001 planting history that will allow replacing barley or oats base acres with oilseeds without reducing the better-paying corn or wheat base acres.

• Option 4: Update all base acres to the 1998-2001 planted history of covered commodities. This is the only option that allows owners to update their existing program yields to their proven yield history from 1998 to 2001. It's important to remember that updated yields will only apply to the countercyclical payments, because direct payment will always utilize the existing PFC yields. This option will also be useful for farms that don't currently have a good corn and/or wheat base.

• Option 5: Retain the 2002 PFC acreage and add eligible oilseed acres to the extent that the additional oilseed acres will be somewhere between the minimum and maximum allowed in Option 2 and Option 3, respectively. This option is appropriate for farms that currently have a good corn or wheat base, but that also have barley or oats base that could be replaced by oilseeds.

Each farm is unique. Running the data for each farm through the Base and Yield Update Option Analyzer at http://www.fsa.usda.gov/pas/farmbill/tools.asp is a sound strategy when choosing an option.

For complete details about the new Farm Program, contact your county Farm Service Agency office. For help in your decision-making, contact your county office of the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

(Fraser Norton is a regional Extension educator in farm business management.)

MDH to implement new plan to reduce burden of asthma

Asthma is a growing problem in Minnesota. One in ten Minnesota adults report they have had the disease at some point in their lives. Emergency room visits and hospitalizations due to asthma cost the state more than $33 million per year. The problem is getting worse - asthma rates in the U.S. have increased rapidly over the past two decades, making it one of the most common chronic diseases in the country.

Armed with a new $700,000 grant per year for five years from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH) will begin implementing a strategic plan in October to reduce the burden of asthma in Minnesota. The plan was developed over the past year by the MDH Asthma Advisory Work Group, which included physicians, nurses, pharmacists and representatives from health plans, community-based organizations and non-profit health associations. It will be implemented over the next five years with the intent of reducing the human and economic burden of asthma in Minnesota.

"Asthma is one of those public health problems that is growing instead of declining, especially for women, children and lower-income Minnesotans," said Minnesota Commissioner of Health Jan Malcolm. "With our new asthma plan, we hope to reduce hospitalizations and emergency room visits due to asthma and improve the lives of those who live with asthma everyday."

Malcolm said the asthma plan calls for a comprehensive set of strategies to be carried out by a wide range of partners, including caregivers, health care providers, schools, employers and community groups. Strategies include gathering better data about the prevalence of asthma; creating greater public awareness of asthma; providing asthma education to health professionals and developing public policies to reduce exposure to environmental asthma triggers.

Asthma is a chronic - and sometimes fatal - inflammatory disease characterized by recurring episodes of wheezing, breathlessness, chest tightness and cough. It can be triggered through various means, including allergies, respiratory infections and exercise. It is responsible for missed school and work, disrupted sleep and symptoms that interfere with physical activity. Health care providers, asthma sufferers and others need to gain the knowledge, skills and attitudes required to assure effective asthma self-management.

"Health officials know little about the exact causes of asthma or the prevention of asthma," Malcolm said. "However, we do know how to control the symptoms and inflammation of asthma. Asthma is not curable, but it is treatable."

Our Seamless gutters are manufactured from .032 gauge pre-painted aluminum; the heaviest gauge used in the industry. If your home is 20 feet or 200 feet in length our seamless gutter is made in one continuous length, eliminating any joints or seams in the middle. Inquire before you purchase "Seamless Gutter" about the thickness of the material used and be certain that it is made in one continuous length.

Seamless gutter is formed, cut and installed on site by a two-man crew, saving on labor cost. Freight charges are eliminated. Waste is almost unheard of due to gutter being measured and cut on site to exact lengths. No need to store left over odds and ends that get damaged before they can be used. Most jobs can be completed the same day. Call us for complete information and free estimates of your job at no obligation to you.

What we learned from the flood of 1997 can be used today

Workers experienced wage loss and lower earnings even three years following the 1997 flood, but apparently because of a strong attachment to the area, did not leave. This study could provide the state the impetus it needs to find a way to more effectively deal with future floods and disasters.

A recent study by the Minnesota Department of Economic Security Research and Statistics office looked at the long-term impact on earnings and employment following a flood, specifically the 1997 flood. Conclusions from that study appeared in a recent edition of Minnesota Employment Review. I suppose the study was prepared to help us understand what happened in the job market, and allow us to learn something from what the information tells us.

Minnesota Department of Economic Security tracked a sample of 842 workers who lost their jobs due to the flooding and filed for flood-related unemployment insurance. Polk county (East Grand Forks) had the largest share of all claimants. The study notes that many workers who became unemployed as a result of the flood were not covered under the Minnesota Unemployment Insurance (UI) program. This group included farm workers, self-employed farmers, self-employed nonagricultural workers, as well as others who had already exhausted the regular UI benefits they received prior to the flooding. However, these workers were able to apply for Disaster Unemployment Assistance (DUA), and at least 1,720 persons statewide filed a DUA claim for lost wages in 1997. In 1997 these claims amounted to $1.3 million in DUA benefits. For the sake of comparison, the amount of DUA provided in 1998 was $141,000.

According to the study, in the year following the second quarter of 1997, 91 percent of workers found reemployment in the same county as in the year prior. Of those employed in a different county the following year, 21 percent remained employed within the six-county Red River Valley area, and 31 percent were employed in the Twin Cities region.

It's interesting to note that a comparison was prepared that looks at the labor market and the industries that supply the jobs. The services industry and retail trade industries appeared to lose a substantial portion of the labor market. One year before the flood, for example, the retail industry consisted of about 25.8 percent of the entire labor market. One year after the flood, it had captured about 21.8 percent of the labor market, and two years after that only captured 20.4 percent of the labor market. Which industries gained employment? Manufacturing increased from 19 percent one year before to 21.1 percent two years after. As one might expect, the construction industry saw an increase. One year before the flood, 3.1 percent of the labor force was employed in the construction industry. One year after, the industry had captured 3.8 percent of the labor force, and two years later, 4.0 percent of the labor force. The agriculture industry remained about the same – 5.3 percent one year before, 5.8 percent one year after and 5.6 percent two years after. Public administration showed a fairly rapid increase, going from 1.5 percent one year before, to 3.1 percent two years after.

So, a majority of the workers impacted by flood in 1997 remained in the area, but what happened to their earnings?

The report concludes that earnings during the second quarter of 1997 were down significantly. In fact, 50 percent of the workers reported earnings that were substantially less than second quarter 1996 earnings. In the first year after the flood, median quarterly earnings were 2.0 percent greater. In the second year, they were 11 percent greater. Nevertheless, in the first year after the flood, 32 percent of workers had average quarterly earnings substantially less than the year before the flood; in the second year, 26 percent of workers had lower earnings.

The report concludes that although there were significant wage and earnings losses, workers had a strong attachment to the area and did not leave. I suppose we can conclude that fears that the flood would cause a massive migration from the area were unfounded. The people of northwestern Minnesota have a strong attachment to the area. So what can help?

Perhaps assistance that focuses on improving the job market. Specifically, evidence from this study seems to indicate that the state should take a closer look at assisting the retail trade industry. The state could also take a look at another issue.

We have learned that construction workers are in great demand following natural disasters. Discussion during a visit by the chancellor of Minnesota State Colleges and Universities to Northland Community and Technical College recently helped officials develop plans to provide trade-school training in areas affected by flooding. To my way of thinking, providing training, rather than outright financial assistance is a far better solution. It's important to note that some retraining did take place during the disasters.

This study indicates that individuals in northwestern Minnesota are unlikely to move from the area. So why not do something for them that would improve their future employment opportunities? Even if the individual eventually returns to the job they were displaced from due to flooding, it gives the individual another option. Perhaps, the state could even look at specific programs that provide continuing education that would enhance their chosen field of occupation utilizing resources that already exist in the geographic area of the disaster.

Humane Society offers corrections

The Pennington County Humane Society has stated that they no longer give out certificates to aid in the costs of spaying or neutering pets adopted from their shelter.

The article also mentioned a fence that the shelter was able to build due to fundraising efforts. The fence was built with the funds from a private donation, not through fundraising or can collecting efforts.

These statements were made after last week's Northern Watch article under the headline "Pennington County Humane Society joins recycling effort" was printed.

The Wild S Ranch

Tom and Becky Scheef and their son, Cole, take a moment to ride their horses, Jack-Knife, RX Command and Nick. The Scheefs have always loved horses and in the past three years, they have taken their passion for the animals and shared it with others as they own and operated Wild S Ranch in Thief River Falls. Wild S Ranch boards horses and has an arena for the owners to practice their riding in.

The Scheefs love horses

by Jenny Nicholson
Reporter

Three years ago, Tom and Becky Scheef decided to leave their Goodridge ranch and go west all the way to Thief River Falls.

Settling on what used to be a cattle ranch, the Scheefs built an arena and a round pen and transformed the cattle pens to accommodate horses. They named their new homestead Wild S Ranch.

Wild S Ranch is somewhat of a haven for horses. Currently, the Scheefs board eight horses and many others come to the ranch to use the arena and round pen. Quite often the Scheefs hold team sorting events, "game days," and a variety of classes on riding, roping and other horse-related topics.

The Scheefs had started boarding horses when they were still in the Goodridge area, but realized they were too far out for residents of the Thief River Falls area to travel to. Now they have ample space for many horses and are within a quick drive for most of their boarders' owners.

One of the features of the Scheefs' boarding service is the indoor space for the horses to live in during the winter months. They also have a smaller indoor riding area; big enough for riders to exercise their horses when it is too cold to go outside. Tom says he is planning on renovating one of their barns into a larger indoor arena. He hopes to have it ready by next winter.

Since the Scheefs love horses, it's not hard for them to take wonderful care of the horses that are boarded there. They charge $150 a month, per horse. The fee includes the boarding, feed and hay. The owners only need to come out and enjoy spending time with their horse.

On occasion, Tom and Becky have worked with new horses to get them ready for the next level of training. Services like this will cost a bit extra, but can be well worth it since the horse will be ready for the finishing trainer.

While Tom maintains his day job at the Country Store in Thief River Falls, he says he's gotten to know a lot of the "horse people" from the area through his work. A lot of the business his ranch gets is through word of mouth advertising.

Wild S Ranch has been host to many events, including classes for those wishing to learn about horsemanship. Their next series of workshops are called Harmony Through Horsemanship and it begins on October 26.

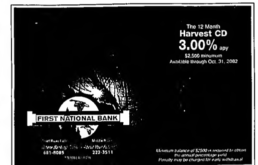
The Scheefs have worked with some highly skilled trainers from the area. Tom loves having them come to his ranch to teach classes.

Tom Scheef shows off some of his riding skills in the Wild S Ranch arena. Tom and his wife, Becky, board horses, hold sorting events and host a variety of classes and events including riding, roping and team sorting. Wild S Ranch is located just west of Thief River Falls off Highway 1.

"I can always learn something new," he says.

The ranch also plays host to what they call "practice nights." They open their arena and people are charged a minimal fee for the evening. Becky says they've had really good turnouts for the practice nights because a lot of people like to ride in the arena setting, but not many people have one of their own.

In the future, the Scheefs want to have even more classes available to the public.



"We're always open to new ideas," Tom says. Any interested persons can call them at (218) 681-2110 or (218) 689-5625 with new ideas for classes, and the Scheefs will do their best to set it up.

Even though Tom and Becky have their own herd of longhorn and corriente cattle, they have found a great resource in Perry Duden from Brooks, who has furnished the cattle for the Wild S Ranch sorting events. They work with him quite a bit and sometimes travel with him to events during the winter.

The sorting events at the Scheefs' ranch draws people from as far as Fargo, N.D., Twin Valley, Fergus Falls and Bagley, just to name a few.

While the Scheef family stays incredibly busy tending to their ranch, they are thankful to have such wonderful friends and neighbors when they need to be out of town or want a few days off. Tom says the only reason he was able to get the arena built was with the help of friends and neighbors. Tom and Becky also have three sons who are always ready to lend a hand when needed. Cole, who is 16, lives at home and has a very active hand in helping run the ranch. Since the Scheefs' have only been operating the ranch for three years, their older sons, Travis and Jim, haven't had as much exposure to the daily chores, but they live nearby and always on hand to help out.

Becky says both her and Tom have been around horses most of their lives. Since they've been together, having an arena of their own has always been on their minds. Tom notes how important it is for them to love what they're doing, because they're not getting rich doing it. What they are, though, is happy. They take pride in their ranch, they enjoy teaching others and they love sharing their favorite pastime.

HISTORIC BRIDGE AVAILABLE FOR DONATION

In the summer of 2003, Bridge L4253, located in Wanger Township of Marshall County, Minnesota will be replaced with a new structure. The old bridge spans the Tamarac River approximately 6.00 miles southeast of Stephen, Minnesota. Constructed in 1906, this bridge is eligible for inclusion on the National Register of Historic Places. The bridge, owned by Wanger Township, is a 62 foot, steel span connected half-hip Pratt pony truss with steel piling abutments, wood deck and 15 foot roadway, accommodating one lane traffic.

Despite its historic significance, the Township is unable to preserve the bridge, because of concerns over liability and structure maintenance costs. Therefore, until November 15, 2002, the Marshall County Highway Department is offering Bridge L4253 at no cost and in an "as is" condition. Except, the existing timber bridge decking will be salvaged by Wanger Township and the steel piling removed and disposed of, to any interested party willing to relocate the bridge and maintain it in accordance with the secretary of the Interior's Standards for Rehabilitation.

The recipient must enter into an agreement with Wanger Township to accept title to the bridge, maintain the structure and its unique historic features, assume all future legal and financial responsibility for the bridge, and hold the Township harmless in any future liability action. The recipient would be responsible for all future costs associated with dismantling, moving, reassembling, and maintaining the structure.

Funds that are made available to enable the recipient to accept the bridge shall be eligible as reimbursable project cost under Chapter 1, Title 23 USC, not to exceed the cost of demolition. The bridge shall therefore be ineligible for any other funds authorized pursuant to Title 23 USC. Any necessary permits from the U.S. Coast Guard of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers would be the responsibility of the recipient.

The bridge will be awarded to a pre-qualified recipient only. Parties interested in obtaining more information on the condition of Bridge L4253, eligibility requirements for recipients, or any other information regarding the transfer of this property may forward their inquiries to the Marshall County Engineer, 447 South Main, Warren, MN 56762.

Applications for 2003 energy assistance now being taken

Applications for the 2003 Energy Assistance Program are now being taken by Northwest Community Action.

Fuel Assistance eligibility is based upon household income and household size. Assets are no longer counted for this program. Both homeowner and renters may be eligible. Households who live in subsidized housing but pay either heat or electric costs may also qualify for fuel assistance. Subsidized housing residents who have both heat and electric costs included in their rent do not qualify for energy assistance.

The eligibility guidelines for three month's gross income are as follows: one person with a maximum income of $4,586; two people with a maximum income of $5,997; three people with a maximum income of $7,408, four people with a maximum income of $8,819; five people with a maximum income of $10,230; six people with a maximum income of $11,641.

Northwest Community Action serves households located in Kittson, Lake of the Woods, East Marshall and Roseau Counties. NWCA has been notified not to expect federal funds in the near future. Those applying are responsible for heating and electric bills until receiving notification from NWCA. Payments will be made as soon as NWCA receives federal funds, and at that time, applicants will receive a letter notifying them of grant amounts.

Those who believe they may be eligible to receive assistance should either write to Northwest Community Action, Inc., PO Box 67, Badger, MN 56714 or call (218) 528-3258 or 1-800-568-5329 and an application will be sent. Applications are accepted only once during the program year which is October 1, 2002 through September 30, 2003. Those who received fuel assistance from last year's program should have automatically received an application form.

Utilizing enterprise analysis to determine profitability in operation

by Gerald Ausmus,
NCTC-Farm Business Management, Baudette

Just as it is important to know the cost of production when marketing grain, it is equally important to know your cost of production when marketing feeder calves. Without knowing what expenses have been incurred in an enterprise, whether it is grain or calves, there is no way of determining the profitability of that specific enterprise. In the current agricultural environment, survival depends upon a constant evaluation and improved efficiency in each aspect of the operation.

An enterprise analysis is an in-depth evaluation of a particular enterprise, in this case the beef cow-calf enterprise, separate from the rest of the business or farm. In order to analyze a specific enterprise, good production and financial records are essential. It is not easy to determine how much an individual enterprise contributed to the over-all financial position of a farm. Some of the issues that cloud the picture are overlapping production years, contributions from other enterprises on the farm, and capital investments, such as machinery that are normally used by more than one enterprise.

Record keeping becomes an important part of any enterprise analysis. Inventories of breeding stock on hand, numbers born, died, sold or transferred, feed fed, along with weights and values are all part of the production records that must be kept. The cow-calf enterprise ends at weaning and needs to be analyzed separate from any backgrounding or feeding of weaned calves that may be done on the same farm. Financial records would include all income and expenses, capital purchases, money borrowed and loans paid associated with the farm or ranch. Next, the specific financial records must be allocated to the specific enterprises with certain common expenses allocated to all enterprises. It is fortunate that we have excellent computer software programs to help with this task.

Once completed, the cow-calf enterprise analysis gives considerable insight into the profitability of the cow-calf operation. One of the areas covered in the analysis includes financial measures such as cost per hundred weight of calves' weaned, net return, and feed cost per cow. Another category is the reproductive and management performance areas as evidenced by percent calf crop, pregnancy percentage, calving percentage and calf death loss. Other important data in the analysis includes average weaning weights, average weight per calf sold, and average price received per hundred weight.

In studying the data from the analysis and comparing it with local and state averages the strengths and weaknesses of the enterprise become apparent. Interpreting the results of the analysis can be the first step toward improving the efficiency and profitability of the beef cow-calf enterprise. Minnesota grows in wind energy

Minnesota is among the top five wind energy producing states in the nation, generating more than 320 megawatts of electricity – enough to power 320,000 homes – and ninth in the nation for wind energy potential. In order to tap that potential, individuals, companies, and utilities will need information and data contained in the updated Wind Resource Assessment Program (WRAP) report released recently by the Minnesota Department of Commerce – State Energy Office.

The program measures and maps wind speeds in Minnesota, making it easier to determine whether a particular site would be appropriate for a wind turbine. The Department of Commerce has monitored the state's wind resources since 1982 and has recently expanded to include monitoring sites in southeastern and northeastern Minnesota.

The complete report is available online at www.commerce.state.mn.us.

Counting their Blessings

Despite all this couple has been through, Tim and Tawnya Panek are able to stand and hold hands. In August, Tim Panek fell off of a ladder, and doctors were not hopeful about his condition. The couple said the accident taught them to be more appreciative of each other. A picture of their daughters is in the background.

Area couple counts blessings after accident

A fall off of a ladder - it could happen to anyone. In August, it happened to Tim Panek, and he has been dealing with the aftermath ever since.

Panek, who lives near Newfolden, was helping his mother-in-law when he fell off of a ladder. He was rushed to Northwest Medical Center and then taken to a Grand Forks hospital for neurosurgery. Doctors did not have much hope for Panek. He was unconscious for nine days and was on a ventilator for a while. Nearly a month later, Panek was able to go home.

The community has rallied around the Panek family. About the community support, Tim's wife, Tawnya, said, "It's just been awesome." Churches, businesses and individuals have offered their support. Some have helped at the benefits held for the Panek family. (Tim Panek's medical bills are expected to be at least $250,000.) Several businesses donated supplies and raffle items for the fundraisers. Others have called or visited the family.

Tawnya said, "There's no way to thank them enough. It's just so inadequate just to say thanks."

The Panek family also received some support from another family in a similar situation. Around the time of Panek's accident, Richard Smith of Middle River had an accident. Smith and Tim Panek were patients at the same hospital, and Tim and Tawnya have both worked with Smith's mother.

Tawnya said, "To have us both there, it helped a lot."

Despite community support, this has been a trying time for Tim, Tawnya and their daughters. Tawnya said, "It was very hard on them, especially Amber when she had to leave to go to school." Their oldest daughter, Amber, is a pharmacy student at North Dakota State University. Ashley, their other daughter, is a junior in high school.

In order for Tim to be released from the hospital, someone had to be with him at home throughout the day. Up until recently, Tawnya stayed home to help and care for Tim. Tim said, "Now, I'm at a point where I can do things on my own." On October 12, Tawnya returned half-time to her job as a pharmacy technician at Northwest Medical Center.

It is questionable as to whether Tim will be able to return to his job as a registered nurse in Northwest Medical Center's Intensive Care Unit. He said, "I can't do what I used to, and my future at work is still up in the air."

Yet, Tim said, "I'd like to get back to work." Right now, he has speech therapy five days a week and occupational therapy two days a week. Tim also studies at night for his job.

Overall, the couple felt the accident was a learning opportunity. Tawnya said, "You really learn to appreciate people."

Tim said, "You learn to appreciate the little things that you can do - walk, feed, bathe yourself." He also noted that the accident has taught him patience.

The accident has also made the couple realize how lucky they are. Tim said, "I've been blessed."

Tawnya said, "God's been good to us."

Police seek help finding bank bag

The Thief River Falls Police Department is seeking the public's help in finding a stolen bank bag. The bag, which contained a substantial amount of cash and checks, was taken from a vehicle on October 15. The white bag has Northern State Bank printed on it. If you have any information about the incident or find the bag, call the Law Enforcement Center at 681-6161.

Unemployment rate down

Minnesota Department of Economic Security Commissioner Earl Wilson has announced that Minnesota's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for September was 4.0 percent. The September rate was down from August but still above last year's 3.6 percent.

Nonfarm employment was virtually unchanged in September – adding just 200 jobs (seasonally adjusted). Mining; construction; nondurable manufacturing; transportation, communications, and public utilities; wholesale trade; and government all lost employment.

The state's unadjusted unemployment rate was 3.9 percent in September, up by three-tenths percent from a year ago.

"Like the nation, Minnesota is confronting many uncertainties," said Governor Jesse Ventura. "But, as in the past, the people of this state will face the challenges and overcome them."

Additional flu shot clinics scheduled

Inter-County Nursing Service has scheduled a couple of additional flu shot clinics. Flu shots are available by appointment only and the cost is $8. They will process Medicare (bring card to appointment).

The dates of the clinics are Wednesday, October 23 beginning at 8 a.m. and Thursday, October 24 beginning at 2:30 p.m. Both clinics are being held at the Inter-County Nursing Service office at 318 Knight Avenue North.

To make an appointment, call (218) 681-0876.

Beginning Experience starts

Beginning Experience, an organized support group for divorced, separated or widowed people, will be meeting Thursday nights.

The group's first meeting was held on Thursday, October 17 and will continue to meet each Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Methodist Church in Thief River Falls.

Those attending are asked to use the east entrance to the church. Fees are minimal and nobody will be refused admittance because of financial difficulties.

For more information, call Barbara Thompson at (218) 681-6876.

Prowlers open 2002 football playoffs on the road vs. Rocori

Thief River Falls will start post-season play on the road for the first time since 1992 Tuesday when the Prowlers play a 7 p.m. Section 8AAAA high school football play-off game against Rocori.

After hosting nine straight quarterfinal games, the Prowlers wound up with a No. 6 seed and a road trip when coaches met Thursday.

A victory over the No. 3-seeded Spartans would send the Prowlers into the Saturday, Oct. 26 semifinals against either No. 2-seeded Detroit Lakes or No. 7 Little Falls. That game would be played at the site of the higher-seeded team.

Section 8AAAA title game will be played Oct. 31 at the Fargodome.

Section 8AAAA Football

■ Seeding positions - 1. Fergus Falls, 2. Detroit Lakes, 3. Rocori, 4. Sartell-St. Stephen, 5. Sauk Rapids-Rice, 6. Thief River Falls, 7. Little Falls

■ Semifinals Saturday, Oct. 26 - at high seeds.

■ Championship Thursday, Oct. 31 - Fargodome, 6 p.m.

Northland playing host to high school, college volleyball tournaments

High school and college volleyball tournaments are scheduled to be played at the Northland Community and Technical College gym Oct. 24-26.

Northland will play host to Sub-Section 31A and 32A high school semifinal matches Thursday. Finals in both tournaments will be played the following night in Warren.

The site switch for the high school matches occurred when Northland was selected to host the Minnesota Community College Conference state volleyball tournament, an eight-team event planned Friday and Saturday.

Northland will also serve as host to a Section 8AA semifinal match Thursday, Oct. 31.

Sub-Section 31A Volleyball

■ First round Monday, Oct. 21 - 5. East Grand Forks Sacred Heart at 4. Marshall County Central, 7 p.m.

Hibbing linebacker Eli Tintor pulled down Thief River Falls running back Dane Kjono inches short of the goal line during the third quarter of Wednesday's North Country Conference high school football game at the Multi-Events Center. Trailing 16-15 at the time, the Bluejackets stopped the Prowlers on three straight plays from less than a yard away from the end zone and went on to win the regular season finale for both teams 23-16.

Hibbing stops Prowlers 23-16

Close. That's the way Thief River Falls players, coaches and fans will remember the 2002 high school football season. The Prowlers watched their bid for a fourth straight win and a .500 regular season finish end with a 23-16 Wednesday loss at the hands of Hibbing in a North Country Conference game at the Multi-Events Center.

A 3-5 record is just the second losing season in the past 12 years for the Prowlers. Four of those setbacks were one-touchdown losses, and the other – a season-opening 12-2 defeat at the hands of Crookston – was the result of nine fumbles and two interceptions.

Thief River Falls football followers will remember those close losses, and they'll remember the final game when the Prowlers failed to build upon a 16-15 halftime lead despite running three plays from a yard or less away from the Hibbing end zone on the first drive of the second half.

"That was a killer," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Jeff Mumm. "To move the ball like that, to eat up the clock, to get down there and not get anything out of it...that was big."

The Prowlers pushed the Bluejackets down the field with a nearly-nine minute, 19-play drive to begin the second half. A seven-yard Dane Kjono run inside produced a first-and-goal from the Hibbing 10, and a dive play by Jason Tuthill carried the ball to the two-yard line.

But that's when things bogged down. Tuthill was stopped inside the one, and Kjono was pulled down inches short of the goal line. The Prowlers were going to try a third time at driving the ball through the middle, but instead wound up with a busted play and a seven-yard loss.

Hibbing had dogged a bullet. And after an exchange of punts, the Bluejackets went ahead 23-16 with a 13-play, 80-yard drive that ended when Jesse Vesel tumbled into the end zone with 5:06 left in the game. A 24-yard pass from Eli Tintor to Vesel that turned a third-and-10 from the Thief River Falls 39 into a first down at the Prowlers' 15 was the big play in the game-winning drive.

"Great athletes make great plays, and they (Bluejackets) have a couple of outstanding athletes," noted Mumm. "It didn't matter if it was first-and-10 or second-and-20, they were capable of breaking one at any time."

Another exchange of punts set up a final Thief River Falls possession that began at the Prowlers' 27 with 2:42 to play. Four Josh Langlie passes to William Forney (10, 8 yards) and Aaron Bendickson (9, 6 yards) helped move the ball to the Hibbing 28. But a fourth-and-four screen toss to Kjono lost a yard and gave the ball back to the Bluejackets with 57.6 seconds to run off the clock.

Hibbing had started the game with a first-possession, 8-play, 67-yard scoring drive. Most of those yards came on the touchdown itself as strong-armed quarterback Eli Tintor lofted a 43-yard pass into the right corner of the end zone that was turned into an over-the-shoulder catch for closely-defended Scott Kleffman with just 3:36 elapsed. The conversion kick by Kyle Rice made it 7-0.

Thief River Falls had a 9-7 lead before the first quarter ended, thanks to a high Hibbing punt snap.

Kicking from the Bluejackets' 16, the snap sailed over the head of the punter and through the back of the end zone for a safety with 3:33 remaining.

The two-pointer was followed by a Hibbing kickoff from the 20 that set up the Thief River Falls offense right on the midfield stripe. A 36-yard Langlie-to-Forney completion keyed a six-play possession that found Kjono scoring from two yards out. Christian Priebus tacked on the conversion point with 53.6 seconds to play in the opening quarter.

A linebacker on defense, Tintor fell on a Thief River Falls fumble at the Prowlers' 16 with four minutes left in the first half to set up a four-play Hibbing go-ahead mini-drive. Tintor scored on a keeper from the 11. Rice grabbed the ball on a fake extra-point kick and tossed a two-point pass to Blaine Turnbull for a 15-9 game with 2:46 showing.

But Thief River Falls beat the clock and the Bluejackets' defense on a 42-yard Langlie touchdown pass to Joe Field. With the Hibbing defensive back standing next to the receiver, Field positioned himself to make the catch in the end zone with 56.5 left. Priebus again added the extra point for a 16-15 halftime edge.

Hibbing, ranked No. 8 in the Class AAAA state polls, went home with a 6-2 record.

"It was a great high school football game," said Mumm. "They're a top-ten team, and we gave them everything they wanted."

Prowler entries lose first round tennis matches

■ Section 8AA results

First round losses eliminated Thief River Falls entries from the individual portion of the 2002 Section 8AA girls high school tennis tournament played Tuesday and Wednesday at the Tennis Centre in Grand Forks, N.D.

The Prowlers' Eryn Clow was beaten by Hannah Frericks of Sartell-St. Stephen 6-1, 6-1 in singles, while the Thief River Falls doubles combination of Kara Larson and Stacia Kalinoski fell to Brittany Bachman and Brianna Anderson of Litchfield 6-3, 6-4.

Frericks and the Bachman-Anderson tandem wound up winning state tournament-qualifying true-second matches.

Section 8AA titles went to Sartell-St. Stephen singles player Kerry Snow and the Bemidji doubles team of Melissa Fogelson-Lindsey Folkert.

Top four finishes in the North Sub-Section 8AA tournament advanced Clow, Larson and Kalinoski to sectional play.

In the Section 8AA team finals, Litchfield edged Bemidji 4-3 for a state tournament spot.

It was the third straight year Bemidji, coached by Lincoln High School graduate Scott Engelstad, lost a sectional title match. And for the second year in a row, the championship match defeat represented the Lumberjacks' only loss of the year.

In 10 years as Bemidji head coach, Engelstad has guided the Lumberjacks to a 129-36 dual meet record. They have lost just 10 matches the past six years, highlighted by the 17-1 and 16-1 finishes in 2001 and 2002. Fogelson and Folkert are Engelstad's first state tournament qualifiers.

Section 8AA Team Tournament

■ Championship - Litchfield 4, Bemidji 3

Section 8AA Singles

■ Championship - Kerry Snow (Sartell-St. Stephen) def. Alex Gruska (St. Cloud Apollo) 6-0, 6-1

■ True second - Hannah Frericks (Sartell-St. Stephen) def. Gruska.

Section 8AA Doubles

■ Championship - Melissa Fogelson-Lindsey Folkert (Bemidji) def. Laura Wermager-Melissa Lisbon (St. Cloud Tech) 7-5, 6-4

■ True second - Brianna Anderson-Brittney Bachman (Litchfield) def. Lisbon-Wermager 6-1, 6-3.

Pioneers finish regular season with a 3-1 loss against Central Lakes

A 3-1 Wednesday loss to Central Lakes completed a .500 regular season for the Northland Community and Technical College volleyball team.

The host Raiders won 30-26, 31-29, 27-30, 30-23.

Northland finished 14-14 overall and 7-7 in the Minnesota Community College Conference. The Mike Zachow-coached Pioneers lost six of their final eight matches, including back-to-back final-week 3-1 defeats at Fergus Falls and Central Lakes.

Five of those late-season Northland losses came on the road, pointed out Zachow. "Actually, I thought we played well Wednesday night," he said. "It was a good volleyball match between a pair of teams playing very well."

The Pioneers will be part of the field for the 2002 Minnesota Community College Conference state volleyball tournament that will be played Oct. 25-26 at Northland.

Eight teams will begin the tournament in a pool play format Friday. Trophy round matches will be played Saturday.

Northland will draw Ridgewater as a first round foe Friday at 11:30 a.m.

Complete pairings will be announced when the MCCC regular season is completed this week.

State tournament tickets will be available at the door. Cost will be $5 for adults and $3 for students.

Gators register third volleyball win of the year over rival MCC

Regular season play ended for both teams Tuesday as Badger/Greenbush-Middle River beat visiting Marshall County Central 15-4, 15-4, 15-9 in high school volleyball.

The Gators enter tournament play 12-13. The Nordics are 6-21.

Marshall County Central was swept 12 times in 14 regulation best-of-5 game matches this fall, but first-year head coach Missy Foslien said this time the scores weren't indicative of the Nordics' play. "They played a lot better, but we just couldn't get the points," she explained. "We got the side-outs, but our serving wasn't very good."

Scoring

■ Kills - (MCC) Ashley Peters 10, Jordan Holthusen 6, (B/G-MR) Kierah Kimbrough 7, Amanda Randall 7

■ Assists - (MCC) Shantel Magner 6, Kari Holmstrom 4, (B/G-MR) Katie Borgen 7.

■ Aces - (MCC) Jordan Holthusen 3, Ashley Peters 3, (B/G-MR) Jody Schmalz 3

Roseau shuts down TRF volleyball team

If nothing else, the final two regular season matches might have helped toughen Thief River Falls for the upcoming North Sub-Section 8AAA high school volleyball tournament. Coming off a 15-1, 15-4, 15-1 Thursday (Oct. 10) loss at Fosston, the Prowlers jumped from the frying pan into the fire with a Tuesday regular season finale against Roseau. And the result was a similar 15-0, 15-2, 15-1 loss.

You would be hard-pressed to find a tougher back-to-back draw. The Greyhounds are ranked No. 1 in the Class A state polls. The Rams are a northern Minnesota power in Class AA.

Asked if Roseau was the best team the Prowlers have faced, Thief River Falls coach Erika Ramstorf reminded the interviewer that their last assignment was Fosston.

While the Greyhounds might have received the coaches' vote as the No. 1 opponent, Ramstorf wasn't selling the Rams short. "They're one of the best teams we've seen," she said. "They run a lot of different plays at you – things that we usually don't see. They have very good quickness in the front row, and they have a lot of hitters. They can go to anybody, not just one player."

Rachel Kobes is not one of the Roseau's main offensive weapons, but she had a kill to close out the first game shutout.

Heidi Evans and Stefanie Timmersman are the Rams' top net players, and they filled those roles in impressive fashion against the Prowlers. A back row spike by Evans was knocked out of bounds by the Prowlers to end Game 2, and a front row kill by the senior outside hitter put the final point on the board in Game 3.

And as strong as they were offensively, the Rams were were just as effective on defense with double and triple-team blocking that all but shut down the Prowlers' attack.

The loss finished a 2-22-1 regular season for the Prowlers.

Thief River Falls junior varsity capped a 13-11 season with a 15-17, 15-6, 15-9 win over Roseau.

Scoring

■ Kills - (TRF) Katie Olson 2, Ally Torstveit 1, Jamie Oahlen 1; (Roseau) Heidi Evans 13, Stefanie Timmersman 7, Sareena Olson 0

■ Assists - (TRF) Kayla Loe 2, Kayla Harris 1, (Roseau) Ashleigh Baumgartner 24, Tina Langlie 0.

■ Aces - (TRF) Jamie Oahlen 1; (Roseau) Stefanie Timmersman 1, Heidi Evans 1.

Swim invitational at Crookston...

Prowlers win meet

Championship honors went to Thief River Falls Tuesday at the three-team Crookston Invitational girls high school swim meet.

The Dawn Conaette-coached Prowlers collected 179 points, followed by Crookston with 94 and Roseau 77.

A deep line-up proved again to be Thief River Falls' big advantage over the area opponents. Six Prowlers won seven individual events, and two more first place finishes were recorded in relay races.

Allyson Helling was a double-event winner for the Prowlers in the 50-meter freestyle and diving.

Other Thief River Falls wins were recorded by Katie Pribula, 200 freestyle; Brittany Haviland, 100 butterfly; Cami Hendrickson, 100 freestyle; Michelle Johnson, 500 freestyle; and April Peterson, 100 backstroke.

Peterson, Helling, Haviland and Hendrickson combined to win both the 200 medley and 200 freestyle relays.

Wolverines' seniors have strong start in 3-0 win vs. Cougars

In order to have all six of her seniors on the floor, to start Tuesday's regular season-ending high school volleyball match against Kittson County North, Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Jean Schulz had to do a little line-up adjustment. The changes did not hurt the attack. In fact, the Class of 2003 got the Wolverines off to a strong start that led to a 3-0 sweep in a match played at Goodridge.

The 15-1, 15-7, 15-8 victory guaranteed a winning record for the 13-11 Wolverines.

Wolverines Scoring

■ Kills - Laura Anderson 13, Bethany Tharaldson 13, Ashley Stavnes 7.

■ Assists - Jena Haugen 28.

■ Aces - Jena Haugen 3, Lacey Hoffman 2, Bethany Tharaldson 2.

Prowlers finish 2002 cross country season at Bemidji

Final regular season outing for the 2002 Thief River Falls boys and girls high school cross country teams didn't produce the kind of results head coach Greg Ueland was looking for Tuesday at the Bemidji Invitational.

Moorhead ran away with both team titles, and Thief River Falls finished fourth in both portions of the four-team event. Host Bemidji and Fergus Falls completed the field.

"A very disappointing day," said Ueland. "We just didn't come focused and ready to run."

Ueland did, however, like the end-of-the-year efforts turned in by members of his junior high teams earlier in the day.

The Section 8AA meet will be held Thursday at Detroit Lakes.

ELECT LYLE KENNER
Taxes and Budget

PERSPECTIVES:
1. Average family of 4 in Minnesota will pay approximately $10,000 in state taxes. The same family in South Dakota would only pay $5,000 per year, in Iowa $7,000.
2. You will need to work 3 to 4 years longer in Minnesota than in South Dakota, in order to retire with the same standard of living.
3. My opponent has only an 11% favorable rating by The Taxpayers League, meaning he almost always votes to increase your taxes.
4. My opponent voted for a 6 cents per gallon increase in your gasoline tax. That would be a 30% increase in one year.
BOTTOM LINE:
1. State government spending has been growing faster than our paychecks.
2. I am not a career politician, but a business owner and farmer. I believe that common sense perspective would help solve our looming state budget deficit.

Lenders report less than rosy outlook

Farmers confronted increasingly tough financial conditions in the second quarter of 2002, resulting from a ruthless summer drought or excessive rain, according to the Minneapolis Fed's agricultural credit conditions survey. The majority of surveyed lenders reported that the overall income of their farm customers continued to fall. Although household spending remained level, capital purchases decreased. Given that 53 percent of surveyed bankers predict their customers' incomes to fall further, the worst may not be over yet.

Farm income.

• 58 percent of respondents reported a decrease in customers' farm income, while only two percent noted an increase.

• In Minnesota, 49 percent saw lower incomes; in North Dakota, 54 percent; in Montana, 56 percent; and in South Dakota, 68 percent.

Farm household and capital spending.

• 19 percent noted a decrease in agricultural household spending, with 68 percent reporting no change.

• Nearly half of all respondents saw a lower level of capital spending. About five percent reported an increase.

Land values.

• Average irrigated and nonirrigated farmland values increased five percent and eight percent, respectively, from a year ago.

• Ranchland prices increased an average of 12 percent from the second quarter of 2001.

Demand for loans and required collateral.

• Nearly one-third of the surveyed banks reported an increase in loan demand; 15 percent registered a decrease.

• 22 percent of surveyed banks reported higher levels of collateral required for new loans. For all others, collateral levels remained constant.

Loan repayments and renewals.

• One-third of those surveyed reported a decrease in the rate of loan repayments; four percent reported an increase.

• 38 percent detailed an increase in renewals or extensions; two percent experienced a decrease in loan renewals.

Outlook.

The extent of government payments remains to be seen. Overall, lenders seem pessimistic about the next three months for their farming clients. Though 10 percent expect farm income to rise next quarter, over half of the respondents expect it to fall. Most, 71 percent, foresee unchanged levels of household spending, but 52 percent predict a decrease in capital equipment purchases.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis' quarterly survey of 113 agricultural bankers in the Ninth Federal Reserve District included Montana, North and South Dakota, northwestern Wisconsin and Minnesota. The Upper Peninsula of Michigan is not part of the survey. Complete results are available on the Minneapolis Fed's Web site at minneapolisfed.org/pubs/fedgaz/02-09/agfin.html

Local lobbying efforts in state up 23 percent

Local government lobbying expenditures increased significantly in 2001. Local governments reported more than $5.2 million in direct and indirect lobbying expenditures in 2001, an increase of $986,073, or 23 percent over 2000 expenditures, according to a report issued today by the Office of the State Auditor.

"The increase is dramatic," said State Auditor Judi Dutcher. "It reflects, to some degree, the activity associated with the special session, the near shutdown of state government, and major changes in property taxes and local government aid that occurred during the 2001 Legislature," Dutcher added.

Direct lobbying expenditures occur when a local government has one of its employees, or a contract lobbyist, lobby the Legislature or a state administrative agency. Indirect lobbying expenditures occur when an association that the local government supports with dues, expends some of those dues on lobbying activities.

Thief River Falls

Thief River Falls does not have any direct lobbying expenditures. It does have indirect lobbying expenditures through its association with the League of Minnesota Cities and the Coalition of Greater Minnesota Cities, which provides, among other benefits, lobbying on behalf of its members.

According to the news release from the State Auditor's office, sixty-three local governments reported a total of more than $3.4 million of direct lobbying expenditures in 2001 - a direct lobbying increase of 22.2 percent above the $2.8 million that was spent by 54 local governments in 2000.

Twenty-nine associations reported a total of more than $1.8 million of indirect lobbying expenditures in 2001 - an indirect lobbying increase of 24.7 percent above the nearly $1.5 million that 26 local government associations spent in 2000.

The 23 percent increase in expenditures from 2000 to 2001 comes after a 3 percent increase in 2000 over 1999. In both years, metropolitan agencies had significant increases in direct lobbying expenditures. These five agencies are the Met Council, the Metropolitan Airports Commission (MAC), the Metropolitan Sports Facilities Commission (MSFC), the Metropolitan Mosquito Control District (MMCD), and the Anoka County Regional Rail Authority. Direct lobbying expenditures for this group rose from $502,272 in 2000 to $685,975 in 2001, a 36.6 percent increase. This followed a 56.7 percent increase in 2000 over 1999.

"These increases reflect, in part, the recent involvement of these agencies in large, sometimes controversial projects or issues, such as light rail, stadiums, commuter rail, and affordable housing," said Dutcher.

"Individual local governments have specific reasons for lobbying the state," added Dutcher. "This report provides important information to citizens who can compare, contrast, and question local officials regarding their efforts to influence state policy."
